"Well madam," said a fashionable physician to a wealthy lady patient, "if you don't like my prescriptions, perhaps you had better try Parker's tonic, or some other quack stuff." "You don't mean it, Docter," she answered, "but your advice may be good for all that. Sometimes what you call 'quack stuff' is the best and most scientific medicine, after all." She got a bottle of Parker's Tonic and it cured her of neuralgia arising from disordered stomach and nerves. She told her friends, and now they all keep a doctor at home in the form of Parker's Tonic.

How It Was!

At the battle of Gettysburg I was shot through the left leg and was sent to the hospital. The army surgeons relieved me but pronounced my case incurable. It discharged pieces of bone, and for years I have suffered with a running sore. I tried everything which my limited means would allow, and experienced no relief until I tried Sulphur Bitters. I am now almost well, and shall continue their use.—Old Soldier.

"That Miss Jones is a nice-looking girl, isn't she?"

"Yes, and she'd be the belle of the town if it wasn't for one thing."

"What's that?"

"She has catarrh so bad it is unpleasant to be near her. She has tried a dozen things and nothing helps her. I am sorry, for I like her, but that doesn't make it any less disagreeable for one to be around her."

Now if she had used Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, there would have been nothing of the kind said, for it will cure catarrh every time.

WIT AND HUMOR.

Her cheeks are flushed, her eyes are wet,
She heaves a gentle sigh.
Her hair is mussed, she scarce knows yet
What's best—to laugh or cry.
What makes her blush and tremble so
With mingled joy and fright?
The first time in his life her beau
Has kissed her sweet good-night.

Marie possess one small mutton,
Her hair was black like snows,
And all over that Marie promenades
Those sheep follow her nose.

The bad-legged dude in low-cut shoes bemoans the law of gravity; no styles of garters he can use offset his calves' concavity.

A gushing poetess begins, "All that I want is a single heart." This would seem to indicate that she held the ten, jack, queen, and king of that suit, and was drawing for the ace.—Puck.

Why not bring the Indian to the cities and make a voter of him? There are very few red men who for a little firewater would not vote for the best man.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

In Michigan they assess a dog $1 for being a dog. In Tennessee they assess a man 50 cents to become a doctor. It costs half a dollar more to be a dog in Michigan than a doctor in Tennessee. Don't be a dog.—Battle Creek (Mich.) Moon.

When a Chinese laundryman sends home with his customers' collars and cuffs a set of steel-plated finger-nails, warranted not to snap off when buttoning a collar or a cuff to a shirt, he will receive more work and fewer curses.—Norristown Herald.

Miss Parvenu—I was almost sorry, mamma, that you spoke so rudely to that poor little Mrs. Wilkins.

Mamma—Well, my dear, pray where is the satisfaction of being in the first society if you can not snub those who are out of it?—Life.

The pine tree, says an authority, serves as a refuge for more than 400 species of insects. We can now easily understand why Mr. Longfellow was so strenuous in advising the aspiring young man to "beware the pine tree's withered branch."—Boston Transcript.

Uncultured citizen of New York in the greenhouse of a Boston florist: "I want a few bunches of trailing arbutus." Esthetic florist: "I am sorry to disoblige you, sir, but I never heard of such a shrub. I can, however, let you have the trailing arbutus if that will do."

"You have very pretty women here," says an officer of the Strelok. "I think they are the prettiest in the world." Those Russians are very sensible men. During the pending unpleasantness they shall have all the American sympathy that can be reasonably given them.—N. Y. Graphic.

A Western man says it is easy to distinguish between a tornado and a gale, but this explanation is not so clear as that of the British sailor who defined the difference between a hurricane and a typhoon. "In a hurricane," said Jack, "the wind blows as hard as it can, but in a typhoon it blows as hard as it can and then gives a jerk."—Boston Commercial Bulletin.

Mother—"Always say 'please,' Bobby, when you ask for anything. Never forget to say 'please,' even to the servants." Father (getting ready to go down town).—"Yes, Robert, my son, bear in mind what your mother has told you, and always say 'please.' It's a little word, my boy, but full of meaning, and the use of it marks the gentleman. Now, wife, my overcoat and hat, and be quick about it."

Girl—I will look at your hammocks, please.

Dealer—Yes, miss. Now, there is something nice. Not expensive, but at the same time pretty and strong.

Girl—It doesn't look very strong.

Dealer—I will guarantee it to sustain a weight of 300 pounds, miss.

Girl—Let me see; 120 and 165 would be just 285—very well. I will take that one.—N. Y. Times.

They were walking on the beach, and as Claude held her little hand he murmured: "I love to be with you, Claribel; it seems so bright and I feel so much fresher." "Do you dear? I should not think that possible." And then he dropped her hand and turned sadly away, his sighs keeping time to the surges as they lashed themselves to foam on the pebbly beach.—Boston Post.

"I think it's absurd that young ladies should kiss their poodles," said a Murray Hill man to his friend. "There's no reason for it."

"O, yes, there is; and there's also a precedent for the proceeding."

"Please explain."

"The reason is that most of the girls have nothing better to kiss; the precedent was established by Marc Antony when he said, 'Havoc, let's lip the dogs of war.'"—N. Y. Journal.

Ruskin says: "In all things throughout the world, the men who look for the crooked will see the crooked, and the men who look for the straight can see the straight." If Mr. Ruskin would duly come to America for a year or two and get civilized he would know better than that. Many a free-born American citizen has come to grief because he looked for the straight and found nothing but a bobtail flush.—Somerville Journal.

A student at the University of Texas, who had been leading a rather dissipated life, wrote to his father, one of the most respectable citizens of Dallas: "Dear Pa—I had the misfortune to be upset in a boat while out rowing on the Colorado River. I lost the beautiful watch which you gave me. I would like some money to hire a man to dive for it. Your affectionate son, Thomas." The old gentleman, who was no fool, replied: "It is not worth while diving for it. It might as well be in soak in one place as another."—Texas Siftings.

"I never did take much stock in that story about fish being such fine brain food," inadvertently remarked Smith, "and I take less stock in it than ever now that I've lived off little else for some time past. I think I'll quit them."

"I wouldn't if I were you, old boy," feelingly responded Smithers; "you see the fish in order to improve the brain, must have something to work upon. They can't create the thing."

And then Smith said that Smithers talked for all the world like his wife.—Oil City Blizzard.

"Did you see anything of a pocket-book that I dropped somewhere in the bed-room I occupied last night, landlord?" "Any money in it?" "About $500." "Yes, sir. Here is your pocket-book, with the money. The maid was honest enough to bring it to me and I locked it up in the safe." "Ah, very correct proceeding—very. I had intended placing the money in a savings bank this morning, where it would have been drawing 4 per cent. As a reward for your honesty I will say nothing about the interest for the time it has been in your possession, and you can make it square with the chambermaid. There is nothing small about me when I run across a man who seems to be trying to do what's right."—Detroit Journal.

NO. 1 MARKET SQUARE.

Mr. J. H. Bates, Newspaper Advertising Agent, 41 Park Row (Times Building), New York, is authorized to contract for Advertisements in the Chronicle at our lowest and best rates.

Safe, prompt, pleasant, sure. Chemists say that these qualities belong to Red Star Cough Cure. No other cough medicine before the public possesses them.

C. M. Leighton of Dover, an old war veteran and prominent in New Hampshire Sons of Temperance organization, was knocked down by a runaway team on the 16th inst., his right arm broken in two places, shoulder badly crushed, and severe internal injuries inflicted which it was expected would prove fatal.

Carter's Little Liver Pills will positively cure sick headache and prevent its return. This is not talk, but truth. One pill a dose. To be had of all druggists. See advertisement.

Dr. Adelaide Richardson, of Mt. Holyoke seminary at South Hoadley, Mass., committed suicide on the night of Sept. 25th by piercing the right carotid artery with a lancet, while temporarily insane. She was forty-seven years old, highly respected for her professional attainments, and much beloved.

If you are tired taking the large old-fashioned griping pills, and are satisfied that purging yourself till you are weak and sick is not good common sense, then try Carter's Little Liver Pills and learn how easy it is to be free from biliousness, headache, constipation, and all liver troubles. These little pills are smaller, easier to take and give quicker relief than any pill in use. Forty in a vial. One a dose. Price 25 cents.

D. M. McCrimmon, postmaster at South Lancaster, Ont., and two other men, were capsized in a yacht on Lake St. Francis, Sept. 15th; all of them got on the bottom of the yacht, but two perished from exposure before the yacht drifted ashore the next day.

Why Is It

That the sale of Hood's Sarsaparilla continues at such a rapidly increasing rate? It is,—

1st: Because of the positive curative value of Hood's Sarsaparilla itself.

2d: Because of the conclusive evidence of remarkable cures effected by it, unsurpassed and seldom equalled by any other medicine. Send to C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass., for book containing many statements of cures.

Reform a la Rosecrans.

The latest novelty in civil service reform crops out in the register's office of the treasury. Gen. Rosecrans has removed Wm. P. Titcomb, the assistent register, and several chiefs of divisions, assigning therefor the grotesque reason that they "are not in sympathy with him in the reforms which he proposes in his office." Mr. Titcomb, who comes from Kennebunk, Me., we believe, is a competent and experienced officer, who attained his important position by his own talents, working his way up, and is considered one of the most valuable men in the department. He is reduced to a fourth-class clerkship, so the register will be able to call upon him to help along the business when in a tight place. Meanwhile, a good democrat from the outside takes the berth. Considering what a failure Rosecrans was, both in the field and in Congress, the country will look pretty sharp to see what scheme of "reform" he is going to put in operation. We are curious to observe how the mugwump organs will treat this very Higginsian construction of the civil service law. Rosecrans will have to be enrolled among the "famous inventors" of the age.

Score One for Grover.

We know nothing of the merits of the long controversy—or rather, painfully suspended application—for the postoffice at Augusta, Me. We have been informed that the applicant who so persistently labored for the appointment was a man who had so far forgotten what is due to the respectability of a political canvass as to publish statements in regard to the family affairs of Mr. Cleveland's rival, which no decent regard for the character of the campaign would have permitted. Mr. Cleveland's attention had been called to this circumstance, and he learned the posture of affairs from the Maine senators. As president, if he could not afford to be generous toward the family of a vanquished competitor, he had as a man, a sufficient sense of the proprieties of the occasion to say to the democracy of Maine, who have everything to ask at his hands, and nothing to give in return, that he would not have such a man at Augusta to represent the administration, even if the entire party in Maine was at his back to urge his appointment. To the credit of the democracy of Maine, be it said, the disgusting mistaken zeal of the applicant found no favor with very many of its best men.

We are glad to chronicle in this instance, not the defeat of the political aspirations of a man who sought by means of an unclean process to injure Mr. Blaine's family, but to testify our appreciation of that discriminating judgment and sense of right which Mr. Cleveland has displayed whenever he has set about an investigation of the merits of a controversy. In these duties it is Mr. Cleveland who is president, not a committee of politicians, who have an end to achieve. While we are not expected to "support the administration" as a general rule, there is now and then a specific instance of heroism on the part of the president which his characteristic firmness produces, which when found we delight in making a note of.

The Dynamite Suits.

Counsel for defendant in the case of Zachary Taylor Berry, who recovered $5000 damages from Stephen Young of Stafford for damages by a dynamite explosion, occurring through negligence, on the defendant's premises, moved in the supreme court at Dover on the 17th inst., to have the verdict set aside, submitting affidavits from Juror Gotts of Rochester, who swears he had made up his mind before going on the jury. On this ground, counsel asks that the verdict be set aside. Joseph R. May, who lost an eye and also his hearing, through this dynamite explosion, is about to enter suit against Stephen Young for $10,000 damages. It will be tried at the next term of the supreme court for Strafford county.

Strange Railroad Incident.

A curious occurrence delayed the White Mountain express on the 7th inst. Shortly after leaving Windsor, Vt., a frisky young horse, alarmed at the locomotive, jumped over the fence at the side of the track and galloped ahead of the train for about a mile and a half, until he came to a trestle bridge spanning a ravine some fifty feet deep.

At that point there chanced to be two men, who waved their coats in the animal's face. He was checked by this for a moment, but a glance at the snorting iron horse in the rear was too much for his nerves. He discomfitted the enemy in front by letting fly his heels, and then fled incontinently toward the trestle.

Strange to say, the sure-footed animal trotted some thirty feet on the structure without falling through the interstices. He made a false step, however, and down he went, first with hind legs and then with fore ones. The animal was utterly helpless. The train, which meanwhile had slackened up, was stopped, and the train men and passengers held a consultation.

Boards were torn from a neighboring fence and laid on the ties. The struggling beast was then forced over on his side, and his legs fastened together by means of a stout rope. Next the brakemen and parlor car passengers "tailed on" to the end of this hawser, and dragged the animal along the boards to solid ground. The cause of all the trouble both to himself and the train was rescued unharmed.

Orrin Sanborn, of Belmont, Mass., twenty-five years old and married, was fatally shot in Somerville on the night of Sept. 16th by Charles O. Frost, on whom Sanborn and a drunken companion were making an unprovoked attack.

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA

Is designed to meet the wants of a large portion of our people who are either too poor to employ a physician, or are too far removed to easily call one, and a still larger class who are not sick enough to require medical advice, and yet are out of sorts and need a medicine to build them up, give them an appetite, purify their blood, and oil up the machinery of their bodies so it will do its duty willingly. No other article takes hold of the system and hits exactly the spot like

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA

It works like magic, reaching every part of the human body through the blood, giving to all renewed life and energy.

My friend, you need not take our word. Ask your neighbor, who has just taken one bottle. He will tell you that "It's the best dollar I ever invested."

LEBANON N. H., Feb. 19, 1879.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO.: Dear Sirs—Although greatly prejudiced against patent medicines in general, I was induced, from the excellent reports I had heard of your Sarsaparilla, to try a bottle, last December, for dyspepsia and general prostration, and I have received very gratifying results from its use. I am now using the second bottle, and consider it a very valuable remedy for indigestion and its attendant troubles.

Yours truly, F. C. CHURCHILL, (Firm of Carter & Churchill.)

☞ A gentleman who has been suffering from the Debility and Languor peculiar to this season, says: "HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA is putting new life right into me. I have gained ten pounds since I began to take it." Has taken two bottles.

Gained 10 Pounds

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA is sold by all druggists. Price $1 per bottle; six for $5. Prepared by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.

IMPROVED RAILROAD FACILITIES.

The New York & New England railroad management are to use a car-float for transporting cars from their freight station in Boston to the freight station of the Eastern Division of the Boston & Maine railroad at East Boston. It is expected that by this mode of conveyance freight from New York and other points coming by the New York & New England road will have quick despatch though Boston on its way to and from the east. The Boston & Maine have been granted leave to construct a landing in connection with their dock at East Boston, for this ferry. The project has long been entertained, and perhaps one of these days in the near future passenger trains may pass over this ferry, and the uncomfortable trip across the city, the delays and chances of being left by reason of blockades in the streets of the hub, and the many discomforts of going over the Albany road to New York, be saved to the great through travel of this region and of the state of Maine.

MARITIME NOTES.

The schooner Guinare, from York, and the schooner D. K. Ham and sloop Stephen Orr, from this port, arrived at Boston on the 17th.

The ship Paul Jones, of this port, Winn master, sailed from Boston for Australia on Thursday, the 17th inst.

The Dover Navigation Co.'s schooner B. Frank Nealley, before reported ashore (Sept. 16th) on Cherry island flats in the Delaware river, floated on the morning of the 17th and proceeded down to Newcastle, Del., on her way to this port with a load of coal.

The brick schooners Gold Hunter, J. Chester Wood and Lillie, and the sloop Stephen Orr, arrived from Boston on the 18th inst., light, and proceeded up river to load.

The suit of the owners of the bandstand against the master and owners of the schooner Belvidere, which ran into the band-stand and knocked it over, has been settled, and the unlucky schooner sailed on Friday for Parsboro, Nova Scotia, where she belongs. It is said her owners paid $700 to the plaintiffs in settlement of all demands, each party to pay their own costs.

The fishing schooner Flying Cloud, which got on the rocks off Kittery Point on the 17th inst., remained there on the 18th, and at low water her crew were getting out her ballast and placing empty barrels in her hold, hoping to float her off at high water. She was somewhat strained, and water was finding its way through some of her seams.

All hands were ordered up for vaccination at the Boston & Maine railroad station in this city on Friday, and all complied with the orders. An experienced surgeon employed by the road did the work in a very expeditious manner, and without cost to the employes.

An item is going the rounds of the press stating that a New York physician "who is taken by everybody to be ten or fifteen years younger" than he is, attributes this favorable condition "to the use of lemonade taken regularly four times a day." He probably attributes too much virtue to his favorite beverage. We have men in this city who have taken lemonade regularly ten or a dozen times a day for the last twenty years, with sugar and other ingredients, and they do not look a month younger than they really are.

W. S. Waite, the gate tender of the Boston & Maine railroad at Dover, who was by the railroad commissioners found primarily responsible for the recent collision of trains, has been discharged. James Higgins, engineer of the locomotive Saxon, which struck the Portsmouth train, has been suspended for running over a red flag signal.

Store No. 104 Market street, belonging to Mr. Wm. D. Fernald, has been placed in good repair by Mr. Daniel Milton, and will be occupied by Mr. Walter L. Chesley for the sale of boots and shoes, and varieties.

On Monday evening, in Music hall, the great military drama "Rank and Fame," will be presented by a strong company, with those sterling and popular artistes, Wm. Redmund and Mrs. Thomas Barry, in the leading parts. The scenery carried by the company is said to be magnificent, the costumes beautiful, and the mechanical effects new and pleasing. The acting of course will be first-class. Tickets now on sale at Goodrich's.

A party of about thirty young ladies and gentlemen of this city drove over to Kittery on Friday evening, to join with a number of young people of that town in giving a surprise party to the Misses McCeffery, of the navy yard, and their guest, Miss Smith of Dover. The visitors carried music with them, and dancing helped to increase the pleasure of the evening.

A section of the north pond sewer over two hundred feet long was completed and covered in by Friday evening, and the lower half of about seventy-five feet more was done. Mr. Putnam of Salem, the engineer in charge, is entirely satisfied with the manner in which the work has so far been done.

Robert Harris was on the 17th inst. re-elected president of the Northern Pacific railroad.

Wm. Redmund and Mrs. Thomas Barry at Music hall Monday evening, in "Rank and Fame."

The Times says: "The owners of dories at the south end complain that their boats are stolen during the night quite frequently. The boats are generally found again, but their loss often causes great inconvenience to the owners." The locker of Capt. Eastman's yacht, lying at Rollins' wharf, was broken into one night this week, and heavy clothing, a lot of canned provisions and other articles stolen.

It is reported that a prominent democratic politician of Kittery, formerly a republican, is laying in an extra supply of wood and provisions on a promise of procuring employment on the navy yard.

The attention of the York County Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals is invited to the condition of the young cats left at the summer cottages along Long sands and other places at York beach, by the summer visitors when they depart for their homes. Many of these poor animals are thus cruelly deserted by their heartless owners and quandam protectors, and left to their own resources and the tender mercies of a cold world. After the "sculsh" and all the vermin are exhausted, they can be seen in numbers along the beaches, hunting for dead fish; but when the snows of winter come they give out entirely, and perish miserably. Their skins, if taken off now, would make good sleigh robes.

Mr. Henry B. Manson of York has of late been occupied in completing the enlargement of his stable, on his premises near the town farm.

A. K. P. Lord, republican postmaster at Buxton in this county, has been superseded as an offensive partisan, in the interest of civil service reform, so-called. William Harrison Smith, democrat, gets the appointment. As Mr. Smith is a Hollis man, his residence and place of business both being located in the last-mentioned place, it may not be out of order to inquire if it is part of the intention of the administration to locate the Buxton postoffice at Hollis? No doubt such an arrangement would be somewhat distasteful to the people of Buxton, but then it would accommodate Mr. William Harrison Smith, and might possibly be classed under the head of "civil service reform."—Biddeford Times.

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites

In Loss of Appetite and General Debility.

Messrs. Ramsey & Co., of Sharpsburg, Pa., makes the following report: "That they recommended a friend suffering from loss of appetite and general debility, Scott's Emulsion, that after taking half dozen bottles, he reported that he felt well, feels well, and is in fact a new man, and recommends it highly."

In Montreal, on the 16th inst., Dr. McNiree, assistant health officer, was informed that there was a case of smallpox in an eating house. On proceeding there with an officer the occupants would not allow him to enter. He forced an entrance, and saw six men eating their meals, and in a room adjoining found a lad down with a bad case of smallpox. The boy was removed to a hospital, and the doctor discovered that the boy's father was sitting on a jury in the court of queen's bench, in a murder trial. Going to court he exposed the man, and the judge discharged the jury. The sheriff discharged the man from further attendance, and the court adjourned. It has been discovered that the officials of the Montreal health department have been furnishing false statistics to the press as to the number of authenticated cases, and they now refuse altogether to furnish a report to the papers. A much larger number of cases than those authenticated occur daily.

A Law Abiding Mormon.

Bishop John Sharp, the Utah director of the Union Pacific railroad, one of the wealthiest and most influential Mormons, appeared in court at Salt Lake City on the 18th inst., and pleaded guilty to unlawful cohabitation. He claimed that the plural marriage in question was entered into in good faith acording to his religion before there was any statute against it, but he recognized the supremacy of his adopted country's laws and would obey them henceforth. He said he would not advise any one else to break the laws. He was fined $300, and discharged on payment of that amount.

MUSIC AND MUSICIANS.

Music is a great and beautiful art. I am not musical myself, which has always been a source of great joy to my friends, but in the course of many years of enforced association with musicians I have got to know something about the music business.

I did not voluntarily contaminate my young soul with the society of musicians. I have ever cherished a deep distrust of the criminal classes; but fate orders a man's life for him. I can only say in extenuation of my sin that I have never known a musician without being sincerely sorry for it, sooner or later—except in the case of one man who had his trombone in pawn and couldn't get it out to play to me.

Musicians run in the scale of morality from bass-drummers down to violinists. I have known bass-drummers to be estimable citizens, in good general repute. But the violinist is a man who has sinned beyond redemption. I do not say that the violinist does not do a great work in this world. I think he does. He inclines other men to lead good and virtuous lives, so that they may not meet him in the hereafter. And there are, of course, exceptions to every rule. If the violinist calls himself a fiddler, and speaks of his instrument as a fiddle, there is hope for him. He may be lured from classical music and induced to play a plain and recognizable tune, and then there is a chance of reclamation.

The inconsistency of musicians has often been noticed. I have known pianists to deny their artistic kinship to organ-grinders. I have argued with them and tried to point out to them that the difference between the two styles of operators is but a difference of degree and not of kind, and that it comes to much the same thing in the end whether pain is inflicted by sheer manual dexterity and the tips of the fingers or by the interposition of a crank. But you can not reason with a musician.

There is another peculiarity about musicians which everybody must observe who mingles with them for any length of wasted time—there are no good musicians except the one who is talking to you and a few who are dead. All others, you will find in the course of the conversation, are hopelessly on the wrong track, as far as true art is concerned. Some of them may be well enough in their way, but their way is all wrong. When they are dead, very dead, like Beethoven, and Handel, and Bach, they are frequently spoken of by other musicians in terms of high praise. I have heard Beethoven warmly commended by a man who played the cornet in a picnic garden on the East river.

Bach is an exceptional case. All musicians like Bach. He is extremely dead, and the general sound sentiment of the people may be relied upon to keep him dead. The resurrection and revivification of the late Bach would be warmly opposed by any civilized people. Bach's chief claim to respect among musicians is that he wrote much of his music so that it can be played backward as well as forward. This kind of thing he called a fugue. Fugues are used for emptying concert halls and other places of public resort. They are even more sure and effective than an alarm of fire.

When a musician dies his friends cast a gloom over the joy that animates the neighborhood by going to the house of the departed and playing dirges over him. They then send in their bill to the stricken widow for their services as a band. After that they pass resolutions testifying to their grief at the loss of their colleague and their sympathy with his afflicted family. The resolutions, however, are not passed until the bill is paid.

Yes, music is a great and beautiful art, Alpheus, my son; and what there is about it that makes most musicians mean and envious and cross-grained and cranky, I don't know. But so they are, and so they will go on, and the world will forgive them for music's sake.

There is that long-haired wretch at the piano over across the way. He is as narrow-minded and jealous and wrong-headed as the rest of them, and he has been torturing me with symphonies and sonatas all the evening, but I forgive him now and forget it all, for he is playing an old air that brings me back to a summer evening of years ago, when all the stars were out in the heavens except two that shone in the darkness as she walked by my side, when the hollyhocks waved pale and tall and ghostly in the moonlight, when the white bloom of the locust trees swayed in the breeze above our heads, and when I talked more nonsense in fifteen minutes than a violin could express in a year.—H. C. Bunner.

Didn't Understand the Game.

An amusing story is told of an American millionaire who recently honored London with a visit. As he was walking down one of the busiest streets one morning, his eye was attracted by an organ-grinder who was solemnly and lugubriously playing at the corner of a street. The top of the organ was covered with a smooth green cloth, and it was this green cloth that at once appealed to the intellect of the transatlantic Croesus. For him the green cloth suggested only one thought, and that thought was gambling. He fancied himself in the presence of some peripatetic roulet player, and he could not resist the temptation of taking a turn. So he stopped opposite the musical Italian and tossed a gold coin cheerily on the green surface of the hurdy-gurdy. The astonished foreigner stopped playing, grasped the coin, pocketed it, removed his hat, grunted out some voluable Tuscan thanks, and resumed his music. "Lost that time," the millionaire murmured to himself, and produced another coin. He tossed it again upon the board, from which it was again no less promptly and no less gratefully removed by the delighted musician. The millionaire shook his head. "Ah, luck's against me," he remarked, as he sent a third gold coin to gleam for a moment upon the green surface before it rapidly disappeared in the Italian's pocket. Another and another coin went the same way, without wearing out the patience of the American. But at last, when some six sovereigns had transferred themselves from his keeping to that of the organ-grinder, the American bent forward, and in a tone of the intensest curiosity, whispered in the ear of the amazed Italian, "Say, stranger, what do you call this game, anyhow?"—Whitehall Review.

Among the flints of chalk formation is occasionally found one that emits a clear musical sound when struck with another flint. A Frenchman has just succeeded in making a "piano" from these musical stones. The flints are suspended by wires above a sounding board, and are played by two other flints. The stones of the piano number twenty-six, forming two chromatic octaves, and were collected with much patient labor, during a period of thirty years. There seems to be no relation between the sizes of the stones and their tunes.

Getting Strong Again.

Fevers and exhausting chronic or acute diseases leave the patient, on his recovery, in a very pitiful state of prostration. Then it is that he needs a tonic upon which he can rely, one which, like Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, will accelerate convalescence, and aid the processes of digestion. That peerless invigorant compensates, as nothing else will, for depleted strength. After using it a short time the quondam invalid feels in every nerve and muscle that he is getting strong again. Appetite increases, there is a gain in weight, color and fullness return to the cheek, the lack-lustre eyes grow brighter, sleep is unbroken and refreshing. These gratifying experiences are renewed with each returning day, until completely restored in health and vigor, he returns to the avocations which his illness interrupted. Use the Bitters in billiousness, dyspepsia, rheumatism and constipation.

—Some of the newspapers are publishing portraits of the leading baseball players of the country. The umpires look upon it as a sort of compensation for all they have suffered.

medicine I ever found that helped me at all is ATHLOPHOROS, and I have not had the Rheumatism since I took it."—EDWIN SEARS, Provincetown, Mass.

A professor in a medical college once said to his class "put your hand in a vice, turn the screw until the pain is all you can bear, and that's rheumatism. Turn the screw once more, and that's neuralgia—and gentlemen, the medical profession knows no cure for either." That was before the discovery of ATHLOPHOROS which does and will cry or quickly cure both rheumatism and neuralgia, and many physicians use it regularly—frankly admitting that they can prescribe nothing else so effective.

Many persons have tried so many so-called remedies, without benefit, that they have no faith to try more, but it is worth your while to try Athlophoros, if you have any doubts as to its value write for names of parties in your own State who have been cured by its use.

Ask your druggist for Athlophoros. If you cannot get it of him we will send it express paid on receipt of regular price—$1.00 per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed,

CONSTIPATION!

There is no medium through which disease so often attacks the system as by Constipation, and there is no other ill flesh is heir to more apt to be neglected, from the fact material inconvenience may not be immediately felt from irregular action of the bowels. When there is not regular action the retention of decayed and effete matter, with its poisonous gases, soon poisons the whole system by being absorbed into it, causing piles, fistula, headache, impure blood and many other serious diseases. BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS will immediately relieve, and one bottle positively cure or relieve any case of Constipation.

"Was troubled for a year with torpid liver and indigestion, and after trying everything imaginable used BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS. The first bottle revived me and the second cured me entirely."—J. S. Williamson, Rochester, N. Y.

Caring for the Children.

Mr. Wm. C. Palmer has been the agent of the Henry Waston Children's Aid Society, Baltimore, Maryland, for a quarter of a century. Through a serious fall on the ice, he sustained severe bruises and twisted his left wrist so that he could neither use nor move his arm. A few applications of St. Jacobs Oil effected, he says, a magical cure.

William H. Saunders went to Salem, Mass., from Boston, about a week ago, and married a daughter of John S. Washington. He then stole the wedding presents and pawned the bedding. In court, Friday, he was fined $15 for obtaining the goods under false pretences.

The simplest and best regulator of the disordered liver in the world, are Carter's Little Liver Pills. They give prompt relief in sick headache, dizziness, nausea, etc.; prevent and cure constipation and piles; remove sallowness and pimples, from the complexion, and are mild and gentle in their operation on the bowels. Carter's Little Liver Pills are small and as easy to take as sugar. One pill a dose. Price 25 cents.

Schooner Willie Luce of Rockport, Me., arrived in Charleston, S. C., Friday, with her cargo of lime on fire. She was placed on the beach.

The Terrible Drain

Which scrofula has upon the system must be arrested, and the blood must be purified, or serious consequences will ensue. For purifying and vitalizing effects, Hood's Sarsaparilla has been found superior to any other preparation. It expels every trace of impurity from the blood, and bestows new life and vigor upon every function of the body, enabling it to entirely overcome disease.

The New York Star.

The democracy of New York, which, of course, means the democracy of the country, have long felt the need of a newspaper of their faith in New York city, which should consistently and persistently fight the battles of their party; sustain in good faith, not in a left-handed manner, the administration; and deserve the support of democrats through the land. The Star in its revived condition, under Hon. William Dorsheimer, seems to fill the bill. At least it comes nearer the requirements than any of its New York democratic cotemporaries.

As a news journal it is attractive. Its news is not diffused, like the columns of a Sunday newspaper, but is compactly given, concise in its arrangement, clear but not prolix in its style. Its editorials show the requisite ability for a journal which claims to be a leading administration paper, while its "borrowed suggestions" demonstrate that the pith of its exchange list is thoroughly scrutinized.

The paper seems to have sprung into the harness with the alacrity of a trained steam-fire-engine steed, and it doubtless will have a large circulation among the constituency it seeks to acquire in its new era of vitality.

Please Howl, Gentlemen.

The secretary of the treasury has appointed N. B. Bacon to be superintendent of the custom house at Toledo, Ohio. Mr. Bacon is a brother-in-law of President Cleveland. Our democratic brethren will please oblige us by giving one of the good old democratic howls about "nepotism" with which we were once so familiar.

The President's Joke.

President Cleveland enjoys his little joke. Recently among his callers was a young man who proclaimed in a loud tone as follows: "Mr. President, our National Labor League has adopted a resolution in favor of testing the constitutionality of the civil service law; now, we want you to help us." The young man stopped and smiled, as if to give emphasis to his proposition. Those who were looking on say that Mr. Cleveland fairly towered, while the small young man seemed to get smaller every second. "Well, what do you want me to do?" said the president at last, in a curt tone. The young man said: "We want you to give directions that the salary of one of the civil service commissioners shall be withheld until he has applied for a mandamus, so that the constitutionality of the law can be thus tested." The answer came like an angry growl: "No, sir," said the president, with an indignant air in his face and in his tone, "no, sir: you don't get any help from me. I wish you to know that I am in favor of civil service; I want to see the law enforced."

Of course every one present appreciated the joke. The list of removals on that day was unusually large, and the president wrote to District Attorney Dorsheimer of New York to vigorously defend the law in the suit brought in that state. However much Mr. Cleveland and the democracy may be opposed to the execution of the civil service law, the president assures us that he is in favor of the statute. It seems very much like the prohibitionists voting the democratic ticket to ensure the enforcement of the laws against the illegal sale of ardent spirits.

The Genesta Wins the Douglas Cup.

The New York yacht club races, for the Bennett cup for schooners and the Douglas cup for sloops and cutters, were sailed together on Friday off Sandy Hook.

There were seven sloops and cutters to start for the Douglas cup, including the Genesta, which won the prize, beating the sloop Gracie, which came in second, a half hour lacking two seconds. The Gracie, up to the time the Puritan and Priscilla were built, was the fastest sloop yacht in American waters, and proved it again in this race by beating all the other sloops and cutters except the Genesta.

The three schooners which contested for the Bennett cup were the Dauntless, Fortuna and Grayling; the first-named was so badly beaten that she did not complete the course, the Grayling winning, beating the Fortuna by less than a minute actual time, and being herself beaten by the Genesta by about twelve minutes.

Revolutions.

The populace of Phillippopolis, the capital of Eastern Reumelia, rose on the 18th inst., deposed the government, proclaimed a union with Bulgaria, and established a provisional government which took the oath of allegiance to Prince Alexander of Bulgaria.

Eastern Roumelia was created by the congress of Berlin in 1878, and was given an autonomic government, though still forming an integral part of the Turkish empire. The governor-general was appointed by the Porte, subject to the approval of the treaty powers.

Prince Alexander on the 19th went to Phillippopolis, and a Bulgarian army corps was ordered to the frontier. The Roumelian insurgents blew up the bridges on the Turkish frontier, and destroyed the telegraphs leading to Turkey.

Very grave complications, involving the peace of Europe, are likely to arise from this revolt.

The state department on the 19th inst. received a despatch from Mr. Hall, United States minister to Guatemala, announcing a revolution there, and stating that a state of siege has been declared.

The annual conclave of the Grand Commandry of Knights Templar of the state of New Hampshire, will be held at Concord on Tuesday, Sept. 29th.

The Great Falls Light Infantry held their tenth annual ball at the Great Falls town hall last Thursday evening; a large crowd attended the dance, and had a very pleasant time.

The naval court martial which tried Paymaster General Smith was last week ordered to reconvene on the 21st inst.

The steamers Dremda and Dolphin were in collision Sept. 18th off the southeast coast of England, and the Dolphin went down, with seventeen of her passengers and crew.

DIPHTHERIA!

THE PROSTRATION which follows Diphtheria, and the persistency with which it clings to the patient, are well known to all who have had any experience with this terrible disease.

The following letter shows how the restoring and invigorating properties of Hood's Sarsaparilla overcome it, and how by vitalizing and enriching the blood it neutralizes and eradicates the poisoned matter from it, bringing to the convalescent the color, life and vigor of robust health.

LOWELL, MASS.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO.: Gentlemen—My little girl had the diphtheria last April. The disease left her very weak, blood poor, with no appetite, and she could not seem to rally from its effects. HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA was recommended by a neighbor. After she had been taking it a few days we noticed a change for the better—she began to eat with a relish. It seemed to take out the poison the disease had left in her blood, the change being very noticeable in her face. She took it two months and fully recovered her health, much to our delight. We now recommend HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA with a great deal of pleasure. Very truly yours,
J. R. SMITH,
19 Butterfield Street.

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

SATURDAY, Sept. 19th.

John Sullivan and John Roach were before the court for drunkenness. They were in the same place the previous day on a similar charge, and were allowed to go on probation, on their promise to leave the city; this time the magistrate took care to insure their leaving the city, by sentencing them to six months at Brentwood and $6.90 costs, each.

John Spilman, another drunk, was allowed to go on probation.

GONE AT LAST.

A despatch of Sept. 18th, from Galveston, Texas, gives the following particulars of the loss of the coal barge Orient, with her crew of five men:

While the tug Ranger, towing the barge Orient, from New Orleans with coal, was rounding the bar this morning, the hawser parted. The barge anchored, and the tug came in for a new cable. A heavy sea was on, and the anchor chain parting, the barge was driven aground five miles from the island. When the Ranger returned she was unable to reach the barge, or to rescue her crew of five men. A lifeboat was immediately manned by fine experienced seamen, and started for the Orient. When they reached the barge the sea was fast wrecking her. The lifeboat drew close to the barge, when one of the imperilled seamen jumped into the boat and capsized it. All of the seamen who went out in the lifeboat came ashore near the Beach hotel, floating on their life preservers. The man who jumped into the lifeboat is undoubtedly lost, as are his four companions on the barge. Quantities of drift floating ashore indicate that the Orient has gone to pieces. The Ranger has returned. It is impossible for any boat to reach the scene of the wreck in the heavy sea now running.

Such was the tragic end of the old ship Orient, 1834 tons register, which was built in this city in 1852 by the late George Raynes for Spofford, Tileston & Co. of New York, and which was in active and remunerative service up to the latter part of 1881, escaping all the dangers from confederate cruisers during the war. In the fall of 1881 she loaded with cotton at New Orleans for Liverpool, but was totally dismasted two or three days after sailing, by a storm which sent many vessels to the bottom of the gulf or piled them up on its shores; she was towed back to New Orleans, her cargo forwarded by another means of conveyance, and her hull laid up for several years. Some months ago she was made into a barge for the transportation of coal from New Orleans to Galveston.

BAPTIST ASSOCIATION MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Portsmouth Baptist Association was held in the Baptist church in Exeter, Wednesday and Thursday. Dr. Taylor, formerly of Northwood, now of Connecticut, preached the annual sermon. The church was filled to overflowing, and every meeting after was as well attended. Directly after dinner a business meeting was held, and Rev. Dr. Alden, of Portsmouth, was chosen moderator for the ensuing year. The Women's Missionary Association was held in the Elm street church, and was addressed by Mrs. Gates of Newton, Mass. Wednesday evening the church was again filled by delegates and church members to listen to an address by I. D. How, of Norwich, Conn., who spoke earnestly on women's work in home missions. Thursday morning Rev. J. E. Dame, of Great Falls, delivered an able address. The meeting closed Thursday afternoon.

The schooner Woodbury M. Snow, which arrived on Saturday from Rondout, N. Y., bought 1076 casks of cement to J. Albert Walker.

Mr. Dennis Shea was last week engaged in laying a drain from a house to the sewer at the extension of Vaughan street, and upon reaching the concrete pipe made by him and laid there twelve years ago, found it to be as hard as granite, and as perfect as when put down.

Saturday was a very find autumnal day, yet there were comparatively few teams in town, which may be accounted for by the facts that the summer boarders are gone and the farmers are busily engaged in harvesting.

The Redmund and Barry dramatic company, to appear at Music hall this evening, in the military drama "Rank and Fame," carry their own scenery with them on their travels, and some startling and beautiful mechanical effects will be produced. The support is of course strong, as neither Mrs. Barry nor Mr. Redmund would be satisfied with anything inferior. Reserved seats can be secured at Goodrich's to-day.

The nut and bolt manufactory of Hon. Lafayette Hall, at Newmarket, was burned about midnight on the night of Friday, the 18th inst., the loss being stated at $32,000, with insurance amounting to $13,000. The cause of the fire is unknown.

J. Augustus Greenough, who was detained in the police station several days last week, he being insane, was taken to the asylum at Concord on Saturday.

The Nonpareil club will give a grand ball in Congress hall on Wednesday night of this week.

There was some stir on the navy yard shortly after noon on Saturday, caused by the boiling over and taking fire of a pot of pitch in the pitch-house. There was no danger, the pitch-house being a small affair of brick, and built over the timber-dock; if it burned it could set fire to nothing else, and there is nothing of it to burn, anyway.

On Friday evening two women living as neighbors on Court street, near the lower end, had an animated discussion about a clothesline, and one carved the other somewhat with a knife.

A rumor is current on the streets that 120 French Canadians, now employed on the new water works at Rochester, will shortly be brought to this city to rush the big brewery sewer through.

An agent of the Salvation Army was in this city on Saturday, endeavoring to lease a hall suitable for the meetings of the army.

Boatswain Isaac T. Choate has been ordered to the gunnery training ship Minnesota, at New York, and left this city on Friday for his new post of duty.

Rev. Charles D. Hainer, of Rural Grove, N. Y., has accepted the call of the Court street Christian society of this city.

A boy in York on being interrogated recently by a gentleman from this city as to how he liked Portsmouth, replied: "I never want to stay there more than two or three hours, there is so much noise!"

Mr. George Preble will continue the provision business at Stewart & Grant's store, York village, during the fall and winter.

Lemuel B. Caswell's seine, set off Smuttynose island, Isles of Shoals, in charge of Mr. John Hall, was badly cut, torn and twisted up on Saturday, by a huge shovelnose (hammer-head) shark, which was estimated to weigh two and a half tons. The monster had so rolled himself up in the net that he was captured and easily killed; and his liver, which filled two barrels, will help pay for the damage he did to the net. The shovelnose is not a common nuisance in northern waters.

The staging used in repairing the steeple of the 1st Congregational church at York village, which was badly shattered by lightning some weeks ago, was on Wednesday, the 16th inst., taken down by John Sanborn, foreman, and his crew of four men, in a very short time. John Asa Parsons was the leading mechanic in making the repairs.

The "mackerel seed" is very plentiful off the coast of York at present, and the fish are setting back from the eastward.

"Inventors cannot employ a person more trustworthy or more capable of securing for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office." EDMUND BURKE, late Commissioner of Patents.

BOSTON, October 19, 1870.

R. H. EDDY, ESQ.—Dear Sir: You procured for me, in 1860, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and procured many patents, reissues and extensions. I have occasionally employed the best agencies in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, but I still give you almost the whole of my business, in your line, and advise others to employ you.

Yours truly, GEORGE DRAPER.

"Well madam," said a fashionable physician to a wealthy lady patient, "if you don't like my prescriptions, perhaps you had better try Parker's Tonic, or some other quack stuff." "You don't mean it, Doctor," she answered, "but your advice may be good for all that. Sometimes what you call 'quack stuff' is the best and most scientific medicine, after all." She got a bottle of Parker's Tonic and it cured her of neuralgia arising from disordered stomach and nerves. She told her friends, and now they all keep a doctor at home in the form of Parker's Tonic.

Things Worth Knowing.

That Allcock's are the only genuine porous plasters.

That all other so-called porous plasters are imitations.

That their makers only get them up to sell on the reputation of Allcock's.

That all so-called improvements and new ingredients are humbugs.

That no one has ever made an improvement on Allcock's Porous Plasters.

That when you buy Allcock's Porous Plasters you obtain the best plasters made.

Prices of Sheep and Lambs—In lots, $2 00, $3 00 @ $5 50 each; extra, $4 00 @ $4.25, or from 2 @ 4¼c ⅌ lb; spring lambs, 4 @ 5c ⅌ lb.

Veal Calves 2¾ @ 6½c ⅌ lb.

Prices of Hides, Tallow and Skins—Brighton hides, 7½ @ 7¾c ⅌ lb; Brighton tallow, 4½ @ 5c ⅌ lb; country hides, 6½ @ 7c ⅌ lb; country tallow, 3½ @ 3c ⅌ lb; calf skins, 10c ⅌ lb; pelts, 15 @ 35c each; lamb skins, 40 @ 65c each; dairy skins, 50 @ 75c each.

A good, comfortable supply of northern cattle, together with the eastern, composed largely of good to fair quality, with none of choice grade noticed. The highest price we heard named was 8¼c, dressed weight. We call the market moderate in the sale, and many of the butchers could not find the kind of quality they wanted. City and high-toned country butchers had to put up with a poorer grade of cattle. For corresponding quality no change.

Milch Cows—The sales range principally from $30 @ $35 ⅌ head, and moderate demand.

The Sheep Call—Nearly 900 head of northern sheep and lambs at market for the week. Some Canada and New York sheep arrived on Monday, being sold by the head mostly. The market is off ½c in price, with none selling at over 5c ⅌ lb; the range is 4 @ 5c on lambs, as to quality, with sheep at 2 @ 4½c. The trade has been fair at these prices.

Pig Hogs—Not any changes in prices. The market is not strong at the figures.

Veal calves ¼c lower in price, and moderate supply.

Live Poultry—Supply 2½ tons, at 10 @ 11c ⅌ lb.

The members of Sagamore lodge, No. 11, Ancient Order of United Workmen, of this city, went to Newburyport on Wednesday evening of last week to visit Merrimac lodge, No. 31, of that place; Burtt lodge, No. 53, of Haverhill, Mass., was also present. The visiting workmen greatly enjoyed the lodge meeting, and not less the supper, and the speeches and singing which were kept up until a late hour. C. F. Horton, D. D. G. M. W., gave a brief history of the order, showing it to be increasing in membership, and one of the cheapest mutual insurances to carry; for a number of months there was no assessment. Sagamore lodge claims to be the banner lodge of the order in this state, and hopes to see a large augmentation of membership.

They Will Surely Find You.

They are looking for you everywhere. Drafts of air in unexpected places, going from hot rooms to cold ones, carelessness in changing clothing—in short anything which ends in a "common cold in the head." Unless arrested this kind of cold becomes seated in the mucous membrane of the head. Then it is catarrh. In any and all its stages this disease always yields to Ely's Cream Balm. Applied to the nostrils with the finger. Safe, agreeable, certain. Price fifty cents.

Twenty Years Record.

Rev. J. W. Macomber, Kensico, N. In a short time I found myself completely cured. Since that time I have used it with universal success in my family."

Allow myself to suffer again what I have suffered for the last year. That vile disease, dyspepsia, gave me no comfort. I could not eat nor enjoy anything. Drowsiness in the Day-time

Unless caused by lack of sleep or from over-eating, is a symptom of disease. If it be accompanied by general debility, headache, loss of appetite, coated tongue and sallow complexion, you may be sure that you are suffering from biliousness and consequent derangement of the stomach and bowels. How Cutlery is Made.

"American cutlery, such as knives, scissors, razors, shears, and scythes, is now being largely exported," said a manufacturer to a reporter. "You will now find various tools, such as saws, chisels, and planes, of American make in very many of the large warehouses of English cities."

"Can you tell me in what department the American cutlery excels?"

"In knife-blades, razor-blades, and the manufacture of axes. In the latter the United States have made such rapid advances that they excel all other countries in the manufacture of axes, excepting, perhaps, Canada."

"Can you give me some figures to show the progress of industry?"

"In 1872 there was imported into this country cutlery amounting to $10,500,000, which was cut down to about $90,000 in 1880. In that year about $700,000 worth of domestic goods were exported."

"Will you tell me a little of the different processes used for the manufacture of various articles?"

"Good table-knives are made of steel and iron welded together. The blade is of steel and the shoulders and the part which goes into the handle, called technically the tang in England, are of iron. The blade is made from shear or cast steel, the tang is forged from bar-iron. Knife-blades and other small articles are usually forged into shape while still attached to the bar, which serves for the workmen to hold them by. Two men are employed in forging such work. The principal workman, or foreman, as he is sometimes called, uses a small hammer of from two to four pounds weight, while the hammerman wields the sledge-hammer, weighing from ten to fifty pounds. The foreman directs the hammerman, whose blows merely follow those of the small directing-hammer. In drawing down or reducing a bar, both in length and width, the flat face of the hammer is used, but when the length or breadth only is to be extended the narrow edge of the hammer is used."

"How is the razor-blade shaped?"

"The cavity in the razor-blade is made by hammering the blade on a small round-faced anvil. The notch or nail hole in a penknife is struck by a chisel."

"Are the cheap knives made in the same manner as the more expensive?"

"No, common knives are made entirely of iron, and the difference in price arises not merely from the difference in the cost of material, but from the greater facility of working. Forks are wrought into the shape required as though a single prong was all that was necessary. They are then shaped out with a stamping die."

"Is not grinding and polishing a very injurious work to the men employed?"

"Yes, on account of the particles of steel which enter the nostrils of the workingmen and which cause most painful irritation and produce a disease called grinder's asthma. Few grinders live to be over 40 years of age. Many experiments have been tried to remove this evil. A magnetic mouthpiece was invented, but for some reason or other the men will not wear it. A revolving fan to create a current and carry off the dust is very successful, but even this the men oppose."—New York Mail and Express.

An Afghan Cure for Fever.

Medicine among the Afghans is in a crude state. It is a jumble of superstition, with here and there a grain of sense intermixed. Even the well-to-do people of the peasantry live in mud houses consisting of one room, windowless, and with one small door of exit. Here the family, however large, live and sleep. Chimneys are unknown, or indeed any kind of smoke-hole or ventilator. Water for drinking purposes is often obtained from a small rivulet, a branch of the canal, generally impure, muddy stuff. Yet when the people are sick they ascribe it to the influence of malicious jinns who are always wandering about ready for any wicked mischief.

The people believe that if a man sick with a small-pox hears thunder he becomes deaf, hence tom-toms (drums) are beaten round him during a thunderstorm that he may not hear the fatal sound. Incantations, jugglery, and charms are popular remedies. If the patient recovers, well and good; if he dies, he lacks faith.

A favorite cure for jaundice is a twig taken from a fig-tree, cut into forty pieces, breathed on by the Koresh (wise men), and the pieces strung and hung about the sick person's neck. A seven to ten days' abstinence from food is enjoined, and the patient gets well, or else he does not. Occasionally the treatment becomes more practical, as in the following case of sweating a patient.

An only son of the better-class was taken ill. "I'm so cold, and then I'm so hot, and my head aches!" the lad complained. His mother, being anxious, went to the house of the Moolah (learned doctor) to get a remedy for her son. The good man prayed and gave her an amulet with strange cabalistic figures on it, and bade her go home and put it about the sick boy's neck, and it would drive away the wicked jinn that was troubling him. The woman did so, but the lad grew worse. Then the Koran and a sword were laid on a quilt beside the boy, and another amulet, with wonderful exercising power, was hung on the bed-post; and the poor distraught mother drove pegs into the grave of a buried saint, hung rags on the tree above it, and prayed in vain. The jinn wouldn't go, but the sick man grew more feverish.

Then the father—continues the writer in a contemporary—determined to try the great Pathan remedy, which is practised all over Afghanistan. He had a sheep slaughtered and skinned, and, after rubbing oil and turmeric upon the skin, wrapped his son in it while it was hot. Then he laid the boy on the bed and shut the door, so that not a breath of air could come in, and covered him up with heavy quilts. At the end of twenty-four hours the lad was no better, and the skin was removed and a fresh one substituted. This time it had the desired effect, for before ten hours were passed the sick boy said, in a weak voice, "Father, I have become water." "Allah be praised!" exclaimed the parents. For several hours longer the lad wore the sheepskin, that the cure might be certain; and when at last it was removed, the poor boy had perspired so freely that he presented a general parboiled appearance, but the fever was conquered.—Cassell's Saturday Journal.

The new ship canal across the Isthmus of Corinth is said to be progressing satisfactorily. It will be, when finished, about four miles long; the entrances will be some 328 feet wide, diminished to seventy-two feet, and the depth will be twenty-six feet. The highest point of the high land through which the channel must be cut is 260 feet.

The most recent volcanic eruption in the United States was that which half filled Feather Lake, Northern California, in or about the year 1850. This locality has lately been visited by the eminent plutonist, C. E. Duttan, who says that the lava sheet poured out was over 100 feet thick, and covers a space about 1 by 3½ miles in extent, in the center of which a cinder cone 600 feet high covers the rent. The lava sheet is rough and jugged in the extreme, he says, but shows as yet no trace of withering. For a space of 400 to 500 yards from the cone the trees were all killed.

I wished Death

would end my agony, my suffering from neuralgia was so great. I had terrible spells every two or three weeks before taking ATHLOPHOROS, which was a year ago last April, and have only had two since. Words can never express my relief."—So writes Mrs. C. N. FARGE, Bolton-ville, Vt.

Many ladies suffer from headaches which are of neuralgic origin. In such cases Athlophoros is invaluable, as it will quickly remove the cause.

Thousands are enduring untold agony from neuralgia who might find instant relief by using ATHLOPHOROS The most delicate need not fear to use it, as it is absolutely safe and it never fails to drive neuralgia away. Neuralgia and rheumatism are twin diseases. Athlophoros cures both. Hundreds of people have tried it and now warmly recommend it. Send for names of parties in your own State who have been cured by it if you have any doubt as to its merit.

Ask your druggist for Athlophoros. If you cannot get it of him we will send it express paid on receipt of regular price—$1.00 per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed.

There are many synonyms in the English language, and scholars have collected them. The term "St. Jacobs Oil" is synonymous with the words "It Conquers Pain," and millions of people acknowledge this.

The "York" society of Portland, composed of sons and daughters of York county resident in that city, have their annual reunion on an island in Portland harbor to-day the president of the society, Hon. Bion Bradbury, presiding. Hon. William Henry Clifford, Wilbur Fiske Lunt and Emory S. Ridlon, sons of York, will deliver addresses on the occasion.

The simplest and best regulator of the disordered liver in the world, are Carter's Little Liver Pills. They give prompt relief in sick headache, dizziness, nausea, etc.; prevent and cure constipation and piles; remove sallowness and pimples, from the complexion, and are mild and gentle in their operation on the bowels. Carter's Little Liver Pills are small and as easy to take as sugar. One pill a dose. Price 25 cents.

A somewhat conspicuous local politician is charge with doing a sort of office-brokerage business at the Kittery navy yard. It is alleged that he promised one man a job in the yard in return for a load of wood; that he got the wood, but failed to furnish the man with the promised job.—Boston Post.

Always avoid harsh purgative pills. They first make you sick and then leave you constipated. Carter's Little Pills regulate the bowels and make you well Dose, one pill.

Mr. John F. Paul, who was dock-master at the Kittery navy yard in 1861 and was then removed by the republicans for offensive partisanship, has just been vindicated by restoration to his old place. Mr. Paul lives in Eliot, a town which gives 100 democratic majority as easy as rolling off a log.—Post.

Every day adds to the great amount of evidence as to the curative powers of Hood's Sarsaparilla. Letters are continually being received from all sections of the country, telling of benefits derived from this great medicine. It is unequalled for general debility, and as a blood purifier, expelling every trace of scrofula or other impurity. Now is the time to take it. Made by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass. Cars Across Boston Harbor.

The New York & New England and the Boston & Maine railroads are joint and equal owners of the new harbor float that has been built for the purpose of transferring cars between the termini of these roads on opposite sides of Boston harbor. It has cost them about $20,000 each. The boat contains no machinery, but will be towed, either by some of the tugs in the harbor or by one which the owners may procure if necessary. There will be swing bridges at the landings, so that transfers may be made at all stages of the tide. The float may also be used to convey cars to and from any of the warehouses on the water fronts of that city or Cambridge, and to connect also with the other railroads. The convenience and economy of this arrangement will be great. The float will begin running in about two weeks. At present all this transfer business is made over the Marginal Freight railroad, in Atlantic avenue and connecting streets, which is operated by the Old Colony, and which is not always at the command of the other roads for prompt service. It is not impossible that by means of this transfer and the one in New York harbor, through cars may some day be run from Halifax to San Francisco.

Thus do one after another of the great commercial marts of the country become way stations in the great iron highway of travel over the continent.

MATTERS IN YORK.

YORK, ME., Sept. 21st.

On Wednesday, the 16th instant, the last of the company left the Norwood Farms hotels at the harbor, and the houses were closed.

The company, consisting of seventeen persons, mostly left the Sea Cottage on the 16th; but landlord Grant is always ready to accommodate visitors, the year round.

D. N. Armstrong's stable, which during "the season" has been mostly kept near the hotels at York harbor, was moved back to his building at the village on the 9th inst. The stable contains some new and very expensive teams.

Mr. Peter Franklin has acted as head porter of the Marshall house for three months past, to the time of its closing for the season. Mr. Franklin's services in times of sickness and trouble are much valued in York.

Mr. Alvah Trafton, the present keeper of the almshouse and town farm, is carrying out the improvements commenced by Mr. Titcomb, the previous incumbent. No weeds nor bushes are to be seen growing about the fences, and he is now clearing up the big pasture and removing the brush. He is raising five large hogs, two of which weigh about 600 lbs. each. Twelve thousand hills of corn were planted this year, and the farm produced vegetables abundantly. There are fifteen inmates at the house.

Almah Donnell, John Banks, Charles Banks, Joseph Donnell, George Donnell and George W. Webber are at present carrying on the fishing business from Lobster Cove. Mr. Webber is sending out his team with fish into the adjoining country; he has in his employment Edward Banks, who is a very efficient young man and understands the business, being born of a stock of fishermen and educated to the trade.

It is reported that Mr. William Fernald, a prominent business man of the village, has in contemplation the purchase of a farm near Agamenticus, and settling down to farming, with a suitable life partner.

Mr. John Todd, with Walker at the village, is negotiating for the purchase of a fine thoroughbred Kentucky horse. Should he be successful he will own the fastest trotter there.

Mr. Salisbury Williams, the prominent blacksmith of York village, who was formerly engaged at the navy yard, declares he can live without the patronage of the United States government. He is constantly employed by the hotels and best farmers there, and his work is appreciated.

Near the eastern shores of York river, and near the ocean at Raynes' neck, may be seen the traces of old saw pits which more than a hundred years ago were used by the Raynes family for sawing mahogany to be used in the manufacture of furniture there; by whom also various other mechanical pursuits were carried on there.

Mr. Robert B. Moody, who has been employed in business at Boston and recently took to himself a bride, has with his wife and mother returned to the ancestral Moody farm and mansion, directly facing and bordering on Long sands. His father is still engaged in business at Boston.

Near the western end of Rice's bridge, Edmund Goodwin carries on his large farm, from which there is a fine prospect. The mansion house is one of the old style. In the olden times there was a large number of negro slaves kept there, and Mr. Goodwin shows a big rock upon which it is related that old Aunt Chloe, a captured African princess, used to set her milk pans. He has been raising tobacco, with which he had success.

Capt. Frank Emerson has successfully laid a ten-inch pipe from Folly and Scituate ponds to the mill pond at York harbor, upon which work he has been experimenting for some years. The lower dam seems to be secure, and the water has been shut off by a smaller dam at the upper end of the pond, which is being cleared out; so that the captain expects to cut fine ice this winter, which can be loaded directly on board of vessels for shipment.

The commerce of York is still quite extensive for a small but ancient port. At one time last week there were lying at the harbor five schooners, and at Marshall's store, higher up, two; and the schooner Frank Parker, of Boothbay was lying at anchor in the river off Norton's brickyard, ready to sail with a cargo of bricks. These vessels generally load with wood, hay, potatoes and other produce for Boston and elsewhere, and in returning bring coal, and miscellaneous cargoes for the stores.

The location at York Corner seems to be very favorable for those already established in business. A visit to Mr. George F. Plaisted's store shows a good stock, well selected and arranged, and with customers of a good class.

Mr. John A. McEvoy, a member of the P. S. C. & H., club employed in the Boston Rubber Works at Malden, Mass., is apparently popular with the young lady employes of the establishment, they having recently surprised him with the present of a fine gold ring just at the hour for leaving work.

A colored female, the servant of a western family, recently astonished the portly postmaster at Rye beach by asking him if he would "renovate" a letter for her. After a while it dawned upon Uncle Sam's official that she wanted her letter registered, and not "renovated."

THE WEATHER.

For New England to-day:—

GRANITE STATE FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY.

A meeting of the grantees of the Granite State Fire Ins. Co. was held in this city on Monday. Hon. John W. Sanborn of Wakefield was chosen to preside, and Alfred F. Howard was elected secretary. The notice of the meeting as published in the Chronicle was read, with the evidence of its publication. The charter was then read, and the following-named gentlemen were elected as associate grantees and members of the corporation:

Wm. T. Stevens, E. R. Brown, Daniel Hall, Jonathan Sawyer, James E. Lothrop, J. Frank Seavey, Dover; Noah S. Clark, Charles T. Morrill, J. W. Hildreth, Josiah Carpenter, E. W. Harrington, Charles D. McDuffee, Manchester; Frank W. Rollins, John A. White, Samuel S. Kimball, B. A. Kimball, Concord; Henry Kent, Exeter; B. F. Prescott, Epping; S. A. Haley, Amos Paul, South Newmarket; E. A. Kendrick, Lebanon; H. A. Tuttle, Pittsfield; Walter Aiken, Franklin; John W. F. Hobbs, North Hampton; Warren Brown, Hampton Falls; Emmons B. Philbrick, Rye; E. M. Shaw, Great Falls; J. D. Roberts, Rollinsford; A. T. Bachelder, Keene; W. L. Melcher, Laconia; Thomas Ham, Lake Village; Cherles E. Tilton, Tilton; E. F. Mann, Benton; N. H. Weeks, Plymouth; S. A. Ladd, Meredith; Henry L. Tilton, Littleton; G. M. Saul, Hampton; C. W. Wilder, Conway; John S. Peavey, Wolfeboro; A. S. Brown, Salmon Falls.

A committee consisting of William H. Hackett, Edwin Wallace of Rochester and Charles H. Mendum, reported a set of by-laws, which were read and adopted.

The capital stock was fixed at $200,000.

Frank Jones, Ezra H. Winchester, J. Albert Walker, Charles H. Mendum, William H. Hackett, Daniel Marcy, John Laighton, Portsmouth; John T. Bussiell, Laconia; Henry O. Kent, Lancaster; John W. Sanborn, Wakefield; Edwin Wallace, Rochester; John F. Cloutman, Farmington; A. W. Sulloway, Franklin; E. H. Rollins, Charles H. Amsden, Concord; Horatio D. Colony, Keene; Charles H. Sawyer, Dover; Frank A. McKean, Nashua; George E. Dame, Newport; George H. Stowell, Claremont; Harry Bingham, Littleton; Charles B. Gafney, Rochester; Thomas G. Jameson, Great Falls; J. C. Moore, Chester M. Parker, Manchester; E. H. Gilman, Exeter.

The secretary of the meeting was authorized to prepare subscription books for the signatures of subscribers to the stock; and was instructed to call a meeting of the directors at eleven o'clock A. M. on Friday, to which time the meeting adjourned.

There were present several solid men from different parts of the state; and while the meeting was in session despatches were received from a number of places in the state, showing the interest felt in the success of the company.

FIRE IN GREENLAND.

A barn on the Berry place, so called, situated in Greenland on the road to Hampton, near the town farm, and occupied by Mrs. George G. Brewster, was burned about seven o'clock Sunday evening, with a horse, two cows, ten tons of hay, farming tools, etc. It is supposed the fire was incendiary, a boy having seen a man leave the barn not long before the fire broke out.

The schooner Mary Willey, Capt. Zach. Williams, sailed from Fort point at the entrance to the Penobscot river at twelve o'clock Saturday night, and at twelve o'clock Sunday night arrived off Portsmouth harbor; was detained a few hours by a thick fog, and was towed up on Monday morning by the tug Clara Bateman. She is now landing the 7th cargo of lumber this season for John H. Broughton. Mr. Edw. J. Moulton was a passenger on her from Bangor, completing his 13th annual trip to Bangor and back by this vessel. The schooner New Boxer, Rankin master, with lumber for Mr. Broughton, and the Chilion, Call master, with lumber for Thomas E. Call & Son, left the Penobscot at about the same time as the Mary Willey, and both arrived on Monday.

Frank C. Eaton and William Garland, of Kittery, drivers of the horse teams on the navy yard, have been decapitated, and Messrs. Clif. Williams and John Grace appointed in their stead. Mr. Williams is a Kittery man, son-in-law to George D. Shannon, the boss teamster on the yard; it is reported to us that he was a Blaine democrat, marching in the processions and whooping 'er up for the White Plumed Knight, and voting for him at the polls, as everybody should have done. Mr. Grace we understand is a democrat.

Mr. William H. Allen of this city has been appointed a writer in the construction department store at the navy yard.

Paymaster Stevenson and the board who have been investigating the accounts at various navy yards, visited the yard across the river from this city on Monday.

Chief Engineer David B. Macomb, U. S. N., now stationed at the Boston navy yard, was in this city on Monday.

Mr. A. Ross of the Boston Advertiser, and Everett O. Foss, not of the Dover Republican, were in town on Monday.

Mr. Joseph Nowell of North Village, near Mount Agamenticus, York, is hauling 1000 bushels of charcoal to the navy yard. The coal was burned by Durgin Hutchings and Stephen Adams. The original contract was taken by John Wentworth and Irving Wilson of Kittery, and sublet to Lorenzo Starkie.

On Sunday night, after midnight, the temperature dropped to quite a low point, succeed by a rapidly rising thermometer after sunrise Sunday morning. The Whalesback foghorn proclaimed thick weather outside, and the steam rising from the surface of the river showed that the inflowing waters of the ocean were warmer than the atmosphere. Back from the influence of the sea there was a heavy white frost.

Capt. Franklin R. Bragdon's boat "Pakeha" arrived from Harris' cove, York, on Monday, with 500 lbs. of fish to Daniel Clark, Commercial wharf. There was some chop outside, which caused rowing to be intermixed with sailing on the passage round. Mr. Bragdon is a born fisherman, and also served as light-keeper for several years at Boon island and White island light-stations, in which position he gave entire satisfaction to the department officials, the nautical world, and his working mates.

Mr. Joseph H. Grover, a member of the P. S. C. & H. club of this city, is taking contracts at Malden, Mass., for laying floors in the new houses being built there. Thirty houses have been erected in that town this year.

A large dog, part Newfoundland, with a heavy chain attached to his neck and apparently belonging to some farmer, was picked up last week by Mr. James Hennessey of No. 15 State street.

Two talking parrots on board the U. S. S. Galena evidently received their theological training before the revised version was issued, for the place which one of them recently told the other to go to was certainly not "sheol," though it sounded something like it. And the retort of the abused bird concerning the other's eyes had a very nautical and old-version flavor about it, too.

Herring are now striking in shore in this vicinity, and becoming quite plentiful as bait.

Daniel Clark received on Monday 400 lbs. of cod of market size, from the Mitchell weirs.

Captain Henry A. Hunnefield brought in to Randall & Caswell, Monday morning, 500 lbs. of cod and 100 large mackerel, caught off York ledge.

The steamer Pinafore, Capt. Oscar Laighton, came in from Appledore to Commercial wharf on Monday morning.

Free clam chowders are served at the Central Oyster house on Monday, Wednesday and Saturday evenings.

CHOLERA CRAMPS CHILLS

If you are failing; broken, worn out and nervous, use "Wells' Health Renewer." $1. Druggists.

—The coming financial cloud has not only a silver lining—it is all silver.

Stated by H. B. Cochran, druggist, Lancaster, Pa.: "Have guaranteed over 300 bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters for dyspepsia, sour stomach, bilious attacks, liver and kidney troubles."

—Mme. Judic leaves her daughter in a convent and her son in college, while she comes over here to express to us the lofty art of high kicking.

Things Worth Knowing.

That Allcock's are the only genuine porous plasters.

That all other so-called porous plasters are imitations.

That their makers only get them up to sell on the reputation of Allcock's.

That all so-called improvements and new ingredients are humbugs.

That no one has ever made an improvement on Allcock's Porous Plasters.

That when you buy Allcock's Porous Plasters you obtain the best plasters made.

—Speech is certainly silver at the telegraph office. Ten words for a quarter.

Arrested!

Charles A. Dales was arrested last evening for stealing from the drug store of Shiefman a bottle of Sulphur Bitters. Before the court this morning, upon being asked why he should steal, he stated that his mother was troubled with rheumatism, and that it was the only medicine that helped her, and being out of money and work was the cause of his stealing. As this was his first offence he was put on probation.—Newark News.

Do Not Wait Until Chill Weather is Here.

The Summer is over—Autumn brings forcibly to mind the necessity of fixing the revenue for the winter's supply of the requirements of life—and the sanguine man turns naturally to making a small sacrifice of a dollar or more (as he can afford it) upon the altar of Fortune, by sending to M. A. Dauphin, New Orleans, La., for a ticket or a fraction of one in the 183th Grand Monthly Drawing of The Louisiana State Lottery, at noon, on Tuesday, (always Tuesday,) October 13th, when $265,500 will be scattered broadcast in sums from $75,000 downward. So prepare for winter—by investing at once.

A Drummer Among Mormons.

On my arrival at the Lehi I was directed, as usual, to the bishop's house for entertainment. Rapping at the door I was soon confronted by a large, heavy-built, broad-shouldered fellow, who asked me, in anything but polite language, what I wanted. I informed him that I desired entertainment for the night.

"Where are you from?"

"California, sir."

"Where are you going?"

"South," I answered. After plying me with a few more questions of a similar nature, he invited me in. On entering the house, he turned to me and said:

"Do you see that rifle up there?"

Looking up to the point indicated I saw one of those long, murderous rifles, resting snugly upon the antlers of a Rocky mountain buck. I told him that I saw it, and much admired the artistic manner of hanging it.

"Well, mister, that is our lawmaker. When anyone comes among us and commits any dirt we do not hesitate to use it. Now, listen to me. I am the bishop of this settlement. I have two wives and several daughters. Now, if you can promise me not to speak to, or even look at any of my women folks, you are welcome to remain over night. Keep your eye on that rifle and mind what I told you. Can you do it?"

It was a mighty hard job, but I first told him that I was at his command, and if it was his honest desire why of course I would obey him. At that time he bade me to follow him into an adjoining room, where his family was assembled. I was dimly conscious that there were several females seated around the fire. He drew up a chair and bade me be seated. Turning to the women he gave them orders to prepare supper, he himself taking my orders for what I wished.

All this time I dared not turn my head nor look toward anyone but the bishop. I knew that his eyes were upon me, and that his two wives and daughters were studying me closely. I was greatly embarassed, but withal managed to dispose of a hearty supper, at the conclusion of which we again returned to the sitting-room. It was by this time quite dark; and his son, a large, athletic fellow, coming in, the bishop told him to entertain me, and at the proper time to show me to bed. Putting on his overcoat and fur cap, for it was quite cold, he bade me good night, saying that he was compelled to attend a ward meeting. Before closing the door he pointed to the rifle overhead and said: "Remember, young man, what I told you!"

It was positively unkind of him to remind me of it, for the confounded old gun was constantly on my mind. I had seen some of their trescherous work, and had heard much more. I knew what they were capable of doing, and after the circumstances, dared not disobey his warning. The door closed and he was gone. The ladies were seated on my right, the son on my left. To make assurance doubly sure I turned my back to the ladies, and, facing the young man, entered into conversation with him. One of the ladies got up several times and went to the door. Finally she came up and bluntly asked me if I was a Mormon. I hardly knew what to do. I had been warned against speaking to or even looking at any of the women. Was she trying to draw me into trouble? She certainly knew that I had been forbidden to address her under penalty of death. Yet there she stood, calmly inviting me to my fate. The young man's eyes were upon me. Great beads of perspiration started out on my forehead.

"Do not fear to speak, young man; he has gone, and will not return before midnight," she said, and at that she laid her hand on my hand.

"It's all right, stranger," said the son. "It's all right; speak up and look around you as much as you please. I'll vouch for your safety."

The ice was now broken and turning to the old lady I said that I was not a Mormon.

"Thank God for that," she said, and then the conversation became general. I was told all about the heartaches and sufferings of the original wife; how in almost every case they had been deluded into joining the Mormon faith under false pretenses; what shame and mortification came over them when it was found out that a second or third wife was to be taken into the household. I was rather reticent, and did not express my opinion on the subject as I otherwise would have done. The two daughters were comely and full of life. About 10 o'clock they bade me good night and retired. A half-hour later I was conducted to my room by the young man.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Playing By Ear.

The train stopped at a little country station. It was a hot day, and all the windows were open. By the side of the track was a pasture, and here, with his nose laid lazily upon the fence, was a donkey. Soon the locomotive began to blow off steam, and this commotion started the donkey into giving an exhibition of his prowess in the same direction. Taking his nose down from the fence he winked his off eye, manipulated his ears vigorously and produced such a noise that the passengers were all startled.

"Mamma," said a little girl, "what does that horse make that noise for?"

"That's a donkey, my child, and that's the way he makes music."

The little girl looked at the donkey more sharply than before. There was a puzzled look upon her face, and it was evident that she could not quite understand it. She seemed to be looking for the sheet music and wondering if the donkey had it pinned to the other side of the fence. But suddenly her face lighted up and she clapped her hands and shouted:

"Oh, mamma, I know! He plays by ear!"—Chicago Herald.

She Knew the Boys.

A pretty little brunette, says The New York World, sat in one of the reserved seats on the grand stand on the polo-grounds one day last week.

"Do you know," she asked her escort, "that there are many really well-educated men who play ball for a living? There's Johnnie Ward, the short stop of the New York team. They tell me he is remarkably bright in legal matters. He was graduated from Columbia law school with high honors recently. It is said he intended to study under Roscoe Conkling. There is Jim O'Rourke. He is a civil engineer by profession, they say.

"But you know Decker? No? Well, he was an umpire whose decisions caused general dissatisfaction. He is a lawyer. I don't think much of a lawyer who can't give fair decisions or opinions of such trivial matters as baseball plays, do you?

"But the funniest experience I have had was one day last summer. Charlie and I were driving on a road just outside Cincinnati, when we came upon an artist sketching a pastoral scene. He was a nice-looking young man, and I asked him to let me look at what he had done. In the afternoon Charlie and I went out to see the game between the Cincinnatis and Athletics. The first player who attracted my attention was the artist whom I had seen at work in the morning. I asked a man near me what the player's name was, and he said; 'Dat's Long John Reily, der boss first baseman.'"

Getting Strong Again.

Fevers and exhausting chronic or acute diseases leave the patient, on his recovery, in a very pitiful state of prostration. Then it is that he needs a tonic upon which he can rely, one which, like Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, will accelerate convalescence, and aid the processes of digestion. That peerless invigorant compensates, as nothing else will, for depleted strength. After using it a short time the quondam invalid feels in every nerve and muscle that he is getting strong again. Appetite increases, there is a gain in weight, color and fullness return to the cheek, the lack-lustre eyes grow brighter, sleep is unbroken and refreshing. These gratifying experiences are renewed with each returning day, until completely restored in health and vigor, he returns to the avocations which his illness interrupted. Use the Bitters in billiousness, dyspepsia, rheumatism and constipation.

It is said that the cost of obtaining the pope's dispensation to the marriage between Prince Waldemar of Denmark and Princess Marie of Orleans was £5000. Its most important conditions are that the daughters who may be born of the marriage are to be brought up in the Catholic faith, but the sons as Protestants.

Sick Headache.

GENTS:—I have been subject to Sick Headache for years, and have tried, in vain, many advertised remedies and several physicians, but all to no purpose. At last I tried your B. B. Bitters—without much faith, I admit—but to-day I can truly say, that after taking the third bottle I have not suffered from it. I recommend it to all my friends; several have been cured by it. My little grandson was permanently cured of Billiousness and Sick Headache, which were so severe as to cause convulsions. They have all ceased since he commenced the use of B.B.B.

The Worcester, Nashua & Rochester Railroad.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Worcester, Nashua & Rochester railroad last week, Charles S. Turner, president of the road, tendered his resignation as president and as member of the board of directors. In his place Ex-Mayor Stoddard, of Worcester, was chosen a director, and Charles A. Sinclair of this city was elected president. These changes complete the overturn in the management of the road which was begun at the last annual meeting, when Mr. Sinclair and others were chosen directors, over the former board.

Col. Sinclair represents a syndicate of gentlemen who own a majority of the stock of the corporation. The new directors have infused a new vitality into the corporation, and caused an advance in the market price of its shares. Col. Sinclair is a gentleman of large business capacity, and the railway, under his executive management, will be likely to be well operated and to improve in its value and efficiency.

The Worcester & Nashua road leases the Nashua & Rochester. The two roads were consolidated by legislative act in 1883, and the title now is Worcester, Nashua & Rochester railroad, with 95 1-2 miles of road.

Ocean Yacht Race.

The last ocean race of yachts for this season commenced on Monday, the British cutter Genesta and the famous old keel schooner Dauntless starting from the Sandy Hook lightship to sail around the Brenton's reef lightship, off Newport, R. I., and return, for the Bennett challenge cup, which is open to all yachts of all nations, without regard to size, there being no time allowance. The course is outside of Long Island, and is about 280 miles in all.

The Bennett cup was given in 1872, and has been sailed for but three times. The keel schooner Rambler won it twice in 1872, beating the Madeline both times, no other yachts competing. In 1876 the schooners Idler, America, Tidal Wave, Wanderer and Countess of Dufferin raced for the cup, the Idler winning in less than thirty-three hours, seven hours quicker than the course had been sailed over before.

The only entries for the race this year were the Genesta and Dauntless; the latter is much the larger vessel, being 116 feet long on the water line, to the cutter's eighty feet.

A New York man has offered to bet $1000 that neither the president nor the vice president can satisfactorily pass the examination under the civil service rules for a $1200 clerkship. Fortunately neither of these gentlemen is seeking to be appointed just now, and there are no takers of the bet.

The legislature of Georgia being about to enact a "valued policy law," the fire insurance companies say to the people of Georgia, "if you do, we shall withdraw our agencies from the state." This kind of conduct on the part of the New York insurance companies will cause the valued policy law ere long to be enacted in every state of the union.

KITTERY, ME., Sept. 21st.

There was quite a large gathering at the residence of Deacon Benjamin Mugridge at Kittery Point on the 17th, to celebrate his 75th birthday. A valuaale watch was presented to him, by his children and grandchildren, with a speech from his son, Rev. John H. Mugridge of Ogunquit, Me. Among the numerous presents was a very handsome afghan, made and presented by Miss Mabelle F. Dennett of Boston, Mass. A poem from S. Adams Wiggin of Washington, D. C. (a brother-in-law,) was read by Rev. John W. Webster of Kittery Point. Singing by Mrs. Anna Brooks and Mrs. C. P. Mugridge, the estimable lady of the deacon, also one of the fair daughters of Portsmouth. Miss Dennett presided at the organ. The venerable deacon then addressed the company, thanking us all for remembering him in the decline of life, and gave us some valuable advice. Rev. J. H. Mugridge then offered a very eloquent prayer, mentioning Rev. John Rowell and Dr. Adams, who had passed away since our last gathering. The company after partaking of a sumptuous dinner prepared by "Mine Hostess," dispersed to the croquet ground, and boating, until summoned to supperr The day was splendid, and all went away feeling better and wiser for the visit to the worhy couple. Long may they wave.

AUNT ELIZA.

WE DO NOT CLAIM

that HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA will cure everything, but the fact that on the purity and vitality of the blood depend the vigor and health of the whole system, and that disease of various kinds is often only the sign that nature is trying to remove the disturbing cause, we are naturally led to the conclusion that a remedy that gives life and vigor to the blood, eradicates scrofula and other impurities from it, as HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA undoubtedly does, must be the means of preventing many diseases that would occur without its use; hence the field of its usefulness is quite an extended one, and we are warranted in recommending it for all derangements of the system which are caused by an unnatural state of the blood.

Why Suffer with Salt-Rheum?

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Gentlemen—I was a great sufferer from Salt-Rheum on my limbs, for a dozen years previous to the summer of 1878, at which time I was cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. The skin would become dry, chap, crack open, bleed and itch intensely, so that I could not help scratching, which of course made them worse. At the time I commenced taking Hood's Sarsaparilla (in the summer of 1878) they were so bad that they discharged, and I was obliged to keep them bandaged with linen cloths. The skin was drawn so tight by the heat of the disease that if I stooped over they would crack open and actually bring tears into my eyes. The first bottle benefited me so much that I continued taking it till I was cured. I used one box of Hood's Olive Ointment, to relieve the itching. Hoping many others may learn the value of Hood's Sarsaparilla and receive as much benefit as I have, I am,

Very truly yours,

BLANEY'S SENTENCE COMMUTED.

The governor and council of Maine gave a hearing in the forenoon on the 22d inst., on the petition to commute the sentence of Mrs. Mary E. Barrows of Kittery, in the state prison under sentence of death for complicity in the murder of her husband, Thomas Barrows, to imprisonment for life. The matter was tabled, but it is understood that they favor commutation of the sentence by a good majority. The governor and council while in executive session voted to commute Oscar E. Blaney's sentence from death to imprisonment for life.

RAILROAD NOTES.

The fall arrangement of the Boston & Maine railroad goes into effect Oct. 4th.

The state board of equalization gave a hearing to counsel on the 22d inst. on the question of assessing the Boston & Lowell and Portsmouth & Dover railroads for the purpose of taxation.

The policemen's picnic and clambake, appointed for Thursday, Sept. 24th, at Wallis' sands, Rye beach, will take place next Tuesday, the 29th.

De Witt Clinton Commandry of Knights Templar, at the conclave on Monday evening, considered the project of the excursion this fall, and a committee will start this morning for Providence, R. I., to see what arrangements can be made at Rocky point.

The Clipper base ball club of Exeter will play the Red Stockings of this city at the Plains on Saturday afternoon. We hope the visitors will be treated by the spectators better than the Portsmouth boys were treated by some of the lookers-on at Exeter when the same clubs recently played there, as the Red Stockings say they merit every courtesy, having comported themselves as gentlemen, and been in no wise responsible for the rowdyism of the crowd.

There were only three bricklayers at work on the new sewer on Tuesday, all the rest having found the place too hot for them; and most of the laborers were suspended, for lack of available work. Extensive kerbing has been found necessary to keep the sides of the trench from caving in, and the flow of water is on the increase.

The Portsmouth and Dover cricket clubs will play an all-day cricket match at the field near Frenchman's lane in this city next Saturday. The game will commence at eleven o'clock, and stumps will be drawn at five o'clock in the afternoon. The Dover club will present its strongest eleven, but the Portsmouth men are quite confident of winning the match.

Mr. Patrick J. McCaffery, for many years travelling agent of the Portsmouth Brewing Co., has resigned his position, to go into other business.

A partial eclipse of the moon, visible here, will commence at 1:15 o'clock in the morning on the 24th inst., and end at 4:22.

Bennett & Moulton's Comic Opera Co. will sing in Music hall every evening next week, and Wednesday and Saturday afternoons, at popular prices—ten and twenty cents admission, reserved seats ten cents extra. They will give the Mascot, Olivette, Pinafore, Chimes of Normandy and Girofle Girofla.

The agent, or captain, or commodore, or whatever he may be called, of the Salvation Army, who arrived in this city last week looking for a suitable building or hall to lease as a "barracks," we understand would have been pleased to secure either Congress hall or the Universalist church, but the managers of the one and the wardens of the other declined all offers and steeled their hearts against all arguments.

To-morrow evening, in Music hall, Col. Robert G. Ingersoll will lecture on "Myth and Miracle." Col. Ingersoll is acknowledged, even by those to whom his "religious" theories are abhorrent, to be one of the most eloquent speakers of the day, and he will undoubtedly have a large audience. Tickets can be secured at Goodrich's bookstore.

The tug William H. Clark, Scully master, arrived from Boston on the night of the 21st inst., to tow around to Beverly, Mass., the dredge, scows, etc., of Capt. Symonds' flotilla. Capt. Scully reported it very rough running across from Halibut point to the Shoals, the wind blowing strong from the southward and eastward, and considerable sea running. The cautionary signals were hoisted on the signal service pole, on the morning of the 22d, and up to a late hour in the day the tug had not left port with her tow.

Mr. Thomas Riley of North Kittery died on Wednesday of last week, at the advanced age of eighty-two years. He was the father of six children, by whom he was much beloved. Four of them survive, one son, Thomas, having been lost off Georges twenty-three years since, and a daughter having died sixteen years ago. One son lives at home in Kittery, one in Portsmouth and one in Omaha. Mr. Riley was a strictly temperate man, and would not drink even a glass of beer.

YORK CORNER, ME., Sept. 22d.

Our friend Mitchell brought us in some of his small apples the other day. We measured one, the girth of which was eleven and one-half inches. We presume some of the large ones would go two feet,—more or less,—but the small ones, for apple dumplin's, "just take the cake."

Alexander Thompson has been chosen grand juror from York for the court year. John A. Swett is traverse juror for the September term.

On Thursday last Edward S. Marshall and John E. Norwood were drawn as traverse, and James H. McIntire and James Cook as grand jurors, to the United States court to be holden at Portland.

On Friday, as Mr. John Roberts was digging a post-hole near the new house of a Mr. Ropes, near Norwood Farms, he came in contact with a human skull, and in following up he found the whole skeleton of a full-sized person. The skeleton was about two feet in the ground, and laid upon its side with the legs cramped up toward the chin, as a person would naturally lie when cold. The whole affair is a mystery, and many are the conjectures regarding it. P.

YORK, ME., Sept. 21st.

The cellar of the new Methodist parsonage is being laid on the York village road in a most substantial manner by Mr. Charles Simpson of Cider hill, who is assisted by his neighbor, Mr. Charles Roberts, formerly employed at Hon. Moses H. Goodrich's tannery at Portsmouth. The location is a most pleasant one.

Mr. Willard Grant intends building a two-story tenement house near the village this fall.

An immense improvement has been made at the Norton brickyard farm, near Rice's bridge. A large tract of land bordering the road has been cleared of unseemly rushes, and drained. It has been cultivated this season, the first time for many years,—perhaps never before. A fine esthetic cottage has been erected there, and attracts the attention of travellers. The soil is rich, and produces abundantly.

Much satisfaction is expressed in York over the appointment of Mr. Stephen A. D. Grant, a native of that town, as postmaster at Lyndrick. Mr. Grant was for some years clerk at the once famous Cape Neddick house, up to the time of its destruction by fire. Besides being popular with a large circle of acquaintances, he is fully capable of filling his new position. He has occasionally been a correspondent of this paper.

Mr. Andrew R. Webber, of York, will make extensive repairs to his ice house this fall. The ice business has been continued to a very late term this season—much later than usual. Mr. Webber proposes to engage in the fish business quite extensively the coming winter.

Rear Adm. Wm. Rogers Taylor and Gen. Schenck were guests at the Harmon house the past summer.

York is rapidly becoming a popular resort for the wealthier class of summer visitors, and the cottages on the sea front vie with those of Mt. Desert, Me., and Little Boar's Head, N. H., in point of elegance.

Mr. Charles McInich, the apothecary and accountant at Walker's store, York village, will shortly revisit his native town, St. Stephens, N. B. His friends in York hope he will return.

"Inventors cannot employ a person more trustworthy or more capable of securing for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office." EDMUND BURKE, late Commissioner of Patents.

BOSTON, October 19, 1870.

R. H. EDDY, ESQ.—Dear Sir: You procured for me, in 1860, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and procured many patents, reissues and extensions. I have occasionally employed the best agencies in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, but I still give you almost the whole of my business, in your line, and advise others to employ you.

Yours truly, GEORGE DRAPER.

Things Worth Knowing.

That Allcock's are the only genuine porous plasters.

That all other so-called porous plasters are imitations.

That their makers only get them up to sell on the reputation of Allcock's.

That all so-called improvements and new ingredients are humbugs.

That no one has ever made an improvement on Allcock's Porous Plasters.

That when you buy Allcock's Porous Plasters you obtain the best plaster made.

Arrested !

Charles A. Dales was arrested last evening for stealing from the drug store of Shiefman a bottle of Sulphur Bitters. Before the court this morning, upon being asked why he should steal, he stated that his mother was troubled with rheumatism, and that it was the only medicine that helped her, and being out of money and work was the cause of his stealing. As this was his first offence he was put on probation.—Newark News.

General Grant's Reticence.

He was never a secretive man until the positions of responsibility in which he was placed compelled him to be chary of giving expression to his opinions. He then learned the force of the philosopher's maxim that the unspoken word is a sword in the scabbard, while the spoken word is a sword in the hands of one's enemy.

In the field there were constant visitors in camp ready to circulate any intimations of the commander's movements, at the risk of having such valuable information reach the enemy; in the White House, every encouraging expression to an applicant for favors was apt to be tortured into a promise, and the President naturally became guarded in his intercourse with general visitors. When questioned beyond the bounds of propriety, his lips closed like a vice, and the obtruding party was left to supply all the subsequent conversation. These circumstances proclaimed him a man who studied to be uncommunicative, and gave him a reputation for reserve which could not fairly be attributed to him. He was called the "American Sphynx" and "Ulysses the Silent," and he was popularly supposed to move about with sealed lips.

When accompanying him through New England the summer after the close of the war, it was soon seen that the stories of his reticence had preceded him. The trip was the first of those grand ovations with which he was always greeted by the people through whose communities he travelled. The train stopped for a few minutes at a small town in Maine, and the people, as usual, took the opportunity of extending a greeting and delivering their words of welcome. As the General stood in the doorway of the rear car, a tall, gaunt-looking woman elbowed her way through the crowd till she got near the platform. Here she stopped, and put on a pair of spectacles with glasses as them that looked about as big as the lenses in large telescopes, and taking a good look at the General, said, gasping for breath as she spoke, "Well, I've come down hyere a-runnin' right on the clean jump, nigh on to tew mile, just to git a look at the man that lets the women do all the talkin'."—Gen. Horace Porter, in Harper's Magazine for September.

Alaska's Great Forests.

Alaska forests contain enough timber to supply the world. The forests of pine, spruce, fir and hemlock cover every island of the archipelago and a goodly portion of the mainland.

The trees are straight and tall, and grow close together. The only sawmill at present in operation is at Douglas Island, and so far there has not been a cord of timber cut for shipment. The trees, as a rule, do not always cut up into good-sized boards. For fuel, however, the wood is excellent, and much of it is available for building purposes. There is little decorative wood, although the yellow pine is richly colored and might be used to advantage in interior work. Alaska spruce is an excellent variety, and often measures five feet in diameter.

It is considered the best spruce in the world, and the supply is very abundant. In the interior of the country timber is of much heavier growth than on the coast and on the islands. Regarding the hemlock there is a large supply, and the bark compares favorably with that of the Eastern trees used in tanning establishments.

No one has yet attempted to compute the value of the Alaska forests. It may be they will not be necessary for years to come, but whenever wood grows scarce elsewhere or whenever civilization fastens itself upon Alaska, the timber of the region will be found ready at hand and existing in rich profusion. Calculating only approximately the value of our possessions to-day, the forests must be considered. Practically inexhaustible, they add most materially to the wealth of the Territory.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Bags Instead of Closets.

In closets which are not provided with drawers and wardrobes where dresses may be hung or laid away from all danger from dust or crowding, bags which will completely envelope the dress and protect delicate fabrics are a necessity. Such bags must be long enough to hold a dress-skirt without folding, and wide enough to give room to all kinds of frills and flounces. Any kind of material will answer, but muslin or print is most often used. Cut one side of the bag three inches longer than the other; seam together, bind around the top, work four button-holes across the longest side, which buttons down on the other like a flap. The bottom of the bag now becomes the top, seam it across again, and in the casing so made run a flat, narrow stick; at each upper corner sew tape loops by which to hang the bag on two hooks in the closet. To wide tapes, sewed near the casing, pin the dress-skirt by the band and also the waist, by which even part of it will least mass the trimming. After the dress is carefully pinned in place, pull down the bag over it and button the flap across the bottom.

Bags for the various small articles in kitchen and wash-room, which need keeping together, should be made of some dark, strong material, and of a plain, square shape, and furnished with curtain rings sewed around the top to run the draw string in. Such bags are useful receptacles for clothes-pins, small clothes-lines, strings, and the hundred and one things which must be kept in some place where they can be found in a hurry.

Bags for the store-room and for holding bundles and scraps must be of strong stuff. The former of firm, closely-woven linen, sewed in a turned seam, and provided with tapes for tying up, several inches below the top, so they may be turned over and tied closely, effectually preventing the entrance of any undesirable object, animate or otherwise.—Mrs. L. A. France, in Good Housekeeping.

The Bet Was Off.

A few days ago, after a couple of esteemed citizens, who are close neighbors, had arranged to pass a few days with their families at a lake in Oakland county, one of them offered to wager a box of cigars that he would catch the largest fish. The wager was promptly taken, and next day one of the gentlemen put in an appearance at a fish stand on the market and said to the dealer:

"Have you got a fresh pickerel weighing about fifteen pounds?"

"I have, sir."

"Well, I want you to put him on ice and ship him to me at——Lake. I propose to catch him on a hook out there."

"Very well, sir. I think I'll ship the two together."

"The two?"

"My wife was very bad with neuralgia so she could

Just get up

Had pains in back, limbs and around the heart, she took two bottles of Athlophoros and was very much better right away."—W. E. MOUSLEY, Lynn, N. H.

Neuralgia, though one of the most common and most painful of diseases, has baffled medical skill, and until the discovery of ATHLOPHOROS was considered almost, if not quite incurable. Athlophoros SURELY and QUICKLY cures it. This statement, though strong, is warranted by the facts. Thousands have tested its value and recommend it as the only remedy that brings relief. For ladies subject to neuralgia or nervous headaches it is indispensable. Athlophoros contains no opium, morphine, or other dangerous ingredient. It is absolutely harmless and universally successful in the prompt cure of this painful disease.

Ask your druggist for Athlophoros. If you cannot get it of him we will send it express paid on receipt of regular price—$1.00 per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed.

Is inseparably connected with Hood's Sarsaparilla, and is true of no other medicine. It is an unanswerable argument as to strength and economy, while thousands testify to its superior blood-purifying and strengthening qualities. The Norway Plains savings bank, of Rochester, N. H., has petitoned the Suffolk county, Mass., superior court for the disbarment of Edward P. Brown, on the ground that he appropriated to his own use $19,326 obtained by him on a judgment in favor of the bank against J. B. Moors in 1883. Brown was the lawyer who gained so much notoriety by his determed opposition to Gen. Butler in the Tewksbury investigation; he admits the facts as charged by the bank.

In the race for the Brenton's Reef challenge cup, on which the cutter Genesta and schooner Dauntless started Monday evening, Sept. 21st, the Genesta rounded the Brenton's Reef lightship at 9:30 P. Messrs. Houghton, Mifflin & Co., announce Mr. Edmund Clarence Stedman's new book, in the production of which he has devoted a very considerable portion of his efforts of late. The book is entitled "Poets of America." The contents are: Early and recent conditions; growth of the American school; William Cullen Bryant; John Greenleaf Whittier; Ralph Waldo Emerson; Henry Wadsworth Longfellow; Edgar Allan Poe; Oliver Wendell Holmes; James Russell Lowell; Walt Whitman; Bayard Taylor; the Outlook.

In this book Mr. Stedman continues the admirable work begun in his volume on "Victorian Poets." Or, rather, in his later volume he does for our American poets the service which in his earlier volume he did for the poets who have made English literature illustrious during the reign of Queen Victoria. "The affluent learning, the nice sense of the relative value of form and substance, the clarified taste, the sobriety of judgment, the sympathy, the discrimination which characterized the 'Victorian Poets,' equally characterize the 'Poets of America.'"

Mr. Stedman has endeavored to give in this book both a comprehensive survey of what has been achieved in American poetry and a distinct recognition of the value of the work done by individual authors. To each of several poets he devotes a separate chapter, as the extent and character of their poetical works justify; to others less space is given, but no less care to set forth adequately and fitly their distinctive literary merits. The book is unrivalled in the fullness and discriminating intelligence of its survey of American poetry, and will form a valuable addition to our literature, and of especial interest to all who can appreciate the results of long study and close observation relative to the poets and poetry of our country.

They occur in an [illegible] cle upon the Freethinkers' Conven[illegible] which has just closed in Albany, of wh[illegible] convention Col. Ingersoll was a cons[illegible] uous member. It would not do any ha[illegible] if those who listen to the gentleman [illegible] night, should keep these words in mi[illegible] and judge for themselves of their truth:

Another thing which must have stru[illegible] those who have followed the proceedin[illegible] of the convention, and read the report[illegible] of the speeches made, is the fact that th[illegible] enemies which these Freethinkers are [illegible] valiantly fighting are almost wholly o[illegible] their own creation, and that instead [illegible] their being in advance of the times, the[illegible] are most decidedly behind them. Th[illegible] superstitions and fears which Colonel In[illegible] gersoll, for instance, is fighting, are those [illegible] of several generations back, only th[illegible] colonel does not seem to be aware that [illegible] the world, the churches, and the leaders [illegible] of religious thought, have long since out[illegible] grown them. In fact, the eloquent Inger[illegible] soll's caustic philippics at Albany this [illegible] week, have been about as timely as [illegible] would be one of Phillips' magnificent [illegible] speeches on the crime of American slavery, in Faneuil hall to-day. These misnamed advanced thinkers should wake up out of their Rip Van Winkle sleep, and look about them. This is the year 1885. Destructive criticism has had in the past an important work to do, but the signs of the times point to nothing more clearly than to the fact that this work is accomplished. Errors and crudities have been swept away, leaving bare the eternal foundations of truth, which the destructionists must hope in vain to successfully attack. The work needed to-day is that of building up instead of tearing down, and the foreguard of thinkers realize this.

AFFAIRS IN KITTERY.

Chief Templar of the Good Templars of Maine, visited Morrill lodge at North Kittery on Friday evening, the 18th inst. A large company greeted the reverend gentleman, who has so ably filled the position as head of the order in Maine for nearly two years. Mr. Munson will resign from his office in January next, to accept the pastorate of a church in New York, much to the regret of many temperance people in this and other states.

Mr. Benjamin F. Joy is at his home at the Lower Foreside for a short vacation, to go fishing, and recuperate after his arduous duties at the Hub.

A good story is told of two amateur fishermen of Kittery, who sailed about nightfall from the head waters of Spruce creek, equipped and rationed for a long day's fishing outside.

On reaching the lower harbor they thought they would lie to awhile and rest, it being too early to commence operations; consequently they dropped their kellick, rolled themselves up in their overcoats, one in each end of the boat, and were soon fast asleep, dreaming no doubt of pirates, sea serpents or whales. It was not long, however, before their quiet reveries were disturbed, and one of our fishermen awoke to see their boat rushing through the water at a good rate of speed, while his companion was shouting and waving his arms at something which he discerned through the darkness to be a small schooner. They had anchored their boat a few hours previous in the vicinity of the weir, and a fisherman coming early in the morning for bait, seeing the boat and thinking it was empty, hitched on to it and was towing it with its occupants away to sea! The air was sulphurous for rods around, and the schooner fisherman made good his escape to deeper waters, while our fishermen resolved not to go below again without one standing watch on deck.

The harvest supper given by the 1st Methodist Episcopal society and the Good Templars of North Kittery, was the largest attended affair ever held there; over 150 persons sat down to the bountifully laden tables. At one time in the evening, before it commenced to rain, there were nearly 200 persons in and about the hall. The entertainment was a perfect success, and the committee deserve much praise for the creditable manner in which it was conducted.

Mr. M. E. Batchelder of Portland, is canvassing Portsmouth and Kittery for the memoirs of the late Gen. Grant.

Mr. Franklin W. Blaney returned last week to his home in North Kittery from Old Orchard, where he has passed the summer in his cottage on the camp ground.

SUB ROSA.

Col. Robert G. Ingersoll will discourse on "Myth and Miracle" at Music hall this evening.

The Chimes of Normandy might have drawn a larger audience last evening—if the Opera house had been larger. The house was filled by half-past seven, and hundreds were turned away, unable to find even standing room. At half-past seven this afternoon "Olivette" will be given again. The Bennett & Moulton company close their engagement to-night. Large audiences will attend both performances to-day, and only those who go early will be lucky enough to get seats.—Boston State Gazette.

The company mentioned above will appear in Music hall every evening next week, and two afternoons. "The Mascot" will be presented on Monday evening. Tickets at Goodrich's.

The Woman's Temperance League will hold their meeting this (Thursday) afternoon at Mrs. Jos. Pettigrew's on Islington street. A full attendance is earnestly desired.

The Horse of Plenty (the old Seamen's home on State street,) has been entirely the occupancy of the adjoining hotel, which has been kept previous in a separate establishment but is now the care of Mr. John S. Hubley, who has put in good condition to suit guests.

Bids for furnishing coal, wood and miscellaneous articles for the government in this city were opened Sept. 23d. The lowest bidders being J. Albert E. Tor coal, $4.70 per ton; Charles Per[illegible] for pine wood, sawed once, $4 [illegible]ous Rider & Cotton for miscellane[illegible]s, as per schedule, $62.44.

Mr. W. Oliver Jones of Eliot has sold to Hon. George M. Robeson a very valuable young horse—handsome, sound, kind, always ready to respond when called on, and indifferent to locomotives, bicycles, flying paper, firearms or tin horns.

George W. Ayers has been awarded the contract for carrying the mails between the post-office and railroad station in this city. Mr. Hadley, who has had the job several years, was not a bidder, having had all he wanted of it.

That two of the foremen on the navy yard had been "had up before the commodore" for knocking off work in season to get washed up before belltime, was the report on Wednesday evening.

At Carterville, Ga., the home of Sam Jones, the revivalist, he made a vigorous lecture against the whiskey men, and on the morning of Sept. 20th his stable was blown up by dynamite. That evening his huge revival tent was blown down by the wind, on top of a vast crowd.

Things Worth Knowing.

That Allcock's are the only genuine porous plasters.

That all other so-called porous plasters are imitations.

That their makers only get them up to sell on the reputation of Allcock's.

That all so-called improvements and new ingredients are humbugs.

That no one has ever made an improvement on Allcock's Porous Plasters.

That when you buy Allcock's Porous Plasters you obtain the best plasters made.

While crossing the Kentucky river at Frankfort, Sept. 21st, in a canoe, five out of eight men were drowned by the capsizing of the craft.

His Loss was Her Gain.

"Well madam," said a fashionable physician to a wealthy lady patient, "if you don't like my prescriptions, perhaps you had better try Parker's Tonic, or some other quack stuff." "You don't mean it, Docter," she answered, "but your advice may be good for all that. Sometimes what you call 'quack stuff' is the best and most scientific medicine, after all." She got a bottle of Parker's Tonic and it cured her of neuralgia arising from disordered stomach and nerves. She told her friends, and now they all keep a doctor at home in the form of Parker's Tonic.

At Titusville, Pa., Sept. 22d, Barnum's tent was blown down on 5000 people, many of them having to cut through the canvas with their pocket knives, almost ruining the tent. Twenty-five persons were injured, but none were killed.

HUMILIATED COWBOYS.

The Lesson That Was Taught Them by an Unobtrusive Tenderfoot.

There have been a great many stories told of the reckless daring and abandon of the cowboy. He is an American production, and at the sound of the word cowboy the mind reverts to some western locality where law and order are unknown, and are supplied by a rude set of conventionalities, the non-observance of which means violence without process of trial. The typical cowboy must be fearless, ready to shoot at a moment's warning, wild in his make-up and language, and ready to perpetrate a joke on a "tenderfoot" at any time.

But there is often considerable braggadocia in the cowboy, and a good illustration of this fact was told a Sentinel reporter by a station agent, who had lived in the west for many years and had been in the employ of various railroads in localities where cowboys were numerous.

"I have seen a good many daring deeds performed and coarse jokes perpetrated by cowboys," said the agent, "but I will tell you of a little incident where the wind was taken out of three cowboys by a determined, fearless 'tenderfoot.' It happened only last spring. I was then station agent and telegraph operator for the Northern Pacific Railroad company at a place near the Montana line. It was not much of a place, as it consisted only of a depot, a house or two, and a saloon.

"One morning a traveling man arrived at the depot by stage from up north somewhere. He had a small sample-case and satchel. He was below medium height and rather slight, but was very neatly dressed and wore a silk hat. He was traveling for a New York jewelry house. He was about an hour early for the train east, and he opened his grip on the platform, took out a brush, and dusted his clothing and shoes. He then drew out an old newspaper, leaned up against the side of the depot with one foot projected in front of the other, and began reading.

"Meanwhile, however, three cowboys had sauntered up to the depot. They all eyed him closely and watched his operations. When he began reading they huddled together and talked awhile in an undertone. Presently one of them—a big six-footer—left the group and began to saunter carelessly about the platform with his head in the air inspecting the posters on the building and the cornice. When he got around where the traveling man stood, he lifted his big brogan and planted it firmly on the jewelry man's foot. No apology was made. The traveling man merely looked up, drew his foot back a moment, then placed it back where it was. The cowboy passed back to the other two. They all chuckled and joined in the low-toned conversation.

"Soon the cowboy started out again on a similar round, gaping at the roof. When he reached the traveling man he tried to bring down his coarse boot on the extended foot. The traveling man jerked his foot back suddenly, and the brogan came down with a thump on the platform. Another conference and chuckling followed. Finally the cowboy set out on the third round. Just as he was about to raise his foot to plant it on that of the traveling man, the latter looked up quickly and said:

"'See here, there is my foot, and it's going to stay there. You step on it, if you want to, but I want to tell you that before you can get off of it I will kill you.'

"Such a volley staggered the cowboy. He looked at the foot, and then at the small possessor, and finally moved off without stepping on it. Another consultation followed.

"The traveling man calmly read his paper a few minutes, and then took from his sachel three apples. He looked at them a moment, and suddenly threw them a few feet into the air and then quickly drew a revolver, fired three shots, splitting each apple into a dozen pieces before they reached the ground. He replaced the cartridges in the empty chambers of the revolver, and returned it to his pocket.

"The cowboys witnessed the act without saying a word, and soon, completely cowed, turned and left the depot. The traveling man told me after they left that he would have killed the three of them had the fellow stepped on his foot again, and I think he would, as he was quick as lightning. He then showed me a medal he carried, which he won as being the most rapid and one of the best shots in New York. The story simply illustrates that there is sometimes a great deal of fictitious valor and daring about the cowboy."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Trying to Save the Property.

"In case of fire carry me out," is painted in large yellow letters on a cumbrous, and valuable-looking chest in a Chatham street shop. The shopkeeper, as if happily conscious of a great achievement on his part, stood back of the center of attraction smoking a full-grown Connecticut cigar. A seedy-piece of humanity came aimlessly along the street and stopped to gaze at the queer-looking letters on the chest. Then, as if propelled forward by some diabolical motive, he rushed into the store and began to lift the chest with all his might.

"Git out there! Vat you want?" excitedly exclaimed the proprietor, rushing forward.

"Why, sir, I's doin' jist as that box said. I seed this sign and that fire—"

"What fire?"

"Why, that fire there," and he pointed to where the cigar of the excited man, which he had dropped in his hurry, was burning a hole in the carpet. With one stamp of his shoe it was extinguished. But the tramp still lingered.

"Moses," again said the proprietor, after glancing at the tramp and then at his clerk, "give that feller one of them cheap cigars—the cheap ones, mind—and then put him out."

The tramp took the cigar and walked out without any unnecessary helping, and with a beaming smile upon his dirt-begrimed face.—N. Y. Tribune.

Three Frigid Facts.

1. Every man knows better what he wants to buy and sell than his government can possibly know for him. He will buy and sell to the best advantage if left free to buy and sell as he chooses.

2. Every one who buys sells at the same time. His purchase is really an exchange. The money he pays for the goods which he buys is really an order given to the seller for other goods. The more buying, the more selling.

3. As regards dealings between inhabitants of the same street, the same village, the same town, the same country, no one thinks of disputing these truths. But they are just as true as regards dealings between inhabitants of different countries.—T. H. Farrer.

Of all the states in the Union, Georgia brings the most fantastic things to the surface. Its very latest oddity is a spider as big as a hickory nut, the long, curved back whereof shows the human face in profile. The face is like that of a man of the Malay type, the brow, the eyes, the nose, the mouth and the chin being imitated with a precision quite startling in its way.

Here, There, Everywhere,

Malaria is found. Even where the disease is not prevalent—where the general condition of the surrounding locality may be favorable to health, isolated cases may exist. Bad drainage, a damp cellar, the escape of sewer gas, the existence of masked cess pools, proximity to stagnant water—all these are frequent causes, and what town or city of any magnitude is free from them. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, whether in town or country, whether the germs of the disease develop either the billious remittent or the intermittent form, or that negative, sluggish, but not less obstinate type called dumb ague, is equally efficient, both as a preventive and a remedy. Bad digestion, billiousness, constipation, a want of vitality, are also remedied by it, and the happiest results may be surely anticipated from its use, for the relief of rheumatism, kidney and bladder complaints, and nervousness, accompanied by a lack of appetite and sound repose. It is botanic and agreeable.

The Voice of the People.

The people, as a whole, seldom make mistakes, and the unanimous voice of praise which comes from those who have used Hood's Sarsaparilla, fully justifies the claims of the proprietors of this great medicine. Indeed, these very claims are based entirely on what the people say Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for them. Read the abundant evidence of its curative powers, and give it a fair, honest trial.

Injunction Sought Against a Lawyer.

In the United States Circuit Court at Boston, Sept. 22d, there was filed a bill in equity to restrain Jerome F. Manning, an attorney at law, from collecting and negotiating a draft received by him in payment of a judgement obtained by the plaintiff upon an Alabama claim. The defendant claims to be entitled to thirty per cent upon the amount received for services. The complainant contends that the defendant is entitled to a much less sum, and he asks for an injunction to restrain the defendant from collecting the draft, and for the appointment of a receiver to collect the money and hold the same during the pendency of these proceedings. The court decreed that an order of notice should issue summoning the defendant to show cause why an injunction should not issue, and issued a restraining order forbidding the payment of the draft meanwhile.

Some of the holders of judgments in this court, in this vicinity, have had an experience with Mr. Manning, who we believe claims that it was largely owing to his efforts that the original act constituting the court, and the present system of remunerating the war premium claimants, were inaugurated. Mr. Manning will probably make a vigorous contest to this suit.

A Strange Case.

A strange case of bigamy has just come to light in Montreal: Thomas Kelshaw, of London, Eng., married a prepossessing girl in 1859. He soon afterward came to Canada alone to better his condition, promising his wife that he would send for her as soon as things looked brighter. After wandering around a few years Kelshaw reached Montreal, and started a hotel. He had in the meantime married a young lady, to whom he represented himself as a single man. He thought it advisable to change his name, and assumed that of Thomas Burdette. He still kept up correspondence with his first wife, and went twice across the ocean to see her. Three years ago he brought her to Montreal with her two children, and placed her in a distant part of the city. Burdette divided his time between the two women. The second wife, however, suspecting something, followed him to the residence of his first wife, where she found her devoted husband in the company of another woman. A scene ensued. Both parties produced their "marriage lines," and Burdette was caught in a trap. The first wife is a lady-like woman, with two handsome children. The police magistrate granted a warrant for the arrest of Burdette on a charge of bigamy.

The social assembly under the auspices of the Nonpareil club, given in Congress hall on Wednesday evening, the 23d inst., was a great success. The company was quite as large as the hall could conveniently accommodate, and included an unusual proportion of accomplished dancers. Everything passed off very pleasantly, and it is anticipated that there will be a repetition at an early date.

Capt. J. Albert Sanborn and wife started on Wednesday of this week for Europe, Capt. Sanborn having accepted the charge of a large quartz mill in the Carpathian mountains of Hungary. The mine is about a two days' horseback ride from Vienna, in which city Mrs. Sanborn will reside.

The tug William H. Clark, Scully master, which arrived at this port from Boston on Tuesday, Sept. 22d, to tow around to Beverly, Mass., the dredging flotilla of Capt. Symonds, sailed for Boston at an early hour on the morning of the 24th, having postponed the attempt to take the tow around until the advent of more settled weather.

The train from the Northern Division (Conway branch) of the Boston & Maine railroad, on its arrival here Wednesday evening, the 23d inst., had a decidedly wintry look, the tops of the cars being covered to the depth of an inch and a half with snow.

Work on the big drain was being pushed more extensively than on any previous day, a larger force of brick-layers having been procured, and gangs of laborers set in at two new points—just above the Portsmouth Machine works, and near the railroad round-house.

Paymaster Stephen Rand, U. S. N., has been ordered to special duty at Annapolis, Oct. 1st.

PASTEBOARD AND POLITICS.

Mr. Editor: The Portsmouth correspondent of the Manchester Union recently saw something which froze his young blood, and made each particular hair to stand on end, like quills upon the fretful porcupine. The terrible object which so harrowed up his soul he thus described:

It is a pasteboard ballot three inches long and one wide, and contains the names of forty-five candidates for various offices. On the back it is prominently marked so as to be most easily identified. This was the kind of ballot the republicans of this city used from 1868 to 1874, and was designed to prevent navy yard workmen from voting anything else than the republican ticket. Spotters watched the polls, and when a navy yard man voted any other kind of ticket his name was put down at once and he was discharged. There is not in any state in the country a more disgraceful reminder of disgraceful things than this ticket.

I remember that pasteboard ballot, well; but the correspondent takes a kind of lawyer's license with the fact when he says it was used from 1868 to 1874 by the republicans of the city. It was used one year only, and in only one ward—"Sebastopol," old ward three. The democrats in that ward had for years succeeded in counterfeiting our ticket, and we thought to circumvent them that year; so we had the pasteboard made expressly for the purpose, the back being colored in a fancy plaid pattern. But the democrats beat us even then. Mr. George W. Guppy, then conducting the Times, procured some fancy cigar boxes of Moses Bros. which closely matched our cardboard, printed tickets looking exactly like ours, only having the names of the democratic candidates thereon instead of the republicans, and then sent them to the polls in charge of their "fine workers," one of whom subsequently boasted to me that they had "worked off" thirteen of their counterfeit tickets on good, square republicans. Bro. Emery should get, to put in his chamber of horrors along with the republican pasteboard ticket, one of the democratic counterfeits.

And while he is about it, he should also procure one of the tickets with which Messrs. Bingham and Sinclair that same year tagged every democratic member of the legislature, to make sure that they voted right, the democrats having carried the house of representatives at that election. There was some fear that quite a number of the democrats would kick over the traces, and bolt the caucus nomination for speaker; so the "regular ticket" was printed on paper of a peculiar green tint, each one numbered on the back, and each member given one whose number was carefully checked off to him on a list, so that in case any one dared vote against the caucus nominee, or to abstain from voting, he would be detected and disciplined. While he is collecting "disgraceful reminders of disgraceful things," he should certainly procure one of those numbered democratic ballots.

But it is not only the pasteboard ballot which weighs heavily on his heart. His feelings are lacerated by the manner in which the navy yard is being conducted, and he wails thereat as follows:

The Union correspondent would like to ask why it is that several of the new democratic foremen on the navy yard can't seem to find a democratic workmen on this side of the river. There are plenty of democrats on this side and on the Maine side who are excellent mechanics. What prevents their having work? Republicans get work and democrats don't. The pity of it is that many of these republicans are men who have been prominent in past years in false registering of voters, bulldozing of voters, and the disgraceful pasteboard ballot business of '72 and '73.

When the correspondent lets himself be troubled over a little thing like that, it is evident that in politics he is similar to another great man who knew it all, and who sprang into world-wide prominence a few years ago,—"he means well, but he don't know." I am aware that some of the "new democratic foremen" are quite new as democrats, and that when they were republican foremen, not many years ago, they were noted for the venomous vim with which they pursued the democracy; but they have been democrats ever since they lost their fat jobs under the republican rule, and the Union man must acknowledge the propriety of reappointing them; that's what they became democrats for. It has been stated in the papers, and I have not seen it denied, that there is not a single one of the "new democratic foremen" but has voted the republican, greenback, or other anti-democratic ticket, inside of twenty years past.

As to democratic workmen being given jobs on the yard,—what need of it? The solid old democrats who have always voted the ticket through thick and thin are not the ones who need to be conciliated; they will keep right on voting it, anyway; but a judicious distribution of patronage among shaky and disgruntled republicans, and a moderate recognition of the strong republican element, may do much toward strengthening the party.

RAILROAD NOTES.

The Boston & Maine railroad will on Saturday run an excursion from this city to Centre Harbor, on Lake Winnipesaukie, by rail and steamer, at $1.50 for the round trip. See advertisement.

The Boston Journal says: "The new management of the Worcester, Nashua & Rochester railroad are doing remarkably well. During the past year, seventeen miles of iron have been replaced with steel. Four new locomotives at a cost of $28,000, and half the cost of the Lancaster road, some $26,000, have been paid for without increasing the construction account; and besides the cost of still additional improvements, the year's net earnings will show a handsome surplus after the recent semi-annual dividend of 1 1-2 per cent has been paid."

That all other so-called porous plasters are imitations.

That no one has ever made an improvement on Allcock's Porous Plasters.

That when you buy Allcock's Porous Plasters you obtain the best plasters made.

DAVID AND GOLIATH.

Goliath was originally the giant in a side show in Gath, at $13 a week, but when the war broke out he enlisted in the army of the Philistines more for the bounty than anything else. This life seemed to hit him about right, for Goliath was naturally lazy and trifling. Of course I'm telling you this in my own language, but I'm giving it to you straight.

When the army of Israel camped over in the valley of Elah, it looked pretty squally for Saul and he felt like sending in his resignation.

Every morning after breakfast, Goliath dressed in his brass plug hat and his iron corset and copper clothes, would sail out and poke fun at Saul and his home guards.

Goliath was a large, husky yahoo from the headwaters of the Chug and had a hand on him like a horse block. He was muscled up in good shape, too. When he began on a man, it meant six months in the hospital with careful nursing, and if Goliath felt hurt and grieved about something a man had said about him and took the man aside to have a little talk about it, the man's widow applied right off for the life insurance. In this way Goliath used to be respected very much around Gath.

So every day he would come out on the mesa and sass the armies of Israel and tell Saul that if he had a full-grown man who had any sand, he would like to have him come over and get himself measured for a pair of wings. Day after day he would walk out with his bomb-proof clothes on and cordially invite the Israelites to come over one at a time and let him paralyze'em. And Saul, on behalf of his people, declined the invitation with thanks. He told Goliath that while he would be glad to meet him for a little soft-glove tete-a-tete, he would have to decline any meeting on a basis of open hostility. This caused the campaign to drag and the daily papers in Israel began to criticise Saul and to ask why he did not come home and hoe corn instead of fooling away his time on the Philistines.

Just then David came down from his father's sheep ranch on Independence mountain, over against Bethlehem, Judah, on the old California trail, to see how the war was progressing. He wanted to take a trip to some place where there would be no danger of bodily harm, so his parents thought it would be safer perhaps for him to go down to the front "where war waged its wild desolation, and threatened our land to destroy." They told him to go down where the two armies were engaged in open hostilities and they would feel perfectly easy about him; but they cautioned him not to wander away from the army into the woods and get lost.

So David went over to hear Goliath speak his piece. Every morning for eighty days the dime museum giant came, and opened court, requesting the Israelites to come over and meet a fate worse than death. But the Israelites preferred death by general debility and old age. They had relations at home on whom they were dependent.

Just as David got to the front, Goliath came out and spoke with a loud voice and cried out and defied the armies of Israel, and Saul's army scattered and fell over each other trying to get into the woods, and behold there were not trees enough for all the soldiers of the armies of Israel to climb.

And David was disgusted and told Saul that he would like to go out and fight the Philistine if some courageous Israelite would come along and hold his coat for him. Every body laughed at David, and his brothers especially, as soon as they had stopped running and got behind a tree and recovered their breath, began to ridicule David. But David insisted on it and told Saul that one time when a mountain lion and a grizzly bear came and carried off several of his father's sheep he ran after them and overtook them, and after he had knocked the lion silly with his fist, he ran his hand down the bear's throat and turned him wrong side out. The king said, "Well, did you really do that? If you did, I've a good notion to give you the freedom of the Philistine camp, and if you will bring me Goliath's scalp, stretched on a shingle, I will give you all the money you want and my only daughter, for I'd just as soon tell you in confidence, that this side-show giant is getting to be a perfect eyesore to me, and between you and me, I think he is overdoing this thing and making a nuisance of himself."

Do David said he would go, and Saul dressed him up in a railroad iron overcoat but the boy couldn't handle it. He took off the fire and burglar proof overcoat and filled his pockets full of rocks and sailed in.

When Goliath came out he turned his nose up at David and asked him if his mother knew he was out. He talked mean to David and finally told him to come over and he would feed him to the coyotes.

Then David in a gentlemanly way told Goliath that he didn't claim to be much of a talker in public, but that he relied on the righteousness of his cause. He came not with swords and banners and torchlight processions, but he believed he was right and came there to prove it. He was no public speaker, he said, but he thought this thing had gone about far enough. He then surprised Goliath with a moss agate behind the ear. The gentleman from Gath fell to the earth with a "sickening thud" and David cut his head off with the giant's own sword. From these injuries Goliath never fully recovered, and finally deceased.

Then the men of Israel and Judah rose up and whooped with a loud voice and pursued their enemies, and they fed the fowls of the air with Philistine meat for forty days, and David became solid with the king and made money and wore his good clothes every day. Wherever he went he was regarded as a great success, and all the giants were perfectly friendly toward him.—Bill Nye, in St. Paul Herald.

"Vera Good-a Monka."

A lively little monkey was among the prisoners at the Jefferson market police court. It and its master, Pasquale Diccacco, and a big hand-organ had been arrested by Policeman Crimmion for blocking up the sidewalk in Clinton place. When Justice Welde asked the Italian what he had to say he replied:

"O! Chemia good monka; make no trouble, no harms anabodie—see!" and the grinder loosed the string on the monkey's neck. Chemia jumped on the desk and took off her hat to the justice. But unfortunately, somebody turned the crank of the organ, and the judicial face darkened.

"Two dollars fine," he cried. The grinder pulled Chemia back with a jerk and began to praise her good points. It was no use, and he was led to Clerk Morgan, who took down the pedigree of the monkey first. The Italian grinned and the pet chattered as he said:

"Name-a Chemia; born Italia; ten year-a married; no read, no write; one baby, two dead; vera good-a monka."

Then the two were taken to jail, but Stenographer Soltman, who had wickedly played the organ in court, confessed, and Chemia and her master were released.—N. Y. Herald.

Here, There, Everywhere.

Malaria is found. Even where the disease is not prevalent—where the general condition of the surrounding locality may be favorable to health, isolated cases may exist. Bad drainage, a damp cellar, the escape of sewer gas, the existence of masked cess pools, proximity to stagnant water—all these are frequent causes, and what town or city of any magnitude is free from them. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, whether in town or country, whether the germs of the disease develop either the malignant or the intermittent form, or that negative, sluggish, but not less obstinate type called dumb ague, is equally efficient, both as a preventive and a remedy. Bad digestion, biliousness, constipation, a want of vitality, are also remedied by it, and the happiest results may be surely anticipated from its use, for the relief of rheumatism, kidney and bladder complaints, and nervousness, accompanied by a lack of appetite and sound repose. It is botanic and agreeable.

—A rich Chicago man rashly agreed to pay his daughter a dollar for every cent she earned in a spinning-mill, and now her gross income is $60 a day. The plucky girl deserves it.

—There is considerable dissimilarity between doctors of the allopathic, homœopathic and eclectic schools, but when it comes to making out the bills all the lines meet.

Two Doses

of ATHLOPHOROS cured my wife of acute neuralgia. Instead of being laid up for two or three days as usual, it was all over in three hours and she has not had an attack since."—JOHN AUGER, 12 Howe Street, New Haven, Conn.

Some ATHLOPHOROS will not act as quickly as others, but it will act in this case, but it is sure and the more severe the pain the more quickly it will act. There is no disease more common and more intensely painful than neuralgia. Ladies particularly are subject to headaches of neuralgic origin. Neuralgia in any form can be surely cured. Athlophoros is absolutely safe and absolutely sure. Thousands who have suffered intensely with neuralgia and been cured by the use of Athlophoros prove the truth of this statement. Is it not worth a trial in your case?

Ask your druggist for Athlophoros. If you cannot get it of him we will send it express paid on receipt of regular price—$1.00 per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed.

New York Democratic Convention.

The democratic state convention of New York, at Saratoga on Sept. 24th, nominated David B. Hill for governor,—a decided victory for Tammany. The "county democracy" have gone home to New York feeling very sore, and the Tammany hall men are correspondingly elated.

The Ocean Yacht Race.

The Genesta rounded the Sandy Hook lightship at nineteen minutes past five o'clock, Sept. 23d, in a gale of wind and heavy sea, having made the trip around the Brenton's Reef lightship and back, about 300 miles, in forty-eight hours and seven minutes, winning the Bennett challenge cup, the American schooner yacht Dauntless not being in sight at the finish. The last time the Genesta sighted her competitor was twenty miles from Brenton's reef, when the cutter was on the home stretch, and the schooner still had twenty miles to go before turning.

The cutter crossed the winning line under a small jib, fore staysail and three-reefed mainsail. Her big jib was blown away during the race, and several of her seamen were injured, one seriously, by the heavy seas which swept over her; one man barely escaped being washed overboard, in which case he could not have been rescued.

"All Sold Out."

BOSTON, September 25.—"All sold out" was the cry of the newsdealers last Sunday morning at an early hour, when any one called for a Boston Sunday Globe. Disappointed people should order in advance for next Sunday. The latest illustrated fashions for ladies, a defence of Boston and New England girls against the claim that they are blue-stockings and not handsome, Howard's New York letter, Bill Nye's fun, etc., etc., will be given. The Sunday Globe to-morrow will be bursting with good things.

The dry-dock at the navy yard was hauled out to the piers on Thursday, Sept. 24th, in readiness for sinking to take up the U. S. S. Galena.

Base ball at the Plains this afternoon, between the Clippers of Exeter and the Red Stockings.

Work was commenced Friday on the river end of the sewer, on the northerly side of Market street. The outlet of the sewer seems to have been diverted from the original plan, and instead of running alongside of Sise's wharf, turns to the southward and will run alongside the building occupied by J. L. O. Coleman.

The high school boys are endeavoring to secure the establishing of a gymnasium in the upper story of the high school building, for the use of the pupils.

A coal train consisting of thirteen long cars and fourteen short ones, carrying over 250 tons of coal, and drawn by two locomotives, started eastward from this city over the Boston & Maine railroad Friday forenoon.

The directors of the Cottage Hospital gratefully acknowledge the donation of an iron bedstead, spring and bed, from Mrs. E. C. Tilton; and two pairs of blankets, one dozen towels and sixteen yards of sheeting from Miss Larkin.

All the berths at the Eastern railroad wharf at Noble's Island were taken up on Friday by vessels engaged in discharging, and one or two other vessels were waiting for chances. The Concord railroad wharf was bare of vessels on Friday, the last one having left on Friday morning; it is some months since this wharf was entirely deserted before.

The fishing schooner Agnes E. Downs, Capt. Levi Downs, was in the lower harbor on Thursday last, awaiting favorable weather before proceeding to further operations. She has carried into Boston a number of large fares of mackerel, which were sold at remunerative prices.

The sloop Stephen Orr, Aderton master, and schooners Lillie and Estella, arrived from Boston on Friday, light, and proceeded up river to load bricks. The schooners J. Chester Wood, Triton, Satellite and Geld Hunter arrived at Boston on Friday from this port, with loads.

The schooner Rose Esterbrook was on Friday lying at the navy yard, engaged in discharging 200 tons of coal for the department of construction and repair; the balance of her cargo of 1017 tons will be put out at the Concord railroad wharf.

Mr. Washington Stott left this city on Tuesday of this week for Lowell, Mass., from which place he was to start with Ex-Mayor Donovan of Lowell on an extended tour through New York, West Virginia and Pennsylvania, visiting Washington, D. C., on the way. It is reported that Mr. Stott is about engaging in telegraphy.

A man from Biddeford, Me., who was appointed to take the place of Mr. Smith, the machinist in the steam fire engine house at the navy yard, proving to be no machinist at all, was "promoted" backward to be a fireman. To make room for him, Mr. Levi L. Goodrich of Kittery, a war veteran, was bounced.

SCROFULA.

A remedy that can destroy the germs of scrofula, and when once settled has the power to root it out, must be appreciated by those afflicted. The remarkable cures of young children and the more wonderful cures of those of middle age and late in life, as illustrated by our printed testimonials, prove HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA to be a reliable remedy, containing remedial agents which do positively cure scrofula and eradicate it from the blood.

FARMER, N. H., Jan. 21, 1879.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.: Gentlemen—For ten years previous to the early part of 1877 I had been a constant sufferer from scrofulous ulcers or sores, which had finally reduced me to a helpless condition, as described in my letter to you in September of that year. The continued excellent health which enables me to keep house for my aged father and to enjoy life, keeps alive my intense personal interest in HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA, and I cannot refrain from expressing my gratitude for the permanent cure this wonderful medicine effected in my case nearly two years ago, while living in Lowell, when all my physicians gave me up as being in an incurable condition. One thing before I close. I have recommended your Sarsaparilla to hundreds, and I think more than a thousand cases, and my faith in its invincibility in curing scrofula has become absolute by the wonderful cures it has effected aside from my own. I trust you will not be slow in making the merits of HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA known everywhere, for it is a duty you owe to mankind. With best wishes I remain very truly yours,

SARAH C. WHITTIER

MISS C. BLUNT has reopened her School for Children at No. 6 Chestnut Street.

We find the following, which is of considerable local interest, in the Boston Journal of Sept. 23d: "The United States Circuit court, Justice Colt, having decided against the city of Boston in the suit brought by Marcus P. Norton et al. for infringement on the patent of the Knibbs valve as used on fire engines, an award of $1000 has been made to the plaintiffs. The latter, however, accept the amount with the understanding that it shall not be regarded as a basis of estimate for damages claimed in similar cases. A New York paper states that throughout the various cities there are about 5000 cases on which claims may be made."

Mr. Wm. H. Dean of Kittery is reported to have joined the U. S. S. Galena as paymaster's yeoman.

For New England to-day:—

Fair, slightly warmer weather, light and variable winds, nearly stationary barometer.

"WANTS."

Among the "wants" of the Cottage Hospital, soon to be opened, may be mentioned:

Sheets (for single beds) and pillow-cases;
Blankets, (gray preferred;)
Thin white spreads;
Squares of old quilts to lay over mattresses;
Towels (of all kinds,) napkins;
Underwear (made large;)
House thermometers;
Table and kitchen ware;
Brushes, soaps, old linen, etc.

Large supplies of the above being needed, no one need refrain from giving any article because others may have given the same. The directors earnestly solicit the aid of every one charitably inclined. Contributions of money will be most gratefully received, and even the smallest offerings will be appreciated. A great many people who can give no more, withhold their twenty-five cents because the sum is "so little." But quarters soon mount up to dollars, and it is confidently hoped that they will not be withheld. Supplies may be sent to the hospital, No. 51 Court street, or to the Chase Home, two doors above, should the hospital be closed at the time; and money may be sent to Mrs. Daniel Marcy, Pleasant street, or to Mrs. Dr. May, Middle street.

RAILROAD HEARING.

The railroad hearing by the State Railroad Commissioners — Messrs. O. C. Moore of Nashua, Edward B. S. Sanborn of Franklin, and Edward J. Tenney of Claremont, on the petition of the Boston & Maine railroad, for an extension of the time for obstructing the Vaughan street crossing, took place at the office of Frink and Batchelder Friday forenoon. There were present, representing the railroad, Messrs. D. W. Sanborn and W. T. Perkins who stated the case and made an explanation of the petition of the railroad.

There were present to protest against the granting of the petition, representing the citizens, Messrs. John G. Moses, William Ward, Daniel Littlefield, J. Horace Kent, C. Dwight Hanscom and John E. Milton. C. Dwight Hanscom spoke first, saying that he had not been long detained for some months, but had seen the time when he had waited longer than five minutes. He said he had felt very mad about it sometimes. He suggested as a remedy that on the arrival of each train the train be broken open, making a passage way on the crossing for teams. He said he did not remember of any inconvenience this summer. He complained most of the freight trains in the cold winter evenings. He didn't believe the time should be extended.

Capt. J. G. Moses said that Mr. Hanscom had expressed his views exactly, and he did not care to say anything.

J. Horace Kent, who happened in the room on other business while the hearing was going on, said he had never been detained but once, but could appreciate the remarks of Mr. Hanscom. He said this was the only road out of the city, in that direction, and had no doubt that some people were inconvenienced by the delay of trains on the crossings. He said that he did not see how the road could do its business in this city without obstructing the street crossing, more or less. He said that the crossing had been much improved by the straightening of Vaughan street, and said that the travel over Noble's island would be much facilitated by a bridge from Vaughan street to the island, which could be built at a small expense.

William Ward said he had been going over the crossing in question from three to six times daily for 18 years, and he had often been detained as long as 15 minutes. He didn't believe the time should be extended; the railroad has no regard for the law, and he said the delays are bad enough now, when the law says the crossing shall not be impeded more than 2 minutes, and he didn't know what would become of the people if the time was extended to five. He said the city had several times tried to get the railroad to do something but had never yet been able.

There was no great amount of interest taken in the hearing, and only those citizens mentioned above were present. We believe the general opinion is that the disadvantages of delay are more than counterbalanced by the conveniences offered by the railroads. There seems to be a desire on the part of the management of the railroad to accommodate the citizens of our city as far as possible, but they find that the limit of two minutes allowed them by law is too short in which to do their business in this city. During this summer they have taken the trouble to divide all trains on the crossing, (although at considerable inconvenience), to accommodate the citizens.

The railroad commissioners were anxious to hear both sides of the question, so as to act intelligently in the matter, and at the conclusion of the hearing repaired to the vicinity of the crossing to look the ground over. No decision was rendered. —Times.

GRANITE STATE INS. CO.

The adjourned meeting of the directors of the Granite State Insurance Company was held at the office of Hon. Frank Jones Friday forenoon at 11 o'clock. The organization of the company was perfected by the election of the following officers:—President, Frank Jones; Vice President, J. W. Sanborn, of Wakefield; Secretary, A. F. Howard; Treasurer, John Laighton; Executive Committee, E. H. Winchester; E. H. Rollins, of Concord; C. H. Sawyer, of Dover.

Charles A. Sinclair was elected to the directory, in place of Hon. Daniel Marcy, declined. One-half of the capital—$100,000—was subscribed on the spot, and a few of the directors stood ready to subscribe the balance, but it was thought best to keep the stock books open a few days longer, as it is deemed advisable that the subscriptions should come from different portions of the state.

The meeting adjourned for one week, when blanks will be ready and all arrangements for business completed.

The above refers to Vermont. But we have economy worth two of that. Collector Hanscom, of Portsmouth, has abolished the office of deputy collector and inspector here in Dover, and saved the government $200 per annum. Big thing. —Dover Democrat.

CHOLERA CRAMPS CHILLS

"An ounce of prevention," that is, a dose of SANFORD'S GINGER, "is worth a pound of cure," which, of course, means a doctor. It is absolutely certain that Cholera may be prevented, and, in the majority of cases, successfully treated, with SANFORD'S GINGER, a powerful stimulant, composed of Imported Ginger, choice Aromatics, and the best French Brandy; convenient, speedy and safe; sure to check summer complaint, prevent Indigestion, destroy disease germs in water drank, restore the circulation when suspended by a chill, and ward off malarial, contagious, and epidemic influences.

Avoid mercenary dealers who for a few cents extra profit try to force upon you their own or others' when you call for

Things Worth Knowing.

That Allcock's are the only genuine porous plasters.

That all other so-called porous plasters are imitations.

That their makers only get them up to sell on the reputation of Allcock's.

That all so-called improvements and new ingredients are humbugs.

That no one has ever made an improvement on Allcock's Porous Plasters.

That when you buy Allcock's Porous Plasters you obtain the best plasters made.

They Will Surely Find You.

They are looking for you everywhere. Drafts of air in unexpected places, going from hot rooms to cold ones, carelessness in changing clothing—in short anything which ends in a "common cold in the head," Unless arrested this kind of cold becomes seated in the mucous membrane of the head. Then it is catarrh. In any and all its stages this disease always yields to Ely's Cream Balm. Applied to the nostrils with the finger. Safe, agreeable, certain. Price fifty cents.

—A subscriber asks an exchange "When is the best time to marry?" Mr. Enpeque says the best time for such a ceremony is on the 31st of February.

Arrested!

Charles A. Dales was arrested last evening for stealing from the drug store of Shiefman a bottle of Sulphur Bitters. Before the court this morning, upon being asked why he should steal, he stated that his mother was troubled with rheumatism, and that it was the only medicine that helped her, and being out of money and work was the cause of his stealing. As this was his first offence he was put on probation.—Newark News.

—If you will notice, you will find that the man who affirms that this world is a fraud and a humbug does what he can to make it so.

Rev. Benjamin Szold, D. D., Rabbi of Oheb Shalom Congregation, Baltimore, Maryland, was cured of severe hoarseness just before entering the Synagogue by Red Star Cough Cure. The effect, he says, was magical.

JOB OFFICE.

THE JOB PRINTING business is conducted in the same office by MR. RICHARD I. WALDEN, who keeps on hand a large and well-selected stock of all materials required in his line. Give him a trial and you will be more than pleased.

"So far, so good," said the boy, after eating the stolen tart. After reviewing the thousands and tens of thousands of colds and coughs that have been conquered by Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup we can readily say, so far, so good.

—Cows in Key West are labelled with the names of persons for whom their milk is exclusively kept.

The blood would run—For five years I was a great sufferer from Catarrh. My nostrils were so sensitive I could not bear the least bit of dust; at times so bad the blood would run, and at night I could hardly breathe. After trying many things without benefit I used Ely's Cream Balm. I am a living witness of its efficacy. Peter Bruce, Farmer, Ithaca, N. Y. Easy to use, price 50 cents.

—"They didn't pick that stuff quick enough, did they, mamma!" asked a little boy as he passed a grocery where several casks of limburger were taking a breathing spell outside.

Small Doses Cure.

During the past fifty years the proprietors of Brandreth's Pills have received thousands of voluntary testimonials of the wonderful cures effected by these Pills. They not only cure rheumatism, dyspepsia, piles, diarrhœa, liver complaint and all fevers, but greatly prolong the human life. One or two at night, on an empty stomach, for a week or two is sufficient.

—The editor of the Redding (Cal.) Independent has to apologize. He hung his ink-roller out to dry, when an Indian and his squaw and pappoose came along and made a meal out of it, and his paper couldn't appear on time.

We recommend Carter's Iron Pills to every woman who is weak, nervous and discouraged; particularly those who have thin, pale lips, cold hands and feet, and who are without strength or ambition. These are the cases for which Carter's Iron Pills are specially prepared, and this class cannot use them without benefit. Valuable for men also. In metal boxes, at 50 cents. Sold by druggists or sent by mail. See advertisement elsewhere.

—A few more weeks and readers of city newspapers will enjoy a surcease of such startling information as "Bangs hit Knox for three bases. Smith caught Ferguson's fly and the Podunk players scored a run on a three-bagger by Simpson."

Prompt relief in sick headache, dizziness, nausea, constipation, pain in the side, etc., guaranteed to those using Carter's Little Liver Pills. One pill a dose. 25 cents.

—The Novoe Vremla of St. Petersburg mentions the arrival of "the new minister of the United States, Sir Lothrop."

I Will Never!

Allow myself to suffer again what I have suffered for the last year. That vile disease, dyspepsia, gave me no comfort. I could not eat nor enjoy anything. The doctors amounted to nothing; nothing seemed to relieve me, until I used a bottle of Sulphur Bitters. Four bottles made me well.—Joseph Batchelder, master of schooner C. A. Baker.

—It was the summer concert Thomas cat who remarked: "If I can sing the midnight songs for the people, I do not care who gets the applause."

Better than She Expected.

"Your letter received. In reply I am happy to say that Parker's Hair Balsam did much more for me than you said it would, or than I expected. My hair has not only stopped falling out, but the bald spots are all covered, and all my hair has grown thicker, softer and more lively than it was before my sickness a year ago. Thank you again and again." Extract from letters of Mrs. R. W. T., West Fifty-third street, New York.

—One hundred and fifty inventions relative to roller skates have been patented since January 1st, but the still existing desideratum is a patent floor that will not hurt when you fall down on it.

Ruptures radically cured, also pile tumors and fistulas. Pamphlet of particulars, two letter stamps. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

—"Does he keep the golden rule? Does he love his enemies?" "Oh, he is way ahead of the golden rule." "How is that?" "Why, he not only loves his enemies, but he hates his friends."

"I have no appetite," complains many a sufferer. Hood's Sarsaparilla gives an appetite and enables the stomach to perform its duty.

—Little Flossy was taken into the country last summer, where she was furnished with a candlestick for her bedroom. She had never seen this form of illuminator before, and she immediately exclaimed: "Oh, mamma! See the little gas with a handle."

An English Caricaturist.

One of the most famous artists of the staff of Punch, Mr. Harry Furniss, was asked: "Do you find the prominent statesmen easy to caricature as a rule?"

"Some of them. For instance, Sir Charles Dilke, Sir William Harcourt, Sir Drummond Wolff, Lord Salisbury and Lord Randolph Churchill are easy to catch. Mr. Chamberlain's mouth is a difficulty, but this is compensated by his eyeglasses. Mr. Gladstone's face is good when taken in a severe aspect, but when you try to catch his smiles the likeness goes. Lord Beaconsfield was the best subject for caricature we ever had. Among other splendid subjects of the past were Lord Palmerston, Sir Robert Peel, Lord Brougham, and Lord John Russell. Members of Parliament should abstain, like actors, from growing beards, otherwise they spoil themselves for being 'made up' by the caricaturists, as old women, little boys, and other favorite characters. Now, Lord Hartington is always Hartington. It is impossible to transform him into any other character. Parnell's appearance is constantly changing. One week he will appear with shaggy beard and unshorn locks, the next all trim and spruce, so that the caricaturist must be constantly on the qui vive. The safer plan is to take a man's type and stick to it. Bradlaugh is a favorite subject of mine, and in consequence of my caricatures of him, it has more than once been hinted to me that I have been in danger of a kicking from one or other of his admirers."

"Do any of the members object to being caricatured?"

"No. When Mr. Gladstone went to Cannes for his health, the only paper he had sent to him was Punch, and favorite cartoons are frequently framed and preserved in honored places by the subjects of them. Lord Randolph Churchill has one of Tenniel's hanging in his room, which shows him as a clown taking the gun of leadership from Sir Stafford Northcote as pantaloon, to bring down Gladstone represented as a crowing cock. Sir William Harcourt, I believe, does not like being made fun of, and he was angry about my drawing in Punch, showing a house composed of none but Harcourt, to which Lord Salisbury referred in one of his speeches. I invented Gladstone's collars which have become proverbial. Through my continually caricaturing Ashmead Bartlett's old trousers, he was obliged to buy a new pair. Mr. Broadhurst, the workingmen's member, was once recognized at a public meeting only by his extra thick boots as caricatured in Punch. The Sergeant-at-Arms has paid me the compliment of pasting some of my black-beetle sketches of himself on the walls of his private room in the House. This room, by the way, is like a little club, which certain members have the right of using. No politics are allowed to be discussed there, but good fellowship prevails, and good stories and excellent whisky make it a very pleasant retiring ground. The whisky is kept in huge decanters bearing the name of the donor, and often when the Irish members have been turned out of the House by the Sergeant-at-Arms, they have adjourned to this room to talk over matters convivially."—American Register.

Washington Irving and John Murray.

In a preface to the Sketch-Book, written long afterward, Irving told its history up to the date of its publication by Murray, "and from that hour," he added, "Murray became my publisher, conducting himself in all his dealings with that free, open, and liberal spirit which had obtained for him the well-merited appellation of the Prince of Publishers." Murray was not behind hand in recognizing by word as well as deed the mistake he had made in declining the Sketch-book. In one letter, after urging Irving to drop his pseudonym and give his name to the world, he writes, "I am convinced I did not half know you, and esteeming you as I did, certainly my esteem is doubled by my better knowledge of you." For Bracebridge Hall, without seeing it in MS., Murray signed a check for 1,000 guineas, and with similar trustfulness gave 1,500 for the uninspected Tales of a Traveler. From first to last Irving was paid by the house of Murray for his prose something like ten thousand pounds. For the Life of Columbus he received £3,150 from Murray, who was satisfied as a publisher with its sale, and as a lover of good literature with its contents, saying of it and its author, "It is beautiful, beautiful, the best thing he has ever written." The Life of Columbus appeared in 1828, and in the autumn of that year Murray was projecting, for at least the third time in his career, and always without practical result, the establishment of a monthly magazine, to be purely literary and scientific, and free from any party or political bias. It was not to an Englishman, but to the American Washington Irving, that Murray offered the editorship of the projected periodical, with a salary of £1,000 pounds a year (which would be a high one even in these days), besides payment for whatever he might contribute of his own to it. Irving declined the offer on the patriotic ground that to accept it would entail his permanent absence from the United States, which he did at last, after a long absence, revisit, a famous and feted man. From the same love of country he almost always refused Murray's frequent invitations to contribute to the Quarterly Review. The liberal offer of a hundred guineas an article could not overcome his repugnance to contribute to a periodical which had systematically ridiculed and reviled the United States and its citizens. Twice only during his long connection with the house of Murray did he contribute to the Quarterly.—F. Espinasse, in Harper's Magazine for September.

This astute proverb comes from India: "It must always be the women who are in the wrong, and not the men, because men have reserved to themselves the right to decide what is right and what wrong."

Oscar Wilde wanted to leave his son and heir unnamed until the child should be old enough to choose a name for himself, but learned that in order to have the babe christened a name was imperatively required.

A Cabbage which had arrived at Respectable Dimensions began bragging about the size of its head, when a Boss Watermelon raised its Voice in Dispute. The Hubbard Squash chimed in for first place, and a Pumpkin Roared out that it wouldn't play Second Fiddle to no Vegetable on earth. They were having it hot and heavy, when along came a Philosopher, and he was asked to decide which had the Largest Head. "As to the Head," he replied, "that is a matter to be settled by a Tape line. Any of you measure ten times the size of this little Onion, but, when you come down to what's under the Cranium that's a—ah—a—ah—different thing, and you will please lend me a Handkerchief while I Weep." Moral—He who judges a man by the Size of his Head, will find him all Hat as often as all Brains.—Detroit Free Press.

BILIOUSNESS.

Bilious symptoms invariably arise from indigestion, such as furred tongue, vomiting of bile, giddiness, sick headache, irregular bowels. The liver secretes the bile and acts like a filter or sieve, to cleanse impurities of the blood. By irregularity in its action or suspensions of its functions, the bile is liable to overflow into the blood, causing jaundice, sallow complexion, yellow eyes, bilious diarrhœa, a languid, weary feeling and many other distressing symptoms. Biliousness may be properly termed an affection of the liver, and can be thoroughly cured by the grand regulator of the liver and biliary organs, BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS. Act upon the stomach, bowels and liver, making healthy bile and pure blood, and opens the culverts and sluiceways for the outlet of disease. Sold everywhere and guaranteed to cure.

The Only

medicine I ever found that helped me at all is ATHLOPHOROS, and I have not had the Rheumatism since I took it."—EDWIN SEARS, Provincetown, Mass.

A professor in a medical college once said to his class "put your hand in a vice, turn the screw until the pain is all you can bear, and that's rheumatism: turn the screw once more, and that's neuralgia—and gentlemen, the medical profession knows no cure for either." That was before the discovery of ATHLOPHOROS which does and will cure RHEUMATISM and NEURALGIA quickly cure both rheumatism and neuralgia, and many physicians use it regularly—frankly admitting that they can prescribe no more effective remedy.

Many persons have tried so many so-called remedies, without benefit, that they have no faith to try more, but it is worth your while to try Athlophoros, if you have any doubts as to its value write for names of parties in your own State who have been cured by its use.

Ask your druggist for Athlophoros. If you cannot get it of him we will send it express paid on receipt of regular price—$1.00 per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed.

I have been a great sufferer from rheumatism for the last three years. I was induced to try a bottle of Athlophoros. I have since taken six and can now attend to my business and consider myself a well man. E. Parkhurst, Woonsocket, R. I.

The reunion of the surviving members of the 12th New Hampship regiment of war volunteers took place at Gilmanton last Friday; it was the eighteenth annual gathering, and 1000 people were present.

There is some delay in transferring the Morning Star establishment from Dover to the new office in Boston. It appears that early last week some changes in the new building were decided on, and consequently the first issue of the paper to be published in Boston will be open on the 16th of October.

The New York Times, the leading mugwump paper in the Cleveland-Blaine campaign, has come out in the strongest style in favor of the republican state ticket in New York, and against Hill, Tammany and the Flower-barrel.

G. O. T.

Is an abbreviation that a great many New England dealers understand. G. O. Taylor Old Bourbon has been sold and bottled by Chester H. Graves & Sons, Boston, for more than ten years, and it's no secret that the demand for it increases with each year. G. O. Taylor Pure Rye is equally reliable, and either, or both, can be obtained from druggists or grocers generally.

The Terrible Drain

Which scrofula has upon the system must be arrested, and the blood must be purified, or serious consequences will ensue. For purifying and vitalizing effects, Hood's Sarsaparilla has been found superior to any other preparation. It expels every trace of impurity from the blood, and bestows new life and vigor upon every function of the body, enabling it to entirely overcome disease.

Gov. Hill's Renomination.

The nomination of Mr. Hill by the democratic convention in New York state is regarded as a significant hint to Mr. Cleveland that if the civil service reformers, who helped elect him in order to defeat Mr. Blaine, are to be regarded by the president as of sufficient political consequence to warrant him in ignoring the necessity of carrying out that fundamental principle of the party, "to the victors belong the spoils," then the sooner the voting material of the unterrified is marshalled by Tammany and takes a position on the "hill" to rake the president's position, the earlier will the Buffalo statesman discover that it is the democratic party and not the predecessor of Gov. Hill now filling the office of president. The democracy of New York will have a pastime in their efforts to convince Grover which is the more powerful, the party or the president.

Wants a Long Race.

A despatch of Sept. 25th, from New York, says: "The yacht Dauntless is undergoing slight repairs to fit her for the race over the Cape May course tomorrow. Her owner, Caldwell H. Colt, is deeply chagrined over the poor showing his yacht made against the Genesta in the Brenton's Reef race, and comes out with an offer to wager $10,000 that the Dauntless can beat any yacht here or abroad in an ocean race from here to Europe, or vice versa, the Genesta preferred. Mr. Colt accounts for the defeat of the Dauntless by the ill-luck she had in not catching a good breeze at the start. She lost seven or eight hours through squalls, which the Genesta escaped, considerable of which she regained in her return sailing. With a strong wind and a heavy sea to-morrow, Mr. Colt expects to prove the superiority of his yacht over the Genesta."

Delights of the Ocean.

The British brig Erma arrived at Boston on Friday last from Fayal, Azores islands, with 414 passengers. Shortly after leaving Fayal she experienced a heavy westerly gale lasting forty-eight hours, during which her topsail yards and some of her sails were carried away. When seventy miles east of Cape Cod, Sept. 23d, with a heavy northeast gale blowing and the weather very thick, she collided with an unknown schooner. The passengers were considerably frightened until assured by the officers and crew that the vessel was all right. When examination of the vessel was made, it was found that her flying jibboom had been carried away, her catheads broken, her jibs torn and her cutwater damaged.

The sloop yacht Sagitta, of the American yacht club's fleet, was driven ashore at Far Rockaway, Long island, in the gale on the morning of Sept. 23d, and became a wreck; her crew of four men were rescued by the life-saving service boat. She was being taken from New York to Fire island, to lie up for the winter, when her reefed mainsail was split, and she drifted ashore. She was sixty feet long and eighteen wide.

A man calling himself M. W. Noremac was arrested Friday at the postoffice in Boston, on a charge of using the mails for fraudulent purposes. It is alleged that Noremac tried to play the old trick of offering counterfeit money for sale at $20 for $100. Noremac says he came to Boston from Florida two weeks ago. Commissioner Hallett held him in $1000 for examination. The man's real name is said to be Cameron.

Rudolph Meyer, a German, foreman of the Danvers bleachery in Peabody, Mass., committed suicide by shooting himself through the heart, at the Juniper house, Salem, Wednesday morning, Sept. 23d. Meyer was arrested a short time ago for obtaining money from the wife of Billy Hayes, under promise that he would secure Hayes' pardon from the state prison. He was about sixty years of age.

The United States vessels Swatara and Yantic arrived at the Washington navy yard Sept. 25th. A second installment of Henry James' curious and interesting story, "The Princess Casamassima," is the opening paper in the October number of the "Atlantic Monthly." Mrs. Oliphant and Dr. Holmes each give additional chapters of their serials, and there is a pretty little Canadian story, "The Ogre of Ha-Ha Bay," by Octave Thanet, remembered by readers of the Atlantic as the author of "The Bishop's Vagabond." Mr. Warner continues his travels in the papers called "On Horseback," and incidentally describes the town of Asheville, North Carolina, a place known as a health resort; and Horace E. Scudder has a second scholarly essay on "Childhood in English Literature and Art." There is an entertaining and original paper, "The First Abbe Galant," narrating the life of an agreeable ecclesiastic of the seventh century, besides an essay on birds, and two poems, "Tacita," by James B. Kenyon, and "The First Guest," by Helen Gray Cone. Reviews of Stanley's "Congo," of Roosevelt's "Hunting Trips of a Ranchman," of Howells' "Silas Lapham" and some other new novels, with the usual departments, complete the number. THE WONDER is becoming universal as to how such an immense sale could be created in Lowell for HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA. But, my friend, if you could stand behind our counter a week and hear what those say who are using it. The reason would appear as clear as the noonday sun. The real curative power of HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA demonstrates itself in every case where our directions are faithfully regarded. We would that we might get before the people a fractional part of the confidence that is expressed to us every day in this medicine by those who have carefully noted (without prejudice) its effects upon the blood and through that upon the whole system, stimulating all the functions of the body to perform the duties nature requires of them. Try a bottle and satisfy yourself.

Cold Hands and Feet.

LOWELL, Feb. 3, 1879.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO. Gentlemen—About one year ago my daughter commenced taking your Sarsaparilla. At that time she had very little appetite; could take no long walks, and her face was badly broken out with a humor. She was low-spirited; troubled with cold hands and feet; her blood seemed to be poor, and she was in a condition which caused us great anxiety. After taking one bottle of your Sarsaparilla she began to improve; and she now has a good appetite and can take much longer walks. Her humor is nothing compared with what it was one year ago. She is in better spirits, is not troubled with cold hands and feet as previously. As I attribute this improvement in her condition largely to your Sarsaparilla. She has taken six bottles, and intends to continue its use. I was inclined to oppose the trial of it at first. I now have great faith in it as a blood purifier. Very truly yours,
A. L. HINCKLEY,

RETRENCHMENT AND REFORM.

Mr. Editor: I am glad to see that you copy from Foster's Democrat the notice of the fact that Collector Hanscom has reduced the expenses by abolishing the office of inspector at Dover, though I should suppose this would have to be done by the authorities at Washington. But what is most singular is that in these days of civil service reform it requires three inspectors to keep the run of the imports at our port, when under the late collector, Col. Pender and Col. Sides could do it all and yet have time to run the public schools, not to mention a newspaper. The collector has appointed one more inspector than the late administration decided was needed. He has done this in violation of a rule as to age, and the third inspector fills a city government office to which a salary is attached, in further violation of the rules of the department of which constant reminders were so frequently seen in our organ. While I am glad to have our side have a chance at the offices, I think a due regard for law and regulations in matters of appointment should be observed, even if we have the power.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT.

The October term of this court begins at Concord Oct. 8th, when the grand jury will be empannelled. District Judge Clark is to preside, and hold the term. Circuit Judge Colt will be at Concord on the 27th of October to hear motions and causes on the equity docket, not then disposed of by the district judge.

The Wentworth at Newcastle looks bright and shining in its new coat of paint. The colors are of darker shades than it was painted with the past season, and more pleasing to the eye.

The schooner D. K. Ham, Garland master, one of the best known vessels of the fleet usually employed in running bricks from this port to Boston, and perhaps the smartest boat of the fleet, is taking a cargo from Damariscotta to Boston, this trip; she arrived at Boothbay on Thursday, Sept. 24th. The Hattie Lewis arrived at this port from Boston, light, on the 25th; and the G. W. Ralitt and Estella, and the sloop Stephen Orr, sailed for Boston with cargoes on the 26th. The schooner Golden Gate, Amee master, arrived at Boston on the 26th, hence.

Mr. Henry F. Wendell, who for many years has been a director of the New Hampshire national bank, has resigned that position, and the vacancy has been filled by the election of Hon. Marcellus Eldredge.

The Galena was taken up by the dry dock on Saturday, and will be re-coppered before she is again floated. How much other work requires to be done to her hull is not reported.

The Boston & Maine railroad station at Rochester was broken into on Thursday night of last week, and a large number of tickets stolen. There is no clue to the thief.

The town of Dayton, in York county, is afflicted with a firebug. Week before last a large building, leased by the salvation army for their meetings, was burned to the ground, with the hotel which it adjoined, the cause of the fire being inexplicable. Last Thursday night the house of a widow named Cloudman, a hard working and respected lady, was set on fire in the basement and totally consumed, though most of the furniture was saved by townspeople who had been attending a salvation army meeting in a private house, and on their way home discovered smoke issuing from the basement windows of Mrs. Cloudman's house.

A Limerick correspondent of the Biddeford Journal writes that paper as follows: "Considerable interest is being developed here in postoffice matters. Mr. S. A. Grant [formerly of the Cape Neddick house at York] was appointed some time in July. A remonstrance was immediately sent in to the ruling powers, apparently without effect, for his appointment has been renewed within a few days. Mr. Grant has sent in his bond, and is now waiting for his commission. Meanwhile he put in the foundation for a new postoffice building, and carpenters are now at work on the frame. It is understood that a portion of his party will continue to press their objections to his appointment."

Dr. Robert Hubbard of Bridgeport, Conn., has been called by P. T. Barnum to visit the dwarf trick elephant, which is now in winter quarters suffering from a broken leg, caused by the railroad accident which killed Jumbo. It has been decided to encase the wounded limb in plaster until the fractured bone knits together sufficiently to bear his weight. Mr. Barnum said that his contemplated trip next season had been abandoned, owing to the death of Jumbo. Notwithstanding severe losses this season the show has made money.

The board of equalization it is reported declines to tax the Portsmouth & Dover railroad, on the ground that it is of no value to the party now operating it—the Boston & Maine railroad. This will deprive this city of a good sum which it would otherwise receive. The board have also considered the matter of the taxation of the Direct Atlantic cable, which terminates at Rye; this corporation has never been assessed in this state for taxation, and the officers of the company have been notified of the intention of the board to assess it.

Concord & Portsmouth Railroad.

THE annual meeting of the Stockholders of the Concord & Portsmouth Railroad will be held at the Common Council Room in the City Hall Building in Manchester on Thursday, the first day of October next, at ten o'clock A. M., for the choice of directors and the transaction of any other business which may properly come before the meeting. WILLIAM H. HACKETT, Clerk.

PORTSMOUTH, Sept. 14th, 1885. s15,22,29o17,

I have been a great sufferer from rheumatism for the last three years. I was induced to try a bottle of Athlophoros. I have since taken six and can now attend to my business and consider myself a well man. E. Parkhurst, Woonsocket, R. I.

The reunion of the surviving members of the 12th New Hampship regiment of war volunteers took place at Gilmanton last Friday; it was the eighteenth annual gathering, and 1000 people were present.

In Holland, Mich., C. J. Doesbury publishes the News, and in its columns very strongly recommends Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil for coughs, colds, sore throats, catarrh and asthma.

There is some delay in transferring the Morning Star establishment from Dover to the new office in Boston. It appears that early last week some changes in the new building were decided on, and consequently the first issue of the paper to be published in Boston will be open on the 16th of October.

Backache is almost immediately relieved by wearing one of Carter's Smart Weed and Belladonna Backache Plasters. Try one and be free from pain. Price 25 cents.

The New York Times, the leading mugwump paper in the Cleveland-Blaine campaign, has come out in the strongest style in favor of the republican state ticket in New York, and against Hill, Tammany and the Flower-barrel.

G. O. T.

Is an abbreviation that a great many New England dealers understand. G. O. Taylor Old Bourbon has been sold and bottled by Chester H. Graves & Sons, Boston, for more than ten years, and it's no secret that the demand for it increases with each year. G. O. Taylor Pure Rye is equally reliable, and either, or both, can be obtained from druggists or grocers generally.

The Italian barque Excelsior, which arrived at New York on Sept. 25th from Marseilles, France, had a seaman die of cholera three days after leaving port. No other cases have occurred, and the vessel is in quarantine.

The Terrible Drain

Which scrofula has upon the system must be arrested, and the blood must be purified, or serious consequences will ensue. For purifying and vitalizing effects, Hood's Sarsaparilla has been found superior to any other preparation. It expels every trace of impurity from the blood, and bestows new life and vigor upon every function of the body, enabling it to entirely overcome disease.

Gov. Hill's Renomination.

The nomination of Mr. Hill by the democratic convention in New York state is regarded as a significant hint to Mr. Cleveland that if the civil service reformers, who helped elect him in order to defeat Mr. Blaine, are to be regarded by the president as of sufficient political consequence to warrant him in ignoring the necessity of carrying out that fundamental principle of the party, "to the victors belong the spoils," then the sooner the voting material of the unterrified is marshalled by Tammany and takes a position on the "hill" to rake the president's position, the earlier will the Buffalo statesman discover that it is the democratic party and not the predecessor of Gov. Hill now filling the office of president. The democracy of New York will have a pastime in their efforts to convince Grover which is the more powerful, the party or the president.

Wants a Long Race.

A despatch of Sept. 25th, from New York, says: "The yacht Dauntless is undergoing slight repairs to fit her for the race over the Cape May course tomorrow. Her owner, Caldwell H. Colt, is deeply chagrined over the poor showing his yacht made against the Genesta in the Brenton's Reef race, and comes out with an offer to wager $10,000 that the Dauntless can beat any yacht here or abroad in an ocean race from here to Europe, or vice versa, the Genesta preferred. Mr. Colt accounts for the defeat of the Dauntless by the ill-luck she had in not catching a good breeze at the start. She lost seven or eight hours through squalls, which the Genesta escaped, considerable of which she regained in her return sailing. With a strong wind and a heavy sea to-morrow, Mr. Colt expects to prove the superiority of his yacht over the Genesta."

Delights of the Ocean.

The British brig Erma arrived at Boston on Friday last from Fayal, Azores Islands, with 414 passengers. Shortly after leaving Fayal she experienced a heavy westerly gale lasting forty-eight hours, during which her topsail yards and some of her sails were carried away. When seventy miles east of Cape Cod, Sept. 23d, with a heavy northeast gale blowing and the weather very thick, she collided with an unknown schooner. The passengers were considerably frightened until assured by the officers and crew that the vessel was all right. When examination of the vessel was made, it was found that her flying jibboom had been carried away, her catheads broken, her jibs torn and her cutwater damaged.

The sloop yacht Sagitta, of the American yacht club's fleet, was driven ashore at Far Rockaway, Long island, in the gale on the morning of Sept. 23d, and became a wreck; her crew of four men were rescued by the life-saving service boat. She was being taken from New York to Fire island, to lie up for the winter, when her reefed mainsail was split, and she drifted ashore. She was sixty feet long and eighteen wide.

A man calling himself M. W. Noremac was arrested Friday at the postoffice in Boston, on a charge of using the mails for fraudulent purposes. It is alleged that Noremac tried to play the old trick of offering counterfeit money for sale at $20 for $100. Noremac says he came to Boston from Florida two weeks ago. Commissioner Hallett held him in $1000 for examination. The man's real name is said to be Cameron.

Rudolph Meyer, a German, foreman of the Danvers bleachery in Peabody, Mass., committed suicide by shooting himself through the heart, at the Juniper house, Salem, Wednesday morning, Sept. 23d. Meyer was arrested a short time ago for obtaining money from the wife of Billy Hayes, under promise that he would secure Hayes' pardon from the state prison. He was about sixty years of age.

Opium sales have increased in Georgia as a consequence of prohibition.

The private fortune of Queen Victoria is reckoned up at $30,000,000.

The United States vessels Swatara and Yantic arrived at the Washington navy yard Sept. 25th. The work of transporting the silver from the vessels to the treasury was entered upon on the 26th, and will consume the greater part of a week. When the coin is received at the treasury department it will be counted, a labor which, with the present force, will occupy about two months.

A second installment of Henry James' curious and interesting story, "The Princess Casamassima," is the opening paper in the October number of the "Atlantic Monthly." Mrs. Oliphant and Dr. Holmes each give additional chapters of their serials, and there is a pretty little Canadian story, "The Ogre of Ha-Ha Bay," by Octave Thanet, remembered by readers of the Atlantic as the author of "The Bishop's Vagabond." Mr. Warner continues his travels in the papers called "On Horseback," and incidentally describes the town of Asheville, North Carolina, a place known as a health resort; and Horace E. Scudder has a second scholarly essay on "Childhood in English Literature and Art." There is an entertaining and original paper, "The First Abbe Galant," narrating the life of an agreeable ecclesiastic of the seventh century, besides an essay on birds, and two poems, "Tacita," by James B. Kenyon, and "The First Guest," by Helen Gray Cone. Reviews of Stanley's "Congo," of Roosevelt's "Hunting Trips of a Ranchman," of Howells' "Silas Lapham" and some other new novels, with the usual departments, complete the number. Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston.

THE WONDER

Is becoming universal as to how such an immense sale could be created in Lowell for HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA. But, my friend, if you could stand behind our counter a week and hear what those say who are using it. The reason would appear as clear as the noon-day sun. The real curative power of HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA demonstrates itself in every case where our directions are faithfully regarded. We would that we might get before the people a fractional part of the confidence that is expressed to us every day in this medicine by those who have carefully noted (without prejudice) its effects upon the blood and through that upon the whole system, stimulating all the functions of the body to perform the duties nature requires of them. Try a bottle and satisfy yourself.

Cold Hands and Feet.

LOWELL, Feb. 3, 1879.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO.: Gentlemen—About one year ago my daughter commenced taking your Sarsaparilla. At that time she had very little appetite; could take no long walks, and her face was badly broken out with a humor. She was low-spirited; troubled with cold hands and feet; her blood seemed to be poor, and she was in a condition which caused us great anxiety. After taking one bottle of your Sarsaparilla she began to improve; and she now has a good appetite and can take much longer walks. Her humor is nothing compared with what it was one year ago. She is in better spirits, is not troubled with cold hands and feet as previously. Am I attributes this improvement in her condition largely to your Sarsaparilla. She has taken six bottles, and intends to continue its use. I was inclined to oppose the trial of it at first. I now have great faith in it as a blood purifier. Very truly yours,
A. L. HINCKLEY,

REFRENCHMENT AND REFORM.

Mr. Editor: I am glad to see that you copy from Foster's Democrat the notice of the fact that Collector Hanscom has reduced the expenses by abolishing the office of inspector at Dover, though I should suppose this would have to be done by the authorities at Washinging. But what is most singular is that in these days of civil service reform it requires three inspectors to keep the run of the imports at our port, when under the late collector, Col. Pender and Col. Sides could do it all and yet have time to run the public schools, not to mention a newspaper. The collector has appointed one more inspector than the late administration decided was needed. He has done this in violation of a rule as to age, and the third inspector fills a city government office to which a salary is attached, in further violation of the rules of the department of which constant reminders were so frequently seen in our organ. While I am glad to have our side have a chance at the offices, I think a due regard for law and regulations in matters of appointment should be observed, even if we have the power.

A SOUTH-END DEMOCRAT.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT.

The October term of this court begins at Concord Oct. 8th, when the grand jury will be empannelled. District Judge Clark is to preside, and hold the term. Circuit Judge Colt will be at Concord on the 27th of October to hear motions and causes on the equity docket, not then disposed of by the district judge.

The Wentworth at Newcastle looks bright and shining in its new coat of paint. The colors are of darker shades than it was painted with the past season, and more pleasing to the eye.

The schooner D. K. Ham, Garland master, one of the best known vessels of the fleet usually employed in running bricks from this port to Boston, and perhaps the smartest boat of the fleet, is taking a cargo from Damariscotta to Boston, this trip; she arrived at Boothbay on Thursday, Sept. 24th. The Hattie Lewis arrived at this port from Boston, light, on the 25th; and the G. W. Raitt and Estella, and the sloop Stephen Orr, sailed for Boston with cargoes on the 26th. The schooner Golden Gate, Amee master, arrived at Boston on the 26th, hence.

Mr. Henry F. Wendell, who for many years has been a director of the New Hampshire national bank, has resigned that position, and the vacancy has been filled by the election of Hon. Marcellus Eldredge.

The Boston Journal says the politicians think that George J. Foster, of the Dover Democrat, has the inside track for the postmastership of Dover.

The construction of a new hot-house near the entrance to James R. Yeaton's premises on Richard's avenue is in progress.

The residence of Harvey Brown, on the North Beach road in Hampton, was burned early in the morning on Friday, with all its furniture; loss $1500; insurance $1200; cause of fire unknown.

Mr. Sherman Newton came in from "Lunging" island, Shoals, on Sunday, with 3000 large mackerel. He brought in twenty barrels of nice mackerel on the previous Friday.

The Galena was taken up by the dry dock on Saturday, and will be re-coppered before she is again floated. How much other work requires to be done to her hull is not reported.

The Boston & Maine railroad station at Rochester was broken into on Thursday night of last week, and a large number of tickets stolen. There is no clue to the thief.

The town of Dayton, in York county, is afflicted with a firebug. Week before last a large building, leased by the salvation army for their meetings, was burned to the ground, with the hotel which it adjoined, the cause of the fire being inexplicable. Last Thursday night the house of a widow named Cloudman, a hard working and respected lady, was set on fire in the basement and totally consumed, though most of the furniture was saved by townspeople who had been attending a salvation army meeting in a private house, and on their way home discovered smoke issuing from the basement windows of Mrs. Cloudman's house.

A Limerick correspondent of the Biddeford Journal writes that paper as follows: "Considerable interest is being developed here in postoffice matters. Mr. S. A. Grant [formerly of the Cape Neddick house at York] was appointed some time in July. A remonstrance was immediately sent in to the ruling powers, apparently without effect, for his appointment has been renewed within a few days. Mr. Grant has sent in his bond, and is now waiting for his commission. Meanwhile he put in the foundation for a new postoffice building, and carpenters are now at work on the frame. It is understood that a portion of his party will continue to press their objections to his appointment."

Dr. Robert Hubbard of Bridgeport, Conn., has been called by P. T. Barnum to visit the dwarf trick elephant, which is now in winter quarters suffering from a broken leg, caused by the railroad accident which killed Jumbo. It has been decided to encase the wounded limb in plaster until the fractured bone knits together sufficiently to bear his weight. Mr. Barnum said that his contemplated trip next season had been abandoned, owing to the death of Jumbo. Notwithstanding severe losses this season the show has made money.

There died in the poorhouse at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Sept. 25th, a Christian Hebrew 106 years old, named Moses Marrenellop. He came to this country seventy years ago, from Germany. He was never married.

The board of equalization it is reported declines to tax the Portsmouth & Dover railroad, on the ground that it is of no value to the party now operating it—the Boston & Maine railroad. This will deprive this city of a good sum which it would otherwise receive. The board have also considered the matter of the taxation of the Direct Atlantic cable, which terminates at Rye; this corporation has never been assessed in this state for taxation, and the officers of the company have been notified of the intention of the board to assess it.

Arrested!

Charles A. Dalee was arrested last evening for stealing from the dry store of Shiefman a bottle of Sulphur Bitters. Before the court this morning, upon being asked why he should steal, he stated that his mother was troubled with rheumatism, and that it was the only medicine that helped her, and being out of money and work was the cause of his stealing. As this was his first offence he was put on probation.—Newark News.

"Well madam," said a fashionable physician to a wealthy lady patient, "if you don't like my prescriptions, perhaps you had better try Parker's Tonic, or some other quack stuff." "You don't mean it, Docter," she answered, "but your advice may be good for all that. Sometimes what you call 'quack stuff' is the best and most scientific medicine, after all." She got a bottle of Parker's Tonic and it cured her of neuralgia arising from disordered stomach and nerves. She told her friends, and now they all keep a doctor at home in the form of Parker's Tonic.

Portsmouth Chronicle.

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 29, 1885.

Can't Have the Flower-Barrel This Time.

Mr. R. P. Flower says he is not anxious to be lieutenant-governor of the Empire state, and consequently declines to run on the democratic ticket. This makes Gov. Hill mad. The president feels sore because Tammany beat the County Democracy, notwithstanding the latter had the custom house, navy yard, and all the patronage of New York and Brooklyn at their disposal. The thing looks blue for the democracy, notwithstanding so many republicans are to be kept in office till after November to draw their fire.

Another Telephone Suit.

The Bell Telephone Co. finds a new case against it in the United States circuit court at Memphis, Tenn., where a suit has been brought by the United States district attorney by direction of Attorney General Garland. The attorney general, it is stated, holds a large number of shares in another telephone company. Be this as it may, the enormous royalty charged by the Bell Co. is telling upon the revenues of the other companies, and if the Bell patent can be set aside after being so frequently sustained by the courts, the public will be the gainers. The suit is in behalf of the people of the United States, and of course will prove a rich harvest for the Bell company's lawyers.

It is stated in Washington that the order to bring this suit was issued during Mr. Garland's absence from Washington. He has been in Arkansas for some time upon a vacation. Now let the democratic journals resume the old howl about absenteeism and its effects upon the public business.

Another Gigantic Steal.

There is a deficit of over $200,000 in the funds of the Framingham, Mass., savings bank, for which the late treasurer, Coleman T. Adams, is supposed to [illegible] responsible. He committed suicide [illegible] time ago.

[illegible] Jos. L. Marden's house at Kittery [illegible] took fire about six o'clock in the [illegible] on Monday, presumably from a [illegible] in the chimney, and was damaged [illegible] amount of about $200 before the [illegible] extinguished.

[illegible] to crop of York is large this [illegible] of very fine quality. Hay [illegible] much better than was at one [illegible], there being very nearly [illegible] up, fully up to the average [illegible] the apple crop, that is of grafted fruit, is quite considerable; cider apples, however, are not so plentiful as in many previous years, though the mills are now pressing out the "native beverage."

They tell a story in Kittery of a note for $35, given on the purchase of a stove upon which $10 cash was paid, being given up by the holder to the debtor upon the latter's promise of an official position on the navy yard. The applicant for position has since gone east, but carried neither note, stove nor office with him.

Mr. Everett Webber, of York, though quite a young man, with a little assistance raised 150 bushels of clams from the shores of York river this season, which were all disposed of to the summer hotels. He is now engaged in selling fish throughout the adjoining country.

The annual conference of the Christian churches of York and Cumberland counties met with the Christian church of South Berwick on Thursday of last week, and continued over Sunday.

Charles E. Grover and Benjamin W. Kimball of Beech Ridge, York, are reported to have thrashed out over four thousand bushels of grain in York, Kittery and Eliot this season, with their portable threshing machine.

Mr. Creswell as a Lawyer.

Speaking of Ex-Postmaster-General Creswell, the present administration is attempting to cut down his salary as the lawyer of the Alabama claims court. His salary has been $8,000 a year, not a very large salary for a great lawyer in these days, when Ben Butler and Roscoe Conkling are said to make from $50,000 to $100,000 yearly from their law business, and when scores make a number of times their salary in practising before the supreme court here. Mr. Creswell has been thirty-five years in the practice of law. He is a Maryland man by birth, a graduate of Dickinson college, and he began his legal labors when Clay and Webster were yet living and when Chief Justice Taney had yet ten years and more to spend on the supreme bench. General Creswell has repeatedly held public office, having been in both houses of Congress and also in Grant's cabinet. He is now fifty-seven years of age, and is as strong and active as any man in public life. Tall and well made, he has a fine appearance, and he would be a marked figure anywhere. He has a full, open face, bright, friendly blue eyes, and a long, silky brown beard, which falls upon his broad chest. He is a pleasant man to talk to, and has generally something to say. He understands himself pretty well, too, and Comptroller Durham will have to jump about with more than his usual agility if he gets ahead of him.—"Carp," in Cleveland Leader.

Prices of Market Beef—A few choice, $5 75; extra, $5 60 @ $5 70; first quality, $5 00 @ $5 50; second quality, $4 00 @ $4 50; third quality, $4 00 @ $4 50.

Prices of Store Cattle—Working oxen ⅌ pair, from $100 @ $225. Farrow cows, $15 @ $30; Fancy cows, $30 @ $80; Milch cows and calves, $25 @ $65; yearlings, $10 @ $18; two years old, $14 @ $28; three years old, $24 @ $40.

Swine—Western fat, live, 4¼ @ 4¾c ⅌ lb; northern dressed hogs, 5¼ @ 5½c ⅌ lb.

Prices of Sheep and Lambs—In lots, $2 00, $3 00 @ $3 50 each; extra, $4 00 @ $4 50, or from 2 @ 4½c ⅌ lb; spring lambs, 4 @ 5c ⅌ lb.

The supply was not much different that came from the north and east than last week, and the quality as a whole did not show improvement. The demand for cattle has not improved, and much of the stock was not as good as butchers desire. Store cattle is a little better demand.

Milch Cows—Sales were not very active and confined to small lots. One fancy Durham cow, of excellent quality, changed hands at $65; the bulk from $35 @ $50 ⅌ head.

The Sheep Call—The run of Canada lambs not as heavy by about 600 head as last week. The total a little better than 3000. The tone of the market could be called steady with a fair movement. Values on lambs are mostly from 4 @ 5c, which came within the range of last week. Old sheep unchanged from 2 @ 4¼c, as to quality. Some very fine lambs offered and sold at 5c; Canada lambs at 4¼ @ 4½c.

Fat Hogs—Northern lots, dressed, brought 5¼c this week, or ¼c off from last week.

CRICKET.

A game of cricket was played on Saturday by the Portsmouth and Dover clubs, on the grounds of the local club near Frenchman's lane, and resulted in a victory for the visitors by a score of eighty-five to seventy-one. Two full innings were played, the Dovers scoring thirty-two in the first and fifty-three in the second; the Portsmouths, twenty-nine in the first and forty-two in the second. On the arrival home of the victorious Dover eleven, the other members of the club entertained them with a clam chowder in the club-room.

This was the third game played between the two clubs this season; the first, in this city, was won by the home club, eighty-eight to seventy-seven; the second, at Dover, was also won by the Portsmouths, fifty-six to ten; and the Portsmouth boys confidently anticipated winning this one also—but didn't.

THAT BASE BALL GAME.

Mr. Editor: A long article in the Penny Post of Sept. 28th, in regard to our game with the Clippers of Exeter, is mainly noticeable for a bitter and unjust attack upon the gentleman who acted as umpire. In reply to this allow me to say that Mr. Thos. Connors was agreed upon by the managers of both clubs, before the game, as umpire, and as such was perfectly satisfactory to them. The whole of the trouble, if there was any, was occasioned by the "assininess" of one or two members of the Clippers, as any one of the crowd present could testify. While on this subject, would it not be pertinent to ask if the article in your contemporary against the umpire was not occasioned by a squabble between a noted sporting man and the editor of that paper? The Red Stockings feel that they have not been treated fairly in this matter, and think they do not merit so harsh a criticism from one whom they had always regarded as a a friend.

ONE OF THE RED STOCKINGS.

MONDAY, Sept. 28th.

Edward Clark, for drunkenness, was sent to Brentwood for ninety days, costs being taxed at $6.90.

THE SUPREME COURT.

The October trial term of the supreme court for Rockingham county begins in this city on the 20th, Hon. J. N. Blodgett presiding justice. There are ninety-five civil actions on the docket; on the equity docket, thirty-two; on the state docket, eighteen; and two on the sessions docket.

THE OPERA.

Those persons who delayed securing seats for the opening night of Bennett & Moulton's Comic Opera Co. in Music hall until the evening of the entertainment, found but very few chairs unengaged, almost every seat being taken up before the doors of the hall were opened. The audience was large enough to be perfectly satisfactory to the management, and the entertainment afforded was good enough to please and surprise the audience, whose gratification was repeatedly and liberally manifested.

The secret of the large attendance (over 1500) was of course the low prices, thirty cents being the price of the best seats; but though the prices were low the performance was up to the standard of most of the more pretentious opera companies, and we venture the assertion that many of our readers have witnessed a performance of the Mascot which they paid seventy-five cents to see, which was much inferior to that of Monday evening. The costumes were handsome, and the parts well sustained. Mr. Nodine as Pippo captivated all with his sweet expressive voice; Gilbert Clayton as Lorenzo and Charles A. Bigelow as Rocco kept the audience in an uproar of applause; T. Victor Ricketts rendered Prince Frederick in an artistic manner, giving as good a conception of the part as we have seen; Mr. Wooley proved himself capable of assuming higher roles than the one assigned him, and his voice, a tenor robusto, is a great addition to the company; Miss Bruce and Miss Upton were admirable, and showed themselves fully competent to sustain their respective roles. The other members of the company also did nicely, and with such a campany and such low prices the management have a right to anticipate that the size of their audiences will be governed only by the size of the theatres they visit.

This (Tuesday) evening "Olivette" will be presented; and to-morrow afternoon and evening the charming melodies of the old favorite "Pinafore" will draw two more big audiences. Reserved seat tickets for any of the performances during the week can now be secured at Goodrich's bookstore.

Here, There, Everywhere.

Malaria is found. Even where the disease is not prevalent—where the general condition of the surrounding locality may be favorable to health, isolated cases may exist. Bad drainage, a damp cellar, the escape of sewer gas, the existence of masked cess pools, proximity to stagnant water—all these are frequent causes, and what town or city of any magnitude is free from them. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, whether in town or country, whether the germs of the disease develop either the billious remittent or the intermittent form, or that negative, sluggish, but not less obstinate type called dumb ague, is equally efficient, both as a preventive and a remedy. Bad digestion, biliousness, constipation, a want of vitality, are also remedied by it, and the happiest results may be surely anticipated from its use, for the relief of rheumatism, kidney and bladder complaints, and nervousness, accompanied by a lack of appetite and sound repose. It is botanic and agreeable.

THE JOB PRINTING business is conducted in the same office by MR. RICHARD I. WALDEN, who keeps on hand a large and well-selected stock of all materials required in his line. Give him a trial and you will be more than pleased.

I have received a good deal of benefit from your medicine, Athlophoros. It helped to drive the rheumatism out of my limbs to a great extent. I think it a good medicine and have recommended it to several persons. Wm. Nichols, Chester, Mass.

Lucius Parker, the oldest cotton manufacturer in Connecticut, died at North Manchester on Sunday, Sept. 27th, aged seventy-seven years. He was a native of Mansfield, Conn., and leaves an estate of $300,000.

Better than She Expected.

"Your letter received. In reply I am happy to say that Parker's Hair Balsam did much more for me than you said it would, or than I expected. My hair has not only stopped falling out, but the bald spots are all covered, and all my hair has grown thicker, softer and more lively than it was before my sickness a year ago. Thank you again and again." Extract from letters of Mrs. R. W. T., West Fifty-third street, New York.

Cala E. Stone, the champion amateur bicyclist of the west, died suddenly at his home in St. Louis, Mo., on Sunday night, Sept. 26th, of a congestive chill.

Small Doses Cure.

During the past fifty years the proprietors of Brandreth's Pills have received thousands of voluntary testimonials of the wonderful cures effected by these Pills. They not only cure rheumatism, dyspepsia, piles, diarrhœa, liver complaint and all fevers, but greatly prolong the human life. One or two at night, on an empty stomach, for a week or two is sufficient.

Henry Tatnall, a noted landscape artist, died at his home in Wilmington, Del., Sept. 27th, having been in failing health for several months.

We recommend Carter's Iron Pills to every woman who is weak, nervous and discouraged; particularly those who have thin, pale lips, cold hands and feet, and who are without strength or ambition. These are the cases for which Carter's Iron Pills are specially prepared, and this class cannot use them without benefit. Valuable for men also. In metal boxes, at 50 cents. Sold by druggists or sent by mail. See advertisement elsewhere.

William Dale, while watching with Deputy Sheriff George Johnson in Crawford county, Ark., killed the invalid and then fled to the hills, where it is supposed he committed suicide. Sudden insanity was probably the cause.

Prompt relief in sick headache, dizziness, nausea, constipation, pain in the side, etc., guaranteed to those using Carter's Little Liver Pills. One pill a dose. 25 cents.

It is said that four employees of Doris' circus, who assaulted and robbed four young men on a train near Frankfort, Ky., a few nights since, and were locked up for the crime, have been taken from jail and lynched.

Arrested!

Charles A. Dales was arrested last evening for stealing from the drug store of Shiefman a bottle of Sulphur Bitters. Before the court this morning, upon being asked why he should steal, he stated that his mother was troubled with rheumatism, and that it was the only medicine that helped her, and being out of money and work was the cause of his stealing. As this was his first offence he was put on probation.—Newark News.

A judge of the supreme court in New York granted an attachment last week against the property of Jordan, Marsh & Co. of Boston, in a suit in favor of Schultz and others, whose claim of $22,064 for dry goods alleged to have been sold, the proprietors of the great Boston country store will resist, on the ground that the buyer was not authorized by them to purchase these goods for their account.

Have you these dangerous symptoms,—cough, pain in the side or breast, fever, short breath, night sweats, tickling, rising or soreness in the throat, diarrhœas, nervous debility, asthmatic bronchial affections? If so, use at once Adamson's Cough Balsam.

A Sad Case of Poisoning.

is that of any man or woman afflicted with disease or derangement of the liver, resulting in poisonous accumulations in the blood, scrofulous affections, sick-headaches, and diseases of the kidneys, lungs or heart. These troubles can be cured only by going to the primary cause, and putting the liver in a healthy condition. To accomplish this result speedily and effectually nothing has proven itself so efficacious as Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery," which has never failed to do the work claimed for it, and never will.

SKIN AND BLOOD

Diseases from Pimples to Scrofula Cured by Cuticura.

Hundreds of letters in our possession, copies of which may be had by return of mail, repeat this story:—I have been a terrible sufferer for years from Diseases of the Skin and Blood; have been obliged to chum public places by reason of my disfiguring humors; have had the best physicians; have spent hundreds of dollars, and got no relief until I used the CUTICURA REMEDIES, which have cured me, and left my skin and blood as pure as a child's.

COVERED WITH SALT RHEUM.

CUTICURA REMEDIES are the greatest medicines on earth. Had the worst case of Salt Rheum in this country. My mother had it twenty years, and in fact died from it. I believe CUTICURA would have saved her life. My arms, breast and head were covered for three years, which nothing relieved or cured until I used the CUTICURA RESOLVENT, internally, and CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP, externally. J. W. ADAMS. NEWARK, O.

HEAD, FACE AND BODY RAW.

I commenced to use your CUTICURA REMEDIES last July. My head and face and some parts of my body were almost raw. My head was covered with scabs and sores, and my suffering was fearful. I had tried everything I had heard of in the East and West. My case was considered a very bad one. I have now not a particle of Skin Humor about me, and my case is considered wonderful. MRS. S. E. WHIPPLE. DECATUR, MICH.

ECZEMA FROM HEAD TO FEET.

Charles Eayre Hinkle, Jersey City Heights, N. J., writes: "My son, a lad of twelve years, was completely cured of a terrible case of Eczema by the CUTICURA REMEDIES. From the top of his head to the soles of his feet was one mass of scabs." Every other remedy and physicians had been tried in vain.

NOTHING LIKE CUTICURA.

The half has not been told as to the great curative powers of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. I have paid hundreds of dollars for medicines to cure diseases of the blood and skin, and never found anything yet to equal the CUTICURA REMEDIES. PROVIDENCE, R. I. CHAS. A. WILLIAMS.

A three-year old boy at Louisville promises to be gray-headed before he reaches his teens. The child has attracted much attention from the neighbors, who say they never saw anything of the kind before. Physicians say that, even in families where turning gray during youth is hereditary, they have not known of a case where the peculiarity was exhibited in one so young. The boy is a healthy and lively little fellow, and his patriarchal condition does not seem to annoy him in the least.

The mortal remains of the faithful Esther and her kinsman, Mordecai, rest in a little shrine at Hamadan, Persia. They are covered each by a wooden ark, on which are small pieces of paper like labels, covered with Hebrew characters. They are placed there by the Hebrew pilgrims. All are under a small dome some fifty feet high. The building is of red bricks, the walls much patched by mud; the blue dome is of tiles. These tombs are held sacred by the Hebrews in Persia, and thousands make pilgrimages annually.

Though the laws of propriety are so rigorously strict in Mexico that a gentleman may not ride in the same carriage with his lady to whom he is betrothed, yet most desperate flirtations are openly indulged in to an extreme which would put to blush, New York, Chicago, or San Francisco. Following a senorita up and down the promenade and staring intently in her face is an accepted mode of compliment, ratifying to the recipient, but fraught with danger to the adorer if she happens to have other devoted swains, and it not unfrequently happens that duels are the result, she being pre-eminently the belle who can boast the greatest number of such encounters.

Somebody wants to know why all the geographies contain the statement that "the earth is a sphere slightly flattened at the poles." He says that nobody knows from actual observation what the condition of the earth at the poles really is. He considers the statement that "the earth is a sphere slightly flattened," etc., a remnant of the same bigoted ignorance which before the time of Columbus had it that the entire earth was flat. Those who have tried to get to the poles, he says (and he means thereby a pleasantry which we do not think altogether worthy of one who has so strong an argument), have certainly found the way somewhat of an up grade.—Harper's Weekly.

Belgium affords the worst example in Europe of the harm from over-indulgence in alcoholic stimulants. The sale of liquor has been more than trebled in the last fifty years. While the population has advanced only from 3,500,000 to 5,500,000, the consumption of spirits, wine and beer for 1881 amounted in value to 475,000,000f. Although the country is so small it contained in 1880 no fewer than 125,000 places devoted to the sale of intoxicating liquors. There was a public house on the average for every twelve or thirteen grown-up males. The suicides rose from fifty-four per million inhabitants in 1848 to eighty in 1880. The lunatics advanced from 750 per million inhabitants in 1846 to 1,470 in 1881.

Experiments made during the past two years to introduce a few of the early varieties of American corn into some of the Austrian provinces have proved very successful in Dalmatia. Not only is the yield twice that of the home product, but the harvest of the American corn can be finished early enough to escape the annual inundations, while the Dalmatian corn ripens late and is often totally destroyed by water before the harvest time. The question, however, seems to be, whether the American corn will retain all these good points after it has been cultivated in the foreign soil and climate for a period of years, or whether it will become acclimatized and partake of the home peculiarities, thus necessitating a constant importation of fresh seed.

Paris As To Health.

In health, Paris is on a level with a hundred other places. It has nothing of its own to offer. Its climate presents a fair average of the qualities and faults of central Continental weather; the air is drier and more vivifying than that of England; extremes of heat and cold are sometimes felt, but they are unfrequent; strong winds are rare; and though fogs have become somewhat acclimatized of late years, the air is on the whole fairly bright and pleasant. But the same atmosphere may be found almost everywhere along the same parallel of latitude. The sanitary conditions are good; the sewerage is excellent; the water is abundant and pure, and the precautions against infection in all its forms are minute and well applied. The material conditions of life are, however, growing so much alike in all large towns that we are living everywhere under more and more similar influences, and it may be said without much inexactness that, so far as Europe is concerned, what used to be called especially a healthy or unhealthy place is becoming difficult to find. Epidemics come and go in Paris as they do in other centres of population, but they are seldom traceable to local causes, and usually assume a general character. But all these qualities are merely negative; they imply the absence of objections, not the presence of recommendations; Paris possesses no positive advantages in climate or health, and English people will not be tempted to live in it for reasons of that sort.—The Fortnightly Review.

The amount expended by the government in removing Hell Gate, Diamond, and Coenties, reef, in New York harbor has been $3,126,043.31. The last reef is about to be blown up, leaving an unobstructed channel and a handsome amount of money at the disposal of the engineers for further improvements, as the amount so far appropriated is $5,139,120.

Professor Douglas, after many years of research, says China has no such teeming millions as are usually credited to her. Two hundred and fifty millions he thinks about the right estimate. Many of the hill peoples of China at the present day are not Chinese at all. The Chinese civilization and culture are not purely of a native growth; their elements were brought from Western Asia—perhaps from the neighborhood of the Aral—by the Chinese ere they set out for China.

WHAT IS DYSPEPSIA?

Among the many symptoms of Dyspepsia or indigestion the most prominent are: Variable appetite; faint, gnawing feeling at pit of the stomach, with unsatisfied craving for food; heartburn, feeling of weight and wind in the stomach, bad breath, bad taste in the mouth, low spirits, general prostration, headache, and constipation. There is no form of disease more prevalent than Dyspepsia, and none so peculiar to the high-living and rapid-eating American people. Alcohol and tobacco produce Dyspepsia; also, bad air, rapid eating, etc. BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS will cure the worst case, by regulating the bowels and toning up the digestive organs. Sold everywhere.

Is the device adopted by us in 1872 as a finish to our brand of whiskey called G. O. Taylor Old Bourbon. Crowns are worn by kings. The crown we own is made of copper, and is burnt into the head of each case we use for packing. The G. O. Taylor whiskey, Old Bourbon or Pure Rye, may be obtained from leading Grocers or Druggists, or from the proprietors, Chester H. Graves & Sons, Boston.

The Worcester, Nashua & Rochester Road.

It is stated that the new board of directors of the Worcester, Nashua & Rochester railroad have brought to light the fact that considerable sums had been robbed from the road at Worcester by means of a loose system of accounts of freights. A Worcester despatch says:

There are no charges against the personal integrity of Ex-President Turner or any of the directors, but there is no doubt that the state of things unearthed by the investigation has been made use of by the new and controlling element in the board of directors, of which Mr. Charles A. Sinclair is the moving power, to bring about Mr. Turner's retirement from the road. Many of the stockholders here-about, who have seen their property, as represented by the market price of their stock, shrink greatly in value under the Turner regime, are very anxious that the bottom facts shall come out, but the new directors seem to have united with the old in their endeavor to keep the facts quiet, except so far as they are responsible for the insinuations which have been floating about in the financial columns of certain Boston papers the past two weeks.

On Monday last, the market price of the shares advanced four and a half per cent, inspired by the belief that the new management is the stopping of leaks, and in new reforms and evidence shown of careful supervision, had increased the confidence of investors in the value of their property.

Anti-Vaccination Riot in Montreal.

In consequence of the inauguration of compulsory vaccination in Montreal on Sept. 28th, a bowling mob of many thousands attacked and wrecked the health board's branch offices in the low districts, and then attacked the court house and city hall, and the central police station, gutting them all, and breaking all the windows. The police were armed with revolvers, and the police, like fools, returned the compliment by firing over the heads of the rioters. Several arrests were made, and the military were ordered to be in readiness to preserve order next day.

A gentleman on the citizens' committee declared on the 28th that there were at least 4000 cases of smallpox in the city. The opening of the Theatre Royal has been indefinitely postponed on account of the epidemic. The health officials are encountering the most determined opposition in their work, especially in the east end of the city. This shocking condition of affairs is due to the ignorant prejudice of the lower classes against vaccination.

The democrats are considerably exercised over the refusal of Roswell P. Flower to run for lieutenant governor of New York on the democratic ticket. The Boston Post says: "Mr. Roswell P. Flower in declining the democratic nomination for lieutenant-governor has done a suicidal thing. Parties are not apt to forget this sort of desertion on the part of men of colossal ambition."

The summer boarders at York, from the cities, although they might reasonably be expected to be superior in education and general information to the natives of the ancient city of Gorgeana, (and are undobtedly of that self-entertained opinion,) do not impress the latter to any marked extent with their importance, as many of the questions they ask and the remarks they make seem to the shrewd countrymen to be very ridiculous.

The brick dwelling of James Brown in East Parsonsfield, and his barn and forty tons of hay, were burned Sept. 26th; loss $2500; no insurance.

The Dover Democrat says a "young man of twenty-two and a young girl of sixteen came from Kennebunk to this city Saturday to get married. Both went into the city clerk's office, and when the city clerk saw the would-be bride he declined to give a license because of her youth. She commenced crying, said her father never supported her, and that her mother was willing she should get married. Mayor Ross and Judge Frost were called, in and they concluded that under the circumstances a license should be granted and it was done, and then the clerk married the couple, the mayor and judge being witnesses."

There is a dispute among newspaper men about which is the oldest paper in America. New Hampshire takes the honors, the Portsmouth Gazette being the old, antediluvian high cock-o-lorum, but the Mountaineer has a prehistoric record in foreign lands. Columbus would never have discovered Portsmouth unless there had been a Mountain-near.—Gorham Mountaineer.

There is only one hotel bar in all South America, and that one is at Santiago, Chili. The discovery accounts for the strange fact that several western democrats have declined South American consular appointments.—Boston Post.

—Little Flossy was taken into the country last summer, where she was furnished with a candlestick for her bedroom. She had never seen this form of illuminator before, and she immediately exclaimed: "Oh, mamma! See the little gas with a handle."

—The editor of the Redding (Cal.) Independent has to apologize. He hung his ink-roller out to dry, when an Indian and his squaw and pappoose came along and made a meal out of it, and his paper couldn't appear on time.

PURE IS THE ABSOLUTE NECESSITY OF HEALTH. BLOOD

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA

THE marvellous results of HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA upon all humors and low conditions of the blood (as seen by the cures effected) prove it the best BLOOD MEDICINE. Such has been the success of this Medicine at home that nearly every family in the whole neighborhoods have been taking it at the same time. It eradicates scrofula, vitalizes and enriches the blood, and thereby restoring and renovating the whole system. SARSAPARILLA purifies the blood. HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA cures dyspepsia. HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA cures biliousness. A peculiar point in HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA is that it builds up and strengthens the system, while it eradicates disease, and as nature's great assistant proves itself invaluable as a protection from diseases that originate in changes of the seasons, of climate and of life.

TUESDAY, Sept. 29th.

Edward Riley and Charles Brown, two transient bummers, were charged with the larceny of a horse blanket from Justin V. Hanscom, and were sentenced to thirty days in jail, and to divide the costs, $9.18, between them.

THE OPERA.

The Bennett & Moulton Comic Opera Co. had another large audience on Tuesday evening, when Olivette was performed, with Miss Etta Reed in the title role; and as on Monday evening, the audience was carried along in mirthful good humor to the close, and left the hall with a renewed assurance that the only cheap thing about this really good company is the price of the tickets. Applause was generously bestowed, and all the fun there is in the opera was brought out.

This afternoon and evening Pinafore will be the attraction, with Miss Mae Bruce as Josephine, a part which she is credited with making as much of as any one who has ever appeared in it. The favorite—and deservedly so—old opera will undoubtedly draw a full house, and those who wish for good seats will do well to call at M. Goodrich's to-day.

The programme for the rest of the week is: Thursday, the Chimes of Normandy; Friday, the Mascot; and Saturday, afternoon and evening, Girofle-Girofla.

HAMPTON JOTTINGS.

HAMPTON, Sept. 29th.

We have little that is newsy or breezy in our very quiet borough. The ocean-side houses are closed for the season, which has been dull and profitless for most of them. A few guests still linger, hoping to see Old Neptune's equinoctial upheavings, but the weather moods are as calm as summer's balmy breezes. There were twenty-six boarders at De Lancey place last week, but with the musing melody of "Home, sweet home!" they are homeward bound.

The various Sunday schools held a union commemorative of the centennial of the Temperance Reformation, with songs, recitations and speaking, last Sabbath evening in the Congregational church.

The fiend of fire visited North Beach last Friday night, destroying the new house, costly furniture, fish house and breakwater of Mr. Harry Brown, who, aroused at midnight, escaped by jumping from the second story window. Loss total; insurance $1200.

Hon. J. T. Brown has bought the excellent farm of the late Samuel Drake, for his son, whose residence at Hampton Falls was recently burned.

The newly organized high school commenced with fifty students; Mr. Sanborn of Hampton Falls, principal.

Mr. Cullom is repairing and enlarging his buildings near the Baptist church, for a residence, stove store and tin shop. *

SNEAK THIEVING.

Somebody raided Mr. Joseph R. Holmes' potato field on Sagamore road last week, and made a division of property, the raiders taking most of the potatoes, and leaving the tops and the field for Mr. Holmes. Mr. Samuel Hanscom's farm on Little Harbor road was also raided last week, and all of his onions, and a considerable proportion of his potatoes, watermelons and other crops, were stolen—a consummately mean proceeding, as Mr. Hanscom, who is a hard-working and worthy citizen, is ill able to sustain his loss. Mr. Holmes, who is also one of our most industrious and reputable residents, is a good deal better able to stand his ill luck, but we just wish he had caught the thieves at work in his potato field, that's all; they wouldn't have wanted to buy any more farm produce in the owner's absence this year.

MARITIME NOTES.

The fishing schooner H. A. Johnson, of Gloucester, which came into this port on Monday of last week, and after taking in salt at E. F. Sise & Co.'s, sailed on Tuesday morning, Sept. 22d, for the banks, was run down that evening in a heavy gale by an unknown barque which struck her amidships, cut her nearly in two, and instantly disappeared in the darkness. Charles Lawson, one of the crew, was knocked overboard and drowned at the time of the collision. The rest of the crew, nine in number, after working steadily for seventeen hours to keep the water-logged wreck afloat, were rescued by the fishing schooner Aroostook, of Gloucester.

On Tuesday afternoon a beautiful marine picture was spread out before a person standing on the shore at Rye, the ocean as far as the eye could reach being thickly dotted with fishing vessels, their sails gleaming brightly under the rays of the declining sun. They were up in Ipswich bay, off the Kittery and York shores, all around the Shoals, and away off to the horizon and below it—hundreds of them, gliding hither and thither in all directions over the deep blue waters, and presenting a view such as is rarely seen.

The schooner Emily A. Staples, from Saco, and the G. W. Raitt and Estella from this port, all brick laden, arrived at Boston Sept. 28th.

The Nonpareil club have commenced refitting their room, — the old custom-house whence so much money passed into the United States treasury during the early years of the republic. New furniture will be added, carpets placed on the floors, and the ceiling and walls tinted and frescoed.

Daniel Clark, at Commercial wharf, is now receiving quantities of very large cod, which are immediately sent inland, packed in ice. Veranus Rand's boat, of York, brought in 3000 lbs. on Monday.

At meeting of the board of instruction, Monday evening, a gentleman named Rockwood, of Lawrence, was elected principal of the Jones grammar school, in place of R. Hamilton Perkins, resigned.

Mrs. Nutter, matron of Faith Home, while passing through the upper hallway of the home on Monday evening without a light, fell down the back stairs, breaking one wrist and badly cutting herself about the head and face. Dr. Parsons was called, and set the broken limb and sewed up the many cuts about the head. The lady had a narrow escape.

The policemen's picnic at Rye beach on Tuesday was a highly successful affair, nearly 300 persons going down in barges, carryalls and single teams, and all apparently enjoying themselves. A big tent was pitched near Wallis' sands, and in it the abundant clambake was served, under the supervision of Officer Hobbs. Foot-ball, base ball and other games were kept going at a lively rate until breaking-up time arrived. Everything passed off satisfactorily, there being no unpleasant incidents to mar the occasion.

Capt. George R. Raitt, who left Portsmouth on the 19th of September, arrived at Jacksonville, Fla., on the 24th, in good health and condition. He sends regard to all friends.

Mr. E. B. Dearborn has reopened the building No. 11 Water street, which is fitted in good style with nice furniture as a tonsorial establishment and bathroom. As he is a sailor man he thinks he ought to get his proper proportion of the patronage of the seafaring men.

Mr. Joseph Caswell came in from Smuttynose island, Shoals, on Saturday, with a quantity of "Fisherman's breakfast pollock,"—a most delicious article of food, but one that is never put on the market, so far as we are aware. When regular fishing is dull the fishermen sometimes catch a lot of little pollock, from a foot to eighteen inches long, such as they can fill a boat with in a short time at certain seasons; these are split, soaked in the usual pickle for three or four hours only, then well washed out, and about half-dried; and when thus cured, if tossed into a hot oven for about a minute just at breakfast time, and eaten hot, they furnish as delicious a relish as the sea affords, not excepting the salmon or the Isles of Shoals dun-fish.

It is said that Hon. Frank Jones, who is still at Carlsbad, is gaining flesh at the rate of a pound a day. Those offensive partisans at the Kittery navy yard will catch hail Columbia after Mr. Jones' return.—Boston Post.

I Will Never!

Allow myself to suffer again what I have suffered for the last year. That vile disease, dyspepsia, gave me no comfort. I could not eat nor enjoy anything. The doctors amounted to nothing; nothing seemed to relieve me, until I used a bottle of Sulphur Bitters. Four bottles made me well.—Joseph Batchelder, master of schooner C. A. Baker.

She got a bottle of Parker's Tonic and it cured her of neuralgia arising from disordered stomach and nerves. She told her friends, and now they all keep a doctor at home in the form of Parker's Tonic.

A Savage.

Dixon, a Choctaw, 20 years of age,
Had killed a miner in a Leadville brawl;
Tried and condemned, the rough-beards curb their rage,
And watch him stride in freedom from the hall.

"Return on Friday, to be shot to death!"
So ran the sentence—it was Monday night.
The dead man's comrades drew a well-pleased breath;
Then all night long the gambling dens were bright.

The days sped slowly; but the Friday came,
And flocked the miners to the shooting-ground;
They chose six riflemen of deadly aim.
And with low voices sat and lounged around.

"He will not come." "He's not a fool." "The men
Who set the savage free must face the blame."
A Choctaw brave smiled bitterly, and then
Smiled proudly, with raised head, as Dixon came.

Silent and stern—a woman at his heels:
He motions to the brave, who stays her tread.
Next minute—flame the guns; the woman reels
And drops without a moan—Dixon is dead.
—John Boyle O'Reilly.

A SPRING CLEANING.

For a whole week Number two Bredgar Villas, Camberwell New Road, had been turned "upside down and inside out," as poor Mr. Clayton declared, "till there was no rest for the sole of one's foot," and each morning as he started to catch his train at Kennington Church with his son, he vowed that never again would he undergo the agonies of "a spring clean." But the afternoon of the last day at length arrived, and Mrs. Clayton and Winifred, her daughter, with their one servant, were busy as bees putting the finishing touches to the household arrangements, though it must be said that Winnie, who had just finished her last term at boarding-school, and who was not yet fully domesticated, was a more ornamental than useful element.

However, she had not been idle, and at last all was finished, and rather tired and flushed with her exertions, Winnie went upstairs after a somewhat makeshift dinner with the best intentions possible of clearing out the closet in her room.

If it had been a linen-closet, or a china-closet, or a preserve closet, or anything but the closet it was, there is no telling what Winnie might have accomplished.

But those four rows of dresses, hanging smoothly down from their respective pegs, proved fatal. They were dresses of her ante-boarding-school period, and she had had hardly a glimpse of them for two years or more.

Trying them on came next, in the natural course of affairs.

It was an amusing process. They were woefully out of style, most of them buttoned behind, none of them reached below the tops of her shoes; but it was very absorbing, and she could hardly believe her ears when she heard her mother calling to her up the stairs to come down to tea.

She was arrayed at that moment in a white spotted muslin, which she remembered to have worn for the first time on her fourteenth birthday.

It had a sash which tied in an imposing bow behind; it had a row of white pearl buttons down the back; and it was several inches shorter than—supposing there had been anybody to observe—would have been strictly desirable.

Winnie giggled. A sudden idea had struck her. She pulled out her hair-pins hastily, braided her hair in a long tail, and tied it with a blue ribbon; she had discovered a string of coral beads in her drawer—she had worn it at the age of six—and put it on; and then she giggled again delightedly, and went downstairs.

Her little plan was, to a certain extent, highly successful.

Her father looked at her with exactly the degree of bewilderment she had anticipated; her mother set down the teapot and gazed at her in just the astonished, half-remonstrating way she had known she would do; her brother George emitted the explosive chuckle she had expected. But there her triumph ended.

For next her own vacant place, spreading his napkin across his knee, and regarding her calmly from a pair of handsome blue eyes, there sat a young man whom she had never seen before.

Under ordinary circumstances Winnie would have been rather gratified than otherwise at the unexpected appearance of a nice-looking young man.

But now the blood rushed to her face in torrents, her breath came in gasps; the light fairly danced before her eyes.

Thre was nothing to be done. She was half-way across the room; they were all looking at her; the precipitate flight which she had meditated for a wild moment was not to be thought of.

She clutched a friendly chair to steady herself, darted a fierce glance at George, who was stuffing his napkin into his mouth, and advanced as majestically as her limited skirts would allow.

"My friend, Tom Bradley. You've heard me speak of him, Winnie. My sister," said George from behind his napkin.

Mr. Bradley turned his blue eyes upon the figure at his side.

It had twisted its chair away from him as far as possible; it was bending low over its plate; it was evidently bashful.

The young man smiled paternally.

"Do you go to school?" he began, in the patronizing tone young men assume toward small girls.

Winnie murmured something inaudibly:—George gave a violent snicker, and covered it hastily with a cough.

Tom Bradley, being a kind-hearted fellow, and unwilling to see anybody uncomfortable, talked industriously to his timid neighbor, in the hope of relieving her embarrassment, though she was certainly the most diffident child he had ever seen. But he observed—and it was an unusual thing, he said to himself, in girls at that interesting age—that she was decidedly pretty.

"Well, we're very good friends already, aren't we?" he said encouragingly, as they arose from the table.

There was no response other than a sudden swish through the air of a brown braid tied with a blue ribbon, and a glimpse of a short, white skirt flying through the door.

What a peculiar little girl she was! If he had seen her at that moment, probably he would have thought her more peculiar.

She had rushed upstairs and into her own room, locked the door, thrown herself on the bed, and commenced what the girls at school call a "good cry."

If he had been old, or ugly, or disagreeable—if he had been anything but the soft-voiced distractingly good-looking fellow he was—she could have borne it with fortitude.

Why had George brought him at that dreadful time? Why had she hit upon this particular day for that idiotic performance? Why was he not red-haired or cross-eyed, or—something? She would not have minded it in the least in that case.

There was a tap at the door, and she heard George's voice, not yet quite composed, begging her to let him in.

His mirth disappeared before the woe-begone little person who opened the door to him, and stood mopping her eyes.

"Oh, well, now!" he began, comfortingly, "you don't mean to say you're broken up like this about a little thing like that?"

"A little thing!" cried Winnie, chokingly. "Oh, George! what—what will he think?"

"Never mind what he'll think," said George, calmly. "It was a good joke, and that ought to be enough for you."

That did not seem to console Winnie. She only sobbed into her handkerchief the more wildly.

"Why did you bring him?" she murmured, in a heart-broken way. "Why didn't you bring somebody that wasn't so—so nice?"

"Oh, well," he observed, trying to speak in an off-hand way, "don't worry about it! he's—he's married!"

The sobs ceased. But, strange to say, the face which lifted itself from the handkerchief was not exactly radiant. It seemed disappointed.

"Married!" Winnie repeated in an injured tone.

"Good gracious!" said the bewildered young man. "Don't that suit you?"

"Don't be rude!" said his sister severely.

The sight of so much dignity, in combination with the coral necklace and the juvenile dress, was too much for George. He clung to the door in another paroxysm of mirth.

"You've got to come down, you know," he gasped, wiping his eyes. "Put on something decent, and come down and paralyze him. What do you care?"

Winnie wavered. After all, what did she care? He was married!

Half an hour later, Tom Bradley, leaning against the piano in the drawing-room, and listening to George's rendering of the latest popular air, was roused by the sound of a footstep on the uncarpeted floor, and startled by the appearance of a graceful and extremely pretty young lady in a blue dress.

He was astonished at the familiar smile she gave him; he was astonished at the way in which George whirled about on the piano-stool, and grinned, without introducing them; and then, as he looked more closely at the pretty apparition, he became aware of the startling truth.

Winnie's composure, which had begun to desert her, returned in full force, as the young man dropped his eyes and studied the bare floor in evident confusion.

She sank on the sofa calmly, arranged the folds of her dress becomingly, and begged her brother, sweetly to continue his song.

"I'll let him know I don't care," she said to herself triumphantly. "Married—the horrid thing!"

"Are you as fond of music as of—dolls?" the young man ventured, breaking the silence at last.

"Almost," said Winnie, with a laugh.

And the conversation, with this small start drifted on gayly.

It struck her, as they talked on, that Mr. Bradley, for a married man, was—well—not well-behaved.

He kept his eyes fixed on her in an admiring way; the tone of his remarks—half bantering, wholly complimentary—was highly improper under the circumstances.

He had edged nearer and nearer to her, until there was no appreciable space between them.

Winnie felt that something must be done. She went to the piano hastily, and played a few meaningless notes with desperate speed.

Mr. Bradley followed promptly, and leaned over her with an air of profound enjoyment.

"Does Mrs. Bradley play?" said Winnie, frigidly.

"Mrs. Bradley?" her companion repeated, smiling inquiringly, and leaning rather lower.

"Your wife!" said Winnie, severely.

"Oh, but I haven't one!" said the young man cheerfully.

Winnie looked up at him quickly, and immediately looked down again.

"I haven't one," Mr. Bradley repeated softly; "but I've been thinking for the last twenty minutes that I'd like one immensely, if——"

The recollection that she had known Mr. Bradley barely an hour and a half caused Winnie to turn away from him hastily and commence a noisy polka.

But when she got up to her room that night, at a rather late hour, and sank on the edge of the bed, staring with unseeing eyes at the white muslin, lying where she had left it in a heap on the floor, the thought did run vaguely through her mind that perhaps she had helped, or hindered, her mother for the last time.

And Tom Bradley was of the same opinion.

New Hampshire Gazette

As an advertising medium it presents an excellent opportunity for a weekly invitation to customers, at a reasonable rate, and all those who desire to reach patrons in York county, Me., or in New Hampshire, will find it an economical medium. THE GAZETTE is in many instances the only paper taken by families, and it is read to a large extent in localities whence is derived much of the trade of Portsmouth, a fact which our merchants and out-of-town advertisers should bear in mind. Is inseparably connected with Hood's Sarsaparilla, and is true of no other medicine. It is an unanswerable argument as to strength and economy, while thousands testify to its superior blood-purifying and strengthening qualities. A bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla contains 100 doses and will last a month, while others will average to last not over a week. Hence, for economy, buy Hood's Sarsaparilla.

The quarterly meeting of the Maine state board of health was held in Augusta Sept. 28th. The principal topic of discussion was the threatened smallpox epidemic.

A free circulation of the blood is largely conducive to good health, and can be promoted by quick rubbing with St. Jacobs Oil.

Arrested!?

Charles A. Dales was arrested last evening for stealing from the drug store of Shiefman a bottle of Sulphur Bitters. Before the court this morning, upon being asked why he should steal, he stated that his mother was troubled with rheumatism, and that it was the only medicine that helped her, and being out of money and work was the cause of his stealing. As this was his first offence he was put on probation.—Newark News.

Fire Insurance.

They tell a story among the fire insurance officials who have lately withdrawn their business from the state of New Hampshire in consequence of the passage of a bill known as the "Actual Value Law." This bill required companies doing business in the state to pay the full amount of the policy in case of fire, even though the damage was not complete. It appears that a state senator of New Hampshire had a hotel burned. The insurance company rebuilt it rather than pay the full amount of the policy. The senator did not want it rebuilt, as it was not profitable. So he had the Actual Value Law introduced and passed, and the insurance companies left the state uninsured.

The above, from a New York paper, is a sample of the canards used by insurance managers to appease the stockholders of their companies in the present exigency, as a reason why the valued policy law was passed.

The difficulty now is, with the real estate owners, savings bank managers, and especially mortgagers of buildings, where to find insurance. True, there comes to the state daily an almost unlimited number of circulars soliciting business, and men who know and are known abroad are placing their insurance, sometimes through brokers and sometimes directly, with foreign companies, notwithstanding the strike of the companies heretofore doing business in the state. But the people of the state wish an insurance office or agency in their own locality, and the managers of the new company in this city are showered daily with an immense number of letters urging policies to be issued, and asking that agencies may be established in the writers' towns.

The foreign insurance men say that there is no such thing as a profitable insurance business in New Hampshire, (a strong argument, it would seem, in favor of the new law, if the companies have heretofore overinsured.) They contend that the business requires the highest ability to cope with its intense competition; that new companies cannot build up a surplus, as has the New Hampshire Co., which has had seventeen years of prosperous business, whose $200,000 of government bonds were bought at reasonable rates, and whose other securities were invested by a sagacious treasurer who has been in office from the start and is one of the largest holders of stock in the company; that no new company will be likely to have the aid of the financial ability which has been secured to the Manchester company, or can place its capital in such favorable class of investments in the present condition of the market, as was the good fortune of that company.

They also say that the business requires the constant oversight and personal attention of men trained to the calling and familiar with every phase in the complications of insurance, and that it cannot prosper except with this kind of management, aided by financial skill, and more than all, by the greatest of good luck. Indeed, we are told that success in insurance is the exception, and failure the rule.

It certainly was the case in New Hampshire, before the stock companies had so generally absorbed the business, that mutual insurance companies, managed by local talent and even with the miserable system of giving premium notes, were quite able to effect all needed insurance, and few fires were seen.

It may be that when the companies from New York, Connecticut and Massachusetts turn their backs upon the heretofore assured, who for many years have paid them large sums in premiums, and when these underwriters seek to punish all for the sins of the few, when they discard all business, (however they might, by a little gumption, quite easily word their policies or the applications therefor to get around the law, or have their business done by canvassers, instead of by local agents, as in several instances is now being done,) the people in towns will be obligbed to organize local mutual insurance companies, which will be managed by the best residents, in an inexpensive manner, and the insured save the contributions to pay the great outlay for extravagant office buildings in large cities, salaries, commissions, and the many expenditures incident to the conduct of the business of a large stock insurance association.

But the real estate owner has generally been content to pay his premium, file away his policy, and never give it a thought afterward. To-day, his insurance becomes a matter of consequence. Holders of mortgages at will, and mortgagors, are anxious, and the enquiry everywhere is heard, "What shall we do to be saved" from loss or damage by fire? Really it has been such an easy affair just to pay a trifle for one of those handsomely-printed metropolitan policies, that when we come to realize our condition, to appreciate how much we depend upon the protection afforded by safe and reliable insurance, we agree with the old farmer in York, who confided to a former insurance agent from the Great Bay region "it is no matter what kind of an insurance policy you have if your buildings never burn." But experience will demonstrate that should the devouring element pay us a visit, a policy on a company of undoubted solvency will prove one of the most satisfactory papers we then can possess.

AN INJUNCTION ASKED FOR.

Charles E. Batchelder, Esq., as counsel for Hon. Frank Jones, on Sept. 29th filed in the supreme court a bill in equity praying for a perpetual injunction against the city of Portsmouth and Richard D. Shanahan, contractor for building the new sewer, restraining the city and contractor, or either of them, from constructing the outlet of said sewer through land claimed by Jones and others at the head of the dock opposite the foot of Deer street, and through the said dock at the southerly side instead of along by Sise's wharf, as first planned. Judge Smith granted a preliminary injunction, and appointed a hearing on the petition at the court house in this city on Saturday, Oct. 3d, at ten o'clock in the forenoon. Notice was served on the city and contractor Sept. 30th.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIABLE.

The Young People's Christian Association of the North Parish, which held so many highly successful entertainments and sociables last winter, gave their first sociable and supper this season in the parlors of the chapel on Middle street on Wednesday evening of this week. There was a large attendance, and a very enjoyable time was had by all present. Since the organization of this association there has been more interest manifested among the young folks of the Sunday school than for a long period previous. Much credit is given to Misses Dow, Grace and Shackley for the success of the affair. M.

THE OPERA.

Big audiences again assembled in Music hall, on the afternoon and evening of Sept. 30th, to enjoy the delicious absurdity and charming music of the old favorite, Pinafore; and both entertainments were thoroughly enjoyable, and heartily enjoyed by the throngs present. Miss Mae Bruce was the best Josephine, and Gilbert Clayton the best Sir Joseph Porter, K. C. B., that we have seen on Music hall stage; Charles A. Bigelow made a capital Dick Deadeye; and Miss Mamie Upton, as Little Buttercup, looked pretty enough to make a crew of real men-o'-war's men buy all the rubbish a bumboat would carry, and besides that sang and acted her part nicely. Mr. Robert Nodine was satisfactory as Ralph Rackstraw, all the other parts were well taken, the chorus was good, and as a whole the performance fully deserved the large measure of favor with which it was received.

This evening the company will present the Chimes of Normandy, in which it is said they excel their very successful efforts in any of the other operas which they perform.

AFFAIRS IN KITTERY.

KITTERY, ME., Sept. 29th.

A large company of Good Templars from Morrill lodge of North Kittery went to South Berwick in Cottle's barge on Monday evening, the 28th, to visit Harmony lodge of that town; they report a pleasant trip.

About fifty children and adult members of the 1st Methodist Sabbath school met at the house of Mr. John J. Lambert on Thursday evening, the 24th, to participate in an ice cream sociable given by that gentleman to the school.

Mr. John H. Remick, who has been engaged at the Boar's Head hotel, Hampton beach, during the summer, is expected to close his engagement there this week, and will then probably go to Jacksonville, Florida, where he has had an excellent position offered him in a hotel.

Capt. Rashe Trefethen, of the steamer Mystic, returned from vacation on Monday, and has resumed duty on his boat, feeling much refreshed after his visit abroad.

There is said to be a revival in progress at the Second Methodist church, the result of the protracted meetings now being held there; several persons went forward for prayers on Sunday evening last. Rev. O. H. Jasper, pastor of the Methodist church in Portsmouth, will preach at the church on Wednesday evening, the 30th inst.

Putnam Brothers will make but one trip per day with the mail between York and Portsmouth after Wednesday, the 30th inst., until another season.

Mr. C. A. Todd has his store at North Kittery about ready for occupancy, and his stock of groceries will probably arrive this week. Mr. Todd is soon to fit up a building in the rear of his store to serve as a workshop for the manufacture and repair of all kinds of carriage and sleigh work.

Mr. Frank B. Pickering has left the employ of the Boston & Maine railroad, and accepted a position in the machine shop, department of steam engineering, at the navy yard.

The damage to Capt. J. L. Marden's house at Kittery Point, by fire on Monday morning, was small compared with that done by water and otherwise. It is said by an eye-witness that a dozen pails of water properly applied would have done all that was necessary, but nearly every one was excited, and the consequence was that the house was flooded with water and in removing furniture much was broken and scarred, and carpets badly damaged. Capt. Marden desires to express his thanks to all, and especially to Mr. David Manson for his promptness and the cool and judicious advice he gave the excited crowd.

SUE ROSA.

THE FIRE ALARM.

The monthly inspection of the fire alarm apparatus will be made by the superintendent this afternoon between the hours of one and four. Boxes 35, 43, 14, 32, 19 and 26 will be pulled in, one round each, only the North church bell sounding, the whistle not blowing.

The first blast in the excavation for the big sewer was fired on Wednesday forenoon, Sept. 30th, in the ledge on Deer street between the two railroad stations. Dynamite is the explosive used.

Martin V. B. Locke, eighteen years old, employed as a moulder in the foundry of the Portsmouth Machine Works, had the sight of one eye destroyed on the afternoon of the 29th ult. while "pouring," by a spatter of molten iron striking the eye.

The house and land on the westerly side of Lafayette road, belonging to the Balch estate, was sold at auction on Wednesday of this week by C. Dwight Hanscom & Co., to Stephen Marden, for $275. The field on the other side of the road, belonging to the same estate, was sold to Emmanuel Charlesworth for $223.

Found One at Last.

The democrats of New York have at last found a man willing to run on their ticket for lieutenant governor of the state. Roswell P. Flower, nominated by the state convention of the party, flatly declined the honor (?) of being run out of sight on election day. The state committee then offered the nomination to Erastus Corning, and then to Gen. Slocum, but neither of these gentlemen would accept. At last they hit upon Gen. S. F. Jones of Binghampton, and he accepts, as it is the only chance he ever will have to run for high office. Gen. Jones was colonel of the 6th Massachusetts regiment when it was mobbed by the roughs of Baltimore, and was a republican up to 1872, when he supported Greely, and has since been an out-and-out democrat. His choice by the state committee "was unanimous, no other name being presented."

Improve this pleasant weather and the cheap fares to visit the White Mountains. They never look finer than at this season. See advertisement of excursion to-morrow.

I Will Never!

Allow myself to suffer again what I have suffered for the last year. That vile disease, dyspepsia, gave me no comfort. I could not eat nor enjoy anything. More cases of sick headache, biliousness, constipation, etc., can be cured in less time, with less medicine, and for less money, by using Carter's Little Liver Pills, than by any other means.

Ladies, be very cautious how you tamper with samples of the many vile counterfeits offered you, which may prove very damaging to the fabric and hands; and instead of these similar appearing packages, be sure to get the only harmless article for laundry and kitchen use, the original James Pyle's Pearline. Sold by all Grocers.

The following-named officers have been detached from the naval war college, and ordered to duty as designated: Lieut. Comdrs. George W. Pigman and Charles H. The blood would run—For five years I was a great sufferer from Catarrh. My nostrils were so sensitive I could not bear the least bit of dust; at times so bad the blood would run, and at night I could hardly breathe. After trying many things without benefit I used Ely's Cream Balm. I am a living witness of its efficacy. Peter Bruce, Farmer, Ithaca, N. Y. Easy to use, price 50 cents.

Commodore S. B. Luce, Captain D. B. Harmony, Lieutenant Frank E. Sawyer and Ensigns John T. Newton and Henry T. May are ordered to examination for promotion.

Medical Inspector Michael Bradley is detached from the navy yard at League island, and placed on waiting orders.

Across the Deep, to the Far West, On steamboats, cars and stage-coaches, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is carried as the most important item in the materia medica of the travelling public. It deprives vitiated brackish water of its hurtful properties and execrable flavor, counteracts the pernicious effects upon the stomach of bad or indigestible food, remedies cramps, heartburn and wind upon the stomach. It is a fine defense against malaria disorders, nullifies the effects of excessive heat, cold and damp, relieves sick headache, and is an incomparable cure for costiveness and biliousness. The fatigue of travel often tells most disastrously upon invalids and convalescents, occasionally to such an extent as to jeopardize life. Persons in feeble health, apprehensive of bad effects from travel, will, if provided with the Bitters, be far less likely to have their fears realized.

The yacht Puritan will be laid up at Beverly, Mass., the coming winter, between the Boston & Maine railroad bridge and the Salem and Beverly bridge, and in full sight of passengers between Portsmouth and Boston on the railroad. The champion yacht of the world will no doubt be an object of great interest to the passers-by.

JOB OFFICE.

THE JOB PRINTING business is conducted in the same office by MR. RICHARD I. WALDEN, who keeps on hand a large and well-selected stock of all materials required in his line. Give him a trial and you will be more than pleased.

Old Deacon Dobson boasted that he was always "prepared for the worst;" and so he was, for he always kept Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup in the house, regarding it the only safe remedy for coughs and colds.

A boulder recently found in Madison is said to be the largest "travelled rock" ever seen and reported by man. Six feet from the ground it has a circumference of 300 feet, and a height of thirty feet.

We recommend Carter's Iron Pills to every woman who is weak, nervous and discouraged; particularly those who have thin, pale lips, cold hands and feet, and who are without strength or ambition. These are the cases for which Carter's Iron Pills are specially prepared, and this class cannot use them without benefit. Valuable for men also. In metal boxes, at 50 cents. Sold by druggists or sent by mail. See advertisement elsewhere.

While Annie Burgess and Emily Coffin, of East Stark, were on their way to school through the woods on the morning of Sept. 25th, they saw a large bear cross their path only a few rods ahead of them, but the animal took no notice of them, to their great satisfaction.

Prompt relief in sick headache, dizziness, nausea, constipation, pain in the side, etc., guaranteed to those using Carter's Little Liver Pills. One pill a dose. 25 cents.

Considerable indignation has been excited in Biddeford by the discovery that the body of Nahum Morrison of that city, who was drowned by the capsizing of a sailboat on the 6th of June last, was buried in a rough box and in the clothes he had on when drowned, though the undertaker, Dennis O'Connor, charged the widow $27 for his services, and was paid that amount. Mr. O'Connor is the city superintendent of burials.

Small Doses Cure.

During the past fifty years the proprietors of Brandreth's Pills have received thousands of voluntary testimonials of the wonderful cures effected by these Pills. They not only cure rheumatism, dyspepsia, piles, diarrhœa, liver complaint and all fevers, but greatly prolong the human life. One or two at night, on an empty stomach, for a week or two is sufficient.

—It cost over $100,000 to keep the America's cup and over $100,000 more for the people to see it kept, but the country has had a good deal more than $200,000 worth of fun out of it, to say nothing of the glory.

"For economy and comfort, every spring, we use Hood's Sarsaparilla," writes an intelligent Buffalo, N. Y., lady. 100 Doses One Dollar.

What Parents Fear.

Many persons—especially parents—object to many quack nostrums as likely to engender or encourage a love for strong drink. They are right. Better die of disease than of drunkenness. The use of Parker's Tonic does not involve this danger. It not only builds up the system, curing all ailments of the stomach, liver and kidneys, but it stimulates without intoxicating and absolutely cures the appetite for liquor.

What can be more disagreeable, more disgusting, than to sit in a room with a person who is troubled with catarrh, and has to keep coughing and clearing his or her throat of the mucus which drops into it? Such persons are always to be pitied if they try to cure themselves and fail. But if they get Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy there need be no failure.

—Some of the newspapers are publishing portraits of the leading baseball players of the country. The umpires look upon it as a sort of compensation for all they have suffered.

The blood would run—For five years I was a great sufferer from Catarrh. My nostrils were so sensitive I could not bear the least bit of dust; at times so bad the blood would run, and at night I could hardly breathe. After trying many things without benefit I used Ely's Cream Balm. I am a living witness of its efficacy. Peter Bruce, Farmer, Ithaca, N. Y. Easy to use, price 50 cents.

OUR NEW YORK FASHION LETTER.

FALL MATERIALS.

Certain ideas pervade the domain of dress; given such and such ideas in millinery and in materials, we are sure to see them; as for example, the canvas ribbons of last summer, which served as preludes to canvas costumes; and when this fall we see woollen ribbons as their successors, let us be sure that wool dresses will have prestige. Peculiar prestige when wrought in canvas-like texture, yet with coarseness of thread, making amends for loose weaving. Broad wool sashes touched with the same dull-colored stripes shown forth in hat scarfs, are brought out for dresses, and nothing can exceed in style the coming wool costume with scarf-trimmed hat to match. Broad woollen galoons in millinery, of rug-like thickness and design, are also the prelude to thick wools of indistinct patterns; and as prominence of beads upon hats and bonnets is very great, so will many stylish effects be brought about by beads on dresses. Not always the fine, glittering jet, but large beads set about fancifully, and here we see the rosary beads, which, a revelation in millinery, will appear as well on costumes. Though old themselves, they become novel by novelty of use, and with brownish shadings will prove real additions. The heavy-looking wools just mentioned will be in special demand for

WALKING COSTUMES,

Which, made short, will give opportunity for an exhibition of the society lady's trim walking boot, brightened by her tried and trusty dressing, Buttons's Raven Gloss. Plush will enter largely into these costumes. Plush bonnets are many; costumes where plush appears, ditto. Too expensive, and too heavy-looking for the whole dress, this handsome fabric will effectually serve as touches on something less expensive or more generally becoming. Rough bourette sprinklings on wool will help to produce that heaviness at present thought stylish, while thick loopings in borders, sometimes woven in the goods or set in stripes, will be powerful exponents of a leading fashionable idea. Velveteen is in great demand, and each season now we grow more and more convinced how much "modern improvement" has done for us in this line of dress fabric. Especially sought for is the Arcadia velveteen, which, with rich, soft surface, and brought out in all stylish colors, whether for day or evening, is a rival and constant substitute for velvet. Worn by our best people, it has grown standard, and year after retains its high position. A fine grade of velveteen is a far better purchase than cheap velvet; is handsomer, more durable, and thoroughly genteel.

BONNETS

Are quite small, and as we are now tired of the term "capote" we say in place of it "Princesse." Close and small, plush made, velvet made, or felt; the trimming massed in front, and bristling; wings standing upright, breast feathers added to by stiff feathery endings made of metal or wire-strung beads, while if ostrich tips appear, they nod defiantly. But straight standing feathers, or long narrow leaves stiffened out by glue, and beads, are more often seen. Fine wire-strung beads are twisted into imitation fern and other leaves, and, placed upright, unite with stiff-looped ribbons. For while we note woollen ribbons as a novelty, yet numerous are the conservative ones of satin and velvet or satin with picot edge, peculiar to this season. Hats give room for considerable display by pronounced trimming set in front or against the high crown, but there are large importations of English walking hats and turbans. On all varieties, however, we observe the favor shown beads and beading. Amber beads as large as medium sized buttons, and flat, are set at regular intervals all over; thickly beaded material is brought out for making; galoons stiff with beads are used in trimming, and combined with beaded simulations of foliage and flowers, while the favorite edging is a row of large beads, which correspond with others set on in various ways. Feathers are extremely fanciful, and artificial as they are fanciful. Nature is not consulted, except perhaps in the case of little humming birds that sometimes are set in clusters of intrinsic beauty.

Dyspepsia.

GENTS:—I feel it my duty to say respecting Burdock Blood Bitters, that it is the best medicine I ever took. I suffered two or three years from stomach troubles and dyspepsia as well as from liver and kidney complaint. I was not able to attend to my business. My wife was afflicted in much the same way. We read of your Bitters in the papers and made up our minds that we would try them. The result is my wife and I began to improve at once, and I am now able to do more hard work than before in ten years. It relieved my kidney troubles as well. We both wish you, the makers of it, Godspeed.

If you have any doubt as to its merit, write to the manufacturers for names of parties in your own State who have been cured of rheumatism and neuralgia by its use.

The Voice of the People.

The people, as a whole, seldom make mistakes, and the unanimous voice of praise which comes from those who have used Hood's Sarsaparilla, fully justifies the claims of the proprietors of this great medicine. Indeed, these very claims are based entirely on what the people say Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for them. Read the abundant evidence of its curative powers, and give it a fair, honest trial.

Theoretical vs. Practical Reform.

The letter of President Cleveland to Eaton upon civil service reform received a black eye Sept. 29th at the hands of Secretary Manning, who is guilty of the most flagrant violation of the spirit as well as the letter of the civil service law in discharging Captain A. Johnson, chief of division of the records and mails in the treasury department. Captain Johnson had held this position since 1869, and was an able, faithful and in every way competent clerk. In addition to this he was a soldier during the war, and was many times wounded by rebel bullets.

It would have been politic for Mr. Manning to have deferred this action until after the New York election, though the independents have very many of them perceived that Cleveland's professions of regard for the civil service law are utterly inconsistent with his allowing his cabinet officers to practically ignore the enforcement of the statute. No admirer of the reform president can be much longer blind to the fact that the president pretends to have a respect for his obligations to enforce a law he has sworn to support, while he of course can have such a policy enforced in the departments of the government as he pleases. The democrats claim that Mr. Cleveland is rapidly coming into line, and soon will be as ripe for spoils as are the rest of the party members.

Knights Templar Election of Officers.

At the annual conclave of the Grand Commandry of Knights Templar of New Hampshire, held in Concord on Sept. 29th, the following officers were elected and installed: Don Hermon Woodward of Keene, grand commander; Charles Newell Towle of Concord, deputy grand commander; John James Bell of Exeter, grand generalissimo; Edward Richard Kent of Lancaster, grand captain of the guard; Rev. Daniel Crane Roberts of Concord, grand prelate; Charles Carroll Danforth of Concord, grand senior warden; Nathaniel Wentworth Cumner of Manchester, grand junior warden; Frank Albert McKean of Nashua, grand treasurer; George Perley Cleaves of Concord, grand secretary; Henry Augustus Marsh of Nashua, grand standard bearer; Charles Chase Dorr of Dover, grand sword bearer; Thaddeus Ezra Sanger of Littleton, grand warden; George Washington Currier of Nashua, grand captain of guard.

The Mystic Park Races.

The great stallion race at Mystic park, Medford, Mass., September 30th, for the "Spirit of the Times" stallion cup, valued at $1000, and added stakes of $7125 (seventy per cent to first horse, twenty to second and ten to third,) was won by Pilot Knox, the popular Maine horse, in three straight heats, time 2:19 3-4., 2:20-1-2, 2:20, beating King Wilkes, Montgomery, King Almont and Westmont, two horses, Almont Gift and Don Carlos, not starting. King Wilkes took second money, and Montgomery third.

During the intervals between the heats the stallion Mambrino Wilkes, owned by John B. Clarke of Manchester, trotted a heat to beat 2:30 on a wager, and made the mile in 2:28 3-4 without a break.

Massachusetts Republican Convention.

The republican state convention of Massachusetts met in Springfield on Wednesday, Sept. 30th, and unanimously nominated George D. Robinson for governor, Oliver Ames for lieutenant governor, Henry B. Peirce for secretary of state, Alanson W. Beard for treasurer, Charles R. Ladd for auditor, and Edgar J. Sherman for attorney general.

Two sisters met in Beverly, Mass., Monday night, Sept. 28th, for the first time for twenty-three years, and then to recognize each other as sisters for the first time. Their names are Mrs. Charles S. Dennis of Beverly, and Mrs. Caroline Bartlett of Bartlett Island, Me., who were adopted by different families in their infancy on the death of their parents. Neither was aware that the other existed until a few months ago, when information received by chance by Salem people who were in Maine led Mr. Dennis to correspond with the family there, and to the happy meeting.

THE OPERA.

Music hall was packed with an immense audience on Thursday evening, the 1st inst., when the Chimes of Normandy was played, and gave the same decided satisfaction that the previous performances by the Bennett & Moulton Co. had done. We cannot spare space to particularize, and will only mention the Serpolette of Miss Mae Bruce, the marquis de Corneville of Mr. T. V. Ricketts, and the Gaspard of Mr. Gilbert Clayton, as being especially meritorious. The performance was well received, and deserved it.

This evening the Mascot will be again given, and to-morrow afternoon and evening, "Girofle-Girofla."

A LOST CAUSE.

At Alfred, Me., Sept. 29th, in the supreme judicial court of Maine for York county, the suit of R. H. Beacham of Portsmouth against Mrs. Goodwin of York, to recover $200, the value of a horse claimed to have been bought by her of Mr. Beacham, was tried. The facts in the case, as presented to the court, are as follows:

Mrs. Goodwin owns a summer hotel at York beach, and formerly had for clerk and manager of the house a relative, named Franklin Hardy. In 1883 this Hardy came to Beacham's stable and purchased a horse, two carriages and a harness; the goods were delivered to him and he took them over to York, Mrs. Goodwin paying for the same. In 1884 Hardy came to plaintiff again, and said that he wished to get another horse; he took one which seemed to suit, but was returned next day as unsatisfactory, and took another, the horse now in question. This horse was taken to the Goodwin house and used there all the summer, carrying passengers and baggage from the railroad station in this city to the hotel and return. At the end of the summer Hardy telephoned the plaintiff that the horse would be paid for by Mrs. Goodwin. That same evening, or shortly after, Hardy and the horse disappeared, and have never been seen or heard from since. In all these transactions, and in others with various persons, the plaintiff claimed that Hardy acted as agent for Mrs. Goodwin, and was practically so acknowledged by her, through her payment of the bills contracted by him; but after the evidence was all in the defendant's counsel asked for a non suit on the ground that Hardy's authority as agent had not been proved, and the judge granted the petition.

SUPPOSED DROWNING ACCIDENT.

Mr. George Baker of Newcastle, a part owner and one of the crew of the fishing schooner A. C. Newhall, left this city about ten o'clock on Wednesday night, Sept. 30th, in a sailboat, to join the schooner, then lying in the lower harbor. On Thursday morning at an early hour the boat was found on the shore of Wood island with the mast broken short off, but no sign was found of Mr. Baker. It is supposed that the boat got athwart hawse of his schooner or some other vessel, and was dismasted and capsized, with fatal result to Mr. Baker. The missing man was a brother of Capt. Edwin M. Baker, formerly captain of the steamer Appledore.

PRESENTATIONS.

Mr. R. Hamilton Perkins, who for a number of years has had a general supervision of the schools, numbering about twenty, in districts one and two, was called upon at his residence on Court street, on the evening of the 29th ult., by the teachers of the schools, and presented with a large and beautiful steel engraving, "Thoroughbred," by R. W. Parker, the most celebrated English engraver. On the 30th, the last day of Mr. Perkins' connection with the schools of the city, shortly after the Jones school was called to order, Master Irving Laighton, in behalf of the boys of the school, presented Mr. Perkins with a group of Rogers' statuary, "Where's my dog?" and a fine stylographic pen; and Miss Alice M. Jewett, in behalf of the young ladies, presented him with a set of Longfellow's poems, and a gold pen and pencil. The presentation speeches of the several representative speakers, and the responses of Mr. Perkins, were strongly indicative of the mutual good will and esteem which had grown up between Mr. Perkins and the teachers and pupils until recently under his supervision.

The returning Sir Knights expressed themselves as more thau pleased with their reception at Providence.

Across the Deep, to the Far West, On steamboats, cars and stage-coaches, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is carried as the most important item in the materia medica of the travelling public. It deprives vitiated brackish water of its hurtful properties and execrable flavor, counteracts the pernicious effects upon the stomach of bad or indigestible food, remedies cramps, heartburn and wind upon the stomach. It is a fine defense against malaria disorders, nullifies the effects of excessive heat, cold and damp, relieves sick headache, and is an incomparable cure for costiveness and biliousness. The fatigue of travel often tells most disastrously upon invalids and convalescents, occasionally to such an extent as to jeopardize life. Persons in feeble health, apprehensive of bad effects from travel, will, if provided with the Bitters, be far less likely to have their fears realized.

The smallpox in Montreal has seriously affected the railroad and hotel business there.

A carrier pigeon started from Montgomery, Ala., the middle of August by Samuel Hunt of Fall River, Mass., reached home on Sept. 30th in good condition.

SKIN AND BLOOD

Diseases from Pimples to Scrofula Cured by Cuticura.

Hundreds of letters in our possession, copies of which may be had by return of mail, repeat this story:—I have been a terrible sufferer for years from Diseases of the Skin and Blood; have been obliged to show public places by reason of my disfiguring humors; have had the best physicians; have spent hundreds of dollars, and got no relief until I used the CUTICURA REMEDIES, which have cured me, and left my skin and blood as pure as a child's.

COVERED WITH SALT RHEUM.

CUTICURA REMEDIES are the greatest medicines on earth. Had the worst case of Salt Rheum in this country. My mother had it twenty years, and in fact died from it. I believe CUTICURA would have saved her life. My arms, breast and head were covered for three years, which nothing relieved or cured until I used the CUTICURA RESOLVENT, internally, and CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP, externally. J. W. ADAMS. NEWARK, O.

HEAD, FACE AND BODY RAW.

I commenced to use your CUTICURA REMEDIES last July. My head and face and some parts of my body were almost raw. My head was covered with scabs and sores, and my suffering was fearful. I had tried everything I had heard of in the East and West. My case was considered a very bad one. I have now not a particle of Skin Humor about me, and my case is considered wonderful. MRS. S. E. WHIPPLE. DECATUR, MICH.

ECZEMA FROM HEAD TO FEET.

Charles Fayre Hinkle, Jersey City Heights, N. J., writes: "My son, a lad of twelve years, was completely cured of a terrible case of Eczema by the CUTICURA REMEDIES. From the top of his head to the soles of his feet was one mass of scabs." Every other remedy and physicians had been tried in vain.

NOTHING LIKE CUTICURA.

The half has not been told as to the great curative powers of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. I have paid hundreds of dollars for medicines to cure diseases of the blood and skin, and never found anything yet to equal the CUTICURA REMEDIES. PROVIDENCE, R. I. CHAS. A. WILLIAMS.

THE VALE OF POCHUNK.

A Land of Peace and Plenty, Where the Crows are Full of Wisdom.

In the region where the Pochunk creek gropes its slothful way along the western edge of Sussex county, to eventually become an integral part of the great drowned lands of New Jersey and New York, good farming land is plenty, and the follower of the plow grows fat and rich.

Nowhere, perhaps, in all the land of Jersey, writes Ed Mott in the New York Sun, does the industrious and mellifluous crow abound and appear more thrifty than in Pochunk's garden spot. Yet, prevalent and obtrusive as the crow is in that section, none of those fearfully and wonderfully made effigies which the old-time farmer fondly believed carried terror to the soul of the marauding crow is to be seen guarding the cornfield. The Pochunk farmer does not dangle the carcasses of dead crows from networks of twine to convey to the minds of live ones the alarming impression that the dead birds were caught and hanged while visiting the fields to undo the planter's work; nor does he hang gyrating fragments of dazzling tin from lofty poles to awaken suspicion in the prowling devastator of the cornfield. I suggested to a representative Pochunk tiller of the soil that these facts were odd.

"Y-a-a-s," said he, "it does look so. But we used to set up the scarinest o' all scarecrows, an' run miles an' miles o' cord round the fields an' use ourselfs up tryin' to think o' ways to ketch a crow or two to hang on the strings; an' the hunks o' tin we used to tie to poles 'd shingle all the roofs in the country. But when we took to seein' the crows, years an' years ago, lightin' on the scarecrows an' tearin' their clothes off, an' then takin' the pieces o' rags an' foldin' 'em up inter little bags, which they carried with 'em over the field an' filled with the corn they dug up an' flew away with pecks an' pecks that they couldn't a-got no other way, we just met an' past a resolution to let the scarecrows go, an' we did. Then the crows got to doin' all sorts o' circusin' on the twine we stretched, an' 'd cut the dead crows from the strings an' jist take their carcasses straight inter the cornfield, dig graves fur 'em in the hills o' corn, an' plant 'em with reg'lar funer'l ceremonies. When we see that, we met an' passed another resolution to use the string fur set lines fur eels, an' the strings had to go. We stuck to the swingin' an' clatterin an' dazzlin' tin, but I'm blamed if the crows didn't take to settlin' on them poles an' amusin' theirselfs by turnin' them bright pieces o' tin so they'd throw the reflection o' the sun inter our eyes so durn sharp that they wa'n't a man ez could see to work in the fields. So we had to either give up corn-plantin' or the tin an' we passed a resolution to sell the tin fur old iron, an' we did. Then we tried the soakin' o' the seed corn in pizen. That knocked a lot o' the crows, an' we found a good many of 'em dead around the deestric'. We met an' howled fur j'y, and passed a resolution that we had 'em now. But we didn't know the capacity o' Pochunk crows. One day we diskivered the crows a-workin' as lively as ever on the pizen corn, an' noticed that ev'ry one of 'em, arter he'd dug up an' golluped a few hills, 'd stick his head under his right wing an' peck away at something there, an' then perceed with the feast. We didn't find no more dead crows, an' we passed a resolution that sumpin' was up. One night I went out an' dug a hole in one corner o' my corn-field, deep enough to bury myself in all but my eyes an' nose and the tip end o' my shotgun. An' there I staid, holed up like a groun'-hog, till daylight. Bright an' 'arly down come a lot o' crows to make their breakfast on the pizen corn. One o' the black cusses got nigh enough to me an' I loaded him up with shot, an' he staid right in his tracks. The rest o' the crows, o' course, flew a mile away in less no time. I dug myself out an' picked up the dead crow. I looked in under his right wing, an' what do ye s'pose I found? A bunch o' wild mustard. Wild mustard was a sure antidote to the pizen we had in that seed-corn, and them crows had jist gathered some of it ev'ry time they made a raid on the corn, an' had topped off ev'ry two or three gollups o' corn with a chaw o' mustard, knowin' that it 'd knock spots out'n the pizen. Then we did meet. An' we passed a resolution that it wan't no use. All but ol' 'Squire Spooner. He said he couldn't fetch hisself to believe in the docturn o' total depravity, even in crows. He said he b'lieved that the Pochunk crows know'd so durn much that they could read, an' that if they see that we was willin to do the right thing by 'em they'd do the right thinter try a 'speriment.

"'I'm gointer try a 'speriment,' said the 'Squire. 'I'm gointer try a 'speriment,' said he, 'an' I b'lieve it'll work. Wait an' see,' said he.

"So we passed a resolution that we'd wait. What d'ye think the 'Squire done? He drew a row o' stakes round a quarter-acre o' one o' the best fields of corn he had planted, an' there wa'n't a pizen hill in the lot. Then he had a sign painted. It read like this:

CROWS, ATTENTION!
ALL THE CORN INSIDE THESE STAKES IS YOURN,
HELP YOURSELFS!

"'There,' said the 'Squire. 'Them crows is able to cipher that out, an' ye needn't tell me,' said he, 'that any livin' critter is mean enough to steal when they kin gather in their own.'

"We waited to see how the 'speriment 'd come out. The crows settled all around that sign, an' looked it over, an' had the darndest cawin' time ye ever heard. By an' by they dropped inter their quarter acre an' went to diggin' up their own corn. Th' wa'n't a crow anywhere else in the lot. We met an' passed a resolution that we'd be cussed if we ever see or heern tell o' the like, an' that we'd all set off a corn-field for crows. An' we'd a-done it, too, if it hadn't been fur one thing. When the 'Squire went out next mornin' to see how his crows was gettin' 'long, ye kin thrash me with a rawhide an' holler if them crows hadn't moved them stakes back in the lot more'n two hundred feet.

"Arter that we met an' passed a resolution that the Pochunk crows had too much o' an education fur us to fool with, an' ever since then we've jist let 'em have their own way, trustin' to Providence an' an occasional shot-gun to give the crows a chance."

North Carolina is receiving the benefit of a steady flow of immigration, the average number of immigrants per month being about 150. The State Commissioner of Immigration says that they come mainly from Pennsylvania, but all the Middle and New England States are represented. Most of the newcomers are farmers or mechanics. The majority go to the western part of the state. Charleston, Swain county, is the objective point of many. Dr. Clark Whittier, brother of the poet, John G. Whittier, has bought 50,000 acres of land there, being about one-third of Swain county. He proposes to divide it into 1,000 farms of sixty acres each, and on these to settle 1,000 families.

Dr. Tiffany says Grant told him that all music seemed to affect him as discord would the sensitive, skilled and cultured ear. He would go a mile out of his way rather than listen to a band.

Read what the people say concerning the ability of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil to cure asthma, catarrh, croup, colds, etc. Mrs. Dora Koch of Buffalo, says: "For croup it is decidedly efficacious." [Mrs. Jacob Mallnor of Marion, Ohio, says the same thing.] S. S. Graves, Akron, N. Y., writes: "Had asthma of the worst kind, took one dose of Thomas' Eclectric Oil and was relieved in a few minutes. Would walk five miles for this medicine and pay $5 a bottle for it." Druggist C. R. Hall, Grayville, Ill., says: "Cured my 5 year old daughter of croup in twenty-four hours." "Sat up in bed and coughed till the clothing was wet with perspiration. My wife insisted that I use Thomas' Eclectric Oil. The first teaspoonful RELIEVED me." E. H. Perkins, Creek Centre, N. Y. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is also a TIP-TOP external application for rheumatism, cuts, scalds, burns, bites, bruises, etc. When visiting the druggist, ask him what he knows of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil; if he has been long in the drug trade, he sure he will speak highly of it.

Worked Wonders.

"My daughter was very bad off on account of a cold and pain in her lungs. Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil cured her in twenty-four hours. One of the boys was cured of sore throat. This medicine has worked wonders in our family." Alvah [illegible], Lake Mohegac, N. Y.

Two Doses

of ATHLOPHOROS cured my wife of acute neuralgia. Instead of being laid up for two or three days as usual, it was all over in three hours and she has not had an attack since."—JOHN AUGER, 122 Howe Street, New Haven, Conn.

Some time ATHLOPHOROS will not act as quickly as at other times, but only as in this case, but it is sure and the more severe the pain the more quickly it will act. There is no disease more common and none more intensely painful than neuralgia. Ladies particularly are subject to headaches of neuralgic origin. Neuralgia in any form can be surely cured. Athlophoros is absolutely safe and absolutely sure. Thousands who have suffered intensely with neuralgia and been cured by the use of Athlophoros prove the truth of this statement. Is it not worth a trial in your case?

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been in curing

SICK

Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD

Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold by druggists everywhere, or sent by mail.

Why Is It

That the sale of Hood's Sarsapasilla continues at such a rapidly increasing rate? It is,—

1st: Because of the positive curative value of Hood's Sarsaparilla itself.

2d: Because of the conclusive evidence of remarkable cures effected by it, unsurpassed and seldom equalled by any other medicine. Send to C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass., for book containing many statements of cures.

The Essex-North Fair and Cattle Show.

On Tuesday, Oct. 6th, at Kenoza park, Haverhill, Mass., begins the second fair of the above-named series. An inspection of the premium list warrants us in saying that the premiums offered are liberal, and the arrangement of the different departments admirable.

The classes in the horse department are sixteen in number, and include prizes for stallions, breeding mares with specimen of stock by side, horses raised by exhibitor, colts three years old, two years and one year old, family horses, matched horses, saddle horses, Ojawa, Redpath, Emperor, Phil Sheridan, Jr., and Little Ben colts, best double team complete, best single team complete.

In the cattle department premiums are offered for bulls, cows, heifers and calves of every breed and description, from Jersey to grade stock, and also for beef cattle. Swine, sheep and goats have a department and poultry occupies a page, with prizes for everything in the poultry line.

The dairy, vegetables, fruits, flowers, plants, carriages, fancy work, and even kittens and rabbits have a department. Exhibitors will receive free passes during the fair, no matter how insignificant the exhibit. A good band of music will be in attendance, and a strong card of sports on the ball field and in the speed ring daily. For full particulars reference may be had to the premium list, which will be cheerfully furnished by applying in person or by mail to B. F. Brickett, Esq., secretary, Haverhill, Mass. The Boston & Maine railroad will sell round tickets trip from this place for one fare.

Insurance Trouble.

The affairs of the Charter Oak Life Ins. Co., of Hartford, Conn., are reported to be in a very bad way, the capital being impaired twenty-five per cent. The state insurance commissioner has asked for a receiver.

A Flattering Recognition.

Dr. Edwin M. Snow of Providence, R. I., who, as a sanitarian, has attained almost a national reputation, and who for almost a generation was superintendent of health of that city, at present acting as city registrar, has received a telegram from the officials of the city of Montreal, asking him to proceed to that city and take charge of the smallpox epidemic. Absolute control of the sanitary department of that scourged city has been offered him for three months. It is understood that he has accepted the offer conditionally.

Smallpox.

Eighteen cases of small pox are reported at Megantic, on the Canadian border of Maine. The Lewiston board of health have taken precautions against its introduction into that city.

There were no anti-vaccination disturbances in Montreal on the 1st inst., though fifty-eight vaccinators are making 3000 inoculations daily. It is stated that the Catholic clergy are trying to persuade people at the "east end" to be vaccinated, and that the measure will be advocated from the pulpits.

The New Hampshire state board of health have determined to appoint inspectors to board the through trains from Canada at Concord, and to examine all persons coming from the New Dominion, and their baggage. Arrangements have been made with the city officials of Manchester to have the luggage of individuals arriving from Canada fumigated before it is delivered.

A despatch from Phillips, Me., states that the eighteen cases of smallpox at Megantic, Canada, have caused a scare there, and that the attention of the state board of health will be called to the matter to prevent its spread across the border.

On account of the smallpox scare in Maynard, Mass., 1500 people were vaccinated by that town the past week. There is no case of the disease in the town at present.

The Journal of the 3d inst. says: "The salvation army have taken barracks at Badger hall on Daniel street, in this city, and will begin their 'warfare' here next Sunday, when, at half-past one o'clock p. m., they will assemble on Market square previous to commencing their march."

Hon. Charles H. Burns, United States district attorney for New Hampshire, has resigned. Mr. Burns has held the position five years, and resigns because it interferes with his practice in the state courts. Among the names mentioned for the position are Hon. John Hatch of Greenland and John S. H. Frink, Esq., of this city.

Sir Knight John Christie, eighty-two years of age, accompanied DeWitt Clinton Commandry of Knights Templar on the recent pilgrimage to Providence, R. I., and marched all the time. They were well received by the sir knights there, and attended a grand banquet at Silver Springs. Sir Knight Doyle, mayor of Providence, gave them the freedom of the city, and the sir knights in general, as well as all officials, paid them particular attention.

It is said to be unlikely that Hon. Lafayette Hall will rebuild his nut and bolt mill at Newmarket, recently burned. The permanent loss of this industry is a quite serious one to the town.

The annual meeting of the Rockingoam Universalist association was held in South Newmarket on Tuesday, Sept. 29th. The occasional sermon was preached by Rev. H. S. Fiske, pastor of the Universalist church in that town.

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA

Works through the blood, regulating, toning and invigorating all the functions of the body.

RAYNHAM, MASS., AUG. 1ST, 1882.

C. I. HOOD & CO.: Gentlemen—* * * I have had ringworm humor and salt-rheum so badly that my body was covered with raw sores; so, also, my head and face. I have had any number of doctors in the last seven years, and none of them could cure me. One day my mother was in the city of Taunton, and found one of your cook books, and in reading it I found many people testifying to cures from the use of your Sarsaparilla and Olive Ointment. I felt forced to try it, although I had seen many things advertised that never did me any good. I have now taken two small bottles and one large one of Sarsaparilla, and used three boxes of Ointment. I now call myself cured. Nothing can be seen of the humor but the dim outlines of the sores. I shall take two more bottles, and then the cure will be complete.

Yours gratefully,
EDGAR F. WHITMAN.

Biliousness, Sick Headache.

FITCHBURG, MASS.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO.: Gentlemen—Please send me by express two bottles HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA and a few Cook Books for distribution. Your preparation has worked wonders in the case of my wife, who has been troubled with sick headache and biliousness for years. She takes a wineglass teaspoonful at a dose, and has not been so well for five years as now. She found that within a week after taking it she felt very much better, and is now entirely free from those severe headaches. She has not taken any of any account since last spring, and what little she had is lent to do some others some good, and we must have it in the house.

Yours truly,
HOMER B. NASH.

THE OPERA.

The Bennett & Moulton Opera Co. on Friday evening kept up their custom of having a big audience, and repeated that bright and amusing production, "the Mascot." Of their performance of this opera we have already spoken somewhat in detail, and will only say now that the company gave as satisfactory a presentation of it on Friday evening as they did on Monday, notwithstanding that the sudden illness of Mr. Nodine, the "Pippo" of the Monday evening's cast, necessitated the changing around of three of the principal characters but a few minutes before the rising of the curtain.

Mr. Nodine's hoarseness has necessitated a change also in the advertised programme for to-day. This afternoon the Chimes of Normandy will be performed; and the charming opera, Olivette, will be given this evening, which will be the last chance our citizens will have, for the present, of seeing this very pleasing musical and dramatic organization. A large number of the evening tickets have already been sold, and persons desiring good seats had best call on Mr. M. Goodrich as early this morning as possible.

CONCORD & PORTSMOUTH RAILROAD.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of this corporation was held at Manchester on the first instant. Hon. Samuel N. Bell, president of the corporation, presided. Messrs. Parker and Cilley of Manchester and Pickering of Portsmouth were the committee to receive, assort and count the votes for directors, all of which were for John J. Pickering of Portsmouth, John J. Bell of Exeter, Walter M. Parker, Benjamin F. Martin and Samuel N. Bell of Manchester, and Joseph B. Walker of Concord, who were declared elected. The report of Hon. Moody Currier, treasurer, was read and accepted, and the meeting dissolved.

The directors afterward held a meeting at which Hon. Samuel N. Bell was re-elected president, and Col. William H. Hackett clerk.

NAVY YARD MATTERS.

Since the present administration took charge of naval affairs it has adopted a policy of concentrating the work necessary in keeping the navy in such a state of efficiency as the numbers and deterioration of the vessels of the service will permit. Instead of dividing up the work among all the yards, it proposes to employ its labor in New York for the northern coast, and in Norfolk for the southern, while necessarily the Mare Island yard performs the needed repairs to vessels on the Pacific. Boston, Portsmouth, League island and Pensacola are practically closed, although a little work may occasionally be done therein in case of emergency. The regular organization is maintained in the secondary yards at considerable expense, but the main part of the work in all departments is carried on here and at Norfolk. This change of policy naturally gives to New York the bulk of the building and repairs of vessels, principally in the latter, as, outside of some iron ships, which were let by contract to Mr. Roach, no vessels are being constructed for the navy. Under the law it is as much as the navy department can do to repair the decaying craft already afloat and maintain respectable squadrons at home and abroad.

New York has, at this moment, the most of the vessels undergoing repairs, and the air of activity and bustle to be observed in the yard recalls its better days, when it swarmed with workmen and rang with the noisy blows of the ship carpenter and ironworker. In the various departments a great deal of work is being pushed forward, and all the men that can be profitably employed are at their respective tasks, constantly and earnestly hurrying up the jobs before them.

We take the above from the New York Star, the new organ of the administration, which informs us that 1243 men are employed at the New York yard, but the number will not be increased until after the coming election, when more ships will be sent there. It is a consolation to the expectant democrats upon either bank of the Piscataqua, that this concentration of work at New York is in the interest of reform; that Mr. Whitney adopts the theory of the wise and good Mr. Chandler, that one yard north and one south should be kept for extensive repairs, and possibly the work of construction be performed by contractors. At all events we who have waited so long are told by the official organ of the administration that our navy yard is practically closed. Was it for this that the hungry and thirsty were a year ago the bearers of torches and were nightly kept marching on with martial music and shouts for Cleveland and reform? or will Secretary Whitney, after the New York election is over, listen to reason, agree to distribute the patronage by sending the work where it will do the most good, and aid our local political bosses in quieting the unemployed by something better than promises which have no prospect of being performed?

$25 REWARD.

Back again. Prof. Donovan, of Lowell, will perform with the big dumb bells and sell Muscle Oil on Market square this evening. Mr. Donovan will remain for a few days in the city, so as to give all who desire a bottle of Muscle Oil a chance to get it. The U. S. S. Galena, having had her copper overhauled, and renewed where required, came out of the dry dock at this navy yard on the afternoon of the 1st inst., and the government tug Leyden was taken up.

Commander Frank Wildes, detached from command of the Yantic, is ordered to this navy yard as navigation officer, in place of Commander Francis M. Green, detached and placed on waiting orders.

Mr. Lewis Holmes hauled up his fleet of lighting boats on Tuesday of this week, and took his tool chest to the boat shop on the navy yard, where he is now at work.

A serious and painful accident was on Friday evening reported as having occurred on the navy yard that afternoon, Mr. Wm. F. Noyes, late foreman shipwright, having one arm caught in some machinery, resulting in a dislocation of the elbow and a bad laceration of the muscle of the arm.

Charles R. Parker, who was a resident of this city ten or twelve years ago, and was then known in police circles as a detective of some merit, was killed by a railroad accident at Gobleville, Michigan, Sept. 24th.

There were many visitors in town every evening this week, attending the operatic performances in Music hall.

The blood would run—For five years I was a great sufferer from Catarrh. My nostrils were so sensitive I could not bear the least bit of dust; at times so bad the blood would run, and at night I could hardly breathe. After trying many things without benefit I used Ely's Cream Balm. I am a living witness of its efficacy. Peter Bruce, Farmer, Ithaca, N. Y. Easy to use, price 50 cents.

At eleven o'clock on the night of Sept. 30th fire broke out in the barn and tenement owned by Lorenzo Neally on Academy street, Exeter. The wool shop and its buildings, which have been idle for six years, were burned flat; both insured. Loss only $1500. Probably incendiary.

The state board of equalization at Concord on the 29th ult. completed their labors in assessing the valuation of railroad, telegraph and telephone companies for the purpose of taxation. It was determined that the taxable property of the state had been valued for taxation the present year seventeen per cent less than its actual value, and it was therefore voted to assess the railroad, telegraph and telephone corporations upon the same proportional valuation, deducting the amounts assessed by towns against each, at the average rate levied on other property—$1.40 on each $100 of its valuation. The rate in 1884 was $1.49.

A Sad Case of Poisoning.

is that of any man or woman afflicted with disease or derangement of the liver, resulting in poisonous accumulations in the blood, scrofulous affections, sick-headaches, and diseases of the kidneys, lungs or heart. These troubles can be cured only by going to the primary cause, and putting the liver in a healthy condition. To accomplish this result speedily and effectually nothing has proven itself so efficacious as Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery," which has never failed to do the work claimed for it, and never will.

Mr. Walter Nordhoff, son of a well known Washington correspondent, will shortly marry a Philadelphia belle, and later go to Mexico as a special correspondent for the New York Herald.

SCHOOL.

MISS C. BLUNT has re-opened her School for Children at No. 6 Chestnut Street.

To make children healthy use plenty of air, plenty of milk, plenty of sleep, and always have a bottle of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup in case of croup.

Rev. Father Thein, pastor of the Catholic church of the Sacred Heart in Toledo, Ohio, has eloped with $8000 of the church funds. He is charged with drunkenness and immorality, and a mob of members of his church destroyed his house one night recently.

From Lieut. John Osborn of the firm of Evans, Webster & Co., Boston.

"Two bottles of Adamson's Botanic Balsam effected a cure in my family that four skilful physicians failed to do."

Sold by druggists and dealers at 35cts.

John Kenney, thirty-two years old, a Boston teamster, was kicked by one of his horses and thrown to the ground. The wheels passed over him, and he died while being taken home.

For nearly thirty-four years I have been a victim of Catarrh. I have tried many remedies, receiving little or no relief. I bought one bottle of Ely's Cream Balm and derived more real benefit from that than all the rest added together. You can recommend it as being a safe and valuable medicine. — A. L. Fuller, Danby, New York.

As one having used Ely's Cream Balm I would say it is worth its weight in gold as a cure for Catarrh. One bottle cured me. S. A. Lovell, Franklin, Pa.

The Dover Democrat of Oct. 2d says: "A dispatch was received in this city this afternoon announcing the death of Thomas W. Peirce, Esq., at Clifton Springs, New York. This will be sad news to many Dover people who knew him. Mr. Peirce was a native of Dover, and was at one time in business on Dover Landing. His age was about sixty-eight years. He was largely interested in railroads in Texas, and lived on an elegant estate in Topsfield, Mass. He was a public spirited man. He leaves a very large property."

In gathering wild flowers, autumn leaves, or pionicking in the woods, we are more or less exposed to danger from poisoning by ivy or other wild vines and shrubs. The poison is under certain circumstances readily absorbed by the blood, and painful swellings or eruptions are caused. Such affections Hood's Sarsaparilla readily cures, as it expels all impurities from the blood. Even in cases of poisoning by Paris green, Hood's Sarsaparilla has been remarkably successful. It should be kept constantly in the house for all blood disorders. Hood's Sarsaparilla is made by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass., and is sold by all druggists. 100 Doses $1.

The Cohasset, Mass., friends of Capt. Crocker of the sloop Puritan visited his residence in that village one night last week, and congratulated him on his victory. A beautiful silver pitcher, cup and salver were presented. Capt. Crocker had previously received a testimonial of about $800 cash, from a number of yachting gentlemen.

That Dirty Dandruff.

Dandruff is dirty and disagreeable in every way. It soils the clothing continually, and is accompanied by a hardly less annoying sensation of itching. The scale is diseased. There is nothing in the world so thoroughly adapted to this trouble as Parker's Hair Balsam. It cleanses and heals the scalp, stops the falling hair and restores its original softness, gloss and color. Is not oily, highly perfumed, an elegant dressing. Very economical, as only a small occasional application keeps the hair in perfect condition.

Haverhill, Mass., developed another case of smallpox last week. The victim is the four-years-old daughter of J. Lamere, and sister of the boy who recently died with the disease; she has the worst type of the disorder. The disease was brought from Montreal.

Ministers, Lawyers, Teachers, and others whose occupation gives but little exercise, should use Carter's Liver Pills for torpid Liver and biliousness. One is a dose.

It is said that some of the doctors in the French quarters of Montreal have discovered that the smallpox is assuming the confluent type, which is much more dangerous than the ordinary type. The London Insurance company has annulled its policy of $130,000 on the Exposition building, which is used by the health officers, and is threatened by the mob. No other company will take a risk on it.

Scrofula diseases manifest themselves in the spring. Hood's Sarsaparilla cleanses the blood, and removes every taint of scrofula.

When a man sees double it is evidence that his glasses are too strong for him.

IA MAN

WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP THAT THE

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RAILWAY

By reason of its central position and close relation to all principal lines East and West, at initial and intermediate points, constitutes the most important mid-continental link in that system of through transportation which invites and facilitates travel and traffic between cities of the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts. It is also the favorite and direct route to and from points East, Northeast and Southeast, and corresponding points in Northwest and Southwest.

The Great Rock Island Route

Guarantees its patrons that sense of personal security afforded by a solid, thoroughly ballasted roadbed, smooth tracks of continuous steel rail, substantially built culverts and bridges, rolling stock as near perfection as human skill can make it, the safety appliances of patent buffers, platforms and air-brakes, and that exacting discipline which governs the practical operation of all its trains. Other specialties of this route are Transfers at all connecting points in Union Depots, and the unsurpassed comforts and luxuries of its Passenger Equipment.

The Fast Express Trains between Chicago and Peoria, Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Leavenworth and Atchison are composed of well ventilated, finely upholstered Day Coaches, Magnificent Pullman Palace Sleepers of the latest design, and sumptuous Dining Cars, in which elaborately cooked meals are leisurely eaten. Between Chicago and Kansas City and Atchison are also run the Celebrated Reclining Chair Cars.

The Famous Albert Lea Route

Is the direct and favorite line between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul, where connections are made in Union Depots for all points in the Territories and British Provinces. Over this route Fast Express Trains are run to the watering places, summer resorts, picturesque localities, and hunting and fishing grounds of Iowa and Minnesota. It is also the most desirable route to the rich wheat fields and pastoral lands of interior Dakota.

Still another DIRECT LINE, via Seneca and Kankakee, has been established between Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Lafayette, and Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Minneapolis and St. Paul and intermediate points.

The Only

medicine I ever found that helped me at all is ATHLOPHOROS, and I have not had the Rheumatism since I took it.—EDWIN SEARS, Provincetown, Mass.

A professor in a medical college once said to his class "put your hand in a vice, turn the screw until the pain is all you can bear, and that's rheumatism; turn the screw once more, and that's neuralgia—and gentlemen, the medical profession knows no cure for either." That was before the discovery of ATHLOPHOROS which does and will cure rheumatism and neuralgia, and many physicians use it regularly and unhesitatingly that they can prescribe nothing else so effective.

Many persons have tried so many so-called remedies, without benefit, that they have no faith to try more, but it is worth your while to try Athlophoros, if you have any doubts as to its value write for names of parties in your own State who have been cured by its use.

Ask your druggist for Athlophoros. If you cannot get it of him we will send it express paid on receipt of regular price—$1.00 per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed.

WIT AND HUMOR.

It is as easy to tell a lie as it is to tell the truth, but it is not half so lonesome.—Boston Post.

A Burlington man asked a doctor what in his opinion caused the most sickness the year round. The doctor replied without hesitation, "The Prohibitory law."—Burlington Free Press.

An alleged improvement on the once fashionable cuckoo clock is one in which an owl appears instead of the cuckoo when the clock strikes, and "toots" quite naturally. His daylight appearance, however, is not quite natural.—New York Evening Post.

The fellow who sent Mr. Cleveland a four-leaved clover, one leaf of which was stuck on the stem with mucilage, will have no influence with the Administration hereafter. The latter may be taken in once, but it will not be twice by the same person.—Boston Post.

This is the season of the year when Lucy and John come in ruefully from the back piazza and try to explain to an unsympathizing audience how it was that Lucy's fragile 100 pounds has broken down the hammock that her pa's solid 185 pounds swung safely in all the afternoon.—Somerville Journal.

He was from Louisville. They met at Brighton Beach. She—You-aw have seen Henry Ward Beecher, aw suppose? He—O yes, often. She—Eh, and what do you think of his delivery? He—His delivery? O yes. Why I don't think it equals either Hecker or Morris. He has no curve, you know.—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

An old darky was preaching some time since and he saw one of his congregation asleep, so he began: "You remember when Paul was preaching in the Temple a damsel was asleep in the fourth story, and she fell down, smashing all the smashers, and the fragments they picked up twelve basketful, and whose wife will she be in de resurrection?"

Agram, Austria, has a comic paper called the Scourge, but it isn't as funny as it formerly was. The editor has just gone to the penitentiary for two years, with two fasting days thrown in, and the publisher got ten months. A humorous article on the Hungarian Parliament, in which the authorities failed to perceive the fun, was the cause of the trouble.

"His pants alarm me so," the maiden said (referring to her poodle, which an unruly cow a chase had led) as she walked with Fitznoodle. "Are they too tight?" the untaught Fitz replied, his indignation rising. (He thought the maiden's mind he occupied, and her soliloquizing). Sharply she turned, and in her pretty head her eyes glowed like a mouser's: "I'll wed no man so ignorant," she said, "he uses 'pants' for 'trousers!'"

A clergyman's son had heard a great deal of discussion about the manner in which Sunday should be spent, and in the course of it has heard that "God gave us Sunday as a day of rest." That made an impression upon him. Last month he heard the firecrackers and torpedoes exploded in the streets days in advance of the Fourth. He told a little companion that it was wrong to anticipate the day in that way.

"God has given us one day on which to make all the noise we can," said he.—Harper's Bazar.

A youngster of 4, rather noted for his depravity than otherwise, was taken into his mother's bedroom the other day and introduced to his baby sister, 1 day old. He seemed to look on the new arrival with considerable embarrassment, not unmixed with disapproval, and at the same time to appreciate the fact that it devolved upon him to say something worthy the occasion. Finally he remarked, with a rising inflection expressive of great unctuousness, "Well, I hope she'll be a Christian!"—Boston Record.

One of the pillars of our State, a member of the Assembly, with no education to speak of, but plenty of confidence and fondness for the sound of his own voice, grew excited during the last session over what he called the "pressure under a bill."

"There's something mysterious in that bill," said he. "It struck me suddenly, as if a little bird brought the news. I can see it in the air; I can feel it in my bones. At any moment there may be an explosion beneath our feet, and then we will see how blind we are."—Harper's Bazar.

"I am honest in what I say, I'm honest!" he shouted, jumping up and down and cracking his heels together. "I want to lick somebody or get licked! I'm spilin' for a fight! I want gore—gallons of it—an' I am willing to shed barrels! Gimme exercise or gimme death!"

The crowd closed in and pounded him, and walked on him, and jumped on him, and fell on him and whipped him cold.

Two hours later his only remaining eye opened slightly and he whispered with a sigh of content:

"Boys, I was honest. This is paradise!"—Drake's Magazine.

American journalism responds nobly to the strain imposed by the silly season. A mammoth cave, chuckful of writhing rattlesnakes, has been discovered in Alabama this week; the Jackson (Ga.) News has noted the stoppage of a grist-mill, owing to all the snakes in the pond having crawled out simultaneously to sun themselves, thereby lowering the water-head several feet; the New York Herald has enriched the Smithsonian Institution with a snake that has a head like a pug-dog, jumps like a frog, and whistles, and the New York Times has printed its annual comic article on the train-boy.—Philadelphia Record.

A year or more ago an auctioneer in this city had for sale a lot of homeopathic medicines. All these medicines were dumped into one pile and disposed of in one lot, there being various kinds of medicines in the mass. A boarding-house keeper bought the lot, and some days after the purchase the auctioneer asked her: "What did you do with that homeopathic medicine, Mrs. ——?" She replied: "I thought I could use it, and it was cheap, and so I crushed it under the roller and filled my sugar-bowls with it. The boarders seemed to like it, and especially when powdered ever pies."—Boston Traveller.

No, Claribel, we cannot tell you the best way to make clam-fritters. We have never eaten a clam-fritter. We have often tried to; but we are compelled to confess with shame and humiliation that we have always failed. We have eaten home-made boarding-house bread, and we live to tell it. And we have even got away with a rubber doll-baby by mistake for a cruller. But we have never yet succeeded in eating a clam-fritter. We have managed the fritter part, Claribel, but the clam part has always remained to point the finger of scorn at us, and we are willing that it should do so till the end of time rather than tackle it again, Claribel.—Puck.

Don't hawk, hawk, blow, spit, and disgust everybody with your offensive breath but use Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy and end it.

Dr. Charles E. Warren, who is now alive in Boston, says he is not financially embarrassed, never owned any mining stocks, and was never in Cincinnati, where he was reported to have taken laudanum and died.

CONSTIPATION!

There is no medium through which disease so often attacks the system as by Constipation, and there is no other ill flesh is heir to more apt to be neglected, from the fact material inconvenience may not be immediately felt from irregular action of the bowels. When there is not regular action the retention of decayed and effete matter, with its poisonous gases, soon poisons the whole system by being absorbed into it, causing piles, fistula, headache, impure blood and many other serious affections. BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS will immediately relieve, and one bottle positively cure or relieve any case of Constipation.

"Was troubled for a year with torpid liver and indigestion, and after trying everything imaginable used BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS. The first bottle revived me and the second cured me entirely."—J. S. Williamson, Rochester, N. Y.

A Bully Fined.

The New Hampshire Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals prosecuted Charles H. Sanborn of Concord on Thursday afternoon of last week. On the trial it was proven that the offender beat a poor old horse with the handle, and jabbed him severely with the prongs of a pitchfork. A lady who pleaded with the ruffian to have mercy on the overloaded horse was grossly insulted by the cruel boor, who persisted in his brutality, and heaped obscene abuse upon the head of the humane lady whose pity for the animal exceeded her fear of the human brute. When a cultured and polite lady of the capital city of the state feels it her duty to protect abused horses at the risk of personal violence, it is time the law against cruelty should be vigorously enforced. The fellow was found guilty, and sentenced to pay a fine a five dollars and costs. His lawyer was simple enough to appeal the case to the supreme court, and it is to be hoped the reprobate will there get a sentence to state prison.

State Teachers' Association.

The New Hampshire State Teachers' Association will hold its thirty-second annual meeting at Concord, Nov. 6th and 7th, 1885. There will be the usual reductions upon the railroads and at the hotels. Among the speakers will be Hon. J. W. Patterson, Prof. F. A. Sherman and Prof. E. R. Ruggles, of Hanover; Dr. W. Q. Scott, of Exeter; Dr. H. C. Rounds, of Plymouth; Supts. Buck of Manchester and Folsom of Dover; Messrs. Hastings of Claremont, Hall of Hinsdale, Goodwin of Manchester, Dame of Littleton and Burbeck of Nashua.

EXETER MUTUAL FIRE INS. CO.

The Exeter Mutual Fire Insurance company completed its organization last week, and in a very short time will be ready for business. Its officers are Chas. H. Bell, president; Arthur O. Fuller, secretary and treasurer; Charles H. Bell, Winthrop N. Dow, John W. Wheeler, William H. Callansby, Edward H. Gilman, Wm. Burlingame, George N. Proctor, Edwin G. Eastman, Wm. W. Wilder, Joseph C. Burley and Nathan B. Prescott, directors. These are all men of large business experience and sterling integrity, and they will manifest great caution in the taking of risks.

A Washington despatch says that the president has selected Col. Henry O. Kent for the naval office at Boston, but that the appointment of collector at that port, like that at Portland, awaits the agreement of the democracy. The president is ready to appoint when the factions can agree upon a man. How different from the collectorship of our poor region, where an incumbent had to be hunted out who was willing to serve.

Mr. Cleveland, wittingly or unwittingly, is fast building up a third party, to which the better elements of both the existing organizations will be naturally attracted.—Chicago News.

Yes, the party of officeholders, who are loyal to the president up to the time of holding the convention which may nominate his successor. It is always thus.

The New York Star says, of the New York nominees, "The democratic candidates need no trumpeters of their virtues." If the recently promulgated connection of Hill, the democratic candidate for governor, with Boss Tweed in his colossal iniquities, is true, we should infer that as far as the governor was concerned there would be found no virtues for the trumpeter to proclaim.

Mrs. Alice Wellington Rollins, who is one of the most charming magazine writers, has written a little book which is to be published by Cassell & Co., called "The Story of a Ranch." It is founded upon the fair author's experiences on a Kansas sheep ranch, and will be found not only exceedingly entertaining but abounding in much information concerning this mode of life, which attracts so many from the east.

President Cleveland and his Cabinet.

I. S. Johnson & Co., 22 Custom House street, Boston, Mass., will send to any address in the United States or territories for fifty cents in stamps, with the order, a beautiful, life-size stone engraving (size 24x30) of President Cleveland and his cabinet, and two boxes of the famous Parson's Pills, both by mail post-paid. This engraving is handsome enough to hang in the most elegant parlor in the land. It has no advertisement or anything upon it to mar its beauty, and is practically given away, as every druggist, physician and general trader knows that the uniform price of Parsons' Pills is twenty-five cents per box.

This engraving is copyrighted, and we own the plate. No one in this or any other country can get the engraving except through us. The price of the engraving alone, if on sale at any art store, would be $1.00 or more. Our object in making this great offer is to acquaint people with the use of these marvelous Pills. All who order should mention this paper, with their own name and postoffice address plainly written. Address I. S. Johnson & Co.

The Knights of Labor last week voted to end the Millville, Mass., Rubber works strike by all returning to work on Monday morning, Oct. 5th. A committee was appointed to ask that twenty days time be granted to all those to return who have found employment elsewhere. The request was granted. The thirteen weeks strike is ended.

WHAT WILL convince you of the wonderful curative properties combined in HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA, if the remarkable cures that have been effected by its use fail to impress upon your mind this repeatedly proven fact? Thousands are using it, and all declare that it is a medicine possessing everything we claim for it. My friend, if you are sick or in that condition that you cannot call yourself either sick or well, go and get a bottle of HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA, and realize yourself how this medicine hits the right spot, and puts all the machinery of your body into working order.

From the Registrar of Deeds for Middlesex County, Northern District.

LOWELL, MASS.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO.: Gentlemen—It affords me much pleasure to recommend HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA. My health has been such that for some years past I have been obliged to take a tonic of some kind in the spring, and have never found anything that hit my wants as your Sarsaparilla. It tones up my system, purifies my blood, sharpens my appetite, and seems to make me over. Respectfully yours,

J. F. THOMPSON.

One of our prominent business men said to us the other day: "In the spring my wife got all run down and could not eat anything; passing your store I saw a pile of HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA in the window, and I got a bottle. After she had been taking it a week she had a rousing appetite, and it did her everything. She took three bottles, and it was the best three dollars I ever invested."

The case of Hattie E. Corliss vs. the Worcester, Nashua & Rochester railroad to recover damages for the killing of her husband at a crossing in Hudson, was given to the jury at five o'clock last Thursday afternoon. The jury were out an hour and a half, and returned a verdict for the railroad.

On Thursday evening last the Boston common council took a vote on a certain important question, and now it is charged that at least six of the members recorded as voting were not present, several of them being at the time out of the city, and one of them out of the state. THE WEATHER.

The Thermometer at the CHRONICLE Office, at 4:00 o'clock this morning, indicated 42 degrees above zero.

Clear.

GRANITE STATE FIRE INS. CO.

At a meeting of the directors of this company on Saturday, Hon. John H. Broughton of this city was chosen a member of the board of directors, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Hon. John Laighton, who had been elected treasurer.

SUDDEN DEATH.

Mr. Cornelius Sullivan, of the provision firm of J. O. Downs & Co., died very suddenly about three o'clock Saturday afternoon, at his residence near the Creek. He was at his place of business in the morning, but feeling unwell went home and to bed, thinking his indisposition merely temporary; but he rapidly grew worse, and died as above stated. He was about forty-two years old, and leaves a wife and two children.

THE OPERA.

Notwithstanding that there was a heavy downpour of rain on Saturday afternoon until after two o'clock, there was quite a large attendance at the Bennett & Moulton company's matinee performance of the Chimes of Normandy,—larger than matinees usually have in this city; and there was another great audience in Music hall in the evening, when Olivette was presented. The company made a very favorable impression during their week's stay here, and the universal verdict is that their patrons get a large return of fun for their money.

THE JUDGE SAVED HIS HAT.

Before the hearing commenced on the petition of Hon. Frank Jones for an injunction restraining the city from altering the course of the easterly end of the brewery drain, at the court house in this city on Saturday forenoon, a well known gentleman of the city was for some minutes engaged in earnest conversation with Judge Smith, and when he started to leave the room the judge noticed with consternation that the judicial hat was taking its departure at the same time. An energetic demurrer was promptly entered by the bench to this proceeding, on the grounds of informality and incompatibility of shape, and the would-be abductor of the head-gear hastened to restore it to its legal owner, and in reply to the reproaches shewered upon him from all sides explained that it was all a mistake, and offered to prove to the crowd by comparison a fact which only his deep respect for the court prevented him from openly proclaiming, namely, that his hat was worth more than the judge's anyway, and any amount better looking. This explanation was accepted as satisfactory by some, while others persisted in intimating that the presence in the court room of the high sheriff of the county had more to do with the prompt restoration of the hat, than had the relative value of that article. The hat was not in sight during the rest of the session, and from its appearance when his honor put it on at the close of the hearing it was surmised that it had done duty as a chair cushion for about five hours.

MARITIME NOTES.

The ship Granite State, of this port, Fitz master, cleared at New York on Friday last for Hong Kong, China.

The schooner Loella, Amee master, arrived at Portland on the 1st inst. on the way from Rockland to this port. She has a cargo of lime for Converse & Co. of Dover.

The British schooner Lizzie Newton, Capt. James Moore, from Parrsboro, Nova Scotia, bound for Boston with a load of laths, was in the lower harbor on Saturday. She is a well known trader between the British provinces and this port.

"WAR" AT LAST.

The salvation army, whose advent in this city has been anticipated for a year or so past, is here at last, and commenced open war on Satan's kingdom last Sunday afternoon about two o'clock, when four women and five men, in uniform, and carrying a cornet and two tambourines, marched from the newly-secured "barracks" on Daniel street, in Badger block, to the centre of Market square, and held an open-air service consisting of prayer, singing of "war-cry" hymns, a little sounding of the cornet and considerable clattering of the tambourines, and earnest exhortations. A quite large crowd quickly gathered on the square, but there was no disturbance of any kind, and at the close of the exercises the "army" marched to Franklin hall, where another meeting was held, continuing to about five o'clock. The difference in the attendance at the two services was very noticeable, the one on the Parade being free, while ten cents admission was charged to the hall. The army must be highly endowed with faith in the efficacy of prayer, that is, if they expect their petitions to be answered; on Sunday they prayed that the sale of rum might cease in this city, and that the city government of Portsmouth might be endowed with wisdom.

There will be a match game of polo between the Dovers and Franklins at the Casino this (Monday) evening.

The name of W. A. Peirce, Esq., of this city, was inadvertently omitted from the list of directors elected, in our report of the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Concord & Portsmouth railroad as published in the Chronicle of Saturday.

Rev. W. A. McGinley preached in the Congregational church at Newcastle on Sunday. Mr. McGinley offered to preach for the society once a month, and as there is no settled minister in Newcastle the kind offer has been gladly accepted.

We regret to hear that the injuries received by Mr. Wm. F. Noyes at the navy yard on Friday, through getting a finger of his left hand caught in a gearing and having his arm drawn into a machine, were more serious than we reported, and worse than was at first supposed. The arm was ground up and twisted in a shocking manner.

The market price of the Worcester, Nashua & Rochester railroad has risen to par. The syndicate consisting of Col. Sinclair and his friends purchased their shares not long since at about sixty per cent of the par value.

Frank T. Spinney has been appointed postmaster at Medford, Mass. He is a son of Mr. Samuel Spinney of this city, whose democracy has stood all tests for over half a century, but whose appointment to some good-paying office under the present administration we have not yet had the pleasure of recording.

The directors of the Cottage Hospital gratefully acknowledge a donation of thirty-four yards of sheeting, and six linen towels, from Mr. John S. Rand.

Several large sturgeons were taken in the weirs at the mouth of this harbor last week. Sometimes these fish are cut up here, for sale in the local market; but generally they are sent to the large cities for consumption.

WANTS TO KNOW, YOU KNOW.

The Portsmouth correspondent of the Manchester Union feels almost as much aggrieved over the management of affairs on the navy yard, as he used to before the late municipal election whenever the Chronicle suggested that the electric fire alarm was insufficient. [By the way, we wonder if he has ever heard of the communication sent to the board of aldermen by the democratic chief engineer of the fire department, in which that official spoke far more strongly in regard to the inadequacy of the alarm than we ever did?] In one of his recent letters to the Union he makes the following loud call on the foremen at the yard to explain why things are thus:

I would like to have some of the foremen at the navy yard explain why it is that they prefer to keep seven republicans to one democrat in the gangs of workmen under their charge. To proscribe on account of politics is un-democratic, and the present proscription of democrats is un-democratic. A foreman has power to choose his workmen. The fault is absolutely with him if he allows democrats to be kept off because of political opinion. Are the foremen afraid of the constructor, or the chief engineer, or the commandant, or are they afraid that the administration is opposed to the allowing of democrats to work on the navy yard? The foremen who continue proscription of democrats in their departments can excuse themselves if there is any excuse by making known their reasons for their present course.

The foremen on the yard will no doubt be delighted to learn than they can "absolutely" set whom they like to work, regardless of the constructor, or the chief engineer, or the commandant of the yard, or the administration itself; and that the one power whose approval it is "absolutely" essential they should have, is the correspondent of the Manchester Union. That young gentleman is smart as a steel trap, and is not troubled with any of that overweening modesty which would induce him to hide his kerosene lantern under a peck basket; but when he discusses navy yard management he is "more fun than the Injuns."

[From the Portsmouth Times, Oct. 3d.]

THE INJUNCTION HEARING.

The hearing on the injunction against building the North pond sewer through the wharf at the foot of Deer street and at the corner of Market street, on the north side of the building now occupied by John L. O. Coleman, took place at the Court house this forenoon, commencing at 11 o'clock. There was not a large attendance of citizens. City solicitor Emery appeared for the city, and Messrs. Frink & Batchelder for Frank Jones. Mr. J. V. Hanscom, who has the power of attorney for Frank Jones, said the land being dug up between Market street and the river belonged to Frank Jones. He had received no notice whatever of the digging from the city or contractor, and had given no authority for the same. He was, he said, familiar with the locality for 30 years, and had known it to have been used by abuttors during that time. The wharf and dock is used or let by Mr. Jones, and has been since he owned it. Mr. Jones claims all the rights and privileges set forth in the deed by which the property was conveyed to him.

He said he was acquainted with the tides, and had observed that the tendency had been to sweep in toward the shore. He said that in his opinion a nuisance would be created if the sewer was allowed to empty into the dock, and he thought it should be carried along Sise's wharf to the end, which was some 75 feet farther out. Here it could be properly protected by building a wharf. Unless something of this kind was done, the sewer would be a great hindrance to navigation. He was asked if Mr. Sise had ever said anything to him about the terminus of the sewer, and he answered that that gentleman had spoken to him about. When asked if he didn't think Col. Sise manifested a great deal of interest in the matter, he replied that he didn't know.

Colonel Sise was the next witness called. He said that he had had some talk with the Aldermen last July about the terminus of the sewer, since which time he had heard nothing about it until yesterday, when he was waited upon by the city messenger, who stated that the sewer committee were in session at the city rooms, and would like to see one of the Sise's, to which request he replied that he was busy and could not go. He stated that when the Aldermen first mentioned the sewer to him, they stated that they wanted to build it alongside his wharf, occupying about six feet of his dock. At that time he stated that no citizen would be any more willing to aid the city in the successful construction of the sewer than E. F. Sise & Co. and they only wanted the city to leave their property in as good condition as they found it. He had been acquainted with the vicinity for 40 years, and was of the idea that the wharf in question belonged to the abuttors. He said the currents tended to sweep the sediment toward the shore and fill up the dock, which had been dredged a few years ago; didn't think the tide was strong enough in the dock to wash away the discharge from the sewer. He thought if the sewer was carried out to the end of his wharf there would be no trouble. He had paid rent for the use of the wharf to the Sheafe estate, and it was now occupied by Frank Jones, or his tenants. He was asked if he thought any of the interests at the North End would suffer if the sewer emptied as last proposed, and if he had not some particular interest in the matter. He said that he thought Frank Jones's property would be injured considerably, as well as other people living and doing business in the vicinity. He had no particular interest in the matter. He said that he was not anxious to have the sewer empty alongside his wharf, but would not object if the city was to be benefited.

Messrs. Daniel Littlefield, Thomas Neal, John L. O. Coleman and Wm. R. Martin were called upon to testify to facts going to show that the land in question was claimed and occupied by the abuttors, and that the currents would tend to drive sediment into the dock and fill it up.

The deed transfering abutting property to Mr. Jones was also presented.

On the part of the city the city clerk was called, who read extracts from the early town records, showing that rent for the use of this landing had been paid to the town as late as 1841.

Civil engineer Putnam was called, and stated that the original course of the sewer had been changed by him at the request of the sewer committee, on account of some restrictions which Sise asked, which they thought rather large. He didn't remember exactly what they were, but the idea was that if the sewer was built alongside his wharf the city would be expected to build an addition of seven feet the whole length of his wharf, and keep in repair a good wharf, in place of what is now a rather decayed one. He said he did not believe the citizens in the vicinity would experience anything disagreeable if the sewer did empty as last proposed, and that the force of the water in sewer would drive it out into the tide. He went on to explain in detail other matters.

Shannehan was called upon, and explained that he was working under the direction of the engineer, and how much he had been injured by the delay caused by the injunction.

Aldermen Cook and Locke of the sewer committee were called upon, and stated that in their opinion the people in the vicinity would not be much injured if the sewer went as was last proposed. They also were of the opinion that Mr. Sise would be benefited if the sewer was constructed alongside his wharf. They also put in some testimony as to the tide and currents, maintaining that the dock has before now been filled up by washings from the street and not by anything driven in from the river, and that all matter carried out by the big sewer would be washed far into the river.

The evidence put in was reviewed by the counsel, and the Judge decided that the contractor could go on with his work as far as the undisputed property of Mr. Jones—that is, to the capstan of the wharf, and to the line on which the wooden store now stands.

Chronic Sciatica Cured.

Ashland, Mass., Jan. 23, 1885.

For the last two years I have hobbled around on crutches. During that time I was afflicted with sciatic rheumatism. I not only suffered terrible pain night and day, but was utterly helpless. After using every possible effort to get well, and exhausting the best medical advice, I was induced to try four Allcock's Porous Plasters. These I wore on my side, hip-bone and thigh. In one week I was almost entirely free from pain, and strength returned to my palsied limb. I continued using these Plasters with the most surprising results for three months, when I became perfectly cured, and abandoned the use of crutches. Persons desiring further information can address me.

At Portland, Me., Oct. 2d, Thomas J. Libby was sent to state prison for life. In September, 1884, he went one evening to a hotel in Portland with Lydia A. Snow, his paramour; they occupied one room that night, and next morning he shot the woman dead, and dangerously wounded himself. He was ill a long time, but finally recovered, and was convicted of murder in the second degree. He has a wife, and several daughters.

I Don't Want a Doctor!

I have tried them, and they have only swindled me; I have figured up what they cost me for the last four years, it was just $824.31. If I had it now it would be a fortune for me. This year my bill for medicine was only five dollars, for which I purchased six bottles of Sulphur Bitters. They cured me of Scrofula after suffering four years.—P. J. Cummings, Troy New York.

Dr. John L. Attlee, LL. D., the famous physician and surgeon, died in Lancaster, Pa., last Thursday afternoon, aged eighty-six years. He was president of the American Medical association in 1882. He revived the operation of ovariotomy, and was the first person to perform successfully the operation of removing both ovaries.

The Terrible Drain

Which scrofula has upon the system must be arrested, and the blood must be purified, or serious consequences will ensue. For purifying and vitalizing effects, Hood's Sarsaparilla has been found superior to any other preparation. It expels every trace of impurity from the blood, and bestows new life and vigor upon every function of the body, enabling it to entirely overcome disease.

Mr. Stevenson, first assistant postmaster general, was ranked as a wonder when he decapitated 250 fourth-class postmasters in one day; but the acting first assistant, who is running the guillotine in Mr. Stevenson's absence, takes the first prize, having made 844 removals in one day.

Mrs. Emma Lee Hudson, the notorious confidence woman who figured so prominently in the Boston newspapers last spring for having obtained goods from several Boston merchants on false pretences, returned to that city from New York last Friday evening. She was accompanied by Inspector of Pawnshops Leggett, who arrested her in New York on Friday morning upon her release from Blackwell's island, where she had been serving a term for larceny. She was lodged in the Charles street jail, to answer to her misdoings in Boston in the superior criminal court.

Romance of the Nineteenth Century.

Medical science has made great advances of late, and many of its discoveries have been largely instrumental in relieving pain. Cocaine, the new anæsthetic, has done wonders in this respect, and is now used wherever delicate operations are performed. Red Star Cough Cure may also be classed among these discoveries. It contains neither morphia nor opium, and yet its effects are marvellous, and it is now in use in hospitals and curative institutions.

That consumptives should be the least apprehensive of their own condition, while all their friends are urging and beseeching them to be more careful about exposure and overdoing. It may well be considered one of the most alarming symptoms of the disease, where the patient is reckless and will not believe that he is in danger. Reader, if you are in this condition, do not neglect the only means of recovery. Avoid exposure and fatigue, be regular in your habits, and use faithfully Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery." It has saved thousands who were steadily failing.

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RAILWAY

By reason of its central position and close relation to all principal lines East and West, at initial and terminal points, enjoyes the most important mid-continental link in that system of through transportation which invites and facilitates travel and traffic between cities of the Atlantic and Pacific States. Other specialties of this route are Transfers at all connecting points in Union Depots, and the unsurpassed comforts and luxuries of its Passenger Equipment.

The Fast Express Trains between Chicago and Peoria, Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Leavenworth and Atchison are composed of well ventilated, finely upholstered Day Coaches, Magnificent Pullman Palace Sleepers of the latest design, and sumptuous Dining Cars, in which elaborately cooked meals are leisurely eaten. Between Chicago and Kansas City and Atchison are also run the Celebrated Reclining Chair Cars.

The Famous Albert Lea Route

Is the direct and shortest line between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul, where connections are made in Union Depots for all points in the Territories and British Provinces. Over this route Fast Express Trains are run to the watering places, summer resorts, picturesque localities, and hunting and fishing grounds of Iowa and Minnesota. It is also the most desirable route to the rich wheat fields and pastoral lands of interior Dakota.

Moses will lead his chillun rite into de kingdom ob wunders and yer hull souls will be filled wid joy beyond measure, and likewise will yer nation be glorified."—Philadelphia Times.

Hancock's Courtesy to Gordon.

Gen. Gordon related an incident of his experience in New York which appeared to have touched him very deeply. He was complimented in the first place by being invited to act as aid upon Gen. Hancock's staff. When he called to report for duty he was handed an order which directed staff officers to take their positions in the line according to their rank. Gen. Gordon was embarrassed when he read this. He had held one of the highest offices in the confederate army, but under the existing order of things he had the rank. So he solved the vexed question of his position by going modestly to the end of the line below every one of the regular army officers down to humblest. But he was not permitted to remain there. An aid from Gen. Hancock came galloping up and directed Gen. Gordon as the ranking officer to take his position at the head of the staff next to Gen. Hancock himself. This recognition of his old grade deeply touched Gen. Gordon, not that he cared anything for the position itself. He is too much a man of the world to be moved about trifles, but the spirit of courtesy and friendliness that prompted the offer stirred his chivalrous nature to its fullest depths. Again at the tomb Gen. Gordon fell back, deciding to yield the place to some of Gen. Hancock's regular military associates. But even then he was foiled by the watchful courtesy of Gen. Hancock. Word came quickly to Gen. Gordon that he was out of position, and he was directed to move up above Gen. Roger Jones and hold his place to the close of the ceremony.—N. Y. World.

Pope Leo's encouragement of historical studies has been such a marked feature of his policy that the papal medal commemorative of the eight years of his pontificate, just struck, bears a figure representing History.

Moriz Jokai is a Hungarian novelist, not a newspaper funny man, as the name might indicate. He has hit upon a good plan for disposing of the autograph bore. Karl Blind claims that Victor Hugo was of German origin, and Frenchman only by the accident of circumstances. He states that the great poet's first name, Victor, is really only a Franco-Latin substitute for the true name of Hugo's father, Sigisbert, which means "brilliant with victory." He says that there is ample documentary evidence to prove that Victor Hugo's ancestors were German artisans.

Across the Deep, to the Far West, On steamboats, cars and stage-coaches, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is carried as the most important item in the materia medica of the travelling public. It deprives vitiated brackish water of its hurtful properties and excercable flavor, counteracts the pernicious effects upon the stomach of bad or indigestible food, remedies cramps, heartburn and wind upon the stomach. It is a fine defense against malaria disorders, nullifies the effects of excessive heat, cold and damp, relieves sick headache, and is an incomparable cure for costiveness and biliousness. The fatigue of travel often tells most disastrously upon invalids and convalescents, occasionally to such an extent as to jeopardize life. Persons in feeble health, apprehensive of bad effects from travel, will, if provided with the Bitters, be far less likely to have their fears realized.

Important Telegraph Decision.

Judge Wallace, in the United States circuit court of New York, has rendered a decision in the case of the Western Union telegraph company against the Baltimore & Ohio telegraph company, in which the plaintiff had moved for a preliminary injunction to restrain the latter company from using duplex telegraph apparatus, for which reissued patents of April 1st and Feb. 7th, 1882, existed. The motion was opposed by defendant's counsel on the ground that there was no patentable novelty in the alleged invention, and that the reissue of letters patent to Joseph B. Stearns, original patentee and present assignor of complainants, was void because it included that part of the invention which had been abandoned to the public through the delay of the patentee in applying for a reissue.

Judge Wallace denied the motion for an injunction. The judge said that Stearns obtained the duplex telegraph system by a new combination of instruments. He added to the existing duplex telegraph a condenser so placed that it would receive a charge from the battery equivalent to the charge that the line received at the same time, and would discharge that charge around one coil of the relay at the same time the line discharged its charge around the other coil, so that the armature between the two coils would not be moved by the discharge from the line. No one before Stearns had endeavored to obviate the effects of the return current due to the static induction upon the receiving instrument in duplex telegraphy, with the exception of Varley, and the device used by Varley was not a condenser, nor was it in any sense the known equivalent of a condenser. The judge also added that the reissue of letters patent was not to be criticised because the claims of the several divisions cover the invention of Stearns in the broadest form and in the narrowest form in which it is capable of use, but because it is upon its face a flagrant attempt to enlarge the scope of the invention in order that the patent might be more available for the suppression of competing instruments. The patent as reissued is well calculated to suggest doubts as to its validity, and lead those who examined it to suppose that such an abuse of the statutory privilege cannot be tolerated. The officers of the complainant company have only themselves to blame if others have acted on the assumption that the patents cannot stand. The defendant has acted upon this belief.

President Bates, of the Baltimore & Ohio telegraph company, is very enthusiastic in his comments on Judge Wallace's decision. "This is the most important decision ever rendered in a telegraph suit," he says, "as its practical effect will be to throw open the use of the duplex system, so long the profitable monopoly of the Western Union company, to any other company that may wish to avail itself of the system."

Base Ball Record.

The following was the standing of the League clubs on the 6th inst.:

	Won.	Lost.	Played.
Chicagos	86	22	108
New Yorks	81	28	109
Philadelphias	76	32	108
Providences	49	57	106
Bostons	45	61	106
Detroits	38	66	104
Buffalos	36	70	106
St. Louis	35	69	104

The Chicagos take the pennant, with the New Yorks a good second; the Philadelphias, the third club on the list, are thirty games behind the New Yorks, and the rest of the clubs are nowhere.

Since the death of General Grant, much has been written in the way of personal, official and military reminiscence. The greater part of this has been read, not by reason of its merit or claim upon our time and tastes, but because of our interest in all that pertained to the dead soldier.

Of all the vast amount of matter which has come to our notice since the death of the hero of Appomattox, the two papers which seem most appropriate in their style, most engaging in their manner and most satisfying in all respects, are, first, the sketch of Grant as a statesman, by Ex-Secretary Robeson, recently prepared and published in the New York Sunday Tribune. This sketch can hardly be said to have been written by Mr. Robeson, because on one fine day of the past summer, as he sat on his piazza at Little Boar's Head and was fanned by the cooling breezes of the north Atlantic, the ever ready and attentive stenographer appeared, and while the former head of the navy [to whom the country is indebted either as secretary, or chairman of the house committee on naval expenditures, for about all the floating navy we possess,] simply talked in his usual easy vein, the rapidly moving pencil of the New York stenographer caught the language and reduced it to a condition to be given to the country in its attractive, readable condition.

The other instance is the brief but admirable paper entitled "Lincoln and Grant," printed in the October number of The Century magazine. The reason of the excellence of these papers consists in the fact that the authors were in close, intimate relations with President Grant. Both had the highest appreciation of the ability of the man they so constantly saw and heard, and were equally capable of reproducing their impressions and recollections in a singularly felicitous manner.

The reminiscences of such an able cabinet minister as was Mr. Robeson, given with his richness of narrative, and the keen observation of the long-tried and faithful Horace Porter, rendered with the freshness of a narration of yesterday's events, tower above the ordinary matter about Grant with which the country has been deluged, as did the hero of their sketch above the average generals of his day.

The Downs-Taber scandal is again brought prominently into notice in Boston, through the discovery by Rev. Mr. Downs and his friends that Mr. Frederick J. POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

MONDAY, Oct. 5th.

Lyman H. Hartford, for drunkenness, was fined $3, costs $6.90. The same unlucky individual, for assaulting Henry T. Ridge, was fined $2, costs $5.76. Brentwood on both counts.

Arvilla Palmer, for drunkenness, was fined $3, costs $6.90. He also goes to Brentwood.

THE LOBSTER LAWS.

The "close time" for lobsters, which formerly extended to the fifteenth of October, now holds only up to the first; so lobsters of "legal length" can now legally be taken by anybody who is able to manage it. The text of the amendment to the fish laws, passed by the legislature at its late session, making the change, is as follows:

No person shall catch, preserve, sell or expose for sale, within the limits of the state of New Hampshire, any lobster between the fifteenth day of August and the first day of October of each year; and from the said first day of October to the fifteenth day of August next following of each year, no lobster shall be caught, preserved, sold or exposed for sale, under ten and a half inches in length; measuring from one extreme of the body to the other, exclusive of claws or feelers, nor shall any female lobster be killed or destroyed while carrying her spawn or hatching her young; and any person violating any provision of this section shall be punished by a fine of ten dollars for every lobster so caught, used, sold, or exposed for sale, as aforesaid.

There was also passed at the late session "an act for the protection of persons engaged in the lobster fishery," of which the following is a copy:

That whoever takes, or attempts to take up, or in any way knowingly and willfully interferes with any lobster trap, while set for use within this state, and in the season in which it is lawful to prosecute the lobster fishery, without the authority of the owner thereof, shall be punished by a fine of not less than twenty nor more than fifty dollars, to be recovered by indictment or an action of debt, one-half to the complainant and one-half to the county where such proceedings are commenced; provided, however, that no action or indictment shall be maintained under this act unless the name or the initials of the owner of such trap or traps shall be carved, painted, or branded in legible letters not less than three-fourths of an inch in length on all the buoys connected with such traps.

MARITIME NOTES.

The brick schooners G. W. Raitt, Lillie, Estella and Chester Wood, and the sloop Stephen Orr, arrived from Boston on Sunday, light, and proceeded up river to load.

The steamer James Sampson will come down river from Newmarket to-day.

An interesting entertainment will be given at the Universalist church on Friday evening, Oct. 9th, when magnificent views of the New Orleans Exposition, and one hundred of the most remarkable historical and current interest, will be presented to view by aid of Turner's gigantic stereopticon. The vividness with which cities, mountains, lakes, rivers and battle scenes are depicted by the magical power of the instrument gives them the resemblance of reality as they appear in all their beauty upon the illuminated canvass before the eyes of an admiring audience.

The fall arrangement of trains on the Eastern Division of the Boston & Maine railroad will go into operation on Monday, Oct. 12th; the changes will be duly noted in our advertising columns, under the head of "Transportation."

It is reported that Dr. Ed. S. Fay has purchased the property corner of Daniel and Penhallow streets belonging to the estate of the late Robert Gerrish of Kittery, and will erect a three-story tenement house on Penhallow street, in the rear of the building on the corner.

The funeral of Mr. C. Sullivan took place on Monday afternoon from his late residence at the Creek, and was attended by a large number of citizens, including the common council, he having been a member of that body. The flag on the city building was half-masted during the day in honor of his memory. Rev. E. M. O'Callaghan conducted the services. There were present the mayor and members of the board of aldermen, and a larger number of carriages than have appeared at any funeral in this city for a long while.

The joiners, boat-builders and engineers on the navy yard had their pay reduced on Monday from $3 to $2.76 per day. There is much wrath in consequence.

A new line of steel engravings, photogravures, etchings and photographs from Wm. Pate & Co., New York, on sale at Montgomery's music and art store for ten days only.

The second meeting of the salvation army was held at Badger hall on Daniel street, Monday evening, at which there was quite a goodly number present, among whom there were some members of the churches here. The singing in particular was quite pleasant, and well worth the attendance. There were some signs of disturbance near the doorway, which however were speedily repressed. Persons who do not intend to visit a public place without making a disturbance would best absent themselves.

Over 500 bushels of cranberries have been gathered this season on Gerrish's island, Kittery.

The frame of the Hotel Pocahontas, at Pocahontas point, Gerrish island, Kittery, has been raised. The house will be in readiness for guests in the summer of '86.

A Mr. Gibson, of Kittery Point, has been appointed keeper of the Nubble lighthouse at York, commencing on the 7th inst., the former keeper having resigned.

Rev. H. G. Corliss preached his farewell sermon in the Baptist church at Wells Branch on Sunday last, having accepted a call to a church in Tiverton, Conn., where he will commence his pastoral duties next Sunday, the 11th inst. Mr. Corliss had been connected with the church at Wells Branch only a short time, but had made many friends, outside of its organization as well as within.

What Parents Fear.

Many persons—especially parents—object to many quack nostrums as likely to engender or encourage a love for strong drink. They are right. Better die of disease than of drunkenness. The use of Parker's Tonic does not involve this danger. It not only builds up the system, curing all ailments of the stomach, liver and kidneys, but it stimulates without intoxicating and absolutely cures the appetite for liquor.

Chronic Sciatica Cured.

Ashland, Mass., Jan. 23, 1885.

For the last two years I have hobbled around on crutches. During that time I was afflicted with sciatic rheumatism. I not only suffered terrible pain night and day, but was utterly helpless. After using every possible effort to get well, and exhausting the best medical advice, I was induced to try four Allcock's Porous Plasters. These I wore on my side, hip-bone and thigh. In one week I was almost entirely free from pain, and strength returned to my palsied limb. I continued using these Plasters with the most surprising results for three months, when I became perfectly cured, and abandoned the use of crutches. Persons desiring further information can address me.

The Worcester, Nashua & Rochester.

It is a very simple thing for some one else to discover the value of a piece of property after another has put a price upon it. It seems that the Old Colony railroad wished to lease this road to secure a part of their route to Worcester by way of South Framingham. Over two thousand shares of the stock had just been sold by Stephen Salisbury and others of Worcester to persons representing the controlling element in the board of directors, and on Monday evening Col. Sinclair appeared before the city councils of Nashua and made an offer to purchase 1420 shares of the Nashua & Rochester railroad owned by the city, at its par value. Subsequently the city government voted to sell its stock to Col. Sinclair, the money from the sale to be placed in the sinking fund to liquidate the city's indebtedness.

The road will probably be leased on favorable terms. The operations in the stock recently show that while shrewd Massachusetts men have placed their money in remote and unprofitable railway enterprises, this opportunity to make a good investment in the heart of the commonwealth had to be discovered and improved by New Hampshire people, who seem to be quite able to cope with their better-informed neighbors of Massachusetts upon railway matters, even if they are not as well balanced upon the subject of insurance.

Mormon Threatenings.

In the third district court of Utah, Oct. 5th, Isaac Groo, Alfred Best, Davis E. Davis, Charles Seal and Andras W. Coley, convicted of unlawful cohabitation, all refused to pledge themselves to obey the law in the future, and were sentenced to the full extent of the law, namely, six months' imprisonment and $300 fine.

In the tabernacle at Salt Lake, on the 4th, Apostle Heber J. Grant said: "Woe be to the judge who sits on the bench of the third district court. We will not stand his abuse much longer. He cannot insult honest men and revile virtuous women with impunity by calling them bastards and concubines. Judge Zane has taken a course that has made him a coward and unfit to be called a man, and condemnation will fall upon him and the heads of his children. Remember there is a limit, and this limit must soon be reached." His remarks were greeted with shouts of "Amen!"

AFFAIRS IN KITTERY.

KITTERY, Me., Oct. 6th.

Geo. Hill, son of D. A. Hill, formerly fourth officer of the steamship Indiana under Capt. Redford Sargent, has accepted the position of quatermaster on the same vessel, and sailed last week from Philadelphia toward Liverpool.

Morrill lodge of Good Templars, at North Kittery, voted at their last meeting to have their hall painted inside; also to purchase a square lantern for the outside door, the front glass of which is to be lettered with the name of the lodge, and will be of much benefit on dark evenings.

The furnace in the First Methodist Episcopal church at North Kittery has recently been fitted with new galvanized iron piping, and is now in complete working order for cold weather, the work having been done in a neat and substantial manner by John P. Sweetser of Portsmouth.

Mr. R. Chase Goodwin of Rochester, N. H., has been "required" in the receiving store, department of steam engineering, at the navy yard, under James E. Chase, to do the chief clerk's work which he formerly did while he was chief clerk there, drawing the same amount of pay as he did then. If he is more competent to perform the duties required of the office than any one they have there now, why was he removed? Was it for reform's sake?

Geo. A. Lambert of North Kittery will leave town on Monday, the 26th inst., for New York, where he will take the steamer Orino on Thursday, the 29th, for Hamilton, Bermuda, where he will be engaged in the Hotel Hamilton during the winter. SUB ROSA.

The rain and mud did not prevent the salvation army from parading on Tuesday evening, and holding their regular meeting afterward.

George B. Goodwin has been appointed consul at Annaberg, Saxony. Mr. Goodwin was born in Biddeford, was graduated from the Biddeford high school, and afterward pursued a course of study at Geneva, Switzerland. He has been connected editorially with the Biddeford Times, the former Biddeford Daily Post, and the Bangor Commercial; and for some years past has been, and now is, assistant editor of the Boston Post.

By the breaking of a staging board in Biddeford on the 5th inst., five men were thrown to the ground. The staging was only about twelve feet up, but the men landed on a mass of broken and jagged rocks, and all were more or less hurt, Charles Spofford, a carpenter, and Daniel Adams, a tinsmith, having their heads and shoulders badly cut and bruised, and Sumner Brown having an ankle and one wrist badly wrenched; Spofford's collar bone was broken, and Adams was injured internally. The other two men escaped with a few bruises each. Two of the injured workmen a year ago held good policies in the Travellers' Accident Ins. Co., but had unfortunately allowed them to lapse.

Mr. Enoch Lewis, who lives in Eliot, near Bolt hill, was roused up about two o'clock in the morning on the 4th inst., by hearing somebody in his house, and getting up, his movements scared away two fellows who had effected an entrance by the cellar window, and who fled out through the door. On his appearing at a window they spoke to him, and he asking what they wanted, they replied "Your money." He told them he had none, and nothing of more value than a revolver, which they appeared not to want, as they at once retired. There are rumors of attempted robberies in several other places in Eliot.

PROBABLY NEVER

In the history of proprietary medicines has any article met success at home equal to that which has been poured upon HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA. Why, such has been the success of this article, that nearly every family in whole neighborhoods have been taking it at the same time. Every week brings new evidence of the wonderful curative properties of this medicine.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Combines the BEST Remedies of the vegetable kingdom, and in such proportion as to derive their greatest medicinal effects with the least disturbance to the whole system. In fact this preparation is so well balanced in its action upon the alimentary canal, the liver, the kidneys, the stomach, the bowels and the circulation of the blood, that it brings about a healthy action of the entire human organism, that can hardly be credited by those who have not seen the remarkable results that have followed its use. If the Sarsaparilla does not prove sufficiently laxative, take a few doses of HOOD'S VEGETABLE PILLS. It is well in all cases of biliousness to take these pills in connection with the Sarsaparilla for the first ten days. That dull, sleepy, sick feeling can be wholly overcome by the use of these remedies. Will you give them a trial and be yourself again?

An ex-alderman of this city says of Hood's Sarsaparilla, "It is the strongest Sarsaparilla I ever saw."

Each dollar bottle contains one hundred (average) doses. Sold by all druggists.

Price one dollar, or six for five dollars. Hood's Sarsaparilla, prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

This is reform, probably.

It is reported that Mr. R. Chase Goodwin, formerly chief clerk in the receiving store of the steam engineering department at the navy yard, but who was some little time ago removed to make a place for Mr. J. Ed. Chase of Kittery, has been called on again, at his old rate of pay, to do the work which the new force is not yet able to handle.

REVENUE COLLECTORS.

It is several months since all the New England internal revenue collectors were replaced by democrats, save Collector Putney of New Hampshire, who still holds office. It was understood by Frank Jones, before he went to Europe, that Ex-Mayor Page of Portsmouth, his neighbor, was to have the place early in the fall. Mr. Page evidently thought so, too, and becoming impatient, he finally telegraphed to Secretary Manning, asking if the transfer from Putney to him could not occur on October 1st. Mr. Manning evidently could see no reason against it, and the proper papers were made out by Mr. Higgins' express orders. Nearly all the internal revenue collectors had been changed for less cause than that alleged against Mr. Putney, as being an active partisan and editor of the Manchester Mirror; but, though the papers were made ready some time ago, Mr. Page's commission is not signed and Putney still holds the place. Mr. Cleveland does not act. Perhaps he is so poorly pleased with his previous appointments of internal revenue collectors in New England that he does not care to hurry. But the reason assigned by the New Hampshire politicians is that Mr. Putney is a townsman and supporter of Senator Blair, to whose mysterious influence at the White House the retention of Collector Putney, Pension Agent Cheney, and United States Marshal Patterson in New Hampshire is attributed. Mr. Page is getting very impatient, and when Frank Jones returns, an explanation will be asked by him.

The above is according to the Washington correspondent of the Boston Advertiser, who has always been on this tack as regards Senator Blair. It will be remembered that it was the Advertiser which gave us the roorback about Senator Blair having written a letter to Mr. Jones containing a bargain concerning the federal offices in this state. Just now the Advertiser puts Blair and Jones in opposite positions. The trouble is, the Advertiser correspondent guesses at the reasons for the delay in the appointments of new incumbents for the offices named, and while he knows nothing about the facts, abounds in surmises.

MARITIME NOTES.

The British schooner Risk, Comeau master, from St. Marys, Nova Scotia, for Boston, with wood, put into the lower harbor on the 2d inst., having lost deck-load, and thrown overboard a lot more of her cargo. The captain succeeded in selling the rest of her cargo here, and the voyage was not prosecuted any further.

The barque Antioch, Hemingway master, from Iloilo for Boston, passed Anjier, Java, Aug. 22d.

The brick schooner Gold Hunter arrived from Boston on the 6th inst., light; and the J. Chester Wood, D. K. Ham and Lillie sailed on the same date for Boston, with cargoes.

The schooner Milford, Look master, arrived from Port Johnson on the 6th inst., with 343 tons of coal to E. F. Sise & Co. The schooner Bertha Dean, from Baltimore, arrived the same day from Baltimore with 1125 tons of coal to J. Albert Walker.

UNLUCKY LOBSTER SPECULATION.

It has for some time been known to the officers at Portland, Me., that vessels were sailing in and out of that port engaged in the illegal catching of lobsters and shipping them to Boston, but it has been impossible to catch any of them. These vessels would stand off and on about Peake's island, load in the night time, and then elude the officers and clear for Boston. One of the craft, however, has come to grief through the sharp work of Detective Robert A. Davis of Portland, who last week seized the schooner Monterey, Capt. Gammage, of Portland. Mr. Davis followed the schooner down east, saw her load 2000 lobsters and sail away. He then went to Boston, and after waiting some time he saw the vessel arrive there and unload the lobsters. On the return of the vessel to Portland he seized her, and attached her for $2000. The case will be tried at the November term of court.

Mr. H. E. Evans, proprietor of the Hotel Bartlett at York beach, has recently purchased Talpey's point, so-called, adjoining the land of Mr. H. Z. Ellis at Union Bluff, including Pebbly beach clear to Cape Neddick river, and comprising some forty acres of land, which will be laid out into parks, avenues, building lots, etc., the surveying for which is now being done by Messrs. Timothy Dame of Eliot and Samuel W. Junkins of York. An avenue will be laid out and constructed extending entirely around the point, so that visitors will be able to ride right to Pebbly beach, whereas hitherto persons desiring to visit that beach were obliged to leave their teams at the Bluff, and walk the intervening distance. Mr. Evans proposes to have the tract all cleared up by next summer, work to that end having already commenced; and he will spare neither time nor money to make this spot, "Evanston-by-the sea," second to no place on the New England coast for attractiveness and desirability as a summer home. He contemplates building, on the extreme eastern point, an elegant hotel with all the modern improvements, to accommodate 250 guests, and be called "Old York Hall." Philadelphia and western parties have already opened negotiations for lots, as soon as the grounds are surveyed and laid out. There is a good chance to make a fine boat-landing in the Cape Neddick river, and this is very likely to be one of the early-made improvements.

In June last Capt. Costello of Wells was drowned while attempting to cross the Webhannet river in that town near its mouth, on his return from this city with his team. Attempts were made to recover the body, and such a lookout as was practicable has been kept for it ever since, but without result until Saturday, Sept. 26th, when a lady named Lovejoy, of Lowell, Mass., discovered the remains of the unfortunate man nearly half a mile from the place where he lost his life. Owing to the length of time since the accident, the body could be identified as Capt. Costello's only by the portions of clothing which remained. The funeral took place Sept. 29th, Rev. D. B. Sewall of York officiating.

Moses T. Smith, a self-styled doctor, was on Oct. 29th, 1884, living in Dayton in a house of which he owned one-half, the other half being owned and occupied by Mrs. Arsenath Littlefield. Smith's half of the house was well insured, and on the date specified the building was burned, under circumstances pointing strongly to incendiarism on the part of Smith, who was arrested and twice tried, the first jury disagreeing, and the second one acquitting him. Since then he has lived on the Parsonsfield town farm, and has been steadily failing in health; and on the 5th inst., being then in a dying condition, he made a full confession, stating that he fired the buildings exactly as was charged by the government on the trials.

Col. A. W. Bradbury, of Portland, has in preparation a paper which he will read at the next meeting in that city of the sons and daughters of York county, on the life and public services of John Holmes, long a brilliant member of the Maine bar, and one of Maine's first senators in Congress, where he became distinguished as an American statesman.

An excursion train af twenty cars from the Northern Division of the Boston & Maine railroad passed through this city with a large number of passengers for Boston about eleven o'clock in the forenoon on the 6th inst.

Harvest supper at the Pearl street church this (Wednesday) evening; admission, including supper, twenty cents; children under ten years, ten cents.

A special meeting of the Nashua city councils was held Monday evening to take action on its stock in the Worcester, Nashua & Rochester railroad. President Charles A. Sinclair, and Hon. Charles Holman and F. A. Kean, directors of the road, appeared before the boards in joint convention. Col. Sinclair made an offer to purchase 1420 shares of the Nashua & Rochester railroad owned by the city at its par value. Subsequently the city voted to sell its stock to Sinclair, the money from the sale to be placed in the sinking fund to liquidate the city's indebtedness.

When Noah was in the Ark young Ham was always playing tricks on the old gentleman. One day he told his seafaring father that there was water in the cellar and they had all caught cold! Then it dawned on Noah that he had omitted to secure a supply of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, which he always used.

For nearly thirty-four years I have been a victim of Catarrh. I have tried many remedies, receiving little or no relief. I bought one bottle of Ely's Cream Balm and derived more real benefit from that than all the rest added together. You can recommend it as being a safe and valuable medicine. — A. L. Fuller, Danby, New York.

As one having used Ely's Cream Balm I would say it is worth its weight in gold as a cure for Catarrh. One bottle cured me. S. A. Lovell, Franklin, Pa.

Chronic Sciatica Cured.

Ashland, Mass., Jan. 23, 1885.

For the last two years I have hobbled around on crutches. During that time I was afflicted with sciatic rheumatism. I not only suffered terrible pain night and day, but was utterly helpless. After using every possible effort to get well, and exhausting the best medical advice, I was induced to try four Allcock's Porous Plasters. These I wore on my side, hip-bone and thigh. In one week I was almost entirely free from pain, and strength returned to my palsied limb. I continued using these Plasters with the most surprising results for three months, when I became perfectly cured, and abandoned the use of crutches. Persons desiring further information can address

A reign of terror has prevailed at Steuben, Me., for three weeks. People have been much excited over the burning of property, five houses and barns having been consumed. Armed men watched for, but failed to catch, the incendiary. The selectmen secured a detective, who after two days caused the arrest of Hiram Baker of Steuben. At arraignment he waived examination, and was held in $7000 bonds for the January term of court at Machias.

That Dirty Dandruff.

Dandruff is dirty and disagreeable in every way. It soils the clothing continually, and is accompanied by a hardly less annoying sensation of itching. The scalp is diseased. There is nothing in the world so thoroughly adapted to this trouble as Parker's Hair Balsam. It cleanses and heals the scalp, stops the falling hair and restores its original softness, gloss and color. Is not oily, highly perfumed, an elegant dressing. Very economical, as only a small occasional application keeps the hair in perfect condition.

Neuralgia, though one of the most common and most painful of diseases, has baffled all medical skill, and until now Athlophoros was considered almost, if not quite incurable. Athlophoros surely and quickly cures it. This statement, though strong, is warranted by the facts. Thousands have tested its value and recommend it as the only remedy that brings relief. For ladies subject to neuralgia or nervous headaches it is indispensable. Athlophoros contains no opium, morphine, or other dangerous ingredient. It is absolutely harmless and universally successful in the prompt cure of this painful disease.

Ask your druggist for Athlophoros. If you cannot get it of him we will send it express paid on receipt of regular price—$1.00 per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed.

PICTURE-BUYING.

How Artists Succeed in Putting People Out of the Humor.

"Let me tell you," said a salesman in the picture business the other day, "that artists as a class are the most trying and short-sighted people in the world. For instance, they will actually try to spoil each other's sales. They can not be made to see that whatever helps one helps the market."

"How can they spoil each other's sales?"

"In many ways. I'll give you an instance, and will take a case that happened a good many years ago, so that no one's feelings shall be hurt. I had for a customer a wealthy gentleman, and had just about persuaded him to buy a really good landscape by a leading artist; price, $700. In fact, the gentleman had virtually bought the picture. He was just beginning to speak about making a payment when an artist, a mutual acquaintance, strolled into the room. Now the gentleman wanted confirmation of his judgment, as people often do, and so appealed to the artist coming in, and asked his opinion of the purchase. The artist felt a twinge of jealousy. He balanced himself first on his heels and then on his toes, made opera-glasses out of his hands, and squinted, at the picture from every possible point of view. Finally he spoke. 'It is a fine picture.' It is well conceived, drawing first rate, admirable color. I like the trees, the sky, the water. In fact, it's an excellent work of art. Still, if you really want my opinion, I'll tell you something. You see that small figure in the distance—the figure of a man fishing? Well, if you will take the trouble to find the scale of measurement, you will discover that the man's fishing-pole is certainly over fifteen feet long!'

"When I heard that I knew in a minute that my bargain was off. The gentleman buying the picture did not rely enough upon his own judgment, and besides I had had experience. The artist criticising the picture appeared to be fair and square. He had really given the work its due praise, to begin with. But he had got his deadly work in after all. That splendid work of art was spoiled for that purchaser by a little brush stroke intended to represent a fishing-pole. The gentleman never looked at it again that it did not seem to him to be all fishing-pole, and he finally told me the fishing-pole had made the picture odious to him, and he would not buy it."

"And you say that artists often do that sort of thing?"

"Yes, they've spoiled a good many sales for each other, in my experience. But, mind you, I don't say that they have any malicious intention or always realize what they are doing. It is the easiest thing in the world to discover some little, trifling, good for nothing defect that will turn a person against a picture."

"But suppose a purchaser is put out of conceit with Smith's picture, doesn't that make him all the more likely to turn around and try one of Brown's?"

"No, it does not. And that is why I say artists are short-sighted. In my experience, if a man buys a picture and is happy and satisfied over his purchase he is more than likely to turn around and buy more pictures. The appetite grows on him. But if he is checked and made to feel dissatisfied with his own taste and his own judgment just as he is about to buy a picture he is thrown back on himself, grows disgusted, and turns his back on the whole business."

"How do you think the taste for picture-buying may be promoted?"

"There's no telling anything about it. Picture-buying here in San Francisco comes on at irregular intervals like an epidemic. Sometimes I think it comes in waves, like hot weather, or like anything else we don't understand.

"Is it not possible the trade should ever become equalized, and a steady, regular demand for pictures be established?"

"Well, if you ask me that question, I shall have to tell you that here again the artists are at fault. In dull times the artists go along slowly and carefully. They growl a good deal, but do pretty good work. Let the market improve ever so little and they get perfectly wild and turn out pictures by the dozen. They reason that if they can sell a possible three out of four pictures why not fifteen out of twenty? The consequence is they kill the goose that lays the golden egg. They glut the market with poor pictures, exhaust purchasers at the earliest possible moment, and flatten out a boom which began favorably and might have been coaxed to last a long time."

"When do you think the artists will learn to manage their business affairs with discretion?"

"Not before themillennium."—San Francisco Chronicle.

Killarney Helped by the Prince.

"Killarney," writes a correspondent, "is already reaping benefit from the prince's visit. The hotels are almost full, and the season improves as it advances. The singular feature of this year's experience is the way strangers have trooped in. More than 50 per cent of the guests have crossed the sea, and the company at one hotel last week included a Dane, an Austrian, and two Germans. The Yankee element one meets largely, but one expects to meet it largely. The Irish visitors are chiefly brides—with their appurtenant bridegrooms, the display of new wedding rings at the breakfast tables quite rivaling a jeweler's stock. The royal influence is felt along the gap and by the lake. His royal highness would appear to have been personally conducted by many of the guides, rowed by most of the boatman, and successfully solicited by all the beggars. The place where he first drank illicit whisky and the spot where 'that big lady out of London' (the princess) last drank goat's milk are pointed out energetically but variously. There is more unanimity about the exact place where a woodcock rose and where a red deer descended, and in fact the prince and princess are already regarded as ranking pari passu with O'Donoghue and Kate Kearney. I must not omit," adds our correspondent, "one bit of repartee which I myself overheard. My guide scowled at a peasant who stared well at him. 'You'll know me again if you meet me,' said my guide. 'Not if you wash your face,' said the peasant." Pall Mall Gazette.

North Carolina is receiving the benefit of a steady flow of immigration, the average number of immigrants per month being about 150. The State Commissioner of Immigration says that they come mainly from Pennsylvania, but all the Middle and New England States are represented. Most of the newcomers are farmers or mechanics. The majority go to the western part of the state. Charleston, Swain county, is the objective point of many. Dr. Clark Whittier, brother of the poet, John G. Whittier, has bought 50,000 acres of land there, being about one-third of Swain county. He proposes to divide it into 1,000 farms of sixty acres each, and on these to settle 1,000 families.

Portsmouth Chronicle.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 8, 1885.

Here's Richness.

We clip the following from one of our democratic exchanges:

Ex-Gov. Moses, of South Carolina carpet-bag fame, has been sentenced to three years' imprisonment in the Massachusetts state prison. His offense was obtaining money under false pretences—the peculiar weakness of the southern carpet-bagger even in his best estate.

Another democratic paper speaks of Moses as "the colored republican ex-governor of South Carolina." Gov. Moses, so from being either a colored man or a carpet-bagger, was a member of one of the old Huguenot families of South Carolina, the real cream; he and his family were active and prominent in the secession movement, and in urging on the war after it was commenced, and instead of "carpet-bagging" after the collapse of the confederacy, they remained right where they were, but went over into the republican party, "on the make." He was an unscrupulous scoundrel, as was also his father, who as chief justice of the supreme court of South Carolina during the stormy days of the Tilden-Hayes dispute, made whatever decision the democratic visiting statesmen directed him to, in order that he might escape punishment for previous misdeeds; but neither of them were carpet-baggers.

A Skillful Feat of Wrecking.

One of the most notable jobs of wrecking which has been done for a long while was the getting off the reef of Watling's island, Bahamas, of the British steamship Craigallion. This steamer one dark and stormy night managed to get about four miles inside the outer edge of the network of reefs off the island, and at length stuck fast, in such a position that although she was not greatly damaged it was considered impossible to remove her, and she was abandoned. Capt. E. M. Stoddard, of the Baker Wrecking Co. of Norfolk, Va., went to the Bahamas, inspected the wreck, and decided that she could be saved; and taking the company's steamer Resolute, and a schooner loaded with coal and apparatus, as a tender, he set about the work, and prosecuted it so ably and persistently in face of apparently insurmountable difficulties, that a few days ago the Craigallion was towed into the harbor of Norfolk in very fair condition. Experienced seamen who saw the steamer on the reef before Capt. Stoddard commenced operations, were unanimously of the opinion that it was hopeless to think of getting her off. It was found that after floating her it would be necessary to blast a passage for her through the outlying reefs, and this was successfully accomplished by dynamite.

He Should Retire.

A letter has been published, purporting to be from Hon. Oliver Pillsbury, insurance commissioner of New Hampshire, to a member of the Georgia legislature, in which Mr. Pillsbury unsparingly denounces the valued policy law as being arbitrary and unjust, a shield for rogues and an incentive to crime, opposed to public policy and injurious to public morals. He is so much displeased with the law that he squarely misstates some of its provisions, apparently for the sake of making a point; and his whole letter reads like the special plea of a paid attorney.

Whether the law is a proper one or not, it is the law. Mr. Pillsbury, who considers it an outrage and an infamy in all and several of its provisions, is manifestly unfit to be insurance commissioner under it. He should resign; failing to do that, he should be promptly removed.

The Hon. Secretary of the Treasury recently stated that the rule of the department some years since wisely adopted that officers of customs should not at the same time fill civil offices to which a compensation is attached, is still in force; and in case of any violation of it, if his attention was called to the fact the officer would at once be called upon to decide which office he would resign—that under the municipal or that under the general government. A correspondent suggests that Mr. Manning could not have been in earnest when he made this assertion, as the rule is in the treasury department under his administration being utterly disregarded.

THE WEATHER.

A HINT TO NAVY YARD EMPLOYES.

It seems that Thompson, the administration boss in New York, has not had a proper understanding with the democrats employed on the Brooklyn navy yard. Mr. Thompson at the democratic state convention of New York stated that if the Brooklyn delegates went for Hill, Brooklyn would get no more navy yard patronage. The Brooklyn delegation did not support the administration as Thompson thought it should, and consequently a discharge follows, to get rid of these men, while others more tractable will be at once taken on. While this is a reform administration, the leaders wish it distinctly understood by the rank and file that kickers will be summarily dealt with.

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

WEDNESDAY, Oct. 7th.

Patrick Haron, for drunkenness, was fined $3, costs $6.53; paid.

Nancy DeKoff and Henry M. Tetherly, for drunkenness, were fined, the former $1 and the latter $3, with costs of $6.90 each. They will rest and refresh themselves for a while at Brentwood.

William Delany, charged with drunkenness, was let off.

William Falvey, for assault on James E. Drisco, was fined $2, costs $8.04.

William Falvey, for being a common drunkard, was sent to the county house of correction for sixty days, and ordered to pay $6.90 costs.

WHY IS THIS THUS?

A democratic exchange says: "It does not appear that the new steel cruisers will be built at the navy yards. What is the matter?" and goes on to give the follow as a despatch from Washington:

The three steel cruisers which Secretary Whitney is authorized to construct will be built by contract and not at the navy yards. Proposals will be invited after the plans are drawn. The largest ship will probably be built by Charles Cramp, while Harlan & Hollingsworth, the Atlantic Works at South Boston, and other builders, are expected to bid for the smaller ships. The navy department will endeavor to divide the work so that no one establishment shall have it all.

Our democratic contemporary does not approve of this giving out of work to contractors instead of having it done in the navy yards, and asks, "Is there a dearth of democratic mechanics?" It might also very properly ask of what use it will be to invite proposals for constructing the ships, after the plans are drawn, if already, before the plans are adopted at all, it has been decided to whom the contracts will be given.

Half of the United States navy is at the Brooklyn navy yard, and the other half at Norfolk, undergoing repairs which necessitate the employment of many men at each of those yards. Of course the fact that important elections are pending in New York and Virginia had nothing to do with the selection by the reform administration of the two yards named to do all the navy work; but had the administration been republican, under the same circumstances we should have had a unanimous democratic wail about "running the navy yards in the interests of the republican party instead of the people," "squandering the people's money for partisan purposes," etc., such as we were used to hearing for twenty years or more.

MARITIME NOTES.

The gondola Fearless, Capt. Harrison Watson, left Loveland creek, Newmarket, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon on Tuesday, the 6th inst., with twenty cords of wood. Coming through the draw of the Dover Point bridge, she discharged her cargo at George Ford's brickyard on the Cocheco river; arrived at C. E. Walker & Co.'s wharf in this city at one o'clock A. M. on the 7th, loaded with coal for Charles Chapman of Newmarket, and proceeded up river the same day.

The schooner Loella, Amee master, from Rockland with lime, and the Zimri S. Wallingford, from Philadelphia with coal, both bound to Dover to discharge, arrived at this port on the 7th. The brick schooners G. W. Raitt and Estella sailed for Boston, and the British schooners Risk and Arcilla for ports in the provinces, the same day.

After the rain of Tuesday, the 6th inst., and Tuesday night, the wind came out briskly from the northwest, and on Wednesday morning ice was to be seen at the north millbridge and in other localities about the city, about the thickness of ordinary window glass.

We are informed that the re-employment of Mr. R. Chase Goodwin on the navy yard has no connection with the performance of Mr. J. Edward Chase's duties, Mr. Goodwin being employed in the completion of the inventory which was commenced to be taken last April.

Mr. Charles H. Wyatt, for many years past passenger conductor on the Concord & Portsmouth railroad, was taken to the asylum for the insane at Concord on the 7th inst., suffering with an affection of the brain from which there seems no hope of his recovery.

Mr. Charles McInich, formerly with Walker at York, left Portsmouth on Wednesday morning of this week for St. Stephens, N. B., to visit his friends in his native town.

Mr. Brackett Lewis of Kittery, who has for some time been assistant keeper of Whalesback light, has been appointed keeper of the Nubble light at York beach. An assistant has been temporarily appointed at Whalesback.

Rear Admiral Francis A. Roe has been detached from duty as governor of the naval asylum, Philadelphia, and placed on the retired list.

Dr. A. N. Bellinger shot and killed Stephen Reilly, a well known colored democrat, at Charleston, S. C. Bellinger claimed that the act was done in self defense.

Judge T. R. Westbrook, of Kingston, N. Y., was found dead in his room at Troy, where he was holding court, Oct. 6th. He died from apoplexy.

Four young "South cove" roughs, members of a gang of Boston thieves and garrotters, have been held in $2000 each for attempted highway robbery.

Simmons, late water commissioner of Boston, has sued the Beacon Publishing Co. of that city, and Councilman Harding, for $50,000 each for libel.

Severe criticism is made of the firm of William Heath & Co., who lately failed in New York for several million dollars. Crookedness is charged against the firm.

Rev. Michael H. Green, pastor of the Catholic church in Newtonville, Mass., was suffocated on the night of the 5th inst. by the escape of gas in his room.

On Wednesday evening, Oct. 14th, the great temperance drama, "Ten Nights in a Bar-room," will be performed in Music hall by Charles H. Clark's Boston company, organized expressly to present this great emotional and moral play.

The Hungarian Gypsey Band, whose splendid concert given here last spring is still remembered with delight by all who heard it, will appear in Music hall again next Tuesday evening. Tickets now on sale at Goodrich's.

Successful at Last.

Four years ago Levi M. Williams of Farmington, Me., secured a divorce from his wife, and a week later, through revenge, the wife abducted from his custody their five-years-old girl. No trace of either could be found until Friday last, although Williams spent nearly $3000 in hunting for his child. On Friday, the 2d inst., a neighbor of his who had been to Indian Orchard, Mass., told him that while there he heard that a French Canadian family had a little girl in custody whom they had adopted at its mother's in Farmington, Me. Williams went to Indian Orchard, found the family in question in their residence, and found his lost child. Both recognized each other. The people having the adopted child said its mother surrendered it to them over three years ago, then left for New York, and has never been heard from since.

Whenever and Wherever

Diseases of a choleraic type prevail, or there is cause to apprehend a visit from them, the system should be toned, regulated and reinforced by a course of Hostetters Stomach Bitters. Perfect digestion and a regular habit of body are the best safeguards against such maladies, and both are secured by this inestimable tonic and alterative. The Bitters are also extremely serviceable in remedying such disorders. If promptly taken in bilious colic, diarrhœa and cholera morbus, the disease is usually frustrated. In diarrhœa cases, it is only necessary to restore the tone of the relaxed bowels, and this is one of the specific effects of this medicine. Wind on the stomach, heartburn, biliousness, nausea, headache and other symptoms of disturbance in the gastric and hepatic regions are also speedily relieved by this excellent remedy. As a family medicine it is invaluable, since it promptly and completely remedies those ailments which are of most frequent occurrence.

A large sailboat was capsized by a sudden squall off Tompkinsville, Staten island, Sunday afternoon, the 4th inst., and the sixteen occupants were thrown into the water. After battling with the waves for about half an hour fifteen of the party were picked up by the tug Indian. Fred Urban was drowned, and Alexander McCormick and John Assler died from exhaustion after being taken on board the tug.

Chronic Sciatica Cured.

Ashland, Mass., Jan. 23, 1885.

For the last two years I have hobbled around on crutches. During that time I was afflicted with sciatic rheumatism. I not only suffered terrible pain night and day, but was utterly helpless. After using every possible effort to get well, and exhausting the best medical advice, I was induced to try four Allcock's Porous Plasters. These I wore on my side, hip-bone and thigh. In one week I was almost entirely free from pain, and strength returned to my palsied limb. I continued using these Plasters with the most surprising results for three months, when I became perfectly cured, and abandoned the use of crutches. Persons desiring further information can address me.

The orders of Lieut. Comdr. Fred A. Miller to the Adams have been revoked, and he is ordered to the naval hospital at Brooklyn for treatment.

What Parents Fear.

Many persons—especially parents—object to many quack nostrums as likely to engender or encourage a love for strong drink. They are right. Better die of disease than of drunkenness. The use of Parker's Tonic does not involve this danger. It not only builds up the system, curing all ailments of the stomach, liver and kidneys, but it stimulates without intoxicating and absolutely cures the appetite for liquor.

For nearly thirty-four years I have been a victim of Catarrh. I have tried many remedies, receiving little or no relief. I bought one bottle of Ely's Cream Balm and derived more real benefit from that than all the rest added together. You can recommend it as being a safe and valuable medicine. — A. L. Fuller, Danby, New York.

As one having used Ely's Cream Balm I would say it is worth its weight in gold as a cure for Catarrh. One bottle cured me. S. A. Lovell, Franklin, Pa. (See adv't.)

EARLY OHIO SETTLERS.

Manasseh Cutler's Mission for the Ohio Company—The Pioneer Settlers.

It was now decided to make direct and immediate application for the purchase of land in the territory northwest of the Ohio river, and as an agent to negotiate with Congress the associates chose one of their own number, the Rev. Manasseh Cutler, pastor of a little Congregational church in the hamlet of Ipswich (now Hamilton), Massachusetts.

The company could have employed no better man than Dr. Cutler. In the prime of life, forty-five years of age, he was, perhaps, second in general genius and culture to no living American, except Franklin, and his name possessed a prestige in the literary and scientific circles of Boston, New York, and Philadelphia. Since his graduation from Yale, twenty-two years before, he had studied and taken degrees in the three learned professions, divinity, law, and medicine. His education was one of unusual solidity, and the versatility of his genius was attested by the fact that in addition to his clerical duties he had written upon meteorology, astronomy, and botany. His strength was rendered readily effective by the possession of a keen insight into human nature and of a courtly grace of conversation. He was further qualified for the duty he was to undertake by his deep sympathy with the Revolutionary soldiers. He had been among them as chaplain through two campaigns.

Had Dr. Cutler gone forth as the ambassador of a powerful nation, his mission could not have been more vastly important than it was in his capacity as agent for this feeble, struggling colonization society, nor could it have demanded more consummate tact. He journeyed in humble style in his one-horse shay or gig, and there was nothing in the appearance of the quiet, comfortable, dignified New England parson, leisurely jogging along the country roads of Massachusetts and Connecticut, suggestive of the mighty influence he was to exert in moulding the future of the West and of the nation. He left his home in the latter part of June, preached in two towns (Lynn, Massachusetts, and Middletown, Connecticut), where he tarried for Sunday rest, and arrived in New York, where the Continental Congress was then in session, on July 5, "by the road," he chronicles, "that enters the Bowery." He put up his horse "at the sign of the 'Plow and the Harrow' in the Bowery barns."

The work which this man was to perform in Congress was twofold. He sought to purchase a large tract of public land at the most advantageous terms possible, and to procure such legislation for the territory as would be satisfactory to those intending immigration to it. The purchase would have been almost entirely valueless, in the minds of a majority of the Ohio Company associates, if they could not have it clothed with the laws to which they were accustomed. They were almost to a man fully in accord with the spirit which seven years before had prohibited slavery in Massachusetts. Thus it came about that the prospective purchase was used as a powerful lever to effect the formation and passage of the ordinance of 1787, or as it is commonly called, the Ordinance of Freedom. The details of the plan by which Dr. Cutler accomplished his dual object would fill a volume. In brief, he used every argument, every element of personal persuasion, every art of diplomacy, which could have an effect in his favor. He pictured the needs of the brave men who sought to make the purchase and the debt of gratitude the nation owed them. He urged as an important consideration the revenue which would accrue to the government from the sale, and from others which would probably quickly follow. There was at this time a strong feeling of disaffection in Kentucky, and immediate danger that that territory would embrace the first opportunity to join her fortunes with Spain. The planting beyond the Ohio of a strong colony of men whose patriotism was unquestioned, Dr. Cutler argued, would be a measure well calculated to bind the West to the East and promote union. Virginia and the South generally were intensely patriotic, and it is probable that this consideration was of great importance in the opinion of their delegates in congress, and led them not only to favor comparatively easy terms of sale to the Ohio Company, but to permit the enactment of such an ordinance as that body of men desired. Up to this time every ordinance for the government of the Northwest Territory containing an antislavery clause had been voted down, and even the inoperative ordinance of 1784, of which Thomas Jefferson was the author, had before its passage been shorn of its article prohibiting slavery after the year 1800. The ordinance before congress when Dr. Cutler arrived in New York contained no restriction of slavery whatever. Still, it had come down to the 9th of July, and passed its second reading. Upon that day was appointed a new committee, which was prepared to authorize to prepare and submit a plan of government for the Federal territory, and four days later, upon the 13th of July, the result of their labors, the Ordinance of Freedom, passed. The committee had sent a draft of the ordinance to Dr. Cutler, "with leave to make remarks and propose amendments, and he found afterward that the amendments suggested by him were all made, except one (relation to taxation), which was better qualified. There is evidence extant, indisputable, that the measures introduced by his agency, and the passage of which was secured through his sagacity, were those forever proscribing slavery and encouraging religion, morality, and education.—Alfred Matthews, in Harper's Magazine for September.

An ancient burying ground was recently unearthed in Paris while digging a trench in the Rue Salande. The coffins of stone and plaster found there have been traced to the seventh, eighth and ninth centuries. They pointed to the east and had crosses inscribed on a circle, symbolical of eternity, and other emblems of Christianity. The coffins were found filled with dirt, their covers having given way.

Col. Henry W. Cleveland, well known as a journalist in Georgia and as the biographer of Alexander H. Stephens, died one day: "The death of Louis Napoleon perhaps changed the whole course of my life." "In what way?" "Well, I was in London shortly after the ex-Emperor arrived at Chiselhurst from his German prison. I was known in London as a veteran Confederate officer and a proposition was made to accompany Louis Napoleon, with a picked force, in a secret and sudden descent upon France." "Another return-from-Elba affair?" "Something like it. I agreed, and the arrangements were progressing when the illustrious exile became too ill to carry out his project. Perhaps it was just as well for me, but I have always wondered what the result would have been. If successful, it is possible that I would have been decorated with the Legion of Honor cross and made a General or a Marshal of France."

Is It Not Singular

That consumptives should be the least apprehensive of their own condition, while all their friends are urging and beseeching them to be more careful about exposure and overdoing. It may well be considered one of the most alarming symptoms of the disease, where the patient is reckless and will not believe that he is in danger. Reader, if you are in this condition, do not neglect the only means of recovery. Avoid exposure and fatigue, be regular in your habits, and use faithfully of Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery." It has saved thousands who were steadily failing.

Is inseparably connected with Hood's Sarsaparilla, and is true of no other medicine. It is an unanswerable argument as to strength and economy, while thousands testify to its superior blood-purifying and strengthening qualities. A bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla contains 100 doses and will last a month, while others will average to last not over a week. Hence, for economy, buy Hood's Sarsaparilla.

The 100 mile race of the Boston Bicycle club, Oct. 5th, was won by George Weber of Smithfield, N. J., in six hours fifty-seven minutes, beating the world's record by fourteen minutes, and the best previous American record by one hour and twenty-nine minutes.

Robbery and Probable Murder.

John D. Parshley was found on the floor of his meat store at Rochester early Thursday morning, Oct. 8th, with a terrible gash in his neck, and insensible. He recovered consciousness at 9:30, and said two men, supposed to be Italians, entered the store just after he opened it, knocked him down, and one stabbed him in the neck with a large jack-knife. They then stole $200 from his pocket, rifled the money drawer, and escaped. He described the assailants as burly, ugly-looking fellows, shabbily dressed. His description was telegraphed to other places, and before noon Wm. J. Lynch of Portland, twenty-four years old, was arrested in that city as being one of the assassins; he was taken to Rochester on the noon train.

Massachusetts Democratic Nominations.

The democratic state convention of Massachusetts met at Worcester Oct. 7th, and nominated Frederick O. Prince for governor, H. H. Gilman for lieutenant governor, Jeremiah Crowley for secretary of state, and other candidates who will not be elected.

Universalist State Conventions.

The annual session of the New Hampshire Universalist Sunday school convention was held at Concord, Oct. 6th, Rev. H. S. Fiske of South Newmarket presiding. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Hon. Hosea W. Parker of Claremont; vice president, G. H. Dodge, of Henniker; secretary, Rev. L. S. McCollister of Claremont; committee on work, Rev. Mr. DeMarst of Manchester, Mrs. Loretta Foster of Weare, Miss Caroline Freeman of Portsmouth. Essays were read by Misses Rebecca Webster of Concord on "Teachers' work from a teacher's standpoint," and Mrs. E. J. Jaquith of Nashua on "The rewards of the Sabbath school teacher." The report of the secretary showed twenty-three schools in operation in the state, with a membership of 1886, a gratifying gain over last year; and also announced an increased general interest in Sabbath school work.

The state convention of Universalist churches held its annual session in Concord on the 7th and 8th insts.

Knights of Honor.

The Grand Lodge, Knights of Honor, of New Hampshire, met in Manchester on the 7th inst., nearly all of the thirty-two lodges in the state being represented. During the afternoon the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Grand dictator, H. E. Remick, Woodsville; grand vice dictator, George E. Hodgdon, Portsmouth; grand assistant dictator, Henry A. Farrington, Manchester; grand reporter, J. H. Gardiner, Portsmouth; grand treasurer, H. P. Glidden, Dover; grand chaplain, Nelson H. Brown, Milford; grand guide, David H. Burbank, Manchester; grand guardian, Daniel R. Prescott, Manchester; grand sentinel, O. J. Godfrey, Concord; grand trustee, James F. Barnes, Nashua; supreme representative to the grand lodge, George H. Everett, Laconia; alternate, Henry A. Farrington; state medical examiner, A. C. Emery, Penacook.

Mr. Wm. F. Noyes, whose left hand and arm were shockingly injured in a machine on the navy yard on the 2d inst., had the little finger amputated on the 7th by Doctors Sherburne and Hall.

The brick schooners D. K. Ham, Lillie and J. Chester Wood arrived at Boston on the 7th inst. from this port.

The schooner Mary Willey, from Bangor with lumber to John H. Broughton; the Lizzie Guptill, from Rockland with 800 casks lime to J. Albert Walker; the Cora Etta, from Malden, New York, with flag stones for the sidewalk in front of the Rockingham house; and the S. A. Rudolph, from Philadelphia with a cargo of coal for Dover, arrived on the 8th inst.

The steamer James Sampson on Thursday came down from Newmarket, where she has had a new boiler put in.

The steamer Pinafore, Capt. Oscar Laighton, came in from the Shoals on Thursday morning, the 8th inst., and sailed again in the afternoon, taking out a ton of face-brick from John H. Broughton, for the new chimney places at the "Oceanic." Miss Lizzie Caswell also went out in the steamer, in charge of fresh provisions from Thomas J. Sheehan to Lemuel B. Caswell of the Atlantic house, Smuttynose island.

CIRCUIT COURT--CLARK J.

The October term of the Circuit court of the United States began at Concord on Thursday, the 8th inst., District Judge Daniel Clark presiding. There are on the dockets thirty-five actions at law, twenty-five equity suits, and nineteen cases on the criminal docket.

Mr. Editor: I notice in the Chronicle of the 8th that the re employment of Mr. Chase Goodwin in the steam engineering store on the navy yard has no connection with the performance of the duties of Mr. J. E. Chase, the present clerk. However true that may be, it has been the case heretofore that all work pertaining to the offices of clerks has been performed by the regular appointees; but perhaps the duties of this office are more arduous than the others. I understand that Mr. Goodwin was employed by the new clerk several weeks after he assumed the office, to post him; and a prominent official in the department says that if Mr. Goodwin had remained the chief clerk, no extra help would have been needed. Evidently the present administration doesn't look at the fitness of things. EON.

The fourth assembly in the course of the Red Stocking base ball club will be given in Congress hall on Thursday evening, the 15th inst.

Whenever and Wherever

Diseases of a cholera type prevail, or there is cause to apprehend a visit from them, the system should be toned, regulated and reinforced by a course of Hostetters Stomach Bitters. Perfect digestion and a regular habit of body are the best safeguards against such maladies, and both are secured by this inestimable tonic and alterative. The Bitters are also extremely serviceable in remedying such disorders. If promptly taken in bilious colic, diarrhœa and cholera morbus, the disease is usually frustrated. In diarrhœa cases, it is only necessary to restore the tone of the relaxed bowels, and this is one of the specific effects of this medicine. Wind on the stomach, heartburn, biliousness, nausea, headache and other symptoms of disturbance in the gastric and hepatic regions are also speedily relieved by this excellent remedy. As a family medicine it is invaluable, since it promptly and completely remedies those ailments which are of most frequent occurrence.

So great has been the falling off in the immigration into Canada that the minister of agriculture has abandoned the monthly statement, which for several years has been issued from his department.

Chronic Sciatica Cured.

Ashland, Mass., Jan. 23, 1885.

For the last two years I have hobbled around on crutches. During that time I was afflicted with sciatic rheumatism. I not only suffered terrible pain night and day, but was utterly helpless. After using every possible effort to get well, and exhausting the best medical advice, I was induced to try four Allcock's Porous Plasters. These I wore on my side, hip-bone and thigh. In one week I was almost entirely free from pain, and strength returned to my palsied limb. I continued using these Plasters with the most surprising results for three months, when I became perfectly cured, and abandoned the use of crutches. Persons desiring further information can address me.

At the first meeting of the grantees of the New Hampshire Trust Co., held at the Hotel Windsor in Manchester on the 7th inst., the capital stock was fixed at $100,000. Gov. Moody Currier, Ex-Governors James A. Weston and Person C. Cheney, and Messrs. Frank Jones, Alfred F. Howard and John Sise of Portsmouth were with many other prominent men of the state elected associate grantees.

I Don't Want a Doctor!

I have tried them, and they have only swindled me; I have figured up what they cost me for the last four years, it was just $524.31. If I had it now it would be a fortune for me. This year my bill for medicine was only five dollars, for which I purchased six bottles of Sulphur Bitters. They cured me of Scrofula after suffering four years.—P. J. Cummings, Troy New York.

The salvation army took Water street in their line of march last Thursday evening, and the Puddle Dock mugwumps swarmed around them like flies around a molasses barrel. There was a big meeting at the Daniel street "barracks" afterward.

For nearly thirty-four years I have been a victim of Catarrh. I have tried many remedies, receiving little or no relief. I bought one bottle of Ely's Cream Balm and derived more real benefit from that than all the rest added together. You can recommend it as being a safe and valuable medicine. — A. L. Fuller, Danby, New York.

As one having used Ely's Cream Balm I would say it is worth its weight in gold as a cure for Catarrh. One bottle cured me. S. A. Lovell, Franklin, Pa.

Elopement.

Cleveland, Ohio, is all agog over the elopement of Henry Frederick, a prominent politician, with a handsome young woman named Susie Fink, to whom he has been attentive for six months past. He was employed at the postoffice, and gave the authorities no notice of his departure. Before he left he threatened to kill his wife. It now transpires that Mrs. Fink left the city at the same time. The pair have been traced as far as Buffalo, N. Y. Frederick was a man who had the respect of the community, and possessed much political influence.

What Parents Fear.

Many persons—especially parents—object to many quack nostrums as likely to engender or encourage a love for strong drink. They are right. Better die of disease than of drunkenness. The use of Parker's Tonic does not involve this danger. It not only builds up the system, curing all ailments of the stomach, liver and kidneys, but it stimulates without intoxicating and absolutely cures the appetite for liquor.

William the Conqueror and the English Forests.

William the Conqueror, like King Canute, "took much Delight in Hunting, and," according to eighteenth century historians, "had such a Fury for gratifying that Passion that he reserved all Hunting and Sporting in his Forests to himself, or to such as he thought proper to indulge." These chroniclers then proceed to give a terrible picture of the King depopulating large tracts of Hampshire in order to form a New Forest, although he already had several in the country—"turning out all the Inhabitants, destroying the Houses, Gardens, and even Churches, which stood in that tract of land in order to make it a desert." This view of William's conduct with regard to the New Forest has fallen before modern examination of the district. The Kentic and West Saxon barrows are still to be seen; the sites of the dwelling of the Romans are clearly visible. The potter's work, left carelessly upon the ground by the Roman potters, is found undisturbed and unbroken but a few inches below the surface. What can account for the total disappearance of every trace of these houses and churches which William destroyed—some 60 churches, as it is stated in certain chronicles, and, of necessity, a number of villages to house the people who worshiped there. The only two churches entered in "Domesday," those at Brockenhurst and Milford, still stand; and immediately after the afforestation two new ones were built in the very heart of the wild forest, one at Boldre and one at Hordle. Most of the "castles" in the forests were merely earthen intrenchments made by the Kelts and West Saxons: and though a few forest names end in ton, which indicate the existence of some scattered homesteads, many more end with hurst, which means "wood." Then there are such names as Roydon, the rough ground; Bramshaw, the bramblewood; Denny, the furzy ground; Stockleigh, the woody place; and Stanneswood, Arnewood, and Testwood. Modern authorities consider that William did not commit the folly of turning a highly cultivated district into a desert, where the deer would have found no shelter for many years; but that he simply converted a wild woodland into a royal forest. Ytene, the "furzy country," became the New Forest. A great part of this district which he afforested he already held in demesne. It all now became subject to forest laws. There were inhabitants, even manors, within the forest: these had to submit to its rule, and were also granted its privileges. In the Charta de Foresta of Canute mention is made of horses, cows, and wild goats, which were protected in the forest, and also of certain privileges of the people. So, under William, there were homesteads to which rights were attached of pasturing cattle, feeding swine, and cutting of timber and turf. Severe laws existed in respect to hunting the deer, as they did in the days of Canute. But it is very doubtful whether William did not rather benefit the district in making it a royal forest than otherwise. He was hated because he wished to make of the English a race of slaves; and in the forest it was well understood to be a much lighter offense to kill a man than a deer. And so the story grew of his cruelty and tyranny. In this forest William the Red was killed, and his brother and nephew; the records of their strange and sudden deaths are very unsatisfactory, and tradition has attributed them to the vengeance of Heaven, visiting William the Conqueror's cruelty upon his descendants. It seems most probable that Rufus was the victim of a conspiracy, and that his brother's and nephew's deaths were merely accidents in name.—The English illustrated Magazine.

Linseed Oil and its Uses.

A correspondent to a trade journal writes: Linseed oil is generally prepared by cold or warm pressing of flaxseed. Its employment in the manufacture of oil paints is owing to its drying properties. When spread out in thin layers it dries and forms a solid varnish-like body. Fresh linseed oil always contains watery and gummy bodies, from which it must be separated before being used. The simplest method for purifying and clarifying linseed oil consists in storing it for several months and then carefully drawing it off from the sediment. The coloration and oxidation of linseed oil is due to the absorption of oxygen from the air, and it is for this reason that linseed oil should be stored in hermetically sealed vessels, if possible in the dark.

When linseed oil is to be used for paints, its drying properties must be improved; that is, it must be converted into a varnish. For this purpose 2½ parts of litharge are placed into an iron or copper boiler with fifty parts of old clarified linseed oil. The oil is then carefully heated to boiling. At the end of about one hour a dirty scum forms on the surface of the oil, which must be removed as it forms. Precautions must be taken to prevent the oil from boiling over. It is advisable to have a proper cover and wet cloths at hand for extinguishing the fire in case the oil should become overheated. On a large scale jacketed boilers heated by steam are used. After the oil has boiled three-quarters of an hour, it is allowed to cool and settle. At the end of two or three days, sometimes after twenty-four hours, the clear oil is drawn off. The linseed-oil varnish obtained in this way has a pale wine color, is clear and transparent, and more viscous than the original oil. It does not froth when poured out, and dries to an almost colorless mass. Linseed-oil varnish should be kept in bottles. It may be ground with various colors, and used for painting wood, iron, brick-work, etc. Melted together with resins, especially with copal and amber, it may be used as a waterproof paint on wood, etc.

To make a white oil paint, this linseed-oil varnish is generally ground with lead; and in case colored paints are to be prepared, ocher, Naples yellow, terra de sienna, chrome red, vermilion, etc., are added. When wooden floors are to be painted, they should first be saturated with linseed oil. For this purpose the oil should not be used cold, but always warm, because the heated oil is more fluid, and penetrates the wood to a greater depth.

Oil putties generally consist of linseed oil, varnish, and litharge, or calcined chalk. This putty is gradually converted into a soap, which is perfectly insoluble in water. Its hardness may be increased by the addition of quartz sand or brick-dust. In painting, the finest purified and bleached linseed oil is often required. Such an oil may be prepared by treating the varnish, prepared as above, with a solution of sugar of lead. The sugar of lead solution is prepared by dissolving one part of sugar of lead in sixteen parts of alcohol; one hundred pounds of linseed oil are heated to 85 or 90 degrees, and then thoroughly mixed with five or six pounds of the alcoholic lead solution. The oil is then left at rest for three or four days, and the clear, bleached oil is drawn off from the sediment. The sediment may be freed from the gummy matter by filtration.

The police chief of Wheeling, W. Va., has preferred charges against the mayor, Jacob W. SKIN AND BLOOD

Diseases from Pimples to Scrofula Cured by Cuticura.

Hundreds of letters in our possession, copies of which may be had by return of mail, repeat this story:—I have been a terrible sufferer for years from Diseases of the Skin and Blood; have been obliged to shun public places by reason of my disfiguring humors; have had the best physicians; have spent hundreds of dollars, and got no relief until I used the CUTICURA REMEDIES, which have cured me, and left my skin and blood as pure as a child's.

COVERED WITH SALT RHEUM.

CUTICURA REMEDIES are the greatest medicines on earth. Had the worst case of Salt Rheum in this country. My mother had it twenty years, and in fact died from it. I believe CUTICURA would have saved her life. My arms, breast and head were covered for three years, which nothing relieved or cured until I used the CUTICURA RESOLVENT, internally, and CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP, externally. J. W. ADAMS. NEWARK, O.

HEAD, FACE AND BODY RAW.

I commenced to use your CUTICURA REMEDIES last July. My head and face and some parts of my body were almost raw. My head was covered with scabs and sores, and my suffering was fearful. I had tried everything I had heard of in the East and West. My case was considered by very bad one. I have now not a particle of Skin Humor about me, and my case is considered wonderful. MRS. S. E. WHIPPLE. DECATUR, MICH.

ECZEMA FROM HEAD TO FEET.

Charles Eayre Hinkle, Jersey City Heights, N. J., writes: "My son, a lad of twelve years, was completely cured of a terrible case of Eczema by the CUTICURA REMEDIES. From the top of his head to the soles of his feet was one mass of scabs." Every other remedy and physicians had been tried in vain.

NOTHING LIKE CUTICURA.

The half has not been told as to the great curative powers of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, I have paid hundreds of dollars for medicines to cure diseases of the blood and skin, and never found anything yet to equal the CUTICURA REMEDIES. PROVIDENCE, R. I. CHAS. A. WILLIAMS.

WILLIAM H. HACKETT.

A lawyer, who pleads at the bar,
Caught cold when the door was ajar;
But his troubles were brief,
For he soon found relief,
Through the Cough Cure that's christened Red Star.

At Mountainville, N. Y., a vigilance committee attempted to treat a man named Conkling to a rail ride for living with another man's wife. He escaped the ride, and caused the arrest of nine men for breaking and entering his house.

Derangement of the liver, with constipation, induce pimples, sallow skin, etc. Remove the cause by using Carter's Little Liver Pills. One a dose.

Arrested!

Charles A. Dales was arrested last evening for stealing from the drug store of Shiefman a bottle of Sulphur Bitters. Before the court this morning, upon being asked why he should steal, he stated that his mother was troubled with rheumatism, and that it was the only medicine that helped her, and being out of money and work was the cause of his stealing. As this was his first offence he was put on probation.—Newark News.

Flood rock, New York harbor, is to be blown up at eleven o'clock this forenoon, with nearly 300,000 pounds of high explosives—the largest blast ever fired.

Ministers, Lawyers, Teachers, and others whose occupation gives but little exercise, should use Carter's Liver Pills for torpid Liver and biliousness. One a dose.

Rev. S. Morton of the Congregational church at Warner fell from a tree on the evening of the 7th inst., and fractured his shoulder and leg and was otherwise seriously hurt, so that it was feared he could not recover.

If You Hang

A piece of meat out of doors in Douglass county, Col., it will cure itself in a few days. If you have weak lungs, that's a good place to live. If you can't arrange to go just yet, buy a bottle of G. O. Taylor Pure Rye, put into it six or eight ounces rock candy, and when dissolved use it as medicine. It will relieve the cough, and it may make you well. Druggists and grocers sell the Whiskey, Chester H. Graves & Sons bottle it, and their name is on label and over cork of each bottle.

New Hampshire Knights of Pythias.

The 15th annual report of the Grand Lodge of the Knights of Pythias in New Hampshire has been published in a pamphlet of 43 pages. The book contains the report of Grand Chancellor Haines of Manchester, and much other interesting matter concerning the organization. There was a net gain last year of sixty-seven. The financial statement is: Total receipts of subordinate lodges, $10,643.85; decrease during the year, $1,555.49; total expenditures, $8,708.53; ncrease, $234.81; total amount paid for relief, $3,504.58; decrease, $280.29; total amount on hand and invested, $16,602.33; increase, $1,198.72. One new lodge has been instituted, and another has asked for admission. Twenty-three lodges have an aggregate membership of 1,653, the largest being Olive Branch of Dover, 192 members; then follows Harmony of Farmington, 161; Damon of Portsmouth, 127; Granite of Manchester, 125; Concord of Concord, 106; and Rising Sun of Rochester, 100.

Good Templars' Grand Lodge Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Grand Lodge of New Hampshire, Independent Order of Good Templars, was held in Concord on the 7th inst. Over 300 delegates were in attendance. Fifty past officers of subordinate lodges present took the grand lodge degree. Grand Worthy Chief Templar George A. Bailey presided, and read his annual report, which showed the order throughout the state to be very prosperous. The report of the secretary gave the number of members of the order in the state as 3500, and the number of lodges as sixty. The grand treasurer reported the financial condition as good.

As one of the teams of the Eldredge Brewing Co., heavily loaded with empty lager-beer barrels, was crossing State street in Boston at noon on the 8th inst., the wheels struck the curb and one of the barrels was thrown off, and fell into a crowd which, at the moment, was waiting to cross, striking Patrolman John J. Fitzgerald and knocking him senseless. He was taken to the station house, and Ernest Kraus, the driver of the team, was given an opportunity to explain the affair to Captain Wilkins.

Official advices have been received at Cairo, Egypt, from Ras Alula, the commander of the Abyssinian expedition marching to the relief of the beleaguered garrison at Kassala in the Soudan, to the effect that after a severe battle the Abyssinians defeated a large force of dervishes under Osman Digna, and that 3000 dervishes were killed in the encounter. The Abyssinian general is now rapidly advancing on Kassala.

Dennis J. Lynch, formerly of this city, instituted suits on the 7th inst. against Nathaniel Jenkins of Concord and Michael J. Cavanaugh of Manchester, to recover sums aggregating $850. The actions are the result of the wager, and pools bought, on a sprint race between Geo. E. Knee of Concord and James E. Little of Boston, on the 5th inst. The action of Mr. Lynch has created much comment among sporting men and others in Concord, and the result of the suits will be awaited with considerable interest. It is reported that the parties sued will contest as vigorously as possible, and will not pay until compelled to do so by process of law. Mr. Lynch has his headquarters in Boston, and is one of the best-known sporting men in New England.

It is prepared from Sarsaparilla, Yellow Dock, Cherry Bark, Pipsissewa, Mandrake, Dandelion, and other well-known vegetable remedies. The combination, proportion, and preparation are peculiar to Hood's Sarsaparilla, and effect the most remarkable cures where other medicines fail.

It cures Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Boils, Pimples, Humors, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Sick Headache, Indigestion, General Debility, Catarrh, Rheumatism, Kidney and Liver Complaints, dispels that tired feeling, creates an appetite, and builds up the whole system. The worthy Hood's Sarsaparilla is unequalled in the history of medicines. Such is its popularity in Lowell, Mass., where it is made, that whole neighborhoods are taking it at the same time. This success is extending all over the country.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine of which can truly be said, "100 Doses One Dollar," which is an unanswerable argument as to strength and economy. Other preparations will average but half not over a week, while a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla contains 100 doses and will last a month. Hence, for economy as well as for health and strength, buy Hood's Sarsaparilla. Send for a book containing statements of many remarkable cures.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is sold by all druggists. Prepared by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass. Price $1; six for $5.

"We are selling Athlophoros and have sold a good deal of it. I use the article in my family occasionally, as required," reports A. S. Blackman, a New Haven, Connecticut, druggist, regarding his dealings in Athlophoros.

The immense wholesale stationary and printing establishment of H. S. Crocker & Co., on Bush street, San Francisco, was burned to the ground Oct. 8th, and four men were buried in the ruins. The estimated loss on the building and stock is $500,000. It was insured for $150,000.

After using all the humbug liniments and salves with sure failure, go and get of your druggist a Hop Plaster. The strongest and best porous plaster ever made. Vastly superior to all other external remedies. The complete pain-allaying virtues of fresh hops combined with strengthening gums and Burgundy pitch. 25c.

OFFICIAL RAILWAY VISIT.

At precisely twenty minutes past nine o'clock on Friday morning the Concord railroad's engine Gov. Gilmore drew up on the yard of the Concord & Portsmouth railroad in this city. Attached to the locomotive was the directors' car "Webster," containing the railroad commissioners, who were on their annual tour of inspection of the Concord railway system, accompanied by Directors John H. Pearson, Benj. A. Kimball and John A. White of the Concord road, Wm. H. Hackett, clerk of the Concord & Portsmouth road, Supt. Horace E. Chamberlin, with Samuel Barrett, general freight agent, and the road master and bridge builder of the road; also J. Frank Webster, cashier. The train left Concord at 7:20, and with a brief stop at Raymond, and a few minutes' waiting at West Epping for the up train from this city, made the run in just two hours, including all stops. The directors inspected the grounds in this city, where new track had been recently laid to accommodate a hundred additional freight cars. The car left at eleven A. M., and stopped at way stations where employes of the line received their monthly pay. The commissioners expressed themselves as much pleased with the condition of the roadbed and track, and the increased facilities for handling freight at this end of the line. The subject of relaying the track from Candia to Suncook over the old line of road was discussed. In the afternoon the commissioners proceeded to Pittsfield, to inspect the Suncook Valley branch.

CIRCUIT COURT--CLARK J.

THURSDAY, Oct. 8th.

The grand jury having been empannelled, the court stated that District Attorney Burns having resigned there was no one legally empowered to take charge of the grand jury, and no one authorized to sign an indictment in case one should be found. The circuit judge had been informed of the condition of affairs, but nothing had been heard from him on the subject. The court then excused the grand jurors until Tuesday, the 13th inst., at eleven o'clock A. M.

Messrs. David F. Clark of Manchester, James F. Brennan of Peterborough, Samuel K. Paige of Warner, Wells H. Johnson and Cornelius E. Clifford of Concord, and Ira A. Chase of Bristol, were admitted to practice in this court.

A motion to continue the case of the New Hampshire Land Co. against Henry, was argued. Judge Clark held that with the question as to whether the corporation can hold land in New Hampshire not determined, the case should be continued and not tried at this term, as was also case of the Land Co. vs. Grafton Co. All the Pacific Bank cases marked were postponed except case of Price, receiver of Pacific Nat. Bank, against French & Barnabee, trustees of Willis Barnabee estate, which was discontinued, having been settled.

Cases Frieberg vs. Prescott, Jones vs. Insurance Co., and Kings County Manufacturing Co. vs. Furbish, were put on the jury list. The jury trials will begin on Tuesday, 13th.

The Supreme court of Merrimac county is also in session, and as there is but one court room proper in Concord the two courts will have to accommodate each other in regard to the use of the room.

MARITIME NOTES.

The steamer Wm. H. Clark, of Boston, started from this port early last Thursday morning for Salem, Mass., with Capt. Symonds' dredging flotilla in tow.

The steamer James Sampson made her navy yard workmen's trip on Friday morning—her first regular business trip since she was taken off the river to receive a new boiler. It was reported that she would immediately recommence running on the route between this city and Kittery Point, via Newcastle.

The brick schooners Satellite and Hattie Lewis arrived from Boston on the 9th, light, and the schooner Gold Hunter and sloop Stephen Orr sailed for Boston the same day with cargoes.

AFFAIRS IN KITTERY.

KITTERY, Me., Oct. 9th.

Charles W. Fernald, son of Samuel Fernald of West Kittery, and a member of the firm of Sands & Fernald, grocers, of Boston, died at his home in Boston last Thursday afternoon, after a short illness of typhoid pneumonia. The deceased was much respected and beloved by all who knew him.

Chandler Brooks, the grocery dealer at the Foreside, has sold out his business to Daniel Norton and Lewis B. Gerrish, both residents of this village, and until lately employed on the navy yard. They took charge on Thursday. SUB ROSA.

A new line of steel engravings, photogravures, etchings and photographs from Wm. Pate & Co., New York, on sale at Montgomery's music and art store for ten days only.

Harry Sloane, the man arrested in this city on Thursday night on suspicion of his having been concerned in the murderous assault on Mr. Parshley at Rochester, was released Friday morning, a telegram from Rochester saying he was not the man wanted. Wm. J. Lynch, arrested at Portland, Me., Thursday, on similar grounds, was also discharged, having fully cleared himself.

Mr. B. Frank Martin, blockmaker at the navy yard, tumbled overboard from the steamer Mystic as she was making her landing on this side of the river Friday evening, but was fished out without other damage than a wetting.

Mr. Thomas J. Brooks left this city on Thursday last, to rejoin the United States navy.

The Sovereigns of Industry store on Bridge street has been sold to John H. Yeaton and Frank H. Grover, who will carry on the grocery business there under the firm name of Yeaton & Grover. They are deserving young men and acquainted with the business, and they will endeavor to please the old customers of the store, and all others who may favor them with their patronage; they have a nice team ready to answer all calls for the delivery of goods.

At the 12th annual meeting of the New Hampshire Branch of the Women's Board of Foreign Missions, held in Concord on the 7th inst., Mrs. Helen C. Knight of this city was elected president for the ensuing year.

We are pleased to know that the Misses Simes are very successful in fitting garments by the new S. T. Taylor System of Dressmaking. It is asserted to be far superior to the old methods, and we are safe in guaranteeing satisfaction to all who may patronise them. Their rooms are on Mark street.

Rev. C. D. Hainer will be installed as pastor of the Court street Christian society on Thursday evening next.

A car filled with Mormon converts, bound to Salt Lake, passed through this city on the Boston & Maine railroad Friday afternoon, going west. They were all foreigners, mostly women, and stolid-looking and unattractive. The poor Mormon men are to be pitied.

Mrs. Samuel Hill and her daughter, Mrs. S. H. Marcy, left on Friday for New Orleans, where they will spend the winter.

The house on High street recently purchased by Mr. Lawrence K. Lydston of the estate of the late Albert A. Fernald, is being extensively repaired by its new owner.

The big flag-stones for the Rockingham house were being hauled from the schooner Cora Etta to the hotel on Friday, the heavy wagons belonging on the navy yard being used, ordinary trucks not being safe to use at the job.

The directors of the Cottage Hospital thankfully acknowledge the receipt of two pairs of blankets from some undisclosed benefactor, and of eleven yards of sheeting from Mr. Borthwick.

The house and other buildings of Mr. John Chase, near the foot of Chase's pond in York, were burned Oct. 6th, a part only of the furniture in the house being saved. The property was insured, but to what extent is not stated.

Commodore W. S. Schley, chief of the bureau of equipment and recruiting, paid an official visit to the navy yard on the 8th inst., and inspected everything connected with his department. The regulation salute was omitted at his request.

The boats which formerly belonged to the U. S. S. Tallapoosa, and have been stored at this navy yard since her sinking in Vineyard sound last winter, were this week sent to New York by rail.

Whenever and Wherever

Diseases of a choleraic type prevail, or there is cause to apprehend a visit from them, the system should be toned, regulated and reinforced by a course of Hostetters Stomach Bitters. Perfect digestion and a regular habit of body are the best safeguards against such maladies, and both are secured by this inestimable tonic and alterative. The Bitters are also extremely serviceable in remedying such disorders. If promptly taken in bilious colic, diarrhœa and cholera morbus, the disease is usually frustrated. In diarrhœa cases, it is only necessary to restore the tone of the relaxed bowels, and this is one of the specific effects of this medicine. Wind on the stomach, heartburn, biliousness, nausea, headache and other symptoms of disturbance in the gastric and hepatic regions are also speedily relieved by this sovereign remedy. As a family medicine it is invaluable, since it promptly and completely remedies those ailments which are of most frequent occurrence.

The army reserve has been called out in both Servia and Greece.

Chronic Sciatica Cured.

Ashland, Mass., Jan. 23, 1885.

For the last two years I have hobbled around on crutches. During that time I was afflicted with sciatic rheumatism. I not only suffered terrible pain night and day, but was utterly helpless. After using every possible effort to get well, and exhausting the best medical advice, I was induced to try four Allcock's Porous Plasters. These I wore on my side, hip-bone and thigh. In one week I was almost entirely free from pain, and strength returned to my palsied limb. I continued using these Plasters with the most surprising results for three months, when I became perfectly cured, and abandoned the use of crutches. Persons desiring further information can address me.

—The modern Diogenes would have to take his tub along with him when he went out to look for an honest man, if he expected anything to crawl into when he got back.

That Dirty Dandruff.

Dandruff is dirty and disagreeable in every way. It soils the clothing continually, and is accompanied by a hardly less annoying sensation of itching. The scale is diseased. There is nothing in the world so thoroughly adapted to this trouble as Parker's Hair Balsam. It cleanses and heals the scalp, stops the falling hair and restores its original softness, gloss and color. Is not oily, highly perfumed, an elegant dressing. Very economical, as only a small occasional application keeps the hair in perfect condition.

—At the next Congress an effort will be made to do away with the sunset guns now fired at all military posts in the country. The sun knows its business and doesn't want any flipfloppery about it.

For nearly thirty-four years I have been a victim of Catarrh. I have tried many remedies, receiving little or no relief. I bought one bottle of Ely's Cream Balm and derived more real benefit from that than all the rest added together. You can recommend it as being a safe and valuable medicine.—A. L. Fuller, Danby, New York.

As one having used Ely's Cream Balm I would say it is worth its weight in gold as a cure for Catarrh. One bottle cured me. S. A. Lovell, Franklin, Pa.

Some fellow has published "One Hundred Proofs that the Earth is Not a Globe." This is another result of electing a democrat president. No one thought of changing the shape of the earth during a republican administration. This craving for a "change" is going too far.

The freight rates of our great trunk lines have been advanced, but this will have no effect on the price of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, which is sold at the old price of 25 cents a bottle.

The democratic papers of New York announce that money is flowing into the party treasury in abundance, for use in the election in that state. Roswell P. Flower, a defeated candidate for the nomination as governor, has forwarded his check for $30,000.

Try Carter's Little Nerve Pills for any case of nervousness, sleeplessness, weak stomach, indigestion, dyspepsia, etc., relief is sure. The only nerve medicine for the price in market. In vials at 25 cents.

The treasury department is receiving an increased demand for small currency, which is regarded as a sign of revival in the business of the country.

If you are tired taking the large old-fashioned griping pills, try Carter's Little Liver Pills and take some comfort. A man can't stand everything. One pill a dose.

The fire loss of the United States and Canada for September is placed at $5,250,000, some $300,000 less than the average for the same month in the past ten years.

"100 Doses One Dollar" is true only of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it is an unanswerable argument as to strength and economy.

Liver-pill Flower having sent $30,000 to the democratic state committee of New York to aid in securing the re-election of Gov. Hill, Mr. Daniel Manning has felt impelled to make a contribution to the campaign, and has consequently written a letter saying he and the president will surely vote for Hill.

For earache, toothache, sore throat, swelled neck, and the result of cold and inflammation, use Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil—the great pain destroyer.

After terrible suffering, a crew of six men were taken from the schooner Ann T. Sipple, and the vessel was abandoned, off the Virginia coast. The crew belong in Bath, Me.

The action of Carter's Little Liver Pills is pleasant, mild and natural. They gently stimulate the liver, and regulate the bowels, but do not purge. They are sure to please.

Cashier Clark of the Union bank, Halifax, N. S., whose defalcation in the sum of $83,000 is at present exciting that city, is said to have been an excellent copy of the United States bad article. He earned $2400, and spent four times that sum.

After using all the humbug liniments and salves with sure failure, go and get of your druggist a Hop Plaster. The strongest and best porous plaster ever made. Vastly superior to all other external remedies. The complete pain-allaying virtues of fresh hops combined with strengthening gums and Burgundy pitch. 25c.

medicine I ever found that helped me at all is ATHLOPHOROS, and I have not had the Rheumatism since I took it.—EDWIN SEARS, Provincetown, Mass.

A professor in a medical college once said to his class "put your hand in a vice, turn the screw until the pain is all you can bear, and that's rheumatism; turn the screw once more, and that's neuralgia—and gentlemen, the medical profession knows no cure for either." That was before the discov. of ATHLOPHOROS which does and will cry of ATHLOPHOROS quickly cure both rheumatism and neuralgia, and many physicians use it regularly—frankly admitting that they can prescribe nothing else so effective.

Many persons have tried so many so-called remedies, without benefit, that they have no faith to try more, but it is worth your while to try Athlophoros, if you have any doubts as to its value write for names of parties in your own State who have been cured by its use.

Ask your druggist for Athlophoros. If you cannot get it of him we will send it express paid on receipt of regular price—$1.00 per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed.

A BOOS-KE-TAN.

An Annual Ceremony Among the Creek Indians.—Its Uses.

A Muscogee, I. T., correspondent of the New Orleans Times-Democrat writes:

The Creek Indians of the Hickory Ground town or neighborhood held their annual "boos-ke-tan" last week. This is commonly called "busk," and is the occasion when all of the Indians of a certain section, under a local chief, meet for the purpose of taking their "possan", or black drink. The ground is selected by the town chief near some running stream, and a brush shed is constructed in the form of a cross, one end to the north, one to the south and the others to the east and west. The chief occupies the west end and his subordinate officers the ends to the other points of the compass. After everything is got in readiness, a committee is appointed to go out and bring in four round logs about four feet long, which are placed with ceremony in the center of the arbor, the outer ends pointing to the four cardinal points, but all touching together in the center.

Fire is produced by friction, which is then placed in the center of this cross. It is estimated with a slow fire these logs will last four days, the usual length of the busk. After the black drink is made the women, who are fasting, dance around the fire, and from 12 o'clock to the middle of the afternoon take draughts of the medicine, which is a powerful emetic, and also wash their faces, hands, and feet with it. When the women all get through the men join them and they the women wearing terrapin shells filled with gravel, and tied together with buckskin thongs, fastened to their legs or ankles, which rattle and aid in keeping time in the dance. They sing their peculiar songs, interspersed with yells by the men, and it is wonderful the amount of labor that is endured during these exercises. The women are tastefully and brilliantly dressed and decorated with their finest clothes, ribbons, and ornaments. The next day the men go through pretty much the same ceremonies, and take their medicine.

After this, on the third day, the women bring in the children, who are made to drink. They are washed in it, scrubbed on the arms and legs with a scratcher of many points, so the medicine can the sooner penetrate. These scratches are usually made of garfish teeth, or in the absence of those they are made by sticking numerous pins through a feather. After each class get through with their duties of drinking and dancing they are permitted to go to the stream and bathe, when they can return to the camp and partake of food and prepare for the dance at night. During all these ceremonies the women and children occupy one camp and the men the other.

On the fourth day the ashes are all cleaned up, and each participant sprinkles some of it on himself.

THE FIRE IS RENEWED,

and then begins the final dance. The men all come in with sticks, in the ends of which are inserted four white feathers. With these they keep time in all sorts of motion during the dance. All this is the ceremony that has to be gone through with before any of the members are allowed to eat green corn, and is, properly speaking, the "green-corn dance."

In some towns of old standing these ceremonies are kept up eight days with much formality and strictness. In Tookabatcha town there now exist brass plates that have been handed down from one generation to another, probably for hundreds of years. They are now in possession of old Captain Tookabatcha Hajo, one of the finest-looking old Indians I have yet met, and is said to be one of the best men throughout the Territory. These meetings are not altogether for the purpose of taking medicine, but are productive of much good. The chiefs of these clans take occasion to call together all the young men and explain to them the laws of the country, and exhort them to be obedient to these laws, to maintain friendship among themselves and neighbors, and all return thanks for the blessing of the past year, and ask the Great Spirit to continue them for the year to come.

Why Markets are Failures.

"Markets are not the same to-day as they were twenty and thirty years ago," said a veteran marketman, who had retired from business, to a reporter for the New York Mail and Express. "The housewives always went to the market to lay in their week's stock. Meat, butter, vegetables, cheese, eggs, everything was bought in the market. Tea, coffee, and such groceries were bought near the market. Men would come a long distance with a big basket, which they would have filled before leaving. Women would also appear with a similar accompaniment. The best part of a workingman's wages would be expended on a Saturday night in the market. The wife would then know that she had food enough laid in for the week. The husband would know how much he had for spending money. Now this is all changed. The market is about the last place the majority of housekeepers visit, and if it were not for the restaurants the city might almost shut up the markets. Some are already virtually closed. Where is the glory of Centre, Essex, Union, Clinton, Catharine, Manhattan, and other markets that were famous in their day? Some have been torn down and the ground devoted to other occupations. Two have become police stations, because they were city property. I allude to Franklin and Union markets. Two have become large depots for Chicago slaughterers. I mean Essex and Centre markets. Several have disappeared and their sites built upon, tenement-houses and stores taking their places. And even those that remain are hardly worth being called markets in the sense they once were."

"What has been the cause of the change?"

"One reason is the grocery stores, where housekeepers can go at any time, keep everything. Many of them sell even meat, and nearly all of them deal in poultry. They are near by the houses of the people. They are kept in good order, and are cleanly. The plan of wholesale houses making up coffee, spices and many other things in neat packages, with guaranteed weight or measure, has induced housekeepers to deal with grocery stores near by. Smart storekeepers found out the advantage of keeping everything, and now a grocery store is a small market of itself."

George Day, of Milton Mills, has been held in $1000 to answer before the supreme court to a charge of breaking and entering the barn of Moses Roberts in Rollinsford, and stealing harnesses, etc. Day has long been suspected of being a harness thief, but this time there is proof of his guilt.

I Have Always Paid Rent!

For a house to live in. This year I have half paid for a cottage, with money which, before I used Sulphur Bitters in my family, was paid to the doctor and the druggist. They cured my wife of Female Weakness.—W. F. Sampson, Salem, Mass.

A married woman from Barnstead, accompanied by three boys, went to the Cocheco Manufacturing Co.'s counting-room in Dover on the afternoon of the 8th inst., and said that she was a weaver in old No. Two mill from 1859 to 1868. She got married in the latter year, and with her husband moved to a farm in Barnstead. They had three children—triplets—born to them in 1871, and the three boys with her were those triplets. She wanted to take them through the mills where she had worked so many hours, and the required permission was granted.

The Best Internal Remedy.

Brandreth's Pills, the best medicine known for all diseases. They are purely vegetable. The same dose always produces the same effect; other purgatives require increased doses, and finally cease acting. They purify the blood. They invigorate the digestion and cleanse the stomach and bowels. They stimulate the liver and carry off vitiated bile and other depraved secretions. The first two or three doses tells the story. The skin becomes clear; the eye, bright; the mind, active; digestion is restored; costiveness cured; the animal vigor is recruited, and all decay arrested.

BILIOUSNESS.

Bilious symptoms invariably arise from indigestion, such as furred tongue, vomiting of bile, giddiness, sick headache, irregular bowels. The liver secretes the bile and acts like a filter or sieve, to cleanse impurities of the blood. By irregularity in its action or suspensions of its functions, the bile is liable to overflow into the blood, causing jaundice, sallow complexion, yellow eyes, bilious diarrhœa, a languid, weary feeling and many other distressing symptoms. Biliousness may be properly termed an affection of the liver, and can be thoroughly cured by the grand regulator of the liver and biliary organs, BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS. Act upon the stomach, bowels and liver, making healthy bile and pure blood, and opens the culverts and sluiceways for the outlet of disease. Sold everywhere and guaranteed to cure.

PERSONAL.—Will the stranger who advised a gentleman riding on the street cars to the depot the other day to try St. Jacobs Oil for rheumatism, please send his address to P. O. Box 999? The advertiser wishes to thank him in person. He is all right again. The cure was marvellous.

J. Beavor-Webb, the designer of the British cutter yachts Genesta and Galatea, says the Galatea will certainly come over here next season to race for the America's cup. The challenge has already been placed with the New York yacht club, and it only remains for the club to name the time when the race all be sailed. In the language of Mr. Beavor-Webb the Galatea is a "far handsomer and abler ship" than the Genesta. Still, he admits that he has not much hope of her winning the cup.

That Dirty Dandruff.

Dandruff is dirty and disagreeable in every way. It soils the clothing continually, and is accompanied by a hardly less annoying sensation of itching. The scalp is diseased. There is nothing in the world so thoroughly adapted to this trouble as Parker's Hair Balsam. It cleanses and heals the scalp, stops the falling hair and restores its original softness, gloss and color. Is not oily, highly perfumed, an elegant dressing. Very economical, as only a small occasional application keeps the hair in perfect condition.

H. G. Leonard of the Janish dramatic company, and A. L. Erlanger, manager of the Dagmar company, had an altercation in Philadelphia on the 6th inst. The former's wife had left him, and been employed by Erlanger. Leonard assaulted Erlanger with an umbrella, and he retaliated by firing one shot from a revolver into his side. The wound is not pronounced dangerous. Leonard had assaulted the manager before.

If you have a cough resulting from a sudden cold, procure Adamson's Botanic Balsam, take one-half to one teaspoonful three times a day, and your cough will cease. Trial bottle 10 cents.

The United States Attorney.

Relative to the designation of some person to act as United States Attorney, pending the vacancy occasioned by the accepted resignation of Ex-Attorney Burns, Judge Colt informs the clerk of the Circuit court that he [regards it the duty of the Circuit Justice (Gray) and not that of the Circuit Judge to designate the person. Mr. Justice Gray is in Washington.

It was stated on Saturday that the attention of the appointing power has been called to the fact that the Circuit court awaits the action of the president in making this appointment, as the grand jury on Tuesday will not be able to discharge their duties without the aid of a proper officer as prosecutor. The emoluments of the office are not such as induce any especial effort on the part of any lawyer with much practice to apply for the position, though of course the remuneration is far in excess of what it was when the position was filled by such men as the late Jeremiah Smith, Daniel M. Christie, John P. Hale, Franklin Pierce, John H. George and other celebrated men a long time ago.

Insurance Commissioner Pillsbury's Letter.

It is said that very much of the salient portions of Insurance Commissioner Pillsbury's letter which was distributed to every member of the Georgia legislature recently, was taken bodily from the insurance companies' manifesto published some time since, showing that the letter was prepared for a purpose.

We presume that by this time Mr. Pillsbury has become disabused of the idea that he is looked up to by the entire population of New Hampshire, as being a god in insurance matters; hardly a paper in the state but has had a rap at his insolent arraignment of the legislature and people of the state; the following, from our neighbor the Times, will do for a sample of the more temperate replies made to the gentleman who should at once be promoted to be Ex-Insurance Commissioner of New Hampshire:

Commissioner Pillsbury says, "The valued policy proposes to change the simple indemnity contract against loss, which has been the theory and practice of insurance ever since its origin, into a speculative contract." This statement has from the first been repeated by all the opponents of the law. It is a falsehood upon its face. Under the old system a policy of insurance was considered an indemnity against loss only; it is the same under the new. The difference is this, under the new system the amount named in the policy is fixed as the precise indemnity in case of total loss. It was always understood to be the same under the old system, until by the connivance of insurance companies and their agents a contrary practice grew up—a practice that made the old system precisely what Pillsbury falsely says the new would be—"a speculative contract"; for, while the insured supposed his policy entitled him to a certain amount of indemnity in case of total loss, he found that in practice this was not so, but the sum he could get became a mere speculation — a haggling with agents and "adjusters," and often a law suit, unless a considerable scaling down of the indemnity was accepted. We submit to any candid judge which system makes insurance "a speculative contract," and which takes it out of the misty realm of speculation.

Pillsbury says: "The valued policy has been put forth as a remedy for over-insurance, which is unquestionably a great evil." While thus admitting the evil, he claims that the new law would increase, not remedy it. But his reasoning utterly fails to sustain the assertion. Under the old system there was a positive temptation on the part of the companies and their agents to over insurance; for the larger the sum named in the policy the larger the premium to be divided between the companies and the agents, and when total losses occurred the company could at once withhold payment of the indemnity and claim reduction, on the ground that the premises were not worth the sums on which they had been collecting premiums. Under the new system this temptation is taken away; for, if the companies are to pay in cases of total loss the full indemnity named in the policy, they will take care that that sum be within the value of the property insured. Such we are assured has been the operation of this principle in one or two states that have adopted it. Yet, in the face of these palpable facts, Pillsbury outrages common sense by saying that to substitute the new system for the old "is to substitute carelessness for care, incentive for precaution, knavery for virtue, and to increase the moral hazard without limit.

Telephone Suit Dropped.

The storm raised about the ears of Attorney General Garland in consequence of the suit brought in the name of the United States,—but in the interest of the Pan Electric Telephone Co.; in which Garland is a large stockholder,—to annul the Bell telephone patent, has proved too much for the nerves of that great reformer, and the suit has been dropped.

WILLIAM L. WALKER.

A despatch was received by Albert Batchelder, Esq., of Little Boar's Head, on Sunday, informing him of the death of William L. Walker at his farm in Virginia last week.

Mr. Walker was the son of the late William Walker, a former deputy collector of customs of this port. On leaving school he entered the store of Hon. Richard Jenness on Market street, where he served several years. Subsequently he engaged as accountant at the Swampscot Machine Co.'s counting room at South Newmarket, and afterward bought an extensive farm in the eastern part of Virginia, where he spent a portion of every year. He married Miss Ellen Hill, daughter of the late James Hill, formerly of Greenland. His wife, a most estimable lady, died not long since, after a protracted period of ill health, during which the constant and unremitting devotion to her comfort and relief by her husband caused his own health to become seriously impaired.

Mr. Walker was an excellent business man, and acquired a competence of this world's goods by his industry and sagacity. He for many years after giving up his business connection with the Swampscot Co., served as auditor of the accounts of the corporation. He was devoted in his attachment to his friends, firm in his views of the right, and generous in his impulses. To those who knew him intimately he was endeared by his many excellent traits; his death will be keenly felt by his associates in the South Newmarket company, in which he has for so many years had a considerable pecuniary interest.

His remains will be brought to South Newmarket this week for interment.

HORSE RACES.

There were two horse races at the Rockingham trotting park last Friday afternoon, when the weather was good, the track good, the racing good, and the attendance very fair.

The race for horses which had never beaten three minutes was won by "Heath Boy" of Dover, entered by A. C. Amazeen, in 2:51, 2:54, 2:56, beating N. Garland's "Gen. Hancock" and Zeb. Sanborn's "Jim Blaine."

In the 2:40 class "Red Dan," entered by Charles H. Davis of Dover, beat Ed. Shannon's "Flash," and "J. R. R.," in 2:45, 2:46, 2:47.

The judges were Z. N. Slater of Great Falls, Andrew J. Roberts of Dover, and Horace Hatch of this city.

It is reported that the park has been sold to Boston parties.

THE BAND CONCERT.

The Hungarian Gypsy band, which gives one of its incomparable concerts in Music hall to-morrow evening, deserves patronage not only for its excellence, but as a recognized exponent of the peculiar music of a peculiar country. With the exception of Scotland (and possibly Ireland) no nation regards music as so potent an agent in stirring the passions as does Hungary. Its crisp, aggressive, nervous utterances are calculated to animate her warriors, and one can imagine that upon the battle-field it would prove an inspiration to a people of even calmer moods than the Magyar habitually indulges.

Rev. Mr. Howland and wife, missionaries from Ceylon, will be in this city today, (Monday,) and Mrs. Howland will address a meeting of ladies at the North church chapel this afternoon at two o'clock. All ladies are invited.

There will be an informal opening of the Cottage Hospital, No. 51 Court street, on Thursday afternoon.

One of the greatest improvements made on our streets of late years is the tasteful remodelling of the building on Daniel street recently purchased by Chas. H. Mendum, Esq., which has been metamorphosed from a very plain and indeed unsightly structure into one of the best-looking buildings for business purposes in the city. The building is to be heated by steam.

Advices from Washington indicate that Mark F. Nason is the coming man for the Dover postmastership.

Hon. John G. Sinclair, formerly of Bethlehem in this state, has been in town for a few days past, paying a visit to his son, Col. Charles A. Sinclair. Mr. Sinclair has established quite an extensive land business in Florida, where he has been very successful in investments in real estate. He looks as fresh and hearty as on the evening when he held the joint discussion with the late Gov. Harriman in the Temple in this city many years ago. Mr. Sinclair leaves this morning, on his return to Florida. Several shrewd New Hampshire men have made large investments in orange groves and other kinds of real estate in Florida under Mr. Sinclair's advice; among them is Wm. J. Copeland, Esq., who intends to spend the winter in walking over his landed possessions in that state, wearing a pair of large-sized boots with which he will stamp down the earth to keep his land from too rapidly rising in value.

The vesper service of the Unitarian church will be resumed next Sunday at 7:30 o'clock.

Edward S. Fay last week began building operations on a block of tenement houses on Penhallow street, opposite the old custom house.

Passers-by on Bow street near the premises of the Portsmouth Brewing Co., on Saturday, were interested to observe the zeal displayed by certain men employed by the company, who under the direction of Mark Scott, the treasurer, were removing from a small lot of land in front of the cooper's shop a pile of rocks which had apparently lain there for some time. It seems that one of the owners of the otherwise unoccupied land, passing that way just before, had noticed the rocks, (which had been taken from the foundation of a building on an adjoining lot, and piled there as a matter of convenience,) and had ordered them removed at once, under a promise of a law suit unless the lot was at once cleared. The energetic Scott at once sent to work his men, and piled the rocks on a vacant lot belonging to the company on the other side of the street, in the rear of St. John's church. Mark was complimented on the way he pushed things, one man remarking that if Frank Jones could engage him to superintend his gangs of workmen it would be a saving to him of many thousand dollars annually. But the Boss is content with his present situation.

The new gasometer-building of the Portsmouth Gaslight Co. on Bow street makes quite an improvement in that part of the street. On the front is a marble tablet with figures cut, "1885;" and beneath, on a fine piece of marble, "Portsmouth Gas Works." This marble work was furnished by Silas Philbrick. The company are putting six new retorts into the works.

The schooner Leonora, from Hampton, Me., the Emily A. Staples from Saco, and the Gulnare and Nautilus from York, arrived at Boston on the 9th inst.

The barque Furness Abbey, Marcy master, cleared at Boston on the 9th inst. for Philadelphia, to load for the Pacific.

As a small British schooner was going down the river Friday afternoon, with a strong ebb tide and light wind, she got aground on the point of Peirce's island, above the narrows, and hung there until the steam launch of the U. S. S. Galena (which was at the navy yard with steam up at the time the schooner set her signal for aid, and was promptly despatched to render assistance,) arrived and pulled her afloat, when she proceeded on her voyage apparently uninjured.

A despatch of Oct. 8th, from Gloucester, Mass., was as follows: "One of Joseph O. Procter, Jr.'s, skippers has skipped out with something like $1200. The captain collected money for three trips, and left last night without paying any of the crew. When last seen he had about $1000 with him, and the poor fishermen are the losers, together with the firm." It is reported that the derelict skipper hails from this city, and that representatives of the vessel's owner and crew were here on Thursday to make things lively for him under the law, but that the matter was settled by some of his friends.

The child, Mary McClary, who was found in the streets last July by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, has been adopted by Marcellus Bailey of Bath, Me., and went to that city by the forenoon train last Friday. The child has been cared for by the society since July. Mr. Bailey is the son of Mr. Benjamin M. Bailey of this city.

The beautiful autumnal weather of Saturday caused the arrival of more teams—some of them very fine ones—from neighboring towns than had been in Portsmouth for several weeks, and the storekeepers did a good business.

Miss Lillie Boss, a beautiful girl of seventeen, was to have married Jacob Wetherington, aged sixty-six, at ten o'clock in the morning on the 7th inst., at Valdosta, Ga. The marriage had been arranged by her parents. An hour before the time Miss Lillie fled from home in her bridal dress, and at a neighbor's house met Jesse Hardee, a former sweetheart. They went in a carriage to the office of a magistrate, and were married. They then returned to the bride's house in time to meet the guests who had assembled to see Wetherington's marriage. Mr. Wetherington took the affair quietly, but declined to stay to the wedding feast.

Captain Mitchell, of the bark Antoine Sala, New York and Havana trade, came home in May, entirely helpless with rheumatism. I have tried them, and they have only swindled me; I have figured up what they cost me for the last four years, it was just $524.31. If I had it now it would be a fortune for me. This year my bill for medicine was only five dollars, for which I purchased six bottles of Sulphur Bitters. They cured me of Scrofula after suffering four years.—P. J. Cummings, Troy New York.

Worth, of Paris, has decided in favor of hoops, but they come in use slowly. In this country everybody has decided that Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup is the best remedy for coughs and colds, and it's coming fast into general use.

Pearline. With this article, it is claimed, the family washing can be done with ease, with economy and despatch, and as it is thoroughly disinfectant, it will be seen that whenever used the result is pure and healthful. What Parents Fear.

Many persons—especially parents—object to many quack nostrums as likely to engender or encourage a love for strong drink. They are right. Better die of disease than of drunkenness. The use of Parker's Tonic does not involve this danger. It not only builds up the system, curing all ailments of the stomach, liver and kidneys, but it stimulates without intoxicating and absolutely cures the appetite for liquor.

Fashion has seized upon popular titles, and the "Puritan," "Genesta" and "Mikado" designate an astonishing variety of ladies' wear with peculiar inappropriateness. Why a red satin gown should be named "Puritan," fashion does not explain.

A Dog That Understands.

There is a Newfoundland dog of the historian's acquaintance, Lion by name, who gives daily proof of his comprehension of what is said to him. A lady called on his mistress the other day. During her call Lion came in rather slyly, lay down on the parlor carpet, and went to sleep. The conversation ran on, and the visitor said finally:

"What a handsome Newfoundland you have."

Lion opened one eye. "Yes," said his mistress, "he is a very good dog, and takes excellent care of the children."

Lion opened the other eye and waved his tail complacently to and fro along the carpet.

"When the baby goes out he always goes with her, and I feel perfectly sure then that no harm can come to her," his mistress went on.

Lion's tail thumped up and down violently on the carpet.

"And he is so gentle to them all, and such a playmate and companion to them, that we would not take a thousand dollars for him."

Lion's tail now went up and down, to and fro, and round and round with great and undisguised glee.

"But," said his mistress, "Lion has one serious fault."

Total subsidence of Lion's tail, together with the appearance of an expression of great concert on his face.

"He will come in here with his dirty feet and lie down on the carpet, when I have told him time and again that he mustn't do it."

Here Lion arose with an air of the utmost dejection and humiliation and slunk out of the room, with his lately exuberant tail totally crestfallen.—Boston Record.

What a Real Herman is Like.

"The wind being easterly, we had thirty fathoms of water, when at ten o'clock in the morning a sea monster like a man appeared near our ship, first on the larboard, where the master was, who took a grappling iron to pull him up; but our captain, named Oliver Morin, hindered him, being afraid that the monster would drag him into the sea. The master, Lemone, struck him on the back to make him turn about, that he might view him better. The monster, being struck, showed his face, having his two hands closed as if he had expressed some anger. Afterwards he went round the ship, and, when he was at the stern, he took hold of the helm with both hands, and we were obliged to make it fast lest he should damage it.

"From thence he proceeded to the starboard, still swimming as men do. When he came to the fore part of the ship, he viewed for some time the figure that was on our prow, which represented a beautiful woman, and then he rose out of the water as if he had been willing to catch that figure. All this happened in the sight of the whole crew.

"Afterwards he came again to the larboard, where they presented to him a codfish hanging down by a rope; he handled it without spoiling it, and then removed the length of a cable, and came again to the stern, where he took hold of the helm a second time.

"At that very moment Captain Morin got a harping iron ready, and took it himself to strike him with it; but, the cordage being entangled, he missed his aim, and the harping iron only just touched the monster, who turned about, showing his face as he had done before. Afterwards he returned to the bow and gazed again at the figure on the prow.

"The mate called for the harping iron, but he was frightened, fancying that this monster was one La Commune, who had killed himself in the ship the year before, and had been thrown into the sea in the same passage. He was contented to push his back with the iron.

"The monster had the boldness to take a rope held up by two sailors, who drew him partly up the side, but he fell into the water again, and then withdrew to the distance of a guushot. He came again alongside afterwards, swam round the ship, and then made off, and we have never seen him since.

"The 'merman' was about eight feet long; his skin was brown and tawny, without any scales; all his motions were like those of men; the eyes of a proportionable size, a little mouth, a large and flat nose, very white teeth, black hair, the chin covered with a mossy beard, a sort of whiskers under the nose, the ears like those of men, fins between the fingers of his hands, and feet like those of ducks. In a word, he was a well-shaped man."

An Anecdote of the Barefoot Actress.

I heard rather an amusing story the other day about Miss Estelle Clayton, who has just sailed for a short trip abroad. A talented clergyman of New York was dining at the house of one of the most devout and one of the wealthiest ladies of his congregation. He seemed to take great pleasure in entertaining the handsome young lady who sat next to him, and was evidently much impressed with her charms of face and her conversational powers. The amusement question came up at the dinner, and the young clergyman mounted a favorite hobby, and began to speak with warmth and feeling about the immorality of the stage. He had committed himself beyond redemption before he noticed that his remark was received with some degree of coolness by the company, but the face of his neighbor only wore an amusing smile.

"Do you often go to the theatre?" she inquired.

"No, indeed," was the energetic reply, "it is enough for me to see the posters on the fences, and the photographs in the shop windows. Why, only two days ago I saw the picture of an actress who appears on the stage absolutely barefoot. For my part, I am not surprised at the low social standing of theatrical people, and I do not wonder that they are never seen in the houses of respectable people."

A chill seemed to fall upon the company, but the young lady's face wore an amusing smile. "Let us talk of something else," said the hostess, and by that time the young clergyman realy felt that he had put his foot in it. The party broke up, and as he was walking home in company with another of the guests, he asked, "What was the name of that young lady who sat next to me at table? I did not catch it."

"Miss Estelle Clayton," was the reply.

"Estelle Clayton," replied the young divine, "it seems to me I have heard that name before. Who is she?"

"She's the actress who appears on the stage barefoot; her mother is an old friend of our hostess to-night."

A silence followed.—Philadelphia Press.

From data of his own the editor of the Montgomery (N. Y.) Standard has satisfied himself that the Horseshoe Falls have worn away more than fifty feet during the past thirteen years.

"Laugh and Grow Fat,"

Is a precept easily preached, but not so easy to practice. If a person has no appetite, but a distressing nausea, sick-headache, dyspepsia, boils, or any other ill resulting from inaction of the bowels, it is impossible to get up such a laugh as will produce aldermanic corpulence. In order to laugh satisfactorily you must be well, and to be well you must have your bowels in good order. You can do this and laugh heartily with Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets," the little regulators of the liver and bowels and best promoter of jollity.

The jury in the case of Frank Bodwell, the Springvale rough who was arrested in Nebraska and brought to Alfred, Me., charged with a deadly assault upon Deputy Sheriff Roberts while that officer was searching the premises of the respondent in Springvale, for liquors, returned a verdict of not guilty.

The Great American Chorus.

Sneezing, snuffing and coughing! This is the music all over the land just now. And will be until June. "I've got such an awful cold in my head." Cure it with Ely's Cream Balm or it may end in the toughest form of Catarrh. Maybe you have Catarrh now. Nothing is more nauseous and dreadful. This remedy masters it as no other ever did. Not a snuff nor a liquid. Applied by the finger to the nostrils. Pleasant, certain, radical.

Salvation Oil is the greatest pain-destroyer of any age or clime. For the cure of neuralgia, rheumatism, and wounds occasioned by accidents, such as cuts, bruises, sprains, burns, and frost bites it has no equal. Price only 25 cents a bottle.

A fatal accident ocurred at Union City, Tenn., Oct. 7th, to Prof. D. E. Johnson, the aeronaut. In its descent his balloon fell into a tree, and Johnson, in jumping for a limb, fell a distance of sixty feet, and will die from his injuries.

The Best Internal Remedy.

Brandreth's Pills, the best medicine known for all diseases. They are purely vegetable. The same dose always produces the same effect; other purgatives require increased doses, and finally cease acting. They purify the blood. They invigorate the digestion and cleanse the stomach and bowels. They stimulate the liver and carry off vitiated bile and other depraved secretions. The first two or three doses tells the story. The skin becomes clear; the eye, bright; the mind, active; digestion is restored; costiveness cured; the animal vigor is recruited, and all decay arrested.

The President and the Attorney General Come to an Understanding.

The conference between the president and Attorney General Garland is reported to have been as follows:

Soon after Mr. Garland's return from that blissful absence from department cares, the president sent for him. "See here, Garland," exclaimed the chief, "you're making it too hot for us in New York. The Bell telephone fellows have called up the Independents, and every blessed son stands with an ear open for the latest story of the Bell party. This little faux pas will compel your resignation unless you at once stop the suit."

The Attorney General protested that he did not authorize the proceedings, and knew nothing of them.

"Do you mean to tell me," enquired the president, "that you allow your department to be run in that style, and you not know it? If that is the case the sooner you write your resignation the quicker will the dogs be called off, that are now barking at me."

Mr. Garland had given up his seat in the senate. There were two courses open to the Arkansas statesman; one was to remain counsel for the Pan Electric Telephone Co.; the other was to continue to be Attorney General. He thought it over, and the suit to smash the Bell Telephone patent No. 174,455 was dropped like a warm potato. Garland was cautioned to go and sin no more, and the president turned his attention toward devising a remedy for Vilas' incompetency, and figuring out just how much he desired the election of Hill as governor of the Empire State.

Taken In All Around.

For some months past a gang of horse sharpers from New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore have been doing a swindling business in Boston by "doing" honest countrymen. Victims in great numbers complained to the police. At last a case was made out, when a Mr. Mead, a farmer from Lisbon, in this state, went down to Boston and fell among these thieves. A horse, warranted perfect, was sold to Mr. Mead for $200, but he proved a worse kicker than a disgruntled office-seeker, breaking all sorts of vehicles and farming apparatus to which he was attached.

This was enough. Mead got mad and communicated with the Boston officers, who thereafter for four days occupied Rev. Dr. Bartol's church, from the windows of which they had an unobstructed view of the alleged gang. The whole gang was spotted and captured, and held in $5,000 bail each. It is said they have cleared over $10,000 since they have been in Boston.

This is the first instance, at least in modern times, in Boston, where a Unitarian church has been used to bring the wicked to judgment. It is the quickest time on record.

Manchester is becoming a city of great wealth. Recently the stock for a new bank and for a new fire insurance company was subscribed for at meetings of some of her capitalists. Indeed, Manchester is always ready to subscribe to any local enterprise that promises to pay. But when it comes to making a raid on Joshua Foster's church in Dover, and carrying off the minister with a promise of a high salary, the effects of Col. Ingersoll's lectures are at once seen, and the subscriptions become lighter when the object is not for the mammon of unrightcousness.

The Sunday school of the North Parish will give a harvest concert in the chapel on Middle street next Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock, to which all are invited.

Last year there was an immense crop of cabbages, and it was difficult to sell them at two cents a head. Several market gardeners omitted to raise cabbage this year, and the result is a short crop. Eight car-loads of this important feature in a boiled dinner have recently been sent from this city to Providence, R. I.

The Maine Central railroad has arranged for the vaccination of all its employes, the company to foot the bill.

An aged couple, Horace Goodwin and wife, were killed by the Flying Yankee train at Clinton, Me., Saturday, while driving across the track.

The work of equipping the trains on the eastern and western divisions of the Boston & Maine railroad with the Judkins electric train signals began on Wednesday morning of last week, under the supervision of Mr. H. E. Judkins, the inventor.

Elder B. S. Mayben was installed as pastor of the Christian church at York Corner on Friday, Oct. 9th. There was a large congregation present, and the services were very interesting.

Landlord Preble, of the Garrison house at Long sands, York beach, was in town last Saturday. He has no complaint to make of the late "season," but hopes the next one may be as good, and as much better as may be.

The house and barn of Mrs. Rufus W. Duran, at Kennebunk, were burned about 3:30 o'clock A. M. on the 10th inst., with most of their contents, though the animals in the barn were saved. Loss about $1500; insurance $800; cause of fire, incendiary.

Albion Littlefield, of York Corner, from one small potato of the Pearl of Savoy variety this season raised 25 1-2 pounds of fine tubers.

THE BAND CONCERT.

The Hungarian Gypsey Band, which will appear at Music hall this evening, was one of the principal drawing cards at the Foreign Exhibition in Boston three years ago. As musicians they are wonderful, and they will to-night present their finest programme; it will undoubtedly be one of the most artistic and pleasing instrumental concerts ever given here. Tickets can be procured at M. Goodrich's bookstore.

TIME EXTENDED.

It is reported that the railroad commissioners have granted the petition of the Boston & Maine railroad management, for the extension of the time the Vaughan street crossing may be obstructed by trains to five minutes, instead of the two minutes fixed by statute. We think five minutes a reasonable limit; at times the restriction to two minutes has involved a needless hardship to the road; and the half hour or so which used to be occasionally taken by freight trains, particularly at night, before the passage of the present law, was an outrage on the public. The five-minute limit should be satisfactory to both the parties in interest.

A PASTURAGE QUESTION.

A gentleman who walked through the south burying ground on Sunday wonders if it is customary to pasture cows there in the fall; and if not, why some person is not employed to keep them out. He saw three cows tramping over lots and among costly monuments that day, feeding around undisturbed until he drove them from the place.

THE COTTAGE HOSPITAL.

The directors of the Cottage Hospital gratefully acknowledge the receipt of the following generous donations:

From an unknown friend, a piece (fifty yards) of sheeting, and two dozen towels.

From Mrs. Rose (of Little Harbor) two white spreads, and a pair of handsome red blankets.

From Mr. John P. Sweetser, a handsome parlor lamp.

From Sheldon Brothers, an extension table.

The directors also most gratefully acknowledge the kindness of Mr. C. E. Walker in sending them two tons of coal, and would also express their thanks for a valued contribution of groceries from Mr. Russell.

MARITIME NOTES.

The brickers D. K. Ham, Lillie and Triton arrived from Boston on the 10th inst., and the Hattie Lewis sailed for Boston with a load. The Loella, which arrived on the 7th from Rockland with a cargo of lime for Dover, sailed for Rockland to get another load; and the Mary Willey sailed for Portland, to load with corn for Bangor, and at the latter port load with lumber for John H. Broughton—her regular routine for years. The brickers G. W. Raitt and J. Chester Wood arrived on the 11th, and the Estella on the 12th, from Boston, light.

There were but two vessels at the south end wharves on Sunday afternoon, one of them being the steamer City of Portsmouth, which has come to be regarded as a fixture, and the other a small schooner at Randall & Caswell's wharf. It was very pleasant on Water street, but very few people were to be seen sunning themselves, and unusual quiet reigned.

The schooner Lizzie Guptill, Smith master, sailed from Rockland, Me., on Wednesday of last week with 800 barrels of lime for this port, arrived at the Concord railroad wharf on Thursday, and discharged her cargo and finished up her business so as to sail on Sunday for a return freight. Capt. Smith thinks he keeps his vessel going as lively as the brick skippers do theirs.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

The annual meeting of the Young People's Association of the North Parish was held in the chapel on Middle street, Monday evening, the 12th inst., the attendance being larger than at the usual business meetings. The prospect for the coming year is bright, and the society enters upon the 2d year of its existence with renewed vigor. After the usual business was transacted the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Edward Matthews; vice president, Byron Chadwick; secretary, Annie Fletcher; treasurer, Everett L. Marston.

Capt. Jos. C. Muchmore of this city has been appointed foreman of riggers at the navy yard, in place of Capt. Locke of Kittery, resigned.

They are first-class workmen, and require no assistance so far so far as knowledge of that branch of mechanics is concerned.

Chief Engineer D. B. Macomb, U. S. N., was in town Monday. His mansion in Middle street has been rented for the winter to Mr. Stephen Decatur.

The Sound steamboat lines have reduced the fares between Boston and New York to three dollars.

Whenever and Wherever Diseases of a choleraic type prevail, or there is cause to apprehend a visit from them, the system should be toned, regulated and reinforced by a course of Hostetters Stomach Bitters. Perfect digestion and a regular habit of body are the best safeguards against such maladies, and both are secured by this inestimable tonic and alterative. The Bitters are also extremely serviceable in remedying such disorders. If promptly taken in bilious colic, diarrhœa and cholera morbus, the disease is usually frustrated. In diarrhœa cases, it is only necessary to restore the tone of the relaxed bowels, and this is one of the specific effects of this medicine. Wind on the stomach, heartburn, biliousness, nausea, headache and other symptoms of disturbance in the gastric and hepatic regions are also speedily relieved by this excellent remedy. As a family medicine it is invaluable, since it promptly and completely remedies those ailments which are of most frequent occurrence.

The corn canning factory at Wells has recently completed the season's work, about 200,000 cans having been put up, of the first quality of corn. The factory was running about sixteen days. The raising of the corn has paid the farmers of the vicinity much better this year than before, and they feel proportionately encouraged.

A Dominion government steamer left Quebec last week for Labrador, with fuel and provisions for the destitute fishermen. Cod and mackerel have been scarce, causing the oil factories to close, which compels many to beg for a living. The scurvy has made its appearance, and the suffering is terrible, many little children dying in their mothers' arms.

That Dirty Dandruff.

Dandruff is dirty and disagreeable in every way. It soils the clothing continually, and is accompanied by a hardly less annoying sensation of itching. The scale is diseased. There is nothing in the world so thoroughly adapted to this trouble as Parker's Hair Balsam. It cleanses and heals the scalp, stops the falling hair and restores its original softness, gloss and color. Is not oily, highly perfumed, an elegant dressing. Very economical, as only a small occasional application keeps the hair in perfect condition.

Henry N. Smith, the New York speculator who recently went down, is said to have declared publicly during one of his previous financial embarrassments: "Mark my words, sooner or later I shall reduce Jay Gould to poverty, so that he shall earn his bread in the street with a hand organ and a monkey."

INSCRIBED TO ——.

Over how long and broad a track
His busy memory must look back
Who here at ninety waiting stands,
To hear the call to other lands.
His early friends have passed away,
The green turfs thick above them lay,
Their household names are dimly known
To the new generations grown
To build fair houses, till new lands,
Which must pass on to other hands.
What stores of wisdom he must hold!
This is the charm of growing old,
Ripened experience, generous thought,
Which by long years alone is bought.
In youth we dream that we are wise
When much is hidden from our eyes.

How very near that world must stand
We call in youth the distant land,
When child and troops of friends have gone
Into the brightness of its dawn,
Leaving their records thickly strewn
With the good deeds in weakness sown,
And a soft veil by pity spread
O'er the rough ways their footsteps led;
This is age's blessing, well to know
God rules where'er our feet may go.

With failing sight and failing ear
The far-off past comes very near,
Friends are aroused on every side
Who in fair childhood's days were tried,
The parting grief has well gone by
Now that the meeting time is nigh,
In pleasant dreams they move around
As in frail cords the soul is bound;
This is the bliss of age, to know
The friends who vanished long ago.

Ants can easily be exterminated by putting about two ounces of lard oil in a small tin can without a top and burying the can about half-way in the earth near the ants' nest. Leave it until the next day, and, if any ants are seen outside of the can, pour a little more oil into it, stir it with a stick and let it stand a little longer, when the last ant within traveling distance will be drowned in the oil.

Colonel Richard Marsh Hoe, the inventor of the celebrated Hoe printing presses, although seventy-five years of age, attends daily to the business affairs of his great establishment in New York City. He is possessed of a very jovial disposition, and is accustomed to walk through the long aisles of his workshops whistling the latest popular operatic airs and chatting pleasantly to his employes, many of whom have spent the best years of their lives in his service.

A new license law before the New Hampshire Legislature provides for the license of any qualified voter who shall present to the authorities of his town or city a petition to that effect, signed by a majority of the qualified voters of his town or city, the full name and address of the signers being given. The license is to be good for two years, and the fee to be $1,000 in every city and every town of 5,000 inhabitants, $700 in towns of from 4,000 to $5,000, $600 in towns of from 3,000 to 4,000, and $100 less for each 1,000 decrease in population.

It is a striking fact that in their present extremity both England and Russia turn to the Jewish race for help. In England Beaconsfield's anniversary was celebrated with enthusiasm. The principles which he upheld are believed by many to be the only safety in the present complications. The memory of the great Hebrew is honored as no living Englishman is to-day. Russia in this hour of danger turns to the Rothschilds for aid. As many sovereigns have before him, the Czar needs the gold of the great Jewish bankers. It is a proud record for any race to stand on the pages of the world's history as does the Jewish.

The inventor of lawn tennis is probably known to only a small fraction of the host of devotees of that game. He is Maj. Walter Wingfield, of her Majesty's body-guard, and he brought out the game in 1874 under the outlandish name "Sphairistike." The first match ever played was at Col. Naylor Leyland's place in Denbighshire, and the first public game was participated in in 1875 by Maj. Wingfield, Mr. Clement Scott, Capt. Alfred Thompson, and Mr. Albany Erskine. The trade offered Maj. Wingfield $1.25 a set royalty on his invention, which would have brought him by this time more than a million dollars. He declined the offer, however, and has never realized anything from the game, save a gold watch and chain presented to him by public subscription.

Gen. Grant did not like coarse stories. It is related that on the General's staff in one of his campaigns was a rough and ready fighter, "full of strange oaths and stranger vulgarities. One evening, in the presence of Gen. Grant and several brother officers, he opened the conversation in some such way as this: "Well, boys, I've got a mighty good thing to tell you. It would hardly do to repeat, of course, in the presence of ladies." "Well," Grant interrupted, in his firm but quiet way, "allow me to suggest, then, that it might be advisable to omit it in the presence of gentlemen."

"Shoot Polly as She Flies,"

—Pop.

Was the way it appeared in the proofslip. The argus-eyed proof-reader, however, knew the quotation intended and changed it to read: "Shoot Folly as she flies."—Pope. Of course it was an error, yet how many are daily committing much graver errors by allowing the first symptoms of consumption to go unheeded. If afflicted with loss of appetite, chilly sensations, or hacking cough, it is suicidal to delay a single moment the use of Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery,"—the great and only reliable remedy yet known for this terribly fatal malady. Send two letter stamps for Dr. Pierce's complete treatise on this disease. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

SKIN AND BLOOD

Diseases from Pimples to Scrofula Cured by Cuticura.

Hundreds of letters in our possession, copies of which may be had by return of mail, repeat this story:—I have been a terrible sufferer for years from Diseases of the Skin and Blood; have been obliged to shun public places by reason of my disfiguring humors; have had the best physicians; have spent hundreds of dollars, and got no relief until I used the CUTICURA REMEDIES, which have cured me, and left my skin and blood as pure as a child's.

COVERED WITH SALT RHEUM.

CUTICURA REMEDIES are the greatest medicines on earth. Had the worst case of Salt Rheum in this country. My mother had it twenty years, and in fact died from it. I believe CUTICURA would have saved her life. My arms, breast and head were covered for three years, which nothing relieved or cured until I used the CUTICURA REMEDIES, internally, and CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP, externally. J. W. ADAMS. NEWARK, O.

HEAD, FACE AND BODY RAW.

I commenced to use your CUTICURA REMEDIES last July. My head and face and some parts of my body were almost raw. My head was covered with scabs and sores, and my suffering was terrible. I had tried everything I had heard of in the East and West. My case was considered a very bad one. I have now not a particle of Skin Humor about me, and my case is considered wonderful. MRS. S. E. WHIPPLE. DECATUR, MICH.

ECZEMA FROM HEAD TO FEET.

Charles Eayre Hinkle, Jersey City Heights, N. J., writes: "My son, a lad of twelve years, was completely cured of a terrible case of Eczema by the CUTICURA REMEDIES. From the top of his head to the soles of his feet was one mass of scabs." Every other remedy and physicians had been tried in vain.

NOTHING LIKE CUTICURA.

The half has not been told as to the great curative powers of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. I have made a couple of dollars' worth of evidence to cure diseases of the blood and skin, and never found anything yet to equal the CUTICURA REMEDIES. PROVIDENCE, R. I. CHAS. A. WILLIAMS.

HOW'S YOUR RHEUMATIC? is a question that appeals to every tortured victim of Rheumatism, who finds the ordinary plasters and liniments powerless to relieve him. WHAT IS DYSPEPSIA?

Among the many symptoms of Dyspepsia or indigestion the most prominent are: Variable appetite; faint, gnawing feeling at pit of the stomach, with unsatisfied craving for food; heartburn, feeling of weight and wind in the stomach, bad breath, bad taste in the mouth, low spirits, general prostration, headache, and constipation. There is no form of disease more prevalent than Dyspepsia, and none so peculiar to the high-living and rapid-eating American people. Alcohol and tobacco produce Dyspepsia; also, bad air, rapid eating, etc. BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS will cure the worst case, by regulating the bowels and toning up the digestive organs. Sold everywhere.

Patti, it is said, guards herself carefully against cold. She evidently does not believe in free concerts, but does believe in the free use of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, as it has cured her several times.

General Newton and the engineers engaged upon the great work at Flood rock, East river, New York, are satisfied that the dynamite has done its work effectively, and that after the debris has been removed it will be found that a channel has opened for shipping. The general is highly pleased with the result of his many years' work. The shock was distinctly felt twenty miles distant. There was no loss of life and no damage to property.

In several cases recently Red Star Cough Cure was given to consumptive patients. It induced sleep, removed the cough, restored the appetite and strengthened the system.

A report from Arcadeu, La., says: On Sept. 30th four masked men entered the house of a negro named Sampson Harris, and shot him dead. It is understood that Harris was shot because he had threatened to expose certain persons for whipping some negroes.

The Best Internal Remedy.

Brandreth's Pills, the best medicine known for all diseases. They are purely vegetable. The same dose always produces the same effect; other purgatives require increased doses, and finally cease acting. They purify the blood. They invigorate the digestion and cleanse the stomach and bowels. They stimulate the liver and carry off vitiated bile and other depraved secretions. The first two or three doses tells the story. The skin becomes clear; the eye, bright; the mind, active; digestion is restored; costiveness cured; the animal vigor is recruited, and all decay arrested.

Insurance.

We are advised that the bulk of property insured, or requiring insurance, in New Hampshire—and now left high and dry as regards protection against loss by fire—belongs to the enterprising and prosperous manufacturers in that state. Even beyond any other class of property owners, whether merchants, householders or borrowers, these manufacturers have been made to feel the pressure of the recently enacted New Hampshire laws which have driven $125,000,000 of insurance capital out of the state, on the simple ground that remaining there would be not only profitless but perilous to underwriters.

Of course, the exiled companies can do nothing. Why should they? They made no money in New Hampshire heretofore. Why should they be anxious to return? And they indicate no such anxiety, and are not likely to. Unless invited back, and under laws that will justify their return, they can with dignity and self-respect do nothing else than give New Hampshire a wide berth. And this is just what we assume and hope they will do. But the position is one which, even yet, admits of adjustment. Why should not the manufacturers, merchants, savings banks and property owners of the Granite State, realizing the perils of the situation, invite a conference with the leading insurance companies of the country, through Insurance Commissioner Pillsbury, whereby an understanding may be arrived at regarding such modifications of the new laws, by a special session of the legislature, as will harmonize matters and bring back into the state substantial companies, instead of allowing New Hampshire to become the happy hunting-ground of a lot of worthless new local companies or worse than worthless "wildcats" of the Anglo-American type, whose promised indemnity isn't worth the paper and ink needed to frame their alleged "policies?" We believe that if the manufacturers of New Hampshire were to arrange for such a conference, this perilous condition of things might be overcome before the time set for the operation of the new and obnoxious laws. But, if this is not done, New Hampshire is doomed to a degree of financial misery and discredit which no other state in the Union has ever experienced.—New York Commercial Bulletin.

When the people of New Hampshire so far humiliate themselves as to go down on their knees and beg pardon of the foreign corporations who are attempting to dictate terms on which they shall conduct their business and enjoy a credit as if all the capital in the country was located in New York city or Hartford, and it attracted all the business sagacity and practical knowledge of the world to their offices, it will be high time to leave the state.

While very many men did not approve of the proposed enactment concerning insurance while it was before the legislature, now that it is the law of the state the question arises, not what the combination of companies—"which never made any money from New Hampshire business, 'no, never,'"—desire, but what a decent sense of self respect, a proper sense of pride, demand of the citizens of New Hampshire.

It may be that certain journals in the interest of the foreign companies, or whose columns are controlled by agents and apologists of these corporations, will endeavor to create an impression that the state should fall down and worship the golden insurance calf, but the people of the state would far better prefer to lose the gambling incident to insurance, to permit the companies to occupy those fields where they can so much easier make money, than to induce them by a legislative apology to return to their former seat of operations.

The monstrous exaggerations circulated by the insurance men show their lack of tact. Indeed, it is becoming more and more apparent that the great insurance capital of the country is being managed by men not up to the requirements of the situation. Had the managers simply adapted their business to the law, written their policies according to its terms, and charged rates accordingly, the business would have been profitable, the losses fewer, and if the people could not stand the rates charged the law perhaps would subsequently have been modified. As it is, the selfish, ill-advised retaliatory acts of the underwriters are awakening people all over the country to the fact that, with other monopolies, the insurance magnates are endeavoring to become a power in the land, to dictate legislative enactments or to disregard laws already passed, to combine to pay the assured just what the combination may elect, to coerce the people; and when the latter rise in their majesty and attempt to define their rights, then to strike, to sulk, to attempt to injure the credit and obstruct the business and growth of the state that dares to protect its people from their encroaching rapacity.

There are two sides to this insurance question. But the die is cast. The foreign companies have combined so far as to refuse to insure,—nay, to begin to cancel the policies of residents of New York and other states who may have insurable property in New Hampshire. They seek by a process, never contemplated when their charters were granted, and which will be likely to become the subject of legislative enquiry all over the country ere long, to compel not only the citizens of New Hampshire, but the citizen of every state who has a dollar's worth of property located within the borders of New Hampshire, to yield to their demands. The question whether corporations managed with this utter lack of business tact can be in themselves sound comes home to every law maker in the land. The insurance companies have overshot the mark. The summary manner in which some companies have cancelled policies when estates have been conveyed wherein persons and their assignees were insured, and the coercive acts of their managers, have induced many careful, thinking men to investigate the proposition "Does insurance insure?"

Doubtless the insurance companies, through means of incompetent agents, have been at times badly used and seriously sinned against. But we have in our community very many real estate owners who have year by year paid large sums to underwriters, and never received from them a dollar on account of loss or damage by fire. Was it politic to attempt to coerce these patrons of long, long years, as a punishment for the New Hampshire lobby? Is it politic to compel the citizen of New York or Pennsylvania to forego the fancied security of an insurance on his summer cottage in the mountain region or on the Atlantic coast, because the feeble showing made by the men employed by the insurance companies was unable to remove the impression made by Gaffney & Co. upon the minds of the yeomany?

No. The companies will have to meet this same sort of contest in every legislature. It had to begin somewhere. Where it will end will depend largely upon the now invisible gumption of the insurers. At all events the way out is not through the species of warfare inaugurated against the business men of New Hampshire, who by the very impolitic acts of the companies have been compelled to become the most hearty sustainers of the new law, the enactment of which in other states must necessarily follow the blundering conduct of these foreign insurance representatives, whose training and observation should have taught them better.

It is prepared from Sarsaparilla, Yellow Dock, Cherry Bark, Pipsissewa, Mandrake, Dandelion, and other well-known vegetable remedies. The combination, proportion, and preparation are peculiar to Hood's Sarsaparilla, and effect the most remarkable cures where other medicines fail.

It cures Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Boils, Pimples, Humors, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Sick Headache, Indigestion, General Debility, Catarrh, Rheumatism, Kidney and Liver Complaints, dispels that tired feeling, creates an appetite, and builds up the whole system. The won by Hood's Sarsaparilla is unequalled in the history of medicines. Such is its popularity in Lowell, Mass., where it is made, that whole neighborhoods are taking it at the same time. This success is extending all over the country.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine of which can truly be said, "100 Doses One Dollar," which is an unanswerable argument as to strength and economy. Other preparations will average to last not over a week, while a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla contains 100 doses and will last a month. Hence, for economy as well as for health and strength, buy Hood's Sarsaparilla. Send for a book containing statements of many remarkable cures.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is sold by all druggists. Prepared by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass. Price $1; six for $5.

Smallpox in Boston.

A case of smallpox was discovered in Boston on the 12th inst., Julius Cassell being found ill with the disease at a south end boarding house. He was taken to the smallpox hospital, and will probably die, his disease being of the confluent type. Every precaution has been taken to prevent the spread of the pest, and with the energy of the Boston health officers there is little chance for an epidemic. The disease is supposed to have been brought from St. John, N. B., by a man who visited Cassell at his boarding house.

THE WEATHER.

For New England to-day:—

Rains and strong easterly winds, followed by colder, clearing weather, winds shifting to southwest and northwest, higher barometer.

The Thermometer at the CHRONICLE Office, at 4:00 o'clock this morning, indicated 44 degrees above zero.

Clear.

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

TUESDAY, Oct. 13th.

Sylvester Johnson, charged with drunkenness, was allowed to depart on promising to sin no more that way.

TUESDAY, Oct. 13th.

The judge found no one to take charge of the grand jury on coming in this morning, and the grand jurors were excused, to be notified when to appear by the clerk. The petit jurors were called, and all but twelve excused until Wednesday morning, when case Kings County Manufacturing Co. vs. Furbish will be in order for trial.

Judge Carpenter kindly vacated the bench at eleven A. M. to allow Judge Clark to hold the federal court, but the inconvenience of having to use the same room for two courts at the same time was notably apparent, some of the jurors taking Judge Carpenter's directions for those of the federal judge, and failing to appear at proper hours.

For this reason, the circuit court usually abdicates till such time as the court house may be had for its accomodation. On the 27th, when Judge Colt comes in, a case will be found on trial in the state court, and the federal court will probably have to sit in a side room.

Equity case Wm. A. Russell vs. David Mason, relative to a patent, was dismissed by consent of parties. Barnard & Barnard for plff.; Fling and Pike & Parsons for deft.

THE CHIME WHISTLE.

The chime whistle borrowed from the Newburyport fire department, by the committee on fire department of the Portsmouth city government, arrived in this city on Monday, and was connected with the boiler of the Portsmouth Brewing Co.'s brewery so as to be blown that evening, and mornings and evenings since, to test the tone and volume of sound. The tone is rather musical than otherwise, and no other whistle in the city would be mistaken for it; but as it has sounded so far, we do not consider it so loud nor nearly so startling as one of the unearthly hoots of the coal steamers of the Philadelphia & Reading Co. which frequently enter this harbor. It may be more effective when sounding the number of a box automatically.

MARITIME NOTES.

The brick schooners Hattie Lewis and Gold Hunter, and sloop Stephen Orr, arrived at Boston on the 12th inst. from this port.

The schooner Abbie H. Hodgman, Frye master, from Weehawken with coal to O. F. Philbrick & Co., arrived at this port early Tuesday forenoon—the only arrival that day from the westward. The Chilion, Call, arrived from Bangor, with lumber to Thomas E. Call & Son.

At Music hall this evening the great emotional sensational play "Ten Nights in a Bar-room" will be performed by Charles H. Clark's dramatic company. Popular prices; tickets at Goodrich's.

The attention of persons who have cellar room and a taste for celery, and who would like to secure a winter's supply of that delicious relish at small cost, is invited to the notice of Mr. J. H. Hutchinson in another column.

E. Newton & Co., who have come in from Lunging island, Isles of Shoals, with their fishing gear and crews, after the most successful fishing season they have had for several years, have again established themselves at their old quarters on Commercial wharf, where they will during the winter carry on the business of dealing in fresh fish, to an extent that will be determined by the amount of fish caught and brought in for sale. They invite the attention of consumers, particularly of farmers residing in the neighboring towns, to the extra nice mackerel, ones and twos, of their own catch and cure this season, which they have now on hand to the amount of 200 barrels, and will sell cheap and in lots to suit purchasers.

The southerly end of the range of brick buildings on Market street, near Spring hill, (said to have been at the time of its erection the finest business block in New England,) occupied by Downs & Co., is being elaborately ornamented and painted by a New York artist in signs and landscapes. There was much need of its being repainted, for it had looked very antiquated for a number of years.

The train which left Concord at 2:45 P. M. Tuesday did not reach this city till seven P. M. In addition to the hour's wait at Manchester, the train from the east was thirty minutes behind time, causing a like delay at Newmarket Junction.

There was but a small amount of fish brought in on the 13th inst. Veranus Rand of Newcastle, Meshach Tobey of Kittey Point and Rufus Adams of the south end, brought in 1200 lbs. of cod and haddock in their small boats, to Daniel Clark.

Samuel Shapleigh, of the "Elms' farm" at Eliot, has brought into town fifteen bushels of lemon walnuts (butternuts) this fall, gathered on his place. Why these nuts are not more largely produced for the market we cannot imagine, for they are the most delicious nuts that grow.

On Mr. Joseph Grant's farm near Rice's bridge, York, a few days ago, was ploughed up an oddly-shaped and much rusted piece of iron which was decided to have once been the head of a tomahawk, such as in the early colonial days the French and English settlers used to supply the Indians with, to be used in killing the men, women and children of the other side. It is probably a relic of the times when the noble red man used to come down from Canada whenever he had leisure, and make it lively for the dwellers in sight of Agamenticus.

The Atlantic house at Wells beach, (the last of the large hotels at that beach,) and a large building connected with it, were burned Oct. 13th, probably from a defective flue. C. O. Chamberlain of Boston was the owner. Loss $16,000; insurance $13,000. The Sea View Cottage and an eating house, owned by J. D. Nealley of South Berwick, were also burned; loss $1500; insured.

Lieut. Comdr. Jacob E. Noel; Lieutenants E. D. Bostick, Walter Goodwin, J. D. J. Kelley, Alexander McCracken and John F. Parker; Ensign George F. Ormsby and Passed Asst. Engr. Robert Crawford, are ordered to the Adams Oct. 31st.

Mr. Insurance Commissioner Pillsbury in a published letter suggests that prominent citizens meet to discuss the "harsh and offensive" valued policy law, which he says is "fraught with danger to the public weal, and is demoralizing to the public morals." It is rumored that another brewery will soon be established in this city by Portsmouth parties, who are now searching for a suitable site.

CHAS. MASON, Commissioner of Patents.

"Inventors cannot employ a person more trustworthy or more capable of securing for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office." EDMUND BURKE, late Commissioner of Patents.

BOSTON, October 19, 1876.

R. H. EDDY, Esq.—Dear Sir: You procured for me, in 1866, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and procured many patents, reissues and extensions. I have occasionally employed the best agencies in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, but I still give you almost the whole of my business, in your line, and advise others to employ you.

Yours truly, GEORGE DRAPER.

Whenever and Wherever

Diseases of a choleraic type prevail, or there is cause to apprehend a visit from them, the system should be toned, regulated and reinforced by a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Perfect digestion and a regular habit of body are the best safeguards against such maladies, and both are secured by this inestimable tonic and alterative. The Bitters are also extremely serviceable in remedying such disorders. If promptly taken in bilious colic, diarrhœa and cholera morbus, the disease is usually frustrated. In diarrhœa cases, it is only necessary to restore the tone of the relaxed bowels, and this is one of the specific effects of this medicine. Wind on the stomach, heartburn, biliousness, nausea, headache and other symptoms of disturbance in the gastric and hepatic regions are also speedily relieved by this excellent remedy. As a family medicine it is invaluable, since it promptly and completely remedies those ailments which are of most frequent occurrence.

An unknown man fired three shots into the window of the house of Henry Smith, near Gorham, Sunday morning. Smith and his wife were both wounded, the latter fatally.

If you have a cough resulting from a sudden cold, procure Adamson's Botanic Balsam, take one-half to one teaspoonful three times a day, and your cough will cease. Trial bottle 10 cents.

William Austin's farm buildings at Webster were burned Oct. 12th.

I Don't Want a Doctor!

I have tried them, and they have only swindled me; I have figured up what they cost me for the last four years, it was just $824.31. If I had it now it would be a fortune for me. This year my bill for medicine was only five dollars, for which I purchased six bottles of Sulphur Bitters. They cured me of Scrofula after suffering four years.—P. J. Cummings, Troy New York.

At Forepaugh's winter quarters in Philadelphia, Oct. 11th, Robert M. White, who has had charge of the place, was killed by the big elephant Empress, belonging to John O'Brien, the circus man. White had been warned not to touch her, but did so, and paid the penalty of his folly. This is the third man Empress has killed, and many have been wounded by her.

After Diphtheria.

Diphtheria is a terrible disease, requiring the greatest medical skill to effect a complete cure. Even when its power is broken, it clings to the patient with great persistency, and often leaves the system poisoned and prostrated. Just here Hood's Sarsaparilla does a vast amount of good, expelling impurities from the blood, giving it richness and vitality, while it renovates and strengthens the system.

Great things have ever hinged on trifles. The first family difficulty on record was caused by an apple core; the last we heard of was the negligence of a father to keep up the supply of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup when all hands had a cold.

Col. Thomas W. Pierce, who recently died in Topsfield, Mass., left his sister, Mrs. B. Frank Vittum of Dover, $80,000. He placed $70,000 to her credit in a bank some time ago, and also gave her a fine house and grounds in Dover.

Try Carter's Little Nerve Pills for any case of nervousness, sleeplessness, weak stomach, indigestion, dyspepsia, etc., relief is sure. The only nerve medicine for the price in market. In vials at 25 cents.

The revenue cutter Thomas Corwin has arrived at San Francisco from the Arctic, bringing the survivors of the crews of the whalers Mabel, Napoleon and George & Susan. The latter lost three men, and the Napoleon lost twenty-two, including the first and third mates.

The combination, proportion and proposes in preparing Hood's Sarsaparilla, are peculiar to this medicine, and unknown to others.

While Andrew Bryant, of Putnam county, Ind., was walking to church with a young lady, Sunday night, he was attacked by Ezra Shackleford, a rival. Bryant shot him dead, and is under arrest.

For earache, toothache, sore throat, swelled neck, and the result of cold and inflammation, use Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil—the great pain destroyer.

John Noonan, of Medfield, Mass., says he killed a black snake twenty-two feet and four inches long last Saturday. The quality of the whiskey sold in Medfield must be appalling.

The action of Carter's Little Liver Pills is pleasant, mild and natural. They gently stimulate the liver, and regulate the bowels, but do not purge. They are sure to please.

Three young ladies were drowned while attempting to cross Mahoning creek at what is known as Miloran's dam, near Killanning, Pa., Oct. 12th. They were Beechie and Annie, the daughters of W. C. Neale, and Mary, daughter of James Neale.

The Great American Chorus.

Sneezing, snuffing and coughing! This is the music all over the land just now. And will be until June. "I've got such an awful cold in my head." Cure it with Ely's Cream Balm or it may end in the toughest form of Catarrh. Maybe you have Catarrh now. Nothing is more nauseous and dreadful. This remedy masters it as no other ever did. Not a snuff nor a liquid. Applied by the finger to the nostrils. Pleasant, certain, radical.

Advices from Indian territory are to the effect that bloodshed is likely to follow the attempt to eject from Cheyenne and Arapahoe reservation persons not entitled to reside there. A large number of those expelled on Oct. 1st have returned, and say they will resist any effort to remove them.

Nervous Debilitated Men.

Examples of Venturesome Ones Commended.

It is often well to emulate the bright examples of those who tempt fortune, and by braving a little win much. Here is an instance shown in the result of the 184th Grand Monthly Drawing of The Louisiana State Lottery, at New Orleans, on Tuesday, Sept. 8th: It is cheerful reading to those fortunate winners who held tickets—No. 50,434, drawing the First Capital Prize of $75,000, sold at $1 each—in fifths, one to O. Smock, Leavenworth, Kansas, another to John Wise of Wamego, Kansas; the remainder elsewhere. No. 29,820 also sold in fifths at $1 each—one to J. Percy, 1686 Washington Ave., New York City; one to Geo. Jackson, Newton, Kansas, collected through Harvey Co. Bank of Newton, Kansas; one to J. G. Sandsberry of Paris, Texas, collected through Paris Exchange Bank; one to Mrs. S. J. Barnhart, Walla Walla, Wash. Ter., etc., etc. No. 30,239 won the Third Prize of $10,000, also sold in fifths—one held in San Francisco, Cal., collected through Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Bank of San Francisco; another ten party in New Orleans, La.; the remainder elsewhere. Nos. 64,059 and 64,711 each drew one of the two Fourth Prizes of $5,000, also sold in fifths at $1 each—to J. E. Bernstrom, Greenport, N. Y., collected through Chatham National Bank of New York City; another to First National Bank of Los Angeles, Cal.; another to A. T. Kinsey, collected through First National Bank of Red Cloud, Neb.; another to Peter Berry, Globe Village St., South Bridge, Mass.; another collected by Anglo California Bank, (limited,) San Francisco, Cal.; another to a party in Guatemala, C. A., and so on all over the habitable world, the flow of wealth scattered joy and happiness, and a similar occurrence will take place on Tuesday, Nov. 10th, of which all information can be had on application to M. A. Dauphin, New Orleans, La. Now—remember these facts and seek to emulate the example of these fortunate ones.

Neuralgia, though one of the most common and most painful of diseases, has baffled all medical skill, and until ATHLOPHOROS was on the discovery of Athlophoros it was considered almost, if not quite incurable. Athlophoros SURELY and QUICKLY cures it. This statement, though strong, is warranted by the facts. Thousands have tested its value and recommend it as the ONLY remedy that brings relief. For ladies subject to neuralgia or nervous headaches it is indispensable. Athlophoros contains no opium, morphine, or other dangerous ingredient. It is absolutely harmless and universally recommended in the prompt cure of this painful disease.

Indian Relics.

A further examination of Mr. Richmond's relic collection, writes a Canajoharie, N. Y., correspondent of the Albany Journal, showed hanging over the door a fine card of arrows, spears, knives, and scrapers, from the banks of the Congaree river, North Carolina. In form and material they are quite like many heretofore described. They are arranged in the form of the symbol of the holy trinity. On the casing of the door, covering almost the entire space to the floor, hang grooved axes; they are of various sizes and material, nearly all in a good state of preservation. Many States and territories are represented, one of the most perfect being from the cliff dwellings of Arizona. It is symmetrical in form, has a good cutting edge, so made from grinding down from both sides, with a deep groove running entirely around it. In size it is about six inches long by three wide. Another, about the same size, is from Kansas, and I note a very large one from Michigan, unusual in form and not worked to as sharp an edge as those spoken of above. Instead of being grooved it is so formed by depression on the sides that it could easily be held in place by a withe. The material resembles granite. In size it is ten inches long by four in breadth. Some are thick, heavy, and seemingly clumsy, while others are so small as to give an idea that they were intended for ornaments rather than use.

Many of them are made with the sides alike, while several have one side square, that is they are straight down from the head of the ax to the blade. Others have a groove down one side.

The object of making them in this manner is that a wedge may be inserted for the purpose of tightening the withe. The manner of holding the ax that was made with rounded sides, or, as before stated, with sides alike, was to insert the ax in a split in a sapling growing tree, allowing it to remain there until the wood had closed tightly around the groove. Another method was to insert a strong withe in the groove, letting it follow around the ax, bringing the ends together, when they were firmly lashed by means of deer sinews or thongs of buckskin.

Grooved axes were extensively used in deadening forest trees and bruising the outer fiber near the roots, so that fires kindled around them might the more readily eat into the trunks and insure their early fall, also removing the charred surface from time to time, thus affording fresh fuel for the flames. Often the head of the ax is splintered or bruised, which indicates that they were used as clubs or wedges for splitting wood, in the latter case the edge being placed and held in position by the wooden handle. The ax was driven into the wood by blows struck upon its head by some other object of wood or stone.

In parts of this country the grooved ax is found in goodly numbers, either in graves, upon the sites of old villages or in cultivated fields. In this immediate section I do not think any have been found; neither do I think that New York has ever furnished many. To my knowledge I do not now think of but two. They are also very rare in Europe; in fact but one or two are known to have been found there. What makes this seem singular is that so many objects are found in all parts of the world that are similar in shape to those found at great distances from each other. Axes more than anything else seem to differ in form in different countries. While this country has plenty of grooved axes, Europe had none, and the perforated ax found there is not known here. In almost everything else used by primitive man, the world over, a similarity in form of objects existed, for instance, arrow and spear heads, celts, gouges, bone awls, beads, pottery, mortars, pestles, chisels, etc.

The Bulldog's Grip.

One often hears of a bulldog's grip, but seldom of a case where a dog showed such tenacity as a bulldog exhibited at Wethersfield a few days ago. William Smith, of that town, owns a hunting dog. A savage bulldog pitched into him, seizing him by the shoulder, and refused to let go. The hunting dog, badly frightened, howled and struggled with terror, and tried to pull away, but the bulldog held on to him with a death grip. The hunting dog dragged him, by the teeth in his flesh, across the road to his own home, howling for help. Will Smith tried to make the aggressor let go by kicking him, but this didn't make him wink. He then rushed for a pitchfork, and drove the tines plump into him twice. He still showed no signs of letting go. Mrs. Smith then ran for an ax, and gave the brute two solid blows with the head of it, the second one having the desired effect. The dog let go, and seemed to feel quite sick. He had got his death wounds, and ere long he died. While Smith was plunging the fork into him, the jaws of the dog did not remain fixed, but would momentarily relax their hold; but before the hunting dog could escape the relentless jaws would close again, and the grip would continue. He was "good blood," but the Smith family had a persuasive way with them.—New Haven Palladium.

A National Memorial Stone.

It is proposed to have a natural monument to Gen. Grant on Mt. Gregor, Down near the mountain station is a rustic covered lookout which is called the Eastern Lookout. From its platform one has a wide view of the Hudson Valley for miles. This was the place last visited by Grant when he made that memorable journey in his invalid chair from the Drexel cottage, two or three days before he died. To the right of this lookout is a great overhanging rock. It is proposed to trim off the undergrowth in front of it, then chisel off its face and cut there, in letters thirty feet in hight, the name "Grant." This will be the only inscription except possibly the simple date of his death. Mr. Drexel has subscribed $250 towards this monument.—New York World.

Mr. A. B. Frost, who is one of the best known and most popular artists on the staff of Harper & Brothers, married a few years ago one of the daughters of the late Moro Phillips, of Philadelphia. Mr. Frost was a young and struggling artist, and Mr. Phillips had no ambition for that sort of a son-in-law, and wholly disapproved his daughter's choice. He proved a severe and implacable parent, but about a year since relented and sent his son-in-law a check for a large amount, representing the arrears of his daughter's allowance, which he had stopped. It was returned to him by the next mail with a degree of resentful repudiation and energetic indignation that filled him with amazement, and wrought a complete revulsion in his feelings toward the plucky and independent artist who had married his daughter. Mr. Phillips made generous reparation of his earlier judgment, and there is said to be no danger that Mr. A. B. Frost's zeal as an artist or his ambition for eminence in his profession will be clouded by the $40,000 a year which will fall to his share from his father-in-law's estate.

SKIN AND BLOOD

Diseases from Pimples to Scrofula Cured by Cuticura.

Hundreds of letters in our possession, copies of which may be had by return of mail, repeat this story:—I have been a terrible sufferer for years from Diseases of the Skin and Blood; have been obliged to shun public places by reason of my disfiguring humors; have had the best physicians; have spent hundreds of dollars, and got no relief until I used the CUTICURA REMEDIES, which have cured me, and left my skin and blood as pure as a child's.

COVERED WITH SALT RHEUM.

CUTICURA REMEDIES are the greatest medicines on earth. Had the worst case of Salt Rheum in this country. My mother had it twenty years, and in fact died from it. I believe CUTICURA would have saved her life. My arms, breast and head were covered for three years, which nothing relieved or cured until I used the CUTICURA RESOLVENT, internally, and CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP, externally. J. W. ADAMS. NEWARK, O.

HEAD, FACE AND BODY RAW.

I commenced to use your CUTICURA REMEDIES last July. My head and face and some parts of my body were almost raw. My head was covered with scabs and sores, and my suffering was fearful. I had tried everything I had heard of in the East and West. My case was considered a very bad one. I have now not a particle of Skin Humor about me, and my case is considered wonderful. MRS. S. E. WHIPPLE. DECATUR, MICH.

ECZEMA FROM HEAD TO FEET.

Charles Layre Hinkle, Jersey City Heights, N. J., writes: "My son, a lad of twelve years, was completely cured of a terrible case of Eczema by the CUTICURA REMEDIES. From the top of his head to the soles of his feet was one mass of scabs." Every other remedy and physicians had been tried in vain.

NOTHING LIKE CUTICURA.

The half has not been told as to the great curative powers of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, I have paid hundreds of dollars for remedies and for diseases of the blood and skin, and never found anything yet to equal the CUTICURA REMEDIES. PROVIDENCE, R. I. CHAS. A. WILLIAMS.

Animal Instinct.

Mr. S. E. Bennett, with the firm of David Carrick & Co., Market street, Philadelphia, Pa., states that as a cure for sprains, galls and other similar ailments of horses, he keeps nothing in his stables but St. Jacobs Oil. The animals appreciate its soothing effects.

The storm of the 13th inst. did considerable damage at Coney island and Rockaway. At Coney island four yachts went down at their anchors, but no lives were lost.

The Best Internal Remedy.

Brandreth's Pills, the best medicine known for all diseases. They are purely vegetable. The same dose always produces the same effect; other purgatives require increased doses; and finally cease acting. They purify the blood. They invigorate the digestion and cleanse the stomach and bowels. They stimulate the liver and carry off vitiated bile and other depraved secretions. The first two or three doses tells the story. The skin becomes clear; the eye, bright; the mind, active; digestion is restored; costiveness cured; the animal vigor is recruited, and all decay arrested.

Catarrh

Is a very prevalent and exceedingly disagreeable disease, liable, if neglected, to develop into serious consumption. Being a constitutional disease, it requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, acting through the blood, reaches every part of the system, effecting a radical and permanent cure of catarrh in even its most severe forms. Reform is Necessary.

The New York Tribune, under the heading of "Political trickery in the navy yard," says:

The Brooklyn navy yard is being worked in a manner which makes it a formidable rival of the New York custom house as an exponent of practical Democratic Civil Service Reform. There is great discontent among many of the officers, over the way in which the yard is being used as a political machine. Commodore Chandler, for some reason known to himself, has issued an order forbidding the officers in the yard to give information to the press, so a state of things highly satisfactory to the political bosses who run the yard exists.

The work recently done on the Tennessee is a good example of how affairs are being conducted. The Tennessee's decks were in good condition when she came to the yard, but work was needed on the outside of her hull. A gang of fifty democratic voters was put on board the ship, and her decks were calked. So much money was used in this unnecessary work that none was left for repairing the hull. Added to this, the work was improperly done, and the decks are always dirty from the rosin which constantly works out of the seams.

So clamorous have the "very hungry and very thirsty" been at the navy yard that two additional marine officers have been added to the yard, and an officer of the guard is now constantly on duty night and day at the York street gate. Before, it was the custom to have only a sergeant of the guard in command at the gate, but ward heelers and bosses tried to overawe the men and carry things with such a high hand that it was found necessary to have a commissioned officer there.

Mr. Whitney having given out that all naval work done north of Norfolk ought to be done at the New York navy yard, perhaps after the New York election may 'bout ship, and stand on another course. The manner in which the New York yard is operated will do more to straighten out the mugwumps than all the professions the president can perpetrate till election day.

AFFAIRS IN KITTERY.

KITTERY, ME., Oct. 13th.

Mr. Joseph S. Grant of North Kittery planted a half bushel of Pearl of Savoy potatoes last spring, and has recently harvested sixteen bushels of handsome potatoes from it. He has also raised this season about 300 bushels of early and late Rose varieties, all sound and marketable.

A series of meetings will commence this (Tuesday) evening at the 1st Methodist Episcopal church, North Kittery, under the leadership of Rev. Perry Chandler.

Charles Pinkham, son of John Pinkham, ex-foreman rigger at the navy yard, we understand has been offered the position of ship's blacksmith on the U. S. S. Yantic, of the North Atlantic squadron, commanded by Capt. Francis M. Green, late equipment officer at the yard.

Mr. John Rogers and sons have this season raised an unusually large crop of very handsome corn of three varieties, viz., field, sweet, and pop. Their Clark's No. 1 potatoes are also fine looking, and they have a good crop. Last week the boys got their cider mill agoing, grinding up a part of the large amount of apples as they state there never was such a yield of that fruit on the farm before. Mr. Rogers is now engaged in potting and transferring his plants from the gardens to his greenhouses, and preparing his ground for next spring.

Mrs. Carrie B. Keen, wife of Herbert Keen, of the firm of William B. Keen & Son, carriage manufacturers at Malden, Mass., is with her little son passing a few weeks very pleasantly at the home of her father, Mr. Charles H. Holmes of the lower village.

Rev. E. E. Colburn, pastor of the 2d Christian church, distributed among the pews of his church last Sunday a small four-page leaflet called "The Christian Standard," containing a notice of the Sunday services and weekly prayer meetings held at the church, also the general principles of the denomination, and a cordial invitation for all to join them. Mr. Colburn is now engaged in giving a course of lectures, Sunday evenings.

Mr. Charles W. Fernald, son of Mr. Samuel Fernald of West Kittery and a member of the firm of Sands, Fernald & Sprague, flour and produce merchants at No. 172 State street, Boston, died at his home in South Boston on Thursday afternoon, the 8th inst., after a short illness with pneumonia. The deceased was highly respected and much beloved by all who knew him. The funeral took place at the home of his father on Monday, and was largely attended, Rev. Perry Chandler officiating. The floral offerings were profuse and very beautiful.

Mr. Chandler Brooks sold out his grocery business last week to Daniel J. Norton and Lewis B. Gerrish of this town. Mr. Gerrish, although a republican, has not severed his connection with the government yet, and he has secured the services of Mr. Samuel J. Keen, who has been connected with the business more than a dozen years past. We understand they have also bought the stock of goods from Jackson & Marr, and the grocery business at the village is now divided between Norton & Gerrish and one other establishment.

As Mr. Daniel McIntire, toll-gatherer at Portsmouth bridge, was driving home from Kittery Foreside about 9:30 o'clock Saturday night, his team collided with one belonging to H. R. Stoddard & Son of Portsmouth, which was being driven in the opposite direction, and which contained, beside the driver, Lieut. Alexander Dennett, Jr., and a lady who had arrived from Boston by the Pullman train, and who were being driven to Lieut. Dennett's house in West Kittery. Both vehicles were upset and their occupants thrown out, Mr. McIntire being severely bruised about the shoulders and back; his horse cleared himself from the carriage and ran to the toll-gate, where he had to stop, the gate being shut. Lieut. Dennett and the lady, though considerably shacken up, were not much bruised, and after the carriage was righted proceeded on their way; had the horse attached to their carriage ran, the accident would probably have been more serious. The place where the collision took place was on the narrowest part of the bridge, and a pile-driver occupied a considerable part of the passage; the light on the pile-driver was in such a position that neither team was seen by the occupants of the other until they struck each other.

THE NEW DISTRICT ATTORNEY.

The appointment by the president of Hon. John S. H. Frink as United States attorney for the district of New Hampshire was heartily endorsed all over the state on Wednesday.

Every one conceded Mr. Frink's legal fitness for the proper discharge of the duties of the office. He has had experience as a prosecuting attorney, and is familiar with the practice of the federal courts.

Mr. Frink was in attendance on that day at the Circuit Court at Concord, to appear in a case which was assigned for trial, but which was withdrawn by the plaintiff. The new district attorney received many congratulations from the members of the bar and others upon the announcement of his appointment. The office in this instance has sought the man. Mr. Frink took no steps to obtain it, and no efforts to that end were put forth either with his knowledge or at his request. Coming as it does in this unsolicited manner, Mr. Frink of course appreciates the compliment paid to him professionally and personally, and will accept the office, though it is stated he cared so little about it that he some time since wrote a letter in behalf of another who was an applicant for the position.

"BIRDS OF A FEATHER."

To-night, at Franklin theatre, Fred Williams' "Birds of a Feather" will commence a brief engagement, three nights and a matinee. This company has made a big hit wherever it has played; and when the charge for reserved seats is so low there is not much doubt that a full house will greet the "birds," as they come with high recommendations from the press. Mora, the star of the company, will be remembered by the many who saw her when they played here a year or so ago as a most charming actress, and all the others act well their parts. Go and see them; prices 10 and 20 cents.

CIRCUIT COURT--CLARK J.

WEDNESDAY, Oct. 14th.

At the coming in the court, in case of Kings County Manufacturing Co. vs. Furbish, the counsel for the plff., Hon. S. C. Eastman, announced that the plaintiff became nonsuit. Nonsuit ordered. S. C. Eastman for plff.; Putnam of Maine: Frink, for deft.

In Foster and als. vs. Brown Lumber Co., judgment on report of referees for defendant was ordered. Copeland for plff.; Ray for deft.

In Jones vs. London & Provincial Fire Ins. Co. a default was entered. Frink; Page for Jones; Marston & Eastman for the company.

All other cases on civil docket were continued, and the court took a recess until the 27th inst.

In the Court of Commissioners of Alabama Claims recently, in the case of Philip B. Holmes of Greenland, judgment was rendered for the United States. In the case of Wm. P. Healey, on the 10th inst., the court gave judgment in the sum of $50.

Mr. Elvin S. Newton, now engaged in the fish business at Manchester, was in this city on the 14th inst., and took from here ten barrels of mackerel and 3000 pounds of fresh cod.

Mr. J. Warren Davis, who for a number of years was employed in J. H. Hutchinson's, and learned the business of watchmaker and jeweller there, has at his place of business, No. 3 Market street, next door to Manning's shoe store, a good assortment of watches and clocks, jewelry, silver ware, and all the articles usually looked for in a well stocked jewelry store—all new goods, and carefully selected. Watches and clocks cleaned and repaired, jewelry mended, etc., in a workmanlike manner and at reasonable prices, and satisfaction guaranteed.

The winter buyers of fish are getting ready to commence their operations for the cold season.

The secretary of the treasury has appointed Ellison C. White to be acting assistant lightkeeper at Whalesback.

George W. Randall & Son are boiling lobsters every morning, brought up at present from Newcastle. They are of good size and quality, and the sale of them will continue during the legal season.

Mr. John W. Young, who for so many years carried on a big business in leather and shoemaker's findings in the little shop No. 12 Hanover street, is now fairly settled in his more central and commodious quarters in what was formerly the Central Telephone Exchange, in rear of the city building, the front of which he has had neatly repainted, substituting his business notices for the sign of the Telephone Co. The time is approaching when everybody will want the boots or shoes which have "done well enough" during the dry weather, made ready for mud and snow; and he will not only be pleased to do that work in the best manner, but to supply the country trade with sole leather by the strip or roll, taps by the single pair or gross, heel leathers, brads, twine—in short, with anything needed in their line and in any quantity, and at prices as low as they can get in Boston.

The schooner Mary E. Smith, of Newburyport, Capt. Short, came in on Wednesday, the 14th inst., with 8000 lbs. of cod, which she sold to E. Newton & Co., of Commercial wharf, at $3 per hundred lbs.

In the town of Limerick one day recently there was a family reunion that is deserving of note. Four Quaker brothers by the name of Marston, the youngest of whom is eighty years of age, met at the residence of Mrs. Dr. Meserve, a daughter of the oldest. Every one of the brothers has been married and had children, and the wives of all are now dead. They are in the enjoyment of wonderfully good health, though each is somewhat affected with deafness. One of them resides in the vicinity of Limington, while the others are located in different parts of New England.—Biddeford Times.

Mr. J. O. Barrett of York calls the attention of residents of that and the neighboring towns to the fact that there is now kept in the S. S. S. Building at York Corner a first-class harness store, where can always be found a large variety of harnesses of all prices, horse clothing, carriage and sleigh robes, whips, stable findings and horse medicines, as cheap as the same quality of goods can be purchased anywhere. He will be pleased to demonstrate to all who favor him with their patronage, that it is needless for them to leave York to procure anything in his line, or to get harnesses made or repaired.

The trouble between the lawyers and clerks of the court of Alabama claims has been arranged, and it is now expected that the work of the court will go on.

The Ohio Election.

The returns of the Ohio election received up to Wednesday evening, though incomplete indicated the election of Forraker, republican, by 10,000 to 20,000 over Hoadley, and that the legislature would be republican in both branches, ensuring Hon. John Sherman's return to the United States senate.

President Cleveland will go to Buffalo, N. Y., on November 2d, and cast his vote for Hill on the following day.
